This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. CASSELS, APP.; STEWART, RESP. Jan. 13.

rship—Assignation by one Partner of his whole Interest to to another—Testamentary Arrangement.

860 the Glasgow Iron Company came to consist of three n, James Reid, J. Reid Stewart, his nephew and respon- d Robert Cassels, the appellant, having equal shares in mpany's business. Between James Reid and J. Reid an agreement, dated the 19th of May, 1863, was made, ch the uncle agreed to sell to the nephew his whole right erest in the business as it stood on the 31st of May, 1859, e being 62,400*l.*, the amount standing to Reid's credit 31st of May, 1859; and a sum of 13,933*l.*, the amount mulated interest on the said capital. The former sum paid any time within twenty years, the latter imme- The uncle made no charge for the accumulated interest , and not drawn out by him since the 31st of May, 1859, mounted to about 25,000*l.* By the seventh article of this nt it was provided that "the right and interest or stock hereby sold may remain in" Reid's name, "or it may be transferred over to" Stewart. Reid's name remained on the books of the company until his death in 1870. The agreement was not intimated to Cassels. After Reid's death Cassels heard of the agreement, and eventually raised this action, concluding for declarator that the agreement should be held as having been entered into by the respondent not for himself, but for and on behalf of the company and of the appellant and respondent as sole remaining partners thereof; and that the partnership accounts from the 31st of May, 1859, down to the 31st of May, 1870, should be made upon the footing that for that whole period the appellant and respondent were the sole partners, and each entitled to one half of the profits thereof. He rested his claim (1) on an alleged mandate in 1859 to the respondent to purchase Reid's share for the company; and (2) that the respondent as a partner of the company was not entitled to purchase, without the appellant's consent, Reid's interest for himself, or otherwise than on behalf of the company. The company was originally constituted in 1845 by articles of co-partnership, the second article providing, inter alia, that "it shall not be in the power of any of the partners to assign any part of their interest in the concern to any person or persons, . . . and should any such assignation or other conveyance be granted or right given contrary to this stipulation, the same is hereby declared null and void, and of no strength or effect so far as regards the company or other individual partners, who shall not be obliged to pay any attention thereto." It was further stipulated that on a partner retiring the remaining partners should have the option of purchasing his interest or winding up the concern.

The respondent denied any mandate, and maintained, inter alia, that the transaction was not to increase the respondent's interest in the company from one third to two thirds; and was not an assignation for the purpose of enabling the respondent to take his uncle's place in the company, but was truly part of his uncle's testamentary arrangements, and as such was treated by the respondent as a private and family settlement with which neither the appellant nor any other party was concerned.

The Second Division of the Court of Session (22 May, 1879), adhering to the Lord Ordinary's (Lord Curriehill) interlocutor, found that the appellant had no right to benefit by the agreement (Ct. Ses. Cas., 4th Series, vol. vi., p. 936).

On appeal,

The Solicitor-General (England), The Solicitor-General (Scotland), with them Mr. Rigby, were heard for the appellant.

Mr. E. E. Kay, Q.C., and Mr. Mackintosh (of the Scotch Bar), appeared for the respondent, but were not called upon.

LEWIS v. HOARE. Jan. 18.

Guarantie—Contract—Houses completed.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal by which a judgment of Mr. Baron Huddleston had been reversed. The action was on a guarantie given in the following terms: "In consideration of your advance and Mr. Thick's authority of this date, I hereby promise to pay to you the sum of 110*l.* on the completion of six houses (one with shop), in accordance with a contract dated April 28, 1876, between myself and Mr. W. Thick." The contract was for the building of six houses, payment for which was to be made on the certificate of a surveyor. Disputes had arisen between the parties—the surveyor's certificate had not been given—but the builder alleged that the houses had been completed. The plaintiff having advanced the 110*l.*, brought his action on the guarantie. At the trial before Mr. Baron Huddleston, the jury found that, as a matter of fact, the houses had been completed, but the learned Baron, thinking that the guarantie embodied in itself the contract, gave judgment for the defendant, on the ground that no certificate had been given as required by the contract. The Court of Appeal reversed this judgment. This appeal was then brought against that reversal.

Mr. Gates, Q.C., and Mr. Tapping, for the appellant.

Mr. English Harrison, and Mr. Candy, for the respondent.

THE LORDS, without calling on the respondent's counsel, affirmed the decision of the Court of Appeal.

Mortgage—Decree for Foreclosure or Redemption—Bonâ fide Purchaser without Notice—Ejectment—Statute of Limitations (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27).

In November, 1856, certain lands were mortgaged to the plaintiff trustee of a settlement by one Stephens, for securing the sum of 7700*l.* and interest. In February, 1859, Stephens sold and conveyed such lands to the defendant in fraud of the mortgagee, but the defendant purchased the same of Stephens for a valuable consideration and without notice of the mortgage. On the 29th of September, 1870, the plaintiff filed his bill in Chancery against Stephens and the defendant for redemption or foreclosure, and a decree in that suit was made in 1874 against both defendants for the usual accounts and for redemption or foreclosure, but the Court refused to order a sale or to order the defendant to deliver up his title deeds. The accounts were accordingly taken, and on the 6th of September, 1877, an order of foreclosure absolute was obtained by the plaintiff against the defendant. On the 19th of October, 1878, this action, which was one of ejectment to recover possession of the said land, the subject of such foreclosure decree, was commenced. The defendant relied at the trial before Denman, J., on the Statute of Limitations (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27), as a bar to this action, twenty years having elapsed since the plaintiff's right of entry first accrued before the action was brought, and there being no proof of payment of any sum on account of principal or interest upon the mortgage, nor of any acknowledgment in writing of the plaintiff's title by the defendant. A verdict was, however, found for the plaintiff under the direction of the learned Judge, on the ground that the decree of foreclosure was an answer to the statute.

The Common Pleas Division, however, dissented from such direction, and ordered judgment to be entered for the defendant. The plaintiff appealed.

Charles, Q.C., and Muir Mackenzie, for the plaintiff.

Cohen, Q.C., and Trevelyan, for the defendant.

Cur. adv. vult.

Jan 15. THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., and Baggallay and Brett, L.JJ.) now held, reversing the decision of the Common Pleas Division, that the plaintiff was not barred by the Statute of Limitations, because after the institution of the Chancery suit it ceased to run against him, and by the present action he was seeking to enforce that right of possession which was first given him indefeasibly by the decree absolute for foreclosure.

During Vacation, leave to serve short notice of motion cannot be granted by a chief clerk: application for the purpose should be made to the Vacation Judge. See Rules of Court, 1875, Order LIII., r. 8.

If, however, an order giving such leave, though made in chambers, has been formally drawn up, such order will be valid, as being an order of the judge.

V.-C. M. ROBINSON v. PICKERING. Jan 11.

Debt—Separate Estate—Injunction.

Under deeds of appointment and settlement certain trustees of the settlement stood possessed of certain furniture and chattels on trust for Mrs. Pickering for her sole and separate use.

The plaintiff, J. P. Robinson, was a draper, and by his statement of claim and affidavit he alleged that he had supplied Mrs. Pickering with goods to the amount of 436*l.* on the credit of her separate estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Pickering alleged that the goods had been supplied on the credit of Mr. Pickering.

Dundas Gardiner, for the plaintiff, moved that the trustees of the settlement might be restrained from parting with the furniture and chattels until the action was tried.

Terrell, for Mrs. Pickering, opposed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that he must give Mrs. Pickering credit for an intention to pay her debt, and he thought he had power to make the order asked for.

V.-C. M. In re LUCAS. Jan. 12.

Will—Bequest to Children and Issue—Substitution—Issue of Child dead at Date of Will.

Catherine Lucas, by her will dated the 14th of July, 1865, gave to trustees two sums of 2300*l.* and 1000*l.* upon trust for Zilpah Webb for life, and after her death in trust for all the children of Zilpah Webb, share and share alike, provided, that in case of any of the children dying in the lifetime of the testatrix leaving issue, such issue should take the share to which their parent would have been entitled if living.

Zilpah Webb had six children, of whom one, George Webb, was dead at the date of the will leaving four children, and it appeared from a codicil that the testatrix was aware of it.

The testatrix died in 1869, and Zilpah Webb died in 1879. The executors paid the two legacies into Court, and a petition was now presented by the four surviving children of Zilpah Webb for payment to them and to the executors of the fifth child in fifths.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Church, for some of the petitioners.

W. W. Cooper, for others.

Vaughan Hawkins, for the children of George Webb, claimed to share.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that it had been decided that the presumption that all relations in equal degree must benefit would prevail, and that under such a bequest the issue of George Webb who was dead at the date of the will must share.

V.-C. M. MARSHALL v. AIZLEWOOD. Jan. 13.

Will—Daughters' Shares—Separate Use—General Power of Appointment—Void Restriction.

A testator gave all the residue of his estate to trustees upon trust out of the rents and profits to pay 100*l.* a year to his wife, and the residue of such rents and profits were to be divided between his four children; and upon the death of his wife the whole of his estate was to be divided into four equal parts, and the trustees were directed to pay the income of one of such parts to each of his children during their lives, the income payable to his daughters being for their sole and separate use and free from the debts and control of any husband they might marry; and on the death of any of his children, the trustees were to pay the share of such child to such persons as the child so dying should by deed or will appoint, and in default of appointment to divide the share of such child amongst his or her children equally if more than one, the shares of any being females to be for their separate use. And the testator declared that if during the life of any one of his children the income of his or her share should from any cause whatever cease to be payable into his or her own hands as an inalienable personal provision, then all the dispositions in favour of such child should be void, and the devise lastly thereinbefore contained should thenceforth take effect in the same manner as if such child were dead.

One of the daughters of the testator was married in 1851 to Thomas Marshall, and by an indenture dated in February, 1880, she appointed her share in the testator's estate to trustees upon trust to pay the income thereof to her for her sole and separate use for life, and after her decease upon such trusts as she should by deed or will appoint, and in default of appointment for her husband absolutely.

A question was now raised upon a special case whether the trustees of the will were justified in paying over to the trustees of Mrs. Marshall's settlement her share of the testator's estate.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and J. Cutler, for the plaintiffs, the trustees of the settlement.

Warmington, for the trustees of the will.

Norton, for other defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the effect of the will was to make the children of the testator tenants for life with an absolute power of appointment over the capital, which was equivalent to giving them power to appoint to themselves or to any one else as if they were absolutely entitled. The subsequent restriction was void, and the answer to the question on the special case must be in the affirmative.

V.-C. M. MERRILL v. MORTON. Jan. 13.

Will—"Nephews and Nieces"—Wife's Nephews and Nieces not included.

A testator gave and devised a particular freehold estate to trustees upon trust to pay the rents and profits thereof to Ann Grantham (sister of his late wife) for life, and after her decease he devised the said estate unto the children of Ann Grantham and Susannah Holbrook and Eliza Abraham, and his niece Mary Williamson, their heirs and assigns, as tenants in common. The testator devised another freehold estate to trustees upon trust to sell the same and invest the proceeds upon securities, and pay the interest and annual produce thereof equally between "all his nephews and nieces" for their lives and the life of the survivor of them, and he bequeathed the money so invested, with the accumulations, to such survivor of his "said nephews and nieces" absolutely. The testator gave other real estates in words corresponding with the last devise, and he gave his residuary personal estate to be converted into money, and to be divided equally amongst "all his nephews and nieces" share and share alike.

The testator at his death had nineteen nephews and nieces living, who were sons and daughters of his own brothers and sisters, and there were nine nephews and nieces of his deceased wife, including Mary Williamson.

A question was now raised whether the nephews and nieces of the testator's late wife were entitled to take under the trusts in favour of the testator's nephews and nieces, as well as and together with, the testator's own nephews and nieces.

Fooks, Jun., for the plaintiff.

Jolliffe, and R. F. Norton, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR decided that nephews and nieces under the trusts of this will included only the testator's own nephews and nieces, and not the nephews and nieces of his deceased wife, although he should have been inclined to decide otherwise in respect of Mary Williamson, whom the testator had called his niece, if he had not considered himself precluded by authority.

Practice—Notice of Motion to commit—Service.

Morshead moved for an order to commit the defendant for disobedience of an order of the 28th of October, 1880, upon him as an executor to pay his balances into Court. The order for payment had been served upon the defendant personally, but service of notice of the motion to commit had been made on the solicitor on the record of the defendant. Browning v. Sabin (5 Ch. D. 511), and In re A Solicitor (14 Ch. D. 152), were cited to shew that the service of notice of motion upon the solicitor of the defendant was sufficient.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR thought that the defendant ought to have been personally served, unless it were shewn that such service could not be effected. The motion might be renewed next week.

Practice—Staying Proceedings pending Appeal.

Method, on behalf of the defendant, moved to stay proceedings in this case pending an appeal upon the terms of paying into Court the money which he had been ordered by the judgment to pay to the plaintiff.

G. E. Wright contended, on the authority of Merry v. Nickalls (Law Rep. 8 Ch. 205), that payment should be directed to be made to the plaintiffs on their giving security for repayment in case of the success of the appeal.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR followed that authority. Costs of the motion, to be costs of the cause.

In re DURHAM.

Bankruptcy—Composition—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), ss. 28, 126.

Appeal from County Court at Manchester.

The debtors, Durham, Cochrane, & Co., merchants, stopped payment on the 26th of August, 1880. At a meeting of creditors held on the 16th of September, 1880, a statement was submitted, shewing assets, 105,457*l.*, liabilities, 151,346*l.*, and resolutions were passed that the debtors should execute a deed of arrangement, with a trustee and four inspectors. On the 29th of September, at a meeting of inspectors, the debtors offered to pay a composition of 10*s.* in the pound by four instalments—2*s.* 6*d.* on the 31st of January, 1881, and 2*s.* 6*d.* at six months, 2*s.* 6*d.* at twelve months, and 2*s.* 6*d.* at eighteen months afterwards; the last instalment to be guaranteed. The offer was objected to on behalf of the Merchants' Banking Company, creditors for 26,000*l.*, who commenced proceedings for bankruptcy, and on the 4th of November the liquidation petition was filed. On the 8th of November, the appellant Murray was appointed receiver and manager, and he prepared another statement, shewing liabilities, 153,740*l.*, against assets, 99,724*l.* On the 3rd of December a meeting of creditors under the 28th section was held, and it was resolved to liquidate by arrangement, and the appellant was appointed trustee. On the 23rd of December another meeting of creditors was held, at which an offer was made on behalf of the Merchants' Banking Company to purchase the debtors' estate for 10*s.* 6*d.* in the pound, payable by the same instalments as in the debtors' offer, or to pay 10*s.* 6*d.* cash down, less bank rate, which would bring the offer to about 10*s.* 2*d.* in the pound down. The creditors refused the offer. Out of forty-one creditors present, representing 147,396*l.*, the refusal was supported by twenty-seven creditors whose debts amounted to 39,895*l.*, represented by the debtors' solicitors; by four whose debts amounted to 46,331*l.*, represented by the solicitor for the executors of Durham, the father of one of the debtors; and by relatives of Durham, whose debts amounted to 77,243*l.* 10*s.* 8*d.*; and resolutions were passed accepting the debtors' offer, granting them their discharges, and fixing the close of the liquidation at the 29th of September, 1882. The only dissentients were the Merchants' Bank, and another creditor for a small amount.

On the 26th of January, 1881, the learned County Court Judge dismissed an application on behalf of the trustee to have these resolutions registered; on the ground (as alleged by the appellant) that only the last instalment of the composition was secured; or (as the respondent alleged) on the ground that it was unjust to the dissentient creditors.

This was the order appealed from.

Winslow, Q.C., and George, for the appellant, the trustee.

De Gex, Q.C., and Samuel Taylor, for the respondent, the Merchants' Bank.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said it had been argued that there was some distinction between ss. 126 and 28 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869. There was no such distinction. The 126th section gives the Court no superintendence over the composition, beside that of seeing that there was no fraud or mistake, and that it was passed in the manner directed by the section. No suggestion of anything like fraud was made in this case. The object of the 126th section was to enable creditors to meet in their own counting-house, and settle their affairs for themselves. It had been argued that each creditor had an aliquot part or share in the debtor's estate, and was entitled to demand that share without deduction. That was so; but subject to a general principle, running through the whole bankruptcy jurisdiction, that a majority of creditors can bind a minority, and it was not for the Court to say that a majority of creditors were blind to their own interests in accepting a composition of 10*s.* by instalments instead of 10*s.* 2*d.* ready money, or were not at liberty to exercise friendly feelings towards a debtor, in the absence of mala fides, provided the rights of any creditor were not defeated. The resolutions ought to have been registered, and the order preventing their registration must be dismissed with costs.

DAHL v. NELSON AND OTHERS. Jan. 13.

Timber Cargo—Surrey Commercial Docks.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had reversed a previous decision of the Master of the Rolls.

The appellant was a timber-merchant. The respondents were shipowners. The appellant chartered a steamer, the Euxine, to bring a cargo of deal timber from Soderhamn to London. The vessel when loaded was to come to "the Port of London, Surrey Commercial Docks, or so near thereto as she can safely get, and lie always afloat and deliver the same on being paid freight." The Euxine arrived at the docks but was not allowed to enter them, as they were completely full. It was alleged that there was a custom for the charterer to apply for and obtain an order for a vessel's admission to the docks, but this alleged custom was not strictly made out, and it appeared that the charterer had, in fact, some time before the arrival of the Euxine, made the proper application to the dock authorities, and had been informed that there was no room in the docks to give the Euxine a discharging berth, and that there would not be, for some time, any room in the docks to allow the Euxine to have a berth there. A second application received a similar answer. When, therefore, the vessel arrived it was refused admission to the docks. The respondents therefore applied to the appellant to name another dock, but the appellant declined to do so, as, in fact, timber unloaded and sorted at the Surrey Commercial Docks always bore a higher price in the market than timber unloaded and sorted elsewhere.

The Euxine was taken to the Deptford Buoys (the nearest place where it could lie in safety afloat), and there, by the act of the respondents, unloaded, and the timber carried in lighters into the Surrey Commercial Docks. The respondents then brought an action for demurrage, and also to recover the charges for the lighterage. The appellant insisted that the voyage could not be treated as completed till the vessel was within the docks, and that therefore no claim for demurrage could be sustained. The Master of the Rolls had been of that opinion and had dismissed the action. The Court of Appeal reversed his decision (12 Ch. D. 568). This appeal was then brought.

Lunatic—Conversion—Proceeds of Real Estate sold in Partition Suit.

In 1875 a suit was instituted for the partition or sale of certain real estate, of which P. J. Barker was seised of an undivided share. In 1876 Barker was found a lunatic by inquisition. In January, 1877, the estate was ordered to be sold in the partition suit, and by a subsequent order in the suit the lunatic's share of the proceeds was carried over to the credit of the matter of the lunacy generally, without stating that it represented the proceeds of real estate.

The lunatic died in May, 1880, intestate, and his administrator now presented a petition praying (inter alia) that the fund representing the proceeds of the real estate might be paid to him.

Bagshawe, Q.C., and Norton, for the petitioner, relied on Stead v. Preece (Law Rep. 18 Eq. 192).

Byrne, for the other next-of-kin.

Macnaghten, Q.C., and Edward Martin, for the heir-at-law, were not called on.

JAMES, L.J., said that the order must be made in favour of the heir-at-law. The general principle was clear that, wherever property was taken compulsorily from a person who was not sui juris, in the absence of any statutory enactment determining the mode of devolution of the property, the Court did not interfere with the right of the persons who would become ultimately entitled to it. The 8th section of the Partition Act, 1868, incorporated the 23rd section of the Settled Estates Act with respect to all sales effected under the Act, and the 23rd section of the Settled Estates Act provided that the proceeds of sale of real estate should be either reinvested in other lands settled to the same uses, or else paid to the person becoming absolutely entitled. There was nothing in that section to alter the nature of the property of the lunatic, and the fact that the money was not ear-marked in the account as the proceeds of real estate could make no difference in the rights of the parties.

COTTON, L.J., expressed his opinion to the same effect.

Misrepresentation—Sale of Patent—Rescission of Contract.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Vice-Chancellor Malins dismissing with costs an action by the plaintiffs to set aside on the ground of misrepresentation and concealment an agreement entered into by the plaintiffs in April, 1876, for the purchase from the defendant, Mr. Martin Tobin, of a patent obtained by him in March, 1873, for the invention of an "improved mode of ventilating rooms, and of the apparatus employed therefor," and granting the defendant the relief claimed by his counterclaim of specific performance of the agreement. The trial occupied several days before the Vice-Chancellor, who dismissed the plaintiff's action with costs, being of opinion that they had failed to make out any case of fraudulent misrepresentation or concealment on the part of the defendant, and that upon the defendant's counterclaim there must be a decree for specific performance of the contract, so far as it remained unperformed, with a reference to ascertain what deductions ought to be made from the sums remaining unpaid by the plaintiffs in respect of the French patent which was not valid, and the Belgian patent which had lapsed. From this judgment the plaintiffs now appealed.

Glasse, Q.C., and Dundas Gardiner, for the appellants.

Higgins, Q.C., and Sangster Green, for the defendant.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) agreed with the Vice-Chancellor as to the result of the evidence, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

Daughters' Shares—Restraint on Alienation—Rule against Perpetuities.

Thomas Laroche, by his will, dated in May, 1860, devised and bequeathed to trustees all his estate and effects upon trust to sell and invest the proceeds in certain securities therein mentioned, and to pay the income thereof to his wife, Joanna Laroche (since deceased), for life, and after her decease, subject to an annuity of 300*l.* to Elizabeth Laroche, to pay the residue of the income to Elizabeth Rowland during her life, and after the decease of his wife and Elizabeth Rowland, subject to the said annuity, the trustees were to sell the whole of his residuary estate and to divide the proceeds among the children of Elizabeth Rowland and the children of Agnes Wakefield (then deceased) who should be living at the time of the decease of the survivor of Joanna Laroche and Elizabeth Rowland, in equal shares and proportions as tenants in common, the shares of such of them as should be males to be paid to them respectively on attaining 21 years, and the respective shares of such of them as should be females the testator directed his trustees to invest in securities of a like nature as thereinbefore mentioned, and to pay the interest, dividends, and annual produce arising and accruing from such investments unto such females respectively, during their lives for their respective separate use, and without power of anticipation, and after the decease of such females respectively upon trust to pay or divide the same trust funds upon which the shares of such females should be invested, unto such persons and for such purposes as such females should by will appoint, and in default of appointment unto and amongst the survivors of them, the said children of Elizabeth Rowland and Agnes Wakefield.

A question was now raised whether the gift by the will of the testator to the children of Elizabeth Rowland and Agnes Wakefield who should be living at the decease of the survivor of them, the daughters' shares to be for their separate use without power of alienation, was void as infringing the rule against perpetuities, since it was possible that daughters who might not be in existence at the death of the testator might be restrained during the whole of their lives from parting with their shares.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and J. Kaye, for the plaintiffs.

Glasse, Q.C., and Whitehorne, and Higgins, Q.C., and Creed, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said if he was called upon to decide the general question he should hold that a restraint on alienation in the case of a person not in esse at the death of the testator beyond the period of 21 years was void as an infringement of the rule against perpetuities, but here the case was free from that difficulty, since all the daughters of the two tenants for life were alive at the death of the testator. Therefore this was a gift to persons in esse, and the daughters would take without power of alienation.

V.-C. M. BAKER v. WOOD. Jan. 18.

Right of Way—Injunction—Interlocutory Motion—Costs.

This action was commenced in October, 1878, in which the plaintiff claimed to be entitled to a right of way over a passage two yards wide in Failsworth, in the county of Lancaster, and claimed that the defendant might be ordered to take down and remove a certain building erected by him over the said passage, and to restore such passage to its former state; and that the defendant might be restrained by injunction from obstructing or interfering with the plaintiff's said right of way; and for damages. The case came on at the hearing, and witnesses were examined viva voce.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and S. Hall, for the plaintiff.

Higgins, Q.C., and E. S. Ford, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the passage in question was a public highway, which had existed for more than twenty years, but if it was a private road, the defendant had acquired no right to block it up, and the order asked for must be made. He was, however, of opinion that in this case, as in all similar cases, the plaintiff ought to have come in the first instance by motion for an injunction. If that course had been pursued this action would never have been allowed to come to a hearing; but the plaintiff not having done so he should limit the amount of costs to be paid by the defendant to the plaintiff to 100*l.*, it having been stated that the taxed costs of the plaintiff would probably amount to 150*l.*

V.-C. M. BLAND v. DAWES. Jan. 19.

Separate Use—"Sole use and disposal."

Julia Baker, by her will, bequeathed to her niece Francis Bland for her "sole use and disposal" 5000*l.* At the date of the will F. Bland was married to Archdeacon Bland, but he had since died, and a question was now raised on a special case, whether the 5000*l.* was given to F. Bland for her separate use, or whether the representatives of Archdeacon Bland were entitled to the money.

Speed, for the plaintiff.

Whitehorne, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that the words "sole use and disposal" answered the two requisites of separate estate. First, an intention to give the legacy for the sole use of the legatee; and, secondly, an intention to exclude the husband, since the wife could not dispose of it unless it was her separate estate.

Solicitor for all parties: George Dawes.

V.-C. B. JONES v. STÖHWASSER. Jan. 12.

Administrator—Breach of Trust—Notice.

At the time of his death in January, 1872, James Jones, the intestate and father of the three plaintiffs was entitled to the benefit of an agreement for the lease of house property in the City on his completing the rebuilding and necessary repairs. These repairs &c. were attended to by his son, the defendant, Frederick Jones, who took out administration to the intestate.

The plaintiffs had advanced 400*l.* each out of their own moneys to enable F. Jones to complete the buildings, and on the 11th of May, 1872, on the representation that a further sum of 400*l.* would be required, they signed an authority to the plaintiff whereby they requested and authorized him to borrow upon mortgage, or otherwise, as he might deem best, upon the security of the houses held under an agreement for a lease, such money as he required for carrying out these matters, and to charge their respective shares with the interest thereof.

Upon the completion of the repairs a lease of the houses, dated July 4, 1872, was granted to F. Jones as the sole legal personal representative of James Jones.

The authority and the lease were deposited by F. Jones with Stöhwasser (since deceased) as a security for moneys borrowed, but the plaintiffs were not informed by F. Jones, nor was any notice given to them by Stöhwasser, that their shares in the property had been charged.

In 1875 the plaintiffs settled the administration accounts with their brother, and paid him a sum of 400*l.* alleged to be due to him upon the account. They were then, as they alleged, told by him that he had not borrowed money upon the security of their shares under the authority of the memorandum of May, 1872.

This memorandum was mislaid by Stöhwasser, but was found by him in 1877 during the proceedings for obtaining a further mortgage (executed in December, 1877) from F. Jones of the entirety of the premises comprised in the lease of July, 1872; Jones having already mortgaged his fourth share in those premises by an indenture of May, 1877.

Plaintiffs alleged that at the time of execution of the mortgage of December, 1877, Stöhwasser had notice that the authority of May, 1872 was no longer a subsisting authority, and that F. Jones had no power at that time to charge his sisters' interests.

Jones became bankrupt in December, 1879.

In January, 1880, the plaintiffs commenced this action for the purpose of obtaining an assignment from Stöhwasser (and since his death in February, 1880, from his representatives) of the plaintiffs' shares in the premises comprised in the lease of July, 1872; the plaintiffs offering to pay what, if anything, should be found due to the defendants on the mortgage of December, 1877, if the Court should be of opinion that the plaintiffs were liable to pay anything under the mortgage, in order to entitle them to such assignment.

Defendants submitted that the deposit of the authority of March, 1872, was an equitable mortgage of plaintiffs' shares in the property; that the authority could not afterwards be withdrawn, and was a subsisting authority in December, 1877; and further, that Jones as administrator had full power, independently of the authority, to mortgage the entirety of the property.

Hemming, Q.C., and Begg, for the plaintiffs.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., Horton Smith, Q.C., and Meyricke, for defendants, the representatives of Stöhwasser, who died shortly after issue of the writ.

H. Burton Buckley, for F. Jones and his trustee in bankruptcy.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that it was the duty of Stöhwasser as a prudent man of business to have given notice to plaintiffs that their shares had been mortgaged by their brother under the authority of March, 1872. They never had any notice until shortly before commencing the action, of any charge affecting their interests, and in the absence of such notice to them such charge could not bind their shares, and they were accordingly entitled to an assignment of their three-fourth shares of the property comprised in the lease of July, 1872. The judgment would, however, be without costs.

V.-C. B. CHATTERTON v. WATNEY. Jan. 15.

Judgment Creditor—Garnishee Order—Mortgagor Debtor of Judgment Debtor—Right of Holder of Garnishee Order against Proceeds of Sale of Mortgaged Estate—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XLV., rr. 2, 3.

The question was whether a judgment creditor who has obtained a garnishee order against a mortgagor-debtor of his debtor, is entitled to the surplus proceeds of the mortgaged estate, when sold by a prior mortgagee in satisfaction of his debt, the sale taking place after the date of the garnishee order.

On the 13th of December, 1877, a leasehold interest in a public-house was mortgaged by Margetts, first to Watney, secondly to Vickers, and thirdly to Budden, all on the same day. Budden's mortgage was for 6000*l.* On the 28th of July, 1879, Rogers recovered judgment in an action against Budden for 1081*l.* 0*s.* 8*d.* debt and costs. On the 1st of August, 1879, Rogers obtained an order nisi attaching all debts "owing or accruing due" from Margetts, garnishee, to Budden, to answer the judgment. On the 8th of August, 1879, the order was made absolute. On the 13th of November, 1879, Budden assigned his mortgage debt with the securities to the plaintiff Chatterton, by way of sub-mortgage. On the 11th of February, 1880, the leasehold interest in the public-house was sold by Watney, the first mortgagee. The sale was completed on the 11th of March, 1880, and out of the proceeds of sale Watney's and Vickers' debts were satisfied, leaving a surplus of about 1100*l.* in the hands of Watney.

The main question was, whether this surplus belonged first to Chatterton, or first to Rogers. A second question of priority as between Rogers and another holder of a garnishee order against Margetts, named Taylor, was argued, but not adjudicated upon, owing to the deficiency of the fund.

The creditors of Budden who first obtained a garnishee order against Watney, after the sale, were Ind, Coope, & Co.

Badnall, for Ind, Coope, & Co.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Vernon Smith, for Rogers.

Vaughan Hawkins, for Taylor.

Cozens-Hardy, for Watney.

Sir H. Jackson, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that Rogers acquired no right, by virtue of the garnishee order against Margetts, to the proceeds of subsequent sale of the mortgage security for the debt, and declared Chatterton to be first entitled to the proceeds of sale, and then Ind, Coope, & Co.

V.-C. B. HARLAND v. GARBUTT. Jan. 22.

Practice—Abatement—Costs.

Motion to vary the minutes of the judgment dismissing this action with costs, by inserting a direction so as to render the former plaintiff, Edward Harland, the committee, as well as the present plaintiff, Henrietta Harland, the administratrix, of the deceased lunatic plaintiff liable to the defendant for payment of the costs incurred up to the death of the lunatic plaintiff.

The action was brought by William Harland (a person of unsound mind so found), by Edward Harland, the committee of his estate, and Edward Harland, as plaintiffs, for the purpose of setting aside an agreement between the defendant and William Harland, on the ground that William Harland was of unsound mind at the time when he entered into it (June, 1878).

The action came on for trial in January, 1880, and during the trial William Harland died. The action was directed to stand over, and on the 5th of February, Henrietta Harland, his widow, obtained letters of administration to him. On the 23rd of March, 1880, upon the allegation that Edward Harland was joined as co-plaintiff only in his character as committee, and that in consequence of the death of the lunatic Edward Harland had no further interest in the action, it was ordered (in chambers) that the proceedings in the action be carried on by Henrietta Harland (the widow and administratrix) against the defendant Garbutt.

The trial of the action in which Henrietta Harland had become the sole plaintiff was resumed, and on the 16th of June the action was dismissed with costs, which were ordered to be paid to the defendant by H. Harland. The estate of William Harland being insolvent, the defendant now moved to vary the minutes of the judgment by rendering Edward Harland liable for the costs of the action up to the death of William Harland.

Hemming, Q.C., and Lambert, for the motion.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Nalder, contra.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR declined to vary the order. Upon the death of the lunatic the interest of the committee ceased, and the widow came to the Court and asked to represent the estate of the lunatic, and to carry on the suit in place of Edward Harland, the committee. The defendant was present when the order of revivor was made, and might have insisted that as, to his knowledge, the estate was insolvent, the committee should not be released until he had been made liable for the costs up to that time.

Motion refused, with costs.

GAVIN, APP.; GAVIN AND OTHERS, RESPTS. Feb. 1.

Trust Estate—Claim for Thirty Years' Income.

This action was originally instituted by the late W. Strahan Gavin, against the estate of the deceased William Gavin, claiming as due to him arrears of income on a portion of the trust estate of John Gavin from a date thirty years ago. W. Strahan Gavin made this claim in right of his wife, the present appellant, Mrs. Rachel Gavin, who was one of the children of John Gavin and was entitled to a share of the reversion of the estate. William Gavin had for many years acted as factor for the trusts.

The trust estate has not yet been realized. The respondents, the representives of William Gavin, maintained that the income now sued for had been fully received by W. Strahan Gavin and his wife, under an arrangement between themselves, the trustees of John Gavin, and William Gavin. At the date of this arrangement W. Strahan Gavin was a partner in his father's firm of Peter Gavin & Son. Prior to his becoming a partner, Peter Gavin, in 1840, as sole partner or as an individual, had made a settlement with his creditors by composition. He owed John Gavin's trust 6000*l.*, the composition due on this sum stood at 1928*l.* On this sum interest was debited to Peter Gavin in the firm books as well as in those of the trust down to 1848.

After W. Strahan Gavin became a partner two letters were addressed to the trustees, bearing the same date, 8th of June, 1848, the one from Peter Gavin & Son, acknowledging to have received from them the sum of 1928*l.*, being amount of dividend due by Peter Gavin to the estate of the late John Gavin, which they bound themselves to pay on demand. The other was from W. Strahan Gavin and his wife, acknowledging that the trustees had, at their request, advanced Peter Gavin & Son the sum of 1928*l.* which they (W. S. Gavin and his wife) acknowledged to have received on account of their share of John Gavin's estate, and further bound themselves, when a division of the estate was made, to repay any sum which might have been over advanced. From that date, apparently, interest ceased to be credited to the trust in the books of Peter Gavin & Son on the sum of 1928*l.*, and the amount was credited to the capital account of W. Strahan Gavin.

In William Gavin's books entries were made shewing on the one side the amount of the share of income which but for the said assignment would have from time to time fallen to the share of W. S. Gavin in right of his wife, and on the other hand the amount of the interest on the 1928*l.* Such entries, the respondents contended, were made in view of a final division of the trust funds and in the interest of the other beneficiaries, and were cross entries, and represented no actual transactions.

The Court of Session (16 June, 1880) found that in pursuance of the above-mentioned transaction between Peter Gavin & Son and the trustees, the debt due by Peter Gavin was carried to the credit of W. S. Gavin as creditor therein in the capital account of Peter Gavin & Son, and that interest had regularly been paid to the appellant on the said sum by the debtors therein; and that no interest on the debt was paid to William Gavin as factor for the trustees after the year 1848.

On appeal,

The Solicitor-General (Scotland), and Mr. A. Moody Stuart, were heard for the appellant.

Mr. John Trayner, and Mr. A. Dunham appeared for the respondents, but were not called upon.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. In re CAVANDER. Jan. 26.

Practice—Notice by Respondent to vary Order—Order LVIII., r. 6.

This was an appeal by Buckler from an order of Vice-Chancellor Bacon. Finnis and Wylie had previously given notice of appeal to vary the order in a point in which Buckler had no interest, but on Buckler's appeal being presented they withdrew their notice of appeal and gave notice under Order LVIII., r. 6, that they should ask to have the order varied in the way mentioned in their notice of appeal. On the appeal being called on the appellant withdrew it.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Dauney, for Finnis and Wylie, claimed to be heard on their notice.

Davey, Q.C., and C. H. Turner, for the appellant.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Colt, and Northmore Lawrence, for the other respondents.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that as the point on which Finnis and Wylie sought to vary the order was one which did not affect the appellant, they must give a notice of appeal, which leave was given them to do within a week.

Building Contract—Forfeiture Clause—Licence to seize Materials—Bills of Sale Act, 1854, ss. 1, 7—Waiver—Omission to complete House by day appointed—Subsequent Advances by Landowner to Builder—Seizure by Landowner after act of bankruptcy.

A contract, dated the 28th of August, 1877, between a landowner and a builder, provided for the erection of a number of houses on certain plots of land. The houses were to be completed at certain specified dates, and leases were to be granted to the builder from time to time as the houses should be covered in. Time was to be of the essence of the agreement. There was a proviso that, if the builder should not in all things perform and observe all things therein contained, and the covenants agreed to be contained in the leases, so far as the same were applicable to the plots of which no leases had been granted, or if the intended buildings or any of them should not be commenced, or should at any time be left in an unfinished state, and for the space of twenty-eight days not regularly proceeded with as therein provided, then, notwithstanding that a lease might have been granted in pursuance of the agreement, it should be lawful for the landowner to enter upon the plots of land and the houses then erected or begun to be erected thereon, and the same premises thenceforth to repossess and enjoy, and expel therefrom the builder, as if the agreement had not been made, and on such re-entry all such buildings, materials, and things then in and about the premises should be forfeited to and become the property of the landowner, "as and for liquidated and settled damages," and from and after the re-entry the agreement and every clause contained in it which should not have been then performed, should thenceforth cease and be void. There was a further proviso that nothing contained in the agreement should operate as an actual or present demise of the premises, or any part thereof, it being the true intent of the agreement that the builder should have the right only to enter upon the plots of land for the purpose of the due performance of the agreement, and not otherwise, and that, in default of such due performance, his right and interest should absolutely cease. The agreement was not registered under the Bills of Sale Act. In February, 1879, the builder filed a liquidation petition, and on the same day the landowner re-entered on some of the plots, and took a formal possession of the building materials on them. The houses on those plots had not been completed by the days fixed in the agreement, but it was alleged that the landowner had, after those days had passed, made advances to the builder for the purposes of the contract. It appeared also that the houses on the plots entered upon had not been regularly proceeded with for the space of twenty-eight days. It was alleged that the possession of the chattels was not taken until after the filing of the liquidation petition. The chattels seized by the landowner were claimed by the trustee in the liquidation, and Bacon, C.J., held that he was entitled to them, on the ground that the clause in the agreement forfeiting the chattels to the landlord on his re-entry was "a licence to take possession of personal chattels as security for a debt" within the meaning of s. 7 of the Bills of Sale Act, 1854, and that it should have been registered under the Act. The landowner appealed.

Millar, Q.C., and Atherley Jones, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and F. Cooper Willis, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that, though the stipulation in question was "a licence to take possession of personal chattels," it was not a licence to take possession of them as security for a debt, and therefore the Bills of Sale Act did not apply. And they held that the trustee in the liquidation took such interest only as the builder himself had under the agreement, and consequently, it was immaterial whether the possession was taken before or after the filing of the petition. And their Lordships intimated an opinion (though it was not necessary to decide the point, inasmuch as there was a continuing breach of the agreement in the not proceeding regularly with the houses for twenty-eight days) that if the landowner had made advances to the builder on the footing of the agreement after the expiration of the times fixed for the completion of the houses, he would have waived the forfeiture arising from the non-completion within that time.

The appeal was therefore allowed.

Injunction—Restrictive Covenant—"Beershop."

This was an appeal from an order of the Master of the Rolls overruling a demurrer. By a deed of the 7th of December, 1867, the purchasers of certain lots of land entered into covenants that, on no lot except certain specified lots "shall any public-house tavern, or beershop be built, nor shall any messuage or building to be erected on any piece of land be converted into or used as such." The defendant built a shop on one of the lots, and procured a licence authorizing him to sell beer not to be drunk on the premises, and proceeded to sell beer accordingly. The plaintiffs brought an action for an injunction. The defendant demurred, and the demurrer was overruled by the Master of the Rolls. The defendant appealed.

His Lordship allowed the claim in chambers and the liquidator moved to discharge the order.

Whitehorne, for the liquidator, contended that the rule in bankruptcy did not apply in winding-up.

Buckley, for the clerks, said that by s. 10 of the Judicature Act of 1875, the same rules were to prevail.

Woman past Child-bearing—Payment of Trust Funds—Widow aged 52.

This was a petition by trustees of a settlement for the advice of the Court. By the marriage settlement of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor money in the funds, being the property of the wife, was transferred to trustees to pay the income to the husband and wife and the survivor of them for life, and after the decease of the survivor the capital was to be held for the benefit of the children as the husband and wife or the survivor should appoint, and in default of appointment, then for all the children of Mrs. Taylor, either by her then intended or any future husband, the shares of such children to be vested at 21.

The husband, Mr. Taylor, died in April, 1856, and no appointment had been executed. There was one child only of the marriage, viz., a son who attained 21 in April, 1873, and died intestate in April, 1880, leaving his mother his sole next-of-kin, and letters of administration had been granted to her. The widow had requested the trustees to pay over to her the whole of the trust fund. Her age was 52 in December, 1880. The opinion of the Court was asked whether the trustees of the settlement were justified in paying the trust funds over to the widow.

Strickland, for the trustees, cited Croxton v. May (9 Ch. D. 388).

The Vice-Chancellor said as the lady was over 52 years of age, and had been a widow for twenty-five years, he would therefore sanction payment to her, and would answer the question in the affirmative.

Bankruptcy—Liquidation—Composition—Registration of Resolutions—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 126—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 295.

Appeal from County Court at Greenwich.

The debtor McCool having filed a liquidation petition, a first meeting of creditors was held on the 17th of November, 1880, at which resolutions were passed unanimously by all the creditors present to accept a composition of 1*s.* in the pound, unsecured, and payable three months after the registration of the confirmatory resolution. This resolution was passed at a meeting on the 26th of November. The creditors present at the meeting of the 17th of November and voting, represented 1074*l.* out of total debts, 1442*l.* 16*s.* 9*d.* The assets were set down at 20*l.*

The registrar having refused to register, the learned County Court Judge, on the 8th of December, refused to rescind the refusal, and from this order the debtor now appealed.

In answer to a request by the Chief Judge to state his reasons, the learned registrar said, "In the first place the rate of the composition is so small that it can scarcely be said to be for the benefit of the creditors. In the next place, the resolutions were passed certainly by the solicitor to the debtor, who held proxies for the only creditors who voted at the meeting; but the amount of the assets as shewn in the debtor's statement of claim would not be sufficient to pay the composition, and although this is the case, there has not been any security given for a composition, which is not payable for three months." These he said were some of the reasons for which he refused to register.

F. C. Willis, for the appellant, referred to Ex parte Elworthy (Law Rep. 20 Eq. 742); Ex parte Williams (36 L. T. Rep. 324).

The Chief Judge having read the learned registrar's letter, said that there never was a clearer case of mere whitewashing than this, and dismissed the appeal.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. DAWKINS v. ANTROBUS. Feb. 1.

Club—Expulsion of Member—Reasonable Cause—Malice—Power of Court to interfere.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls. The action was brought by Colonel Dawkins against the trustees and committee of the Travellers' Club, claiming a declaration that a resolution passed at a general meeting of the club on the 31st of March, 1879, by which Colonel Dawkins was expelled from the club, was invalid, and that he was still a member of the club.

The plaintiff having certain alleged grounds of complaint against General Stephenson, who was in command of a brigade of the Guards, and who was also a member of the Travellers' Club, had written a pamphlet called "A Farce and a Villany. Heads I Win, Tails you Lose, by the Duke of Cambridge and Other Military Officers;" and the ground of his expulsion from the club was that he had inclosed this pamphlet in a wrapper on which was printed "Dishonourable Conduct of Colonel (now Lieutenant General) Stephenson," and had sent it to the Brigade Orderly Room at the Horse Guards.

The Master of the Rolls declined to interfere, and dismissed the action, and the plaintiff appealed from this decision.

Oswald, and Phipson, for the appellant, contended that the expulsion of the plaintiff had been capricious and unfair, that the conduct of the committee had been biased, and that the plaintiff had not had a fair opportunity of defending himself.

Sir H. James, A.G., Davey, Q.C., and Crossley, Q.C. for the defendants, were not called on.

JAMES, L.J., after referring to the observations of the Lords Commissioners in the case of Inderwick v. Snell (2 Mac. & G. 221) to the effect that shareholders assembled at a meeting duly convened were the judges of what was a reasonable cause for removing their directors, and that although the Court might inquire whether the meeting was regularly held, and in cases of fraud clearly proved might interfere with the acts done, still there was no jurisdiction, where no case of direct fraud was proved, to determine whether the decision of the meeting had or had not been unduly influenced by unfounded statements made by persons taking an active part in the proceedings, said that he agreed with every word of those observations, which were equally applicable to the case of a club. They really had no right to sit as a tribunal of appeal from the decision of a general meeting of a club duly assembled, the only question being whether the notices convening the meeting had been duly given, and whether the meeting really had power to decide the particular question. Unless it could be said that their decision was so grossly unfair and unreasonable that it could not have been arrived at unless from some malicious motives, this Court had no power to interfere; and he saw no ground for coming to such a conclusion. On the contrary, he could conceive nothing more injurious to the character and interests of a club than for one member of a club to send to another member, who was also an officer, such an offensive envelope. In his opinion, the committee were well warranted in coming to the conclusion they did come to. Every opportunity was given to Colonel Dawkins for apology or explanation, or for saying anything he chose to say to the committee or to the general meeting against his expulsion or in palliation of his conduct. He had ample opportunities for so doing, but he declined to give any answer whatever. Assuming that the committee and the general meeting were not acting fraudulently—and he saw no ground for any different assumption—they were the sole judges whether the rule of the club ought or ought not to be applied, and this Court could not interfere with their decision. The appeal must therefore be dismissed, with costs.

BRETT, L.J., concurred. The only question was whether the members of the club, in expelling Colonel Dawkins, had acted ultrà vires, or maliciously, and unless that were clearly shewn, this Court had no authority whatever in the matter and ought not to assume jurisdiction to sit on appeal from the decision come to by a general meeting of a club. If what was done at that meeting was done bonâ fide, the Court had no authority to consider whether what was done was reasonable or not, or to interfere, even though of opinion that the decision of the general meeting was wholly beyond reason and without reason, unless there was clear proof of mala fides. His Lordship, after commenting in severe terms upon the unjustifiable suggestion that members of the committee had allowed themselves to be actuated by subserviency to the higher military authorities, said that if it were necessary for the decision of the case he should have held without hesitation that there was not a semblance of evidence in support of such an insinuation. No man could reasonably doubt that the plaintiff's conduct in sending this offensive cover was conduct injurious to the character and interests of the club. He concurred in holding that the appeal must be dismissed, with costs.

COTTON, L.J., was also of opinion that there was not the slightest ground for saying that this conclusion of the committee or of the general meeting was arrived at unfairly or dishonestly. Nor could he for one moment adopt the suggestion that members of a club would support their committee at the expense of truth and honesty.

Liquidation Petition—Debtor's Statement of Affairs—Distinction between Joint and Separate Assets and Debts—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 125—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 287.

Buckley filed a liquidation petition describing himself as carrying on business alone, and as having formerly carried on business in partnership with some persons whom he named. His statement of affairs produced at the meetings of his creditors did not state that he had no joint debts or joint assets, and did not distinguish between joint and separate assets and debts. The creditors resolved to accept a composition, and the resolution was confirmed at the second meeting. The registration of the resolutions was opposed by one of the creditors. Evidence was given by the debtor that the partnership of which he had been a member was dissolved in 1873, and that he had ever since carried on business alone; that there were no joint assets of the firm outstanding; and that all the joint debts had been either paid, or converted, with the assent of the creditors, into separate debts. Mr. Registrar Murray, acting as Chief Judge, refused to register the resolutions, on the ground (following Ex parte Cockayne (Law Rep. 16 Eq. 218)) that the statement of affairs did not distinguish between joint and separate assets and debts. The debtor appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for the appellant.

The opposing creditor did not appear.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the statement ought either to have distinguished between joint and separate assets and debts, or to have contained ex facie a distinct statement that there were no joint assets and no joint debts. This was a much safer course than allowing the statement to be supplemented by affidavits filed after the meetings of the creditors. The registrar's decision was therefore affirmed, but leave was given to the debtor to summon a fresh first meeting of the creditors.

Adjudication of Bankruptcy—Subsequent Resolution for Liquidation—Appointment of Liquidation Trustee—Subsequent Appointment of Bankruptcy Trustee—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 17, 83, sub-ss. 6, 125—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 266.

On the 7th of May Ward was adjudicated a bankrupt on a creditor's petition presented on the 20th of March. He had on the 6th of May filed a liquidation petition, and the registrar was asked to stay the proceedings under the adjudication, but he refused to do so. On the 24th of May the first meeting of the creditors was held under the liquidation petition, when a liquidation by arrangement was resolved on, and Bennett was appointed trustee. The liquidation resolutions were registered on the 4th of June. On the 9th of June the creditors under the bankruptcy appointed Pratt trustee. The liquidation trustee applied to the Bankruptcy Court to restrain the bankruptcy trustee from taking possession of the bankrupt's property, and also to stay further proceedings under the bankruptcy, and to annul the adjudication. Mr. Registrar Pepys, acting as Chief Judge, refused the application, and made a declaration that the bankrupt's property was vested in the bankruptcy trustee, and restrained the liquidation trustee from interfering with it.

The liquidation trustee appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and H. Reed, for the appellant, contended that, by virtue of ss. 17, 83, and 125 of the Act, on the appointment of the liquidation trustee the property of the bankrupt passed from the Registrar trustee, and vested in the liquidation trustee, and that this distinguished the case from Ex parte Milward (Weekly Notes, 1880, p. 182), in which composition resolutions had been passed after an adjudication of bankruptcy.

Sidney Woolf, for the petitioning creditor, and

E. Cooper Willis, for the bankruptcy trustee, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the case could not be distinguished from Ex parte Milward. The principle of that decision was that, when an ordinary adjudication had been made, without any stay of proceedings under it, and not an adjudication merely for the purpose of protecting the debtor's property pending the proceedings under a liquidation petition, any subsequent proceedings for liquidation or composition were invalid. The appeal was, therefore, dismissed.

Liquidation—General Scheme of Settlement under s. 28 of Bankruptcy Act, 1869—Agreement for Composition—Debtor allowed to retain possession of Assets—Surety for Composition—Security given by Debtor to Surety—Assignment of Book Debts.

This was an appeal from a decision of Mr. Registrar Pepys, acting as Chief Judge in Bankruptcy.

Caroline and Victor Simons, having filed a liquidation petition, and a trustee having been appointed, the creditors at a meeting on the 16th of March, 1880, resolved, under s. 28 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, to assent to a general scheme for the settlement of the debtors' affairs, and this scheme was approved by the Court on the 11th of May. The resolutions of the meeting authorized the trustee to accept a composition of 7*s.* in the pound on the debts, to be paid in four equal instalments, three, six, nine, and twelve months, from the 23rd of February, 1880, and to be secured by the promissory notes of the debtors. 150*l.*, part of the fourth instalment, was also to be secured by the promissory note of A. G. Allard. As a further security Victor Simons agreed to pay to the trustee 30*l.* weekly, from the 23rd of February, 1880, until he should have paid sufficient to pay the amount of the composition. In the event of his failing to make the weekly payments, or any of them, for ten days after the same should be due, the trustee was to be at liberty to take possession of his stock-in-trade, assets, and effects, and to realize the same for the benefit of the creditors. The discharge of the debtors was to be granted, the liquidation closed, and the trustee released, so soon as the trustee should certify to the Court in writing that Victor Simons had by such weekly payments, or otherwise, paid to him a sum sufficient to pay the composition. The first instalment of the composition was paid by the trustee to the creditors on the 23rd of May, 1880, by means of the weekly payments which Victor Simons had duly made up to that date. Afterwards the weekly payments fell into arrear, and on the 9th of August the trustee took possession of the stock-in-trade and effects of V. Simons, who was carrying on the business alone. The trustee desired also to collect the book debts of the business, but found that on the 3rd of August Caroline and Victor Simons had executed a deed assigning the book debts to Allard and a Mrs. Nordon, as security for 70*l.* advanced to them by Allard, and 75*l.* advanced to them by Mrs. Nordon, and also to secure Allard against liability on his promissory note for 150*l.* The advances of 70*l.* and 75*l.* had been made since the 16th of March, 1880, to enable V. Simons to carry on the business, and had been partly employed in paying the first instalment of the composition.

The registrar declared the deed void as against the trustee, and ordered Allard and Mrs. Nordon to pay to the trustee all moneys which they had received under the deed.

Allard and Mrs. Nordon appealed.

F. Cooper Willis, for the appellants.

Winslow, Q.C., and H. Reed, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.), held that by the resolutions of the creditors an implied authority was given to the debtors to carry on the business in the ordinary way and to raise money on the security of the assets for the purposes of the business or for the purpose of paying the composition, and that the security in question had been given to the appellants bonâ fide for those purposes. The appellants were therefore entitled to the benefit of the assignment as a security for the advances which they had made to the debtors; but Allard was not entitled to treat it as a security for his liability on the promissory note for 150*l.* Ex parte Burrell (1 Ch. D. 537) was distinguishable as to this.

Held, by James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ., that a creditor of a compounding debtor, who had in respect of a judgment debt levied execution on the goods of the debtor between the first and second meetings of the creditors, and who had not proved his debt or taken any part in the proceedings, except by being present in silence at the first meeting, was entitled after the registration of the resolutions for composition to the benefit of his execution.

This was an application, by special leave, on behalf of Mr. Lovering, a holder of bonds of the Peruvian loan, that notwithstanding that he was not a party to the action, he might be at liberty to appeal from two orders of the Master of the Rolls, dated the 17th of December, 1880, and the 14th of January, 1881, whereby two persons had been appointed receivers for the purpose of receiving the cargoes of guano to be shipped to this country, and forming part of the security of the bondholders.

The plaintiff in the action purported to sue on behalf of himself and all the other the foreign holders of Peruvian bonds, and the Master of the Rolls had refused to hear the present applicant, Mr. Lovering, on the ground that he was not a party to the action.

JAMES, L.J., said that the Court could not accede to the present application. They were asked to do something quite contrary to the practice of the Court. Representative suits were always troublesome and difficulty was always liable to arise if the plaintiff did not really represent the views of those whose interests he professed to represent. But if a proper case could be made out, application might be made to the Court below, and any person aggrieved might ask to be made a defendant to the suit, or that the conduct of the suit might be taken out of the hands of the plaintiff on the ground that he did not fairly represent the body of bondholders. But so long as the plaintiff represented the bondholders, the present applicant could not appeal from an order which the plaintiff had obtained on his behalf. The application must, therefore, be dismissed with costs.

This was an action against defendants Hall and Fletcher wrongfully enticing away the other defendant, Pearson, from th plaintiff's employment. At the trial, Manisty, J., directed a verdict to be entered for the defendants Hall and Fletcher, and the case came before the Court of Appeal on an appeal by those defendants from an order of the Queen's Bench Division ordering a new trial. It appeared that the strict relationship of master and servant did not exist between the plaintiff and Pearson, so that the point was raised whether the case of Lumley v. Gye (2 E. & B. 215) was rightly decided, and on this point the Court took time to consider their judgment.

Costs—Re-investment of Fund—Charity Commissioners.

In this case 324*l.* 17*s.* 4*d.* consols and a small sum of cash was in Court, representing the purchase-money of land taken from the trustees of a charity by the corporation of Bristol, as the prison authority for that city. The charity commissioners had recently authorized the trustees to purchase certain land for a sum of over 1000*l.*, and to apply to the High Court for a transfer of the above-mentioned funds to "the official trustee of charitable funds," in order that they might be applied in part payment of the purchase-money. A petition was accordingly presented by the trustees of the charity for a transfer to the official trustees.

Strickland, for the petitioners, submitted to the Court whether, under the circumstances, the corporation ought not to bear some portion of the costs of the purchase effected by the trustees, notwithstanding the fact that the money was actually to be applied through the official trustees.

E. S. Ford, for the Corporation of Bristol, contended that payment to the official trustees was payment to persons "absolutely entitled" within the meaning of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, and that the corporation were not liable for any costs beyond those of the application and of the transfer to the official trustees.

In re Spurstowe's Charity (Law Rep. 18 Eq. 279), and In re Bristol Free Grammar School (Weekly Notes, 1878, p. 26), were referred to.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR thought that as the re-investment was to be effected by the official trustees instead of in the ordinary way, he had no power to order the corporation to pay any costs beyond those of the application and the transfer.

Accumulations for twenty-one Years—Application for Maintenance and Education.

Robert Henry Allan by his will dated in January, 1879, devised and bequeathed real and personal property of considerable value to trustees, to receive the rents and profits for twenty-one years, and accumulate and invest the same in the purchase of other estates; and after the expiration of twenty-one years the property was to be held upon trust for Sir H. Havelock for life, remainder to his eldest son for life, remainder to his first and other sons in tail male; remainder to the second son for life, remainder to his first and other sons in tail male; remainder to the third and other sons successively in tail male, remainder to the first and other sons of Joshua Havelock, in tail male, with the ultimate remainder to the right heirs of William Havelock. And the will directed that every person taking the estates should assume the name and arms of Allan. The testator died in October, 1879. The annual income of the estates amounted to about 10,500*l.*

This action was by the two infant sons of Sir H. Havelock, who had assumed the name of Allan, by their next friend, for the administration of the estate, and that a proper provision might be made for the infant plaintiffs.

This was an application by the plaintiffs and Sir H. Havelock Allan, that a sum of 2700*l.* per annum, might be allowed out of the rents and proceeds of the estate for the maintenance and education of the infants.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Vaughan Hawkins, appeared for the two infant sons, aged 9 and 7 years.

Bristowe, Q.C., and Romer, for Sir H. Havelock Allan.

Locock Webb, Q.C., and Stallard, for the eldest son of Joshua Havelock, who assented to the application.

Whitehorne, for the trustees, who approved of the application, and submitted to act as the Court should direct.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it appeared that Sir H. Havelock Allan would be 72 years of age before these accumulations would cease, and before he would derive any benefit from the estate. His present income was only a moderate one, and was not sufficient for the education of his infant sons to fit them for the position they would hereafter occupy. Under these circumstances it was, in his Lordship's opinion, most desirable for the benefit of the infants, as well as Sir H. Havelock Allan himself, that an allowance should be made out of the estate. And he considered himself justified, upon the authorities, in sanctioning the application. He should therefore direct an annual allowance of 2700*l.* to be paid by the trustees to Sir H. Havelock Allan.

Glasse, Q.C., and H. B. Buckley, for the company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that Messrs. Anderson appeared to have applied for the shares on the faith that Mr. Gibson and Mr. Ross were directors of the company. Immediately Messrs Anderson found that this was not so they withdrew their application, and they had a right to do so. The register must be rectified and their names removed.

V.-C. M. THOMAS v. PATENT LIONITE COMPANY. Feb. 5.

Voluntary Winding-up—Compulsory Winding-up—Distress—Appointment of Liquidator—25 & 26 Vict. c. 89, s. 163.

On the 30th of July, 1880, the Patent Lionite Company passed a resolution for a voluntary winding-up, but no liquidator was appointed. On the 5th of August, Messrs. Tubbs & Lewis, under whom the company were tenants of their place of business, distrained for a quarter's rent due the 24th of June. On the 18th of August, a petition for a compulsory winding-up was presented, on which an order was made and a liquidator was appointed. An action had been brought by the debenture holders against the company in which a receiver had been appointed; and Tubbs & Lewis applied by summons that the receiver might be directed to pay them the quarter's rent.

Higgins, Q.C., and A. Thomson, for Tubbs & Lewis.

Pearson, Q.C., and N. Lawrence, for the debenture holders and for the liquidator.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that as no liquidator had been appointed under the voluntary winding-up there was on the 5th of August no one who could have applied to restrain the landlords from levying the rent by distress. Besides, the voluntary winding-up had been entirely superseded by the compulsory winding-up. The landlords had therefore distrained before the winding-up, and were not prevented by 25 & 26 Vict. c. 89, s. 163, from so recovering their rent.

Prescription—Unity of Possession—Right to Watercourse.

Action to restrain an interference with plaintiff's alleged prescriptive right to the use and enjoyment of a watercourse flowing under defendant's land.

In 1791 plaintiff's predecessor in title obtained a demise from one Walker of a goit or drain, to be then cut across a two-acre field belonging to Walker for the purpose of conducting water from plaintiff's mill, upon payment of an annual rent of 2*l.* 2*s.*

In 1836 the demise of 1791 was put an end to, and liberty was given to the plaintiff, who was at that time yearly tenant of the two-acre field under Walker, to change the goit or drain of 1791, and to substitute a new cut for conducting pure and clean water.

In 1866 the two-acre field was sold to the defendant, and the yearly tenancy of the plaintiff was determined in 1867.

The plaintiff claimed the right to use the old goit or drain of 1791 for the discharge of his dye-water, as having been acquired by uninterrupted use and enjoyment from 1836 openly and as of right without objection or interruption by defendant or his predecessors in title.

Defendant on the other hand insisted that as plaintiff was tenant between 1836 and 1867 of the field through which the old goit ran, the unity of possession was an answer to the claim of prescriptive right. He also averred that he did not until 1876 become aware that the old goit was being used by the plaintiff, and that he had thereupon caused it to be stopped up—the act complained of by plaintiff.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., and Nalder, for the plaintiff.

Kay, Q.C., and Maclean, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the plaintiff had failed to establish the right claimed. Nothing was more clearly established than that the tenant can in no case and under no circumstances during his tenancy acquire an easement distinct from the use and enjoyment of the land against his landlord; and that the tenant cannot acquire any such right while a unity of possession in the land demised and in the easement claimed subsist in the same person. In this case there was unity of possession until the determination of the plaintiff's tenancy in 1867, and no right had been acquired by plaintiff to the use of the old goit as against defendant, or Walker, his predecessor in title.

Administration.

Action by one of the two residuary legatees under the will of C. F. Radclyffe against the executors for accounts of the personal estates, disallowance of certain items of payment improperly charged by the defendants, payment to plaintiff of her moiety of the balance, that defendants might be charged with money due from them to the estate, and for costs of the action.

The chief clerk, in taking the account, had disallowed the defendants the items objected to by plaintiff.

Upon the question by whom the costs of the action must be borne,

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the defendants, the executors, by first withholding the accounts and then rendering accounts which had been certified to be incorrect, must pay plaintiff's costs of the action, which had been rendered necessary by their conduct.

In re WESTLAKE.
Lien on Ship—Marine Engine Maker.

Appeal from an order, dated the 17th of November, 1880, of the County Court at East Stonehouse, Devon, whereby the learned Judge directed that possession of a barge, lying at the Great Western Docks, Plymouth, with the engines and gear on board, should be given to the trustee in the liquidation.

The debtor, Thomas Westlake, employed his brother to build a barge for him, which was to be fitted with steam apparatus, and on the 18th of June, 1879, the appellants, Willoughby Brothers, Engineers, wrote to the debtor a letter containing a contract in (so far as material) these words: "We hereby agree to supply a set of machinery according to the accompanying specifications and plans, and fixing the same in your boat in the Great Western Docks, Plymouth. The time to be occupied in making and fixing the boiler, engines, &c., to be from four to five months, and the price for same 1050*l.*, in payments made by approved bills as follows; one at three months' date for 260*l.*, when boiler and engine are placed in the vessel, not fixed; one at three months' date for 260*l.*; and one at six months' date for 530*l.*, when the vessel has made a trial trip, such as would permit Lloyd's surveyor to grant a certificate."

The barge was built at Bealswood, Calstock, on the Tamar, and in December, 1879, was taken down to the docks to be fitted. In the docks the vessel was booked to Willoughby; but servants and workmen of the debtor were frequently (and as he said continuously) on board. On the 1st of August, 1879, the debtor paid Willoughby 100*l.* On the 26th of January, 1880, the debtor gave his acceptance to Willoughby for 158*l.* 15*s.* This made up the first 260*l.*, less 1*l* 5*s.*, interest for payment of the 100*l.* in advance. On the 14th of February the debtor gave to Willoughby a bill for 77*l.* 16*s.*, and cash 22*l.* 4*s.*, making up another 100*l.*

On the 22nd of April the vessel was ready to go on her trial trip, and steam was being got up for the purpose, when, the debtor having filed a liquidation petition, a receiver was put into possession. On the 29th of April the bill for 158*l.* 15*s.* was dishonoured.

The question was whether Willoughbys had a lien on the vessel for the unpaid purchase-money of the engines.

Winslow, Q.C., and Butterworth, for the appellants.

F. Knight, for the respondent, the trustee:—The possession of the appellants was not exclusive; the possession of the dock company was not the appellants' possession; and the contract was a contract to give credit.

Winslow, in reply (except as to the possession).

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that the case was not without difficulty, but on the whole he thought the lien was established. The trustee was seeking to reap the benefit of part of the contract, and to repudiate the rest. The fact of the appellants' exclusive possession had been established. The order of the Court below must be discharged, with costs above and below, the trustee to have his costs out of the estate.

Solicitor's Lien—Mortgagee's Solicitor acting for Mortgagor.

Appeal from the Bristol County Court.

In January, 1880, Long mortgaged some freehold property, and the mortgage deed and the title deeds were deposited with the mortgagees' solicitors for custody on their behalf. In May, 1880, Long instructed the solicitors to endeavour to make arrangements with his creditors, who were pressing him, and to sell the mortgaged property by auction. The solicitors instructed some auctioneers to sell, and prepared particulars and conditions of sale, and in so doing they made use of the title deeds which were in their custody. The property was put up for sale, but was not sold, because the biddings did not reach the reserved price. In June, 1880, Long filed a liquidation petition. The trustee afterwards sold the mortgaged property, but the purchase could not be completed because the solicitors claimed a lien as against the mortgagor on the deeds, in respect of their costs of the abortive sale. The judge held that the claim was unfounded, and ordered the deeds to be given up to the trustee on payment of what was due to the mortgagees. The solicitors appealed.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the appellants.

Winslow, Q.C., and Ruscombe Poole, for the trustee, were not heard.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that a lien could attach only when there was a lawful possession of the thing upon which it was claimed, and here the solicitors had no rightful possession of the deeds except on behalf of the mortgagees. Their possession was merely that of the mortgagees.

The appeal was dismissed.

COMMITTEE FOR PRIVILEGES.

DYSART PEERAGE. Feb. 7.

Admissibility of Evidence.

The last Earl of Dysart died in 1878. His only son, Lord Huntingtower, died in 1872. The peerage is now claimed by (1) William John Manners, who claims to be the only legitimate son of Lord Huntingtower by his formal marriage in the face of the church in 1851 with Katherine, the daughter of Sir Joseph Burke; and (2) on the part of the infant Albert Edwin, who is alleged to be the only legitimate son of Lord Huntingtower by his marriage in Scotland with Miss Acford in 1844.

Evidence has been given before the Committee on the part of the claim in favour of Albert Edwin, that Lord Huntingtower and Miss Acford went to Scotland, and that what constituted a marriage by the law of Scotland, by words of contract per verba de presenti, did take place there and then.

A witness gave evidence that between 1860 and 1864 Lord Huntingtower frequently told him that Miss Acford was his wife, and not Miss Burke.

Sir John Holker, Q.C. (Mr. Badenock Nicolson, and Mr. W. A. Lindsay, with him), appearing for the claimant William J. Manners, objected to this evidence being received.

The Lord Advocate (Sir H. James, A.G., and Mr. Crawford, with him), appeared for the Crown, and supported the objection.

Mr. Shiress Will, appearing for the mother of the infant Albert Edwin by order of the House of Lords, was heard in favour of the evidence being received.

THE COMMITTEE ruled that the evidence was not admissible, on the ground that Lord Huntingtower had been an incompetent witness all his life, dying before 1874 (37 & 38 Vict. c. 64),—therefore the rule of the law of Scotland admitting proof of statements not on oath of a competent witness did not apply; and further, he not being a party to the suit, admissions by him to disprove his marriage in facie ecclesiæ with Miss Burke, and the legitimacy of her children, ought to be rejected.

Bill of Exchange—Adoption of Forged Signature.

On the 15th of October, 1879, the appellant, a contractor at Inverness, was charged at the instance of the respondents to make payment of the sum of 70*l.* contained in a bill dated the 14th of April, 1879, payable three months after date, alleged to be drawn and indorsed to the respondents by the appellant and John Macdonald and accepted by John Fraser.

The appellant brought a suspension of the charge, on the ground that the signatures upon the bill bearing to be his were forgeries. The bill was a renewal of another bill for 76*l.*, on which the appellant's signatures were also forged.

The facts proved that the appellant did not inform the respondents that his signatures were forged until twelve days after the second bill became due, and that he had borrowed money from Fraser after he knew that he had forged his name to the first bill. He had no previous dealing with the respondents. Fraser was convicted of the forgeries and sentenced accordingly.

The respondents contended that the appellant under the circumstances must be held (1) either to have antecedently, or simultaneously, authorized the use of his name; or (2) to have subsequently adopted and accredited the bill.

The Lord Ordinary (Lord Adam) suspended the charge; being of opinion that the facts proved did not amount to a case of adoption.

The First Division of the Court of Session decided otherwise: (Lord Shand dissenting) and recalled the Lord Ordinary's interlocutor and held the appellant liable on the bill (Ct. Ses. Cas., 4th Series, vol. vii., p. 836; 17 Scot. Law Rep. 619).

On appeal,

Mr. David Brand, and Mr. Rhind, of the Scotch Bar, were heard for the appellant.

The Solicitor-General (Scotland), and Mr. Chitty, Q.C., were heard for the respondents.

THE LORDS reversed the decision of the First Division, and allowed the appeal.

Appeal from decision of the Chief Judge (noted ante, p. 4).

Held (by Jessel, M.R., and James and Brett, L.JJ.) that, in giving or withholding the approval of the Court to a scheme of arrangement or composition with creditors, accepted by the proper majority of creditors under s. 28 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, the judge is exercising a judicial discretion, and is bound to consider the objections brought before him by a dissentient creditor and to give his opinion judicially on sufficient reasons, and his power is not limited, as in the case of a composition accepted by two meetings of creditors under s. 126, to setting aside the resolutions of the creditors upon the ground of fraud in the proceedings. The exercise of the discretion is subject to appeal, but the Court of Appeal ought not to interfere, unless it is clearly shewn that the judge of first instance has exercised his discretion wrongly.

Musical Copyright—Trade-mark—Registration—Subsequent Editions.

This action was to restrain the infringement of musical copyright. The plaintiffs, Hutchings & Romer, were the proprietors of the fifth edition of a book entitled "A General and Comprehensive Instruction Book for the Violin, by J. D. Loder." The plaintiffs had for the last thirteen years sold the said fifth edition as a sixth edition under a different title, viz., "Violin School, by J. D. Loder." The copyright in all the editions prior to the fifth edition had expired, and the sixth edition had not been registered under the Copyright Act. The plaintiffs alleged that the fifth edition, to which there was a preface signed by the composer, Loder, was essentially a new work, and contained a new feature—that of "Duetts for Master and Pupil." The sixth edition was very slightly altered from the fifth edition. In July, 1880, the defendant Sheard published a book entitled "J. D. Loder's Celebrated Violin School, edited, revised, and enlarged by T. Westrop," containing the principal portions of the editions prior to the fifth, but also some of the contents of the fifth, or copyright edition, including the preface by the composer and one particular sentence of letterpress which was taken verbatim. It also contained the distinctive feature of "Duetts for Master and Pupil," although the tunes were different from those of the plaintiffs'. The plaintiffs claimed an injunction to restrain the defendant from selling "J. D. Loder's Violin School," or any book containing passages or arrangements of music copied or colourably altered from the fifth edition of their work which were not comprised in any of the previous editions; and from selling any book in a form or with a title-page or cover calculated to deceive the public into the belief that they were purchasing the plaintiffs' sixth edition.

Witnesses were cross-examined upon affidavits as to the general contents of the two books, and as to the title-page being misleading.

Higgins, Q.C., and Colquhoun, for the plaintiffs.

Glasse, Q.C., and Dundas Gardiner, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion, on the question of copyright, that the defendant's book, although principally copied from the earlier editions of the plaintiff's work, was purposely made to resemble, generally, the contents of the fifth edition, particularly in reprinting the preface as if it were a preface to their own book, and in inserting the new feature of duets; and further that the title and cover of the defendant's book was a colourable imitation of the plaintiffs' trade-mark, calculated to deceive the public. His Lordship also expressed his opinion that the copyright in the fifth edition covered all subsequent editions, except so far as they contained new matter, which would not be protected. The injunction was therefore granted on both grounds, with costs.

The applicant, Williams, a creditor of the company for 500*l.*, obtained on the 17th of September, 1879, a letter of that date, signed by the managing director of the company, hypothecating to him a past call of 10*s.* a share in discharge of the debt.

On the 18th of January, 1879, the company was ordered to be wound up. It was subsequently found that at the date of the above letter certain of the call moneys thereby purported to be hypothecated had been paid, and some had been paid since, so that all that the official liquidator had collected in respect of the moneys mortgaged to the applicant was a sum of 55*l.* 19*s.* 11*d.*

The applicant, who had hitherto made no claim in the winding-up, now asked leave to value the security and prove for the balance of his claim.

H. Burton Buckley, for the summons:—We do not seek to disturb any dividend already paid.

Winslow, Q.C., and *C. H. THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that in order to the application of the rules in bankruptcy which had been referred to, assessment of the value of the security was a necessary preliminary. Here no such assessment had been made. Hence the bankruptcy rules did not apply, and the creditor's right to prove under s. 107 of the Companies Act, 1872, was not interfered with. The application would be granted; but without any order as to costs.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL v. DEAN AND CANONS OF MANCHESTER AND ECCLESIASTICAL COMMISSIONERS FOR ENGLAND.

Action by Rectors of New Parishes for proper Distribution of Ecclesiastical Revenues of Ancient Parish—Surplus Moneys paid by Deans and Canons to Ecclesiastical Commissioners for Distribution, under Act of Parliament, by them—Application to Charity Commissioners for Leave to bring Action necessary.

The dean and canons of the cathedral or collegiate church of Manchester were the successors of a collegiate body of secular priests called the College of Christ, Manchester, founded in 1421, by charter. The property of the college consisted of ancient rectorial endowments, and the main object of the founder and grantors was the spiritual benefit of the parishioners. Since the original and subsequent charters were granted, the population of Manchester had greatly increased, and numerous churches had been erected in the parish. The revenues of the collegiate church having, in the course of time, greatly increased, an Act was passed in 1850 which authorized the division of the parish into several parishes, and the application of the revenues of the collegiate church as therein set forth, It was enacted that the dean and canons should be paid certain annual stipends, and that they should pay the residue of the revenues to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, after reserving sums for necessary repairs of the two churches mentioned, and for other necessary and proper expenditure as might lawfully devolve upon them. The commissioners were to apply the moneys received by them in making payments to the rectors of the new churches in the parish, and they had power to invest any surplus moneys, and to make permanent endowments. The dean and canons were to render to the commissioners an account annually, at Easter, of their receipts and disbursements to Christmas preceding.

The revenues had much increased since 1850, and they were in 1879, 25,239*l.* 7*s.* 11½*d.*

The plaintiffs, eleven rectors of new churches at Manchester, stated that the accounts of the dean and chapter shewed increased expenditure, and that the commissioners were unable to make grants to them and other rectors in consequence, and they set forth numerous items of disbursement which they contended should not be allowed. The commissioners having declined to take any proceedings against the dean and chapter for the purpose of checking the expenditure, the plaintiffs commenced this action in November, 1880, claiming declarations that the dean and chapter were not entitled to pay the canons and minor canons more than the sums mentioned, and that they were not entitled to make the payments which were specified in respect of a certain schoolhouse and other things. An injunction was asked for against the deans and canons, and an order directing them to pay future surplus revenues to the commissioners, and a writ of mandamus against them to render accounts, and to give further particulars to the plaintiffs and the commissioners of the items of expenditure complained of. Leave was asked for to use the name of the commissioners in any action which might be necessary against the dean and canons, and the costs of the action were asked for.

The defendants separately demurred. One contention was, that the plaintiffs should have obtained the sanction of the Charity Commissioners before commencing the action, as these were charitable funds.

Kay, Q.C., and Romer, for the dean and canons.

Robinson, Q.C., and Swann, for the Ecclesiastical Commissioners.

Hastings, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the plaintiffs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that application should be made to the Charity Commissioners for leave to proceed, as the objection taken was a substantial one. If leave should not be granted, then the demurrers would be dealt with, and the costs. The defendants would have liberty to apply if the application to the Commissioners were not made in proper time. The Commissioners should be made fully acquainted with all the arguments which had been offered to the Court.

Interference with Hatches and Watercourse—Action for Injunction —Application for Trial before Judge and Jury — Motion to have Trial before Judge only—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXVI., rr. 3, 26.

The plaintiffs were the owners of a weir and hatches adjoining the river Wey, Hants, and they had, as alleged, from time immemorial exercised the right of penning back the water so as to drive it up certain watercourses for the purposes of irrigating meadow lands. The defendant complained that the course pursued by the plaintiffs caused his lands to be flooded, and he contended that he had a right to raise the hatches, and he did exercise it.

The plaintiffs brought this action for an injunction to restrain the defendant from interfering with their hatches, and lands. The defendant took out a summons in chambers under Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXVI., r. 3, to have the issues of fact tried before a judge and jury in the country—Winchester.

This was a motion on the part of the plaintiffs under Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXVI., r. 26, that the trial should be ordered to take place in this Court in the usual way, on the grounds that the questions were substantially of law, and that it would be more convenient and less expensive to try them here without a jury.

Hastings, Q.C., and Speed, for the plaintiffs.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Freeman, for the defendant, were not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the defendant was, under the Judicature Act, 1875, entitled to have the questions raised tried by a judge and jury. The case was not one of such complexity, or involving such a mixture of law and fact, or was one so solely cognizable under the old system by this Court, as that he ought to direct it to be tried before himself without a jury. The motion must be dismissed with costs; and the issues settled in chambers.

Proof in Bankruptcy—Representative of deceased Partner.

Appeal from Liverpool County Court.

Three persons carried on business in partnership without articles of partnership. The profits were divided equally between the three. One of the three died, and the survivors continued to carry on the business, dividing the profits equally. They afterwards filed a liquidation petition. The administratrix of the deceased partner claimed to prove in the liquidation for his share of the capital, which had not been paid to his estate. There were still some joint debts of the three remaining unpaid. The judge rejected the proof, on the ground that Nanson v. Gordon (1 App. Cas. 195) applied, and that the estate of the deceased partner could not prove in competition with his creditors. The administratrix appealed.

Neville, for the appellant, contended that Nanson v. Gordon was distinguishable, and that Ex parte Westcott (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 626) applied, because the surviving partners had committed a breach of trust in retaining the deceased partner's share of the capital.

W. R. Kennedy, for the trustee, was not heard.

THE CHIEF JUDGE held that Nanson v. Gordon applied, and dismissed the appeal.

Ex parte NATIONAL PROVINCIAL BANK OF ENGLAND.
In re REES.

Proof in Bankruptcy—Guarantee to Bankers—Surety.

Appeal from the Aberystwith County Court.

Rees, and Powell, a surety for him, in August, 1878, executed a joint and several bond for 1000*l.* to the bankers of Rees, to secure the balance from time to time due from Rees to the bankers. The bond provided that Powell should not at any time be called on to pay more in the whole for principal moneys than 500*l.*, in addition to interest, costs, and commission; and also that, if Rees should become bankrupt, any dividends received by the bankers should not, so far as concerned the surety, be taken in discharge of any principal moneys to the extent of the 500*l.*, or of the interest, &c., for which the surety might be liable, but the bankers should be entitled to recover on the security against the surety to the full extent of the 500*l.* principal, together with interest, &c., or so much thereof as, with the dividends in the bankruptcy, should amount to 20*s.* in the pound on the debt due to the bankers. Rees having filed a liquidation petition, the bankers proved for 249*l.* Powell afterwards paid them 509*l.*, and the bond was given up to him. He then proved against Rees' estate for 509*l.* without the knowledge of the bankers. After this the trustee gave notice to the bankers that he rejected their proof to the extent of 509*l.* The bankers applied to the Court to admit their proof for the full amount. The registrar, acting as judge, affirmed the trustee's decision. The bankers appealed.

Yate Lee, for the appellants, relied upon Midland Banking Company v. Chambers (Law Rep. 4 Ch. 398).

E. Cooper Willis, for the trustee, was not heard.

Geare, for the surety.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that the agreement between the bankers and the surety had nothing to do with the administration of the estate in bankruptcy. The bankers having realized their security, their proof must of necessity, according to the ordinary rule of administration in bankruptcy, be reduced by the amount that they had received in that way. But this did not affect any question between them and the surety.

The appeal was dismissed.

No. 6.—1881.

Caledonian Railway Company, Apps; North British Railway Company, Respts. Feb. 17.

Statute—Construction—38 & 39 Vict. c. 167, ss. 3, 6.

This was a claim against the North British Railway, the respondents, by the Caledonian Railway Company, the appellants, founded upon the 6th section, sub-s. 1, of the Act 38 & 39 Vict. c. 167, under which statute the respondents became joint owners with the appellants of, inter alia, the line of railway between Dundee and Arbroath. At the date of the Act, July, 1879, the appellants had been for about thirteen years owners of the line, and had undertaken various liabilities in connection with it. The preamble of the Act of 1879 set forth that it was expedient that the Dundee and Arbroath line be transferred and vested in the two railways jointly and equally, and with equal liabilities in respect to the same. Then it is enacted that on the 1st of February, 1880, in the Act called "the vesting period," all interest which the Caledonian Railway Company have in the line shall by this Act be transferred and vested in the Caledonian Railway Company and North British Railway Company jointly, and in equal proportions, in manner provided by this Act. Then, by section 6, the consideration was to be as follows: (1) "from and after the vesting period the company (the North British Railway) shall pay to the Caledonian Railway Company, on the 1st of March and the 1st of September a sum equal to one-half of the aggregate of the following half-yearly payments, for which the Caledonian Railway Company are now liable in respect of their acquisition of the Dundee and Arbroath Railway."

The appellants claimed that the first payment should have been made on the 1st of March, 1880.

The First Division of the Court of Session (Lord Mure dissenting) held that the purpose of the Act was to require the respondents, in respect to their joint ownership, to relieve the appellants of one-half of those payments for which the latter would have been liable in toto: that the 6th section was intended to describe the course of payment which was to be made in perpetuity, and fixed, generally, the terms of payment in each year, without reference to the particular term when the payments were to commence. And that the operation of the obligation for relief commenced only when the rights commenced; and therefore the liability to make the payments did not arise till the 1st of September, 1880, the term of payment applicable to the first six months following the 1st of February, 1880, (Ct. Sess. Cas., 4th Series, vol. vii., p. 1147).

On appeal,

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. Chitty, Q.C., were heard for the appellants.

Mr. J. B. Balfour, S.-G. (Scotland), and Mr. Asher, were heard for the respondents.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. Cape Breton Company v. Fenn. Feb. 16.

Company—Winding-up—Leave to use Name of Company.

In July, 1875, an order was made for winding up the Cape Breton Company. On the 8th of February, 1878, an order was made on the application of Rooney removing one of the liquidators, and directing payment to Rooney of his costs of the application out of the assets of the company. These costs were taxed but not paid, and Rooney became bankrupt. Messrs. Harper & Co. had acted as his solicitors in the application. In November, 1880, V.-C. Malins made an order giving leave to Harper & Co. to institute such proceedings as they might be advised in the name and on behalf of the company against the former directors and the promoters of the company to recover certain sums for which it was alleged that they were liable. Harper & Co. commenced this action accordingly in the name of the company. They had no interest in the affairs of the company except their having been the solicitors of Rooney in the above application, the costs of which had been ordered to be paid to him. The defendants moved, before V.-C. Malins, to set aside the writ and all proceedings in the action, on the ground that it had been commenced without proper authority. This application having been refused by the Vice-Chancellor the defendants appealed.

Davey, Q.C., and Farwell (Moulton with them), for the appellants.

Higgins, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for Harper & Co.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Norton, for the liquidators.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., and Cotton, and Lush, L.JJ.) held that as Harper & Co. were neither contributories nor creditors of the company there was no jurisdiction to give them leave to use the name of the company, and that the proceedings must be set aside as instituted in the name of the company without sufficient authority.

Costs as between Solicitor and Client—Limit, where not more than 20l. claimed—County Court Act, 1856 (19 & 20 Vict. c. 108), s. 36.

Appeal from refusal of Grove and Lopes, JJ., to order a master to review taxation.

By s. 36 of the County Court Act, 1856 (19 & 20 Vict. c. 108), "where in any action" the claim does not exceed 20*l.*, a solicitor may not recover any further costs than those mentioned in s. 91 of the County Court Act, 1846 (9 & 10 Vict. c. 95) (i.e., 15*s.* for the solicitor, and 1*l.* 3*s.* 6*d.* for counsel), "unless upon taxation of costs the registrar be satisfied, by writing under the hand of the client, that he has agreed to pay further costs or charges."

Mr. Copp had been instructed by a client to sue for a debt of 13*l.* 3*s.* 9*d.* He did so, suing in the High Court, and recovered judgment; but when the costs which were not recoverable from the defendant came on to be taxed, the master taxed them on the scale prescribed by s. 36 of the County Court Act, 1856, being of opinion that this section applied to actions in the High Court. Pollock, B., and a Divisional Court having upheld the view of the master, Mr. Copp now appealed.

R. O. Lane, for Mr. Copp.

F. Turner, for the client.

The Court (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Brett, L.JJ) was clearly of opinion that s. 36 of the County Court Act, 1856, applies to County Court actions only, and allowed the appeal.

Liquidation Resolutions—Registration—Small Amount of Assets.

Sharpe filed a liquidation petition, and his statement of affairs shewed that his debts were 175*l.*, and his assets 85*l.* The 85*l.* was subject to a reduction of about 17*l.* for preferential debts. The creditors resolved upon a liquidation by arrangement, and gave the debtor an immediate discharge. They also voted the trustee 10*l.* for his remuneration. The registration of the resolutions was opposed by a dissentient creditor, whose debt amounted to 182*l.* He had obtained a judgment, but had been restrained from issuing execution pending the proceedings. The ground of opposition was, that the assets being so small in proportion to the debts, the filing of the petition was an abuse of the process of the Court. Bacon, C.J. (affirming the decision of the Judge of the Brentford County Court) held, upon the the authority of Ex parte Early (13 Ch. D. 300), that the resolutions ought to be registered. The opposing creditor appealed.

Yate Lee, for the appellant, relied upon Ex parte Staff (Law Rep. 20 Eq. 775); Ex parte Sir W. Russell (Law Rep. 10 Ch. 255); and Ex parte Aaronson (7 Ch. D. 713).

Winslow, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the debtor, relied upon Ex parte Early.

James, L.J., could see no sound distinction between the present case and Ex parte Early. In Ex parte Staff, and Ex parte Sir W. Russell, the Court came to the conclusion that the resolutions had not been passed in the interest of the creditors, that the creditors had, in fact, no interest. In Ex parte Early the contest was between the body of creditors, who were endeavouring to have such assets as there were distributed among themselves, and one execution creditor who wished to take the whole. The present case was exactly similar.

Cotton, L.J, thought there was no substantial distinction between the present case and Ex parte Early, and therefore, though with reluctance, he held that the resolutions must stand.

Lush, L.J., agreed that this case was governed by Ex parte Early, and said that, had there been no such authority he should have come to the same conclusion as the Court did there.

Appeal dismissed with costs.

Practice—Withdrawal of Appeal Motion—Revocation of Withdrawal.

In this case (which is noted ante, p. 15) an appeal was brought by the defendant Cave against the same order which Mr. Lovering desired leave to appeal against on the former occasion. Notice of appeal was given by Cave on the 10th of January, but on the 26th of January his solicitor wrote to the plaintiff's solicitor saying that he "proposed to withdraw the appeal," and asking the plaintiff's consent to his doing so, at the same time undertaking to pay the plaintiff's costs. The plaintiff on the same day gave his consent to the withdrawal of the appeal. On the 28th of January, however, the defendant's solicitor wrote again to say that he revoked his withdrawal of the appeal; and the appeal was accordingly set down to be heard.

Chitty, Q.C., Millar, Q.C., and Mulligan, for the plaintiff, took the preliminary objection that the defendant having withdrawn his appeal could not now proceed with it.

Kay, Q.C., and Rigby (Romer, and G. Cave with them), contended that the letter of the 26th of January was only an expression of intention to withdraw the appeal, and that the appeal not having been struck out, and no step taken in the office, the matter still remained in fieri, and both sides had a locus pœnitentiæ.

Ince, Q.C., Grosvenor Woods, H. B. Buckley, Snagge, and Creed, appeared for other parties.

James, L.J., said that it would be pessimi exempli if the Court were to allow such a notice of withdrawal as had been given by the defendant to be revoked. Only two days had elapsed in this case, but it might have been two months or two years. The proposal to withdraw was accepted, and the contract completed: and if the defendant wished to return to his former position, he ought to have given fresh notice of appeal.

LUSH, L.J., expressed his opinion to the same effect.

Kay, Q.C., then asked for leave to give notice of motion to enlarge the time for appealing, as the time had now expired.

The Court gave leave.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY v. WATERFORD AND LIMERICK RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Companies—Arbitration Clause—Reference to Railway Commissioners—Injunction—Regulation of Railways Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 76), s. 8.

By an agreement entered into between the above-named companies in April, 1872, and made in pursuance of the Waterford and Limerick Act, 1866, certain arrangements were made as to the interchange of through traffic between England and Ireland. By the agreement all disputes were to be referred to a single arbitrator, to be appointed in manner therein mentioned. Disputes having arisen between the companies, the defendants referred them to the railway commissioners for decision, under s. 8 of the Regulation of Railways Act, 1873.

The plaintiffs, contending that an arbitrator had been designated, by force of the provisions of the above special Act, moved for an injunction to restrain the defendants from proceeding before the railway commissioners.

Davey, Q.C., and R. S. Wright, for the motion.

Chitty, Q.C., and Pembroke Stephens, for the defendant company.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that want of jurisdiction in an arbitrator was not a ground for restraining persons from proceeding before him, since, if his award was invalid by reason of his having no authority to act, that objection could be taken when it was sought to enforce the award. He therefore refused the motion, but gave the plaintiffs leave to amend their writ, and ask for a prohibition against the commissioners, and granted a rule nisi for a prohibition returnable on the 18th of February.

Feb. 18. Sir H. James, A.G., and Rigby (Sir F. Herschell, S.G., with them), for the railway commissioners, who had been made parties to the action, and Chitty, Q.C., and Pembroke Stephens, for the defendant company, now shewed cause against the rule.

Davey, Q.C., and R. S. Wright, in support of the rule.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS was of opinion that the proviso in s. 8 of the Regulation of Railways Act, 1873, did not cut down the generality of the first part of the section, and that the railway commissioners had jurisdiction to entertain any disputes between two railway companies. He therefore discharged the rule with costs.

M. R. SOTHERAN v. DENING. Feb. 21.

Will—General Power of Appointment—General Devise—Subsequent Will with Revocatory Clause—Wills Act (1 Vict. c. 26), s. 27.

By a settlement made in 1870, real estate was directed to be held in trust for such persons as Catherine Hooper, whether covert or sole, should by will appoint; and, in default of appointment, for Emma Dening in fee.

Catherine Hooper made a will in 1871, and thereby, in exercise of her power, appointed the real estate to the plaintiff in fee.

In 1877, Catherine Hooper made a second will, commencing with the words "I revoke all former wills," and containing a general devise of all her real estate in favour of the defendant, Geraldine Dening, but not referring in terms to the power of appointment.

In 1878, Catherine Hooper made a third will, dealing, in terms, with her personal estate only, but concluding with the words, "hereby revoking all former or other wills, I declare this to be my last will and testament."

The real estate subject to Catherine Hooper's power of appointment was claimed, (1) by the plaintiff, on the ground that the testamentary appointment contained in the first will was unaffected by either of the subsequent wills; (2) by Geraldine Dening, on the ground that the appointment contained in the first will was revoked by the general devise (operating as the exercise of a general power of appointment) in the second will, and that the latter was not affected by the third will; and (3), by the representative of Emma Dening, on the ground that the appointments contained in the first and second wills respectively had both been revoked by the revocatory clause in the third will, and that, consequently, the property passed as in default of appointment.

Joshua Williams, Q.C., Chitty, Q.C., Nalder, T. A. Roberts, and Nugent, for the parties.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the third will had revoked both the former wills, and that the property therefore remained unappointed.

V.-C. M. Ex parte HOSPITAL OF ST. KATHARINE. Feb. 11.

Company—Compulsory Purchase of Land—Money in Court—Costs of Re-investment.

This was a petition by the master of the Hospital of St. Katharine that part of a sum of money which had been paid into Court by the St. Katharine's Dock Company upon the purchase of land from the charity might be ordered to be laid out in the redemption of land tax chargeable in respect of land belonging to the charity, and the petition asked that the dock company might be ordered to pay the costs of the petition and of the re-investment of the money. The payment of costs was resisted by the company, on the ground that by their private Act of Parliament, 6 Geo. 4, the Court could only direct costs to be paid in case the money was re-invested in the purchase of "other houses, buildings, lands, tenements, or hereditaments." Under the Act power was given to the company to take lands, and in certain cases to pay the money into the Bank of England to be applied under the direction of the Court in the redemption or purchase of the land tax or the discharge of any debt or debts or such other incumbrance, or part thereof, as the Court should authorize to be paid, affecting the same hereditaments or affecting other houses, buildings, lands, tenements, or hereditaments standing settled therewith to the same or the like uses, "or to be otherwise invested under the direction of the Court in the purchase of other houses, buildings, lands, tenements, or hereditaments to be conveyed and settled to the same uses and in the same manner as the houses, lands, tenements, and hereditaments which should be so purchased or taken." And it was provided, "that it should be lawful for the Court to order the expenses of such last-mentioned purchases, or so much of such expenses as the Court should deem reasonable, together with the charges of obtaining such order, to be paid by the dock company."

It was also contended that there had been an unreasonable number of applications for re-investment. The original sum paid for the land was 125,000*l.*, and there had already been six different re-investments, and there still remained in Court 38,440*l.* The present purchase was for 685*l.*

Cherry, in support of the petition.

Whitehorne, for the dock company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that redemption of the land tax was a purchase of a tenement or hereditament within the spirit, as well as the words of the Act, and that the company must pay the costs.

Glasse, Q.C., referred to Ex parte Mercers' Company (10 Ch. D. 481), shewing that the Court had power, since the Judicature Act, to give costs in all cases where a statute, whether public or private, had omitted to make provision for payment of the costs of particular proceedings.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that that case settled the question.

V.-C. M. WILSON v. BIRCHALL. Feb. 15.

Will—Duty of Solicitor—Legacy to Solicitor's Wife—Reduction into Possession.

This was a summons by Mary Birchall in an administration suit claiming to be entitled as against the estate of her husband, Thomas Birchall, to a sum of 45,000*l.* The 45,000*l.* was given by the will of the Reverend Richard Rothwell, the uncle of Mrs. Birchall, to "Mary Birchall, the wife of Thomas Birchall." The will of Mr. Rothwell was prepared by Thomas Birchall, who was the confidential solicitor and agent of Mr. Rothwell, and he was appointed sole trustee and executor. Mr. Rothwell died in April, 1863, and shortly afterwards Thomas Birchall made a will, which he gave into the possession of his wife, and by that will he left to her all his property with some exceptions. But in 1875 he made another will, by which he left all his property, which comprised the 45,000*l.* given by the will of Richard Rothwell, to trustees upon trust to pay thereout an annuity of 400*l.* to his wife, and the rest of his property was given for the benefit of Miss Hindle, with whom he resided in a separate establishment, and of his two illegitimate children, the offspring of a woman since deceased. Mrs. Birchall now claimed the 45,000*l.*, on the ground that it was the duty of Thomas Birchall to have informed Mr. Rothwell that the money by being left to his wife without any restriction became his property, and he was therefore in the position of trustee for her; and that it was his duty to his wife to have protected her interest by preparing the will so as to leave it to her separate use. Mrs. Birchall claimed in the alternative that if she was not entitled to the whole 45,000*l.*, she was at any rate entitled to a sum of 12,000*l.* London and North Western stock, and 5000*l.* secured upon mortgage, neither of which sums had been reduced into possession by her husband. The 12,000*l.* railway stock had been purchased in the name of Thomas Birchall by Mr. Rothwell, and was still standing in his name. The mortgage of 5000*l.* still stood in the name of the original mortgagee, and had not been transferred into the name of Mr. Birchall. The dividends upon both sums had been received by Thomas Birchall up to his death, which took place in 1878.

This case was at first compromised, but the compromise was upset by the Court of Appeal (reported 16 Ch. D. 41).

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Bryce, for Mrs. Birchall.

North, Q.C., and Finch, for the two illegitimate children.

Glasse, Q.C., and E. S. Ford, for Miss Hindle.

W. Barber, for the trustees of Thomas Birchall's will.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that although Thomas Birchall was greatly to blame in preparing Mr. Rothwell's will in favour of himself, still there being no evidence of what passed between him and Mr. Rothwell, and it being not improbable that the testator having implicit confidence in Birchall had considered it the same thing whether he left the money to the separate use of his niece, or to her and her husband, it was impossible for Mrs. Birchall to support her claim for the whole amount. But his Lordship was of opinion that T. Birchall, by only receiving the dividends upon the two sums of 12,000*l.* and 5000*l.*, in his character of executor, had not reduced them into possession during his life, and that his wife was now entitled to claim those sums as a charge upon Birchall's estate.

V.-C. M. MILES v. ROWLAND. Feb. 16.

Annuity charged on Real Estate—Corpus or Income—Deficiency of Rents—Possession by Annuitant.

Edward Smallman by his will devised a freehold estate to trustees to the use and intent that they should yearly and every year during the life of Mary Brown (now Mary Miles the plaintiff) receive and take out of the said real estate an annuity or clear yearly rent-charge of 40*l.*, free of all rates and charges, with power of distress and entry in case the said yearly rent-charge should be in arrear. And without prejudice to the said annuity of 40*l.* and the powers reserved for enforcing the same, the trustees were to stand possessed of the said real estate to the use of and equally between his grandchildren therein named as tenants in common, and he directed his trustees to pay the said annuity as it should become due to the plaintiff for her separate use.

The testator died in March, 1831, the plaintiff married James Miles in October, 1831. The trustees took possession of the real estate and paid the annuity to the plaintiff, so far as the income was sufficient, but there was a deficiency in every year of 15*l.* In November, 1844, James Miles was appointed by the executor of the last surviving trustee to be his attorney, and to take possession of the estate and to pay the rents to his wife with the arrears, which he did until his death in 1864, but the deficiency still continued. After the death of James Miles the plaintiff herself entered into possession of the estate and received the rents and profits, and retained the annuity, but the deficiency continued and now amounted to between 300*l.* and 400*l.*, and there was no sufficient distress to satisfy the amount. The plaintiff now claimed that the annuity was a charge upon the whole estate, and that the estate might be sold and the proceeds applied towards payment of the arrears of the annuity and the annuity itself during the remainder of her life.

It was supposed that the proceeds of the sale would be little more than sufficient to cover these payments.

Romer, for the plaintiff.

Charles Browne, for the persons entitled to the estate subject to the annuity.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the annuity was a charge upon the corpus of the estate, and, notwithstanding the possession held for so many years by the plaintiff and her husband, the plaintiff was entitled to the arrears, and to have the estate sold to cover the amount that should be found due to her.

ENGLISH CHANNEL STEAM SHIP COMPANY v. ROLT.

Company—Mortgage—Ultra Vires.

The English Channel Steam Ship Company owed 4000*l.* to P. Rolt the builder of their ship Castalia. They also owed 6000*l.* to one Webster, and were in want of money to carry on their business. The directors thereupon mortgaged the Castalia to Rolt and Webster for 20,000*l.* The company was wound up; and the liquidator brought an action against Rolt and Webster to have it declared that the mortgage was invalid as being beyond the powers of the directors.

Pearson, Q.C., and Northmore Lawrence, for the plaintiffs.

Higgins, Q.C., and H. B. Buckley, for Webster.

Glasse, Q.C., and Latham, for Rolt.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that by both the general rules of law and the articles of association the directors had power to mortgage the ship for unpaid purchase-money, and for money wanted in order to carry on the business, and dismissed the action.

Statute of Limitations (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27), s. 34—Acknowledgment after Bar.

Thomas Sanders and John Sanders were tenants in common in remainder of certain lands in Yorkshire. The tenant for life died in 1833, when Thomas Sanders entered into possession and received all the rents until 1864. In that year John Sanders mortgaged his moiety, and from that time Thomas Sanders paid one half of the rents to the mortgagee, and by a letter written in 1865 he acknowledged the title. In November, 1878, he refused to continue this payment. The devisee of John Sanders and the mortgagee thereupon brought an action for a partition; to which the defendant pleaded the Statute of Limitations, as having been in possession from 1833 to 1864.

Glasse, Q.C., and Williamson, for the plaintiff.

Higgins, Q.C., and H. Smith, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the Statute of Limitations (3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27) s. 34, only extinguished rights when the person in possession chose to avail himself of it. Here Thomas Sanders had, after the end of thirty-three years, chosen to acknowledge the right of the other tenant in common, and could not now after fourteen years set up the statute. There must be judgment for partition.

V.-C. M. BAILLIE v. TRAHERNE. Feb. 22.

Joint-tenancy—Severance—Marriage—Covenant to assign.

By the settlement made on the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Baillie, they covenanted to assign to trustees any personal property which should at any time during coverture vest in Mrs. Baillie, or in Mr. Baillie in her right. At that time she was entitled, in joint-tenancy with her sister, to certain personal property, expectant on the death of Elizabeth Royds, who died during the coverture. Mrs. Baillie then died, and the question was raised whether either the marriage, or the covenant to assign, operated as a severance of the joint-tenancy.

Higgins, Q.C., and T. Stevens, for the other joint-tenant.

Cracknall, for a trustee.

Field, for Mr. Baillie.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR thought that, on the authorities, either marriage or a covenant to assign operated as a severance.

V.-C. M. CARTER v. JAMES. Feb. 22.

Foreclosure—Accounts—Annual Rests.

The plaintiff in this case was mortgagee of some copyholds. He entered into possession in order to avoid a forfeiture, and remained in possession for seventeen years, at the end of which he brought an action for foreclosure. The action came on for hearing, and the only question raised was, whether in taking the accounts annual rests were to be made. It did not appear that any interest was due when the mortgagee took possession, and the rents exceeded the interest.

Glasse, Q.C., and Nalder, for the plaintiff.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR thought that though no interest was due when the mortgagee took possession annual rests ought to be given, so that the surplus rents might go in reduction of the capital on which interest was charged.

V.-C. B. SHAW v. BROWN. Feb. 12.

Practice—Transferred Action—Hearing of Summons in Action already tried in another Branch of the Court.

This action was originally set down in this branch of the Court, and had been transferred to Mr. Justice Fry. Before him a hearing had taken place, and a decree was made by consent, but with the assistance of the Court.

A question had since arisen upon the proper construction of a portion of the wording of the order, and this summons was taken out to obtain the judgment of the Court on the point.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Popham, for the summons.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he thought the application had better be heard by Mr. Justice Fry himself.

Sir H. Jackson, Q.C. (W. Phipson Beale, with him), for the respondent, asked whether his Lordship wished this course to be pursued on all similar occasions.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR thought great inconvenience and delay would ensue if the action had to be heard over again before him. The learned judge by whom the order was made had had all the facts and circumstances before him in a shape and way in which it was impossible he (the Vice-Chancellor) could have them, and he certainly thought that in all similar cases it would be better that the judge who tried the action should hear the summons.

In answer to the Court,

Kekewich, Q.C., was unable to say whether the particular point in question had come under Mr. Justice Fry's actual cognizance.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that under all the circumstances he thought it best that Mr. Justice Fry should be requested to hear the summons.

down in this branch of the Court, and had been transferred to, and heard and decided by, Mr. Justice Fry.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, referring to the view expressed by him in the case above noted, desired that Mr. Justice Fry should be asked to hear this summons also.

V.-C. H. WHITE v. JONES. Feb. 10.

Action in Palatine Court dismissed—Costs levied for by Sheriff—Goods wrongly seized—Death of Vice-Chancellor of Lancaster—Action in Chancery Division to restrain Sale by Sheriff—Motion for Injunction refused.

The plaintiff brought an action in the Lancaster Duchy Court. It was tried before the late Vice-Chancellor of Lancaster, and dismissed with costs.

The sheriff on a writ lodged with him seized certain goods for the costs. An objection was taken that the goods were vested in trustees under a marriage settlement. An inquisition was held, and it was found that some of the goods were vested in the trustees; that some belonged to the plaintiff, and that some had been purchased to supply the places of goods which had been vested in the trustees, but which were worn out or destroyed, and the value of the last-mentioned amounted to over 100*l.*

After the dismissal of the action the Vice-Chancellor died, and at the time this action was commenced for an injunction to restrain the sale or disposition of the goods which had been purchased the office was vacant. On Saturday the 5th of February an interim order was obtained ex parte.

Bardswell now moved that the injunction should be continued, and submitted that the action had been brought in the proper Court.

Hastings, Q.C., and Clare, for defendants, and Ingle Joyce for the defendant, the sheriff.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR considered that there must have been ways and means of having the ownership of the goods in dispute effectually disposed of in the proceedings in the Palatine Court, and that being so it would be improper for him to entertain jurisdiction on this separate and independent action. He could not entertain jurisdiction by reason of the non-existence of a Vice-Chancellor. Whether during the vacancy the question could have been dealt with by the Chancellor of the Duchy or by the judges of the Appeal Court, or by both, it was not necessary to do more than say that this was not the Court to come to; and, therefore, the injunction would not be continued, but the motion be dismissed with costs.

EMMET v. EMMET.

Trustee and Cestui que trust—Breach of Trust—Accumulation Clause—Compound Interest—Rate of Interest.

Edward Emmet, by his will, dated in 1833, gave all his real and personal estate to trustees upon trust for the benefit of his brother Henry during his life, and after his death upon trust as to one undivided third part of the property for all and every the children of his brother Henry equally, the shares of sons to be paid or transferred to them respectively at the age of 21, and the shares of daughters at that age or marriage. The will contained a clause directing that in case any of the children of his said brother should be under age at the death of the survivor of the testator and his said brother the income of the share of such child or any part thereof should or might be applied for the maintenance, education, and advancement of such child, and the surplus, if any, should accumulate to and become part of the original share of such child.

The testator then declared in favour of all and every the children of the defendant, G. N. Emmet, trusts of another undivided third part of his property after the decease of Henry Emmet which were similar and framed by reference to the aforesaid trusts for the children of Henry Emmet. Henry survived the testator and died in 1839, and in 1840, G. N. Emmet was appointed a trustee of the will. The plaintiff was a child of G. N. Emmet, and attained 21 in 1849. G. N. Emmet had some years prior to 1849 acquired sole possession of his children's shares by arrangement with his co-trustee, and after the plaintiff had attained 21, without coming to any explanation with him, he retained the plaintiff's share in his own hands.

It appeared that the fund had been since that time invested as to part separately, and as to part upon improper securities, and latterly had not been kept distinct from the defendant's own moneys. The defendant now claimed that the whole of the plaintiff's share had been exhausted in maintenance; but the plaintiff contended that the defendant was liable to account for and pay it with compound interest from 1849.

Robinson, Q.C., and Wellington Cooper, for the plaintiff.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Rigby, for the defendant, G. N. Emmet.

Dundas Gardiner, for other parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that on the construction of the will there was no trust to accumulate beyond the period of minority. But the trustee having, without explanation, continued to hold the fund after the plaintiff had attained 21, could not, under the circumstances, be taken to hold it free from an obligation to accumulate it, and must accordingly be charged with compound interest, with half-yearly rests, and as to funds which had been either improperly, or not separately invested at 4 per cent.

Will—Construction—"Unmarried."

The testator in this action, by his will, dated in 1857, gave his freehold and leasehold estates as to part thereof upon trust for Charles Green for life, and "if he should die unmarried" then for the children of his brother. Charles Green was a bachelor at the date of the will, but he afterwards married and he died a widower in 1871. The question now was whether the word "unmarried" meant "without ever having been married," or "without leaving a widow."

W. Baker, for the heir-at-law of the testator.

G. M. White, for the children of Charles Green's brother.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that in the absence of any context, the word must be construed according to its primary meaning, which upon the authorities was "without ever having been married."

Practice—Time for appealing—Refusal of Application at Trial for Leave to amend Pleadings—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LVIII., r. 15.

At the trial of this action (Weekly Notes, 1880, p. 205) Fry, J., refused an application made by the defendant's counsel at the Bar, for leave to amend the statement of defence, and His Lordship gave judgment for the plaintiff. In the judgment as drawn up there was inserted, at the express request of the defendant, a recital of the application for leave to amend, and a statement that the Court had refused it. The defendant gave notice of appeal from the judgment, stating the effect of it in his notice, but not referring in any way to the application for leave to amend. He afterwards gave a notice of motion in the Court of Appeal that, notwithstanding the expiration of the twenty-one days limited by r. 15 of Order LVIII., he might be at liberty to appeal from the refusal of leave to amend.

T. Brett, for the motion.

Cookson, Q.C., and Follett, for the plaintiff, were not heard.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James, and Lush, L.JJ.) held that, the refusal of leave to amend having taken place at the trial, it formed part of the judgment, and the appeal from the judgment included an appeal from the refusal. The Court of Appeal would have full power to give leave to amend on the hearing of the appeal, if they should be of opinion that the leave had been wrongly refused. The present motion was unnecessary, and must be refused with costs.

JESSEL, M.R., added that it was contrary to the practice to mention the refusal of the application for leave to amend in the judgment.

This was an appeal by the defendants Pickering and wife from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins (noted ante, p. 3).

Terrell, for the appellants.

Dundas Gardiner, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Lush, L.JJ.) said that the general engagements of a married woman, contracted on the credit of her separate property, do not create any charge on that property, and that, till the creditor has established his right by a judgment, he cannot prevent the married woman from dealing with her property. The Vice-Chancellor's order was, therefore, discharged, with costs.

Bankruptcy—Injunction—Action in foreign Court—Sequestration to compel Appearance.

After the appointment of a trustee under a liquidation petition, some creditors, who had a mortgage upon real estate of the debtor in Ceylon, commenced an action there against the debtor to realize their mortgage, and they obtained an order in that action for a sequestration against some other real estate of the debtor in Ceylon, which was not comprised in the mortgage. This sequestration was issued, according to the practice of the Ceylon Court, for the purpose of compelling the appearance of the defendant. On the application of the trustee Mr. Registrar Murray, as Chief Judge, restrained the mortgagee from taking any further proceedings in the action, so far only (if at all) as it affected the debtor's person or his property which was not included in the mortgage, and ordered the mortgagee to take such steps as might be necessary to discharge the sequestration. The mortgagee appealed.

Robinson, Q.C., and J. Bryce, for the appellant.

J. E. Linklater, for the trustee.

On the hearing of the appeal it was stated that an appearance had been entered in the action, and the appellant's counsel offered to undertake that he would not make use of the sequestration for any other purpose than to compel appearance, or use the action for the purpose of obtaining payment of the mortgage debt out of any property of the debtor other than that comprised in the mortgage.

Upon the terms of this undertaking,

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Lush, L.JJ.) discharged the registrar's order, but without costs.

The defendants, being directors of the Tunbridge Iron and Boiler Works Company, Limited, had signed the following document:—

"Agreement between the Tunbridge Iron and Boiler Works Company, Limited, of the one part and William McCollin [the plaintiff] on the other part. Benefice—Retiring Incumbent—Pension—Action for Arrears—Judgment Debt—Set-off—Incumbent's Resignation Act, 1871 (34 & 35 Vict. c. 44), ss. 10, 12.

Appeal from the decision of Jessel, M.R. (Weekly Notes, 1880, p. 127).

The plaintiff was the late incumbent of the vicarage of Chatteris, and was entitled by the declaration of the Bishop of Ely, made under the provisions of the Incumbent's Resignation Act, 1871, to a yearly pension of 450*l.*, payable out of the revenues of the vicarage, and claimed payment of arrears of the pension.

The defendant was the present incumbent of the vicarage, and by his counterclaim set up a judgment debt of 28,000*l.* obtained by one Hawkins against the plaintiff, and of which he was assignee for value, and claimed to set off such judgment debt against the arrears of the annuity.

The question turned on the 10th section of the Act, which provides that the pension "shall be a charge upon the revenue of the benefice, and shall be recoverable as a debt at law or in equity from the incumbent of the benefice by the retired clerk, his executors, administrators, or assignees, but such pension shall not be transferable at law or in equity."

The Master of the Rolls held that the pension was intended to be an inalienable provision for the retiring incumbent, and that the set-off claimed could not be allowed, and gave judgment for the plaintiff.

The defendant appealed.

Statutes of Limitation—Mortgagor and Mortgagee—Saving for Disabilities—Twelve Years an absolute Bar to Redemption—37 & 38 Vict. c. 57, s. 7.

Action for the redemption of a copyhold estate; the writ having been issued on the 29th of October, 1879. The defendant, the mortgagee, pleaded that he had been in possession of the estate since 1861, without payment to him, or acknowledgment in writing by him to the mortgagor. The plaintiffs, who were the widow (entitled to freebench) and coheirs of the intestate mortgagor, replied that some of them, up to a time within six years immediately before the beginning of the action, were under disability.

The question was, whether the twelve years' bar to redemption suits prescribed by s. 7 of the Act of 1874 (37 & 38 Vict. c. 57) which commenced on the 1st of January, 1879, is absolute, or is capable of relaxation when the mortgagors or any of them are under disability. It was admitted that this section is practically a re-enactment of s. 28 of the 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27, except that the limit of twelve years is substituted for twenty.

Mackaskie (Sir H. Jackson, Q.C., with him), for the plaintiff, referred to, amongst other authorities, Fisher on Mortgages, 3rd edition, p. 742; Mackeson's Coote on Mortgages, p. 936; Banning on Limitation, p. 173.

Mackaskie in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he had listened with respect and attention to the ingenious and elaborate argument that had been submitted to him for the plaintiff, but that he felt not the slightest doubt about the question. It was not for him to say what was the policy of the law, but along with the other speculations which might be put forward, and of which some had been put forward in the learned treatises which had been referred to, reasons might be suggested why the legislature should have decided as they had. But without speculating and without imagining, he found that the legislature had laid down the rule that as between mortgagor and mortgagee, at first twenty years, and then twelve years, should be an absolute bar. The point had clearly not been lost sight of on the occasion of the re-enactment in 1874. The twelve years' bar was intended to be absolute, whether the person seeking to redeem was able or was disabled. The result was, that the action must be dismissed with costs.

ROBERTS v. RICHARDS.

Watercourse, Natural or Artificial—Riparian Owners—Evidence—User.

The plaintiff, being the owner of a small farm in Wales, had for upwards of seventy years taken, for domestic and agricultural purposes, water from a stream or brook, which, commencing in a natural spring on his land, passed first wholly through it and then ran along the border of a portion of the defendant's land. It then flowed wholly along the plaintiff's land, and then, terminating in a covered pipe, supplied the plaintiff's premises. Prior to 1879, for the period above-mentioned, the plaintiff had enjoyed a sufficient supply of water from this stream, and the only use which the defendant had made of the stream was that two of his cows and a horse which were at times depastured on his land drank at it. In the year above-mentioned the defendant, having erected several houses on his land, caused a pipe to be connected with the stream, and thereby his houses were supplied with water for domestic purposes. It was shewn that the pipe was large enough to carry off six times more water than ordinarily came down the stream, and the result of such connection was that on many occasions the water supply to the plaintiff's property was wholly cut off or taken away. The evidence was conflicting as to whether the stream was a natural or an artificial one, the plaintiff contending that it was either wholly or in part the latter; and that it had been made solely for the convenience of his premises, and that he had a paramount and indefeasible right to as much of the water as he required, and also that even if the stream were natural still the defendant was only entitled to a reasonable user of the water having regard to the circumstances of the case and the nature of the stream; and that the defendant's diversion of the whole stream, for it in fact amounted to that at times, was not a reasonable user. The defendant submitted that the stream was a natural one, and that he as a riparian owner was entitled to take water from it for all domestic purposes, ad lavandum et ad potandum, for any quantity of houses which he erected on his riparian land.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and W. Phipson Beale, for the plaintiff.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that on the evidence he could not decide that the plaintiff had made out that the stream was artificial, as no one could say when the stream first came into existence, and it had apparently existed from time immemorial. The reasonable conclusion was that it was a natural stream. The plaintiff, therefore, had not any easement or right to have an exclusive enjoyment of the water, but his user must be attributed to the exercise of his right as a riparian owner on the bank of a natural stream. So the user of the water by the defendant must be referred to his right as a riparian owner. There would be judgment for the defendant, with costs.

Annuity secured by Bond—Gift by the Obligor, by Will, of an Annuity of larger Amount to the Obligee—Satisfaction not intended by Testator.

By a bond dated the 16th of June, 1870, J. D., the younger, for the consideration mentioned, became bound to the plaintiff, H. D., her executors &c., in the penal sum of 200*l.*, with a condition making void the same if he should pay her during her life, if she should continue the widow of J. D. the elder, an annuity of 10*l.*, half-yearly, on the 16th of June and the 16th of December in every year, the first half-yearly portion to be paid on the 16th of June then next, and if H. D. should die or marry again between the times fixed for the payment of any one of the half-yearly portions, pay unto the executors &c. of H. D. or as the case might require unto H. D., on demand, a proportionate part of the annuity for the time being which should have elapsed from the last payment, inclusive of the day of decease or second marriage.

J. D., by will made in April, 1878, gave unto H. D. an annuity of 30*l.* "if she shall so long continue a widow." . . . "If H. D. shall outlive my wife she is to have an additional annuity of 10*l.*" By a codicil made the same day the testator declared that if H. D. should die in the lifetime of his wife the annuity of 30*l.* should go to her for life. The testator died in 1878.

He paid the annuity of 10*l.* to H. D. during his lifetime, but no payment thereof had been made since his death, the surviving trustee contending that it was satisfied by the gift of the annuity of 30*l.*

This action was brought for a declaration in effect that H. D. was entitled to both annuities, and for consequential relief.

Northmore Lawrence, for the plaintiffs.

G. Pemberton Leach, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he was of opinion that J. D. did not intend that the annuity given by his will should be in satisfaction of the annuity secured by the bond, and held that both annuities must be provided for.

Injunction—Covenant—Beershop.

This was an action to enforce a covenant in a deed by which the lessees of houses built on certain property at Bromley belonging to the plaintiffs, who were brewers, undertook not to carry on the trade of "a publichouse, tavern, or beerhouse" on the premises leased to them. It appeared that the defendant Gaskil had opened a house, which was subject to the above covenant, as a grocer's shop, and had taken out a licence to sell at such shop beer by retail, not to be drunk on the premises. The question which arose in the action was whether the plaintiff's shop was to be considered a "beerhouse" within the meaning of the covenant by the defendant Gaskil.

Cookson, Q.C., Oswald, and Radcliff, for the plaintiffs, referred to newspapers and other evidence to shew that the word "beerhouse" was understood in the trade to include all places licensed to sell beer whether on or off the premises.

Millar, Q.C., and Thompson, for the defendant Gaskil, relied on the London and Suburban Company v. Field, decided by the Court of Appeal on the 31st of January, 1881.

Everitt, for the defendant Collyer, who was an intermediate tenant of the premises.

FRY, J., refused to allow evidence to be put in to shew that the word "beerhouse" had a secondary meaning other than its ordinary and popular meaning, no reason having been shewn why, primâ facie, it was to have a technical interpretation, and the lease in which the covenant was contained being an ordinary lease between a builder and a grocer, persons both unconnected with the brewing trade. He referred to the judgments in the London and Suburban Company v. Field, and Bishop of St. Albans v. Battersby (3 Q. B. D. 359), as shewing that the word "beerhouse" had received judicial interpretation as meaning a house like a publichouse, where beer was sold to be drunk on the premises, while beershop was held to have a wider meaning, and included all houses where beer was sold in any way, and he held that the defendant Gaskil's shop, which was principally a grocer's shop, and where beer was sold as an auxiliary part of the business, to be drunk off the premises, was not a beerhouse, and gave judgment for the defendant with costs.

Tenant for Life and Remainderman—Leaseholds—Repairs—Trustee—Receiver.

Some leasehold houses were bequeathed by a testator to his trustees and executors, upon trust to receive the rents and to pay them to a married woman for her life, for her separate use without power of anticipation, and after her death the trustees were to stand possessed of the houses on trust for her two children. The married woman was one of the trustees and executors, and she was let into receipt of the rents. The houses were not kept in a proper state of repair, and the action was brought by one of the trustees, against the tenant for life and her husband and the third trustee, mainly for the purpose of enforcing the making of some provision for the repair of the houses, and meeting any claim which might be made by the landlord for dilapidations. The plaintiff asked that, if proper, a receiver might be appointed of the rents. Before the issue of the writ the tenant for life and her husband had offered to indemnify the executors against liability on the covenants in the leases, by investing a proper sum of money in the names of the plaintiffs and the defendants.

North, Q.C., and W. Barber, for the plaintiff.

Millar, Q.C., and Methold, for the defendants.

FRY, J., said that it was the duty of the trustees to keep the property free from the risk of forfeiture for the benefit of the remaindermen, and they were entitled to have this done out of the rents. They were entitled to have the covenants in the leases specifically performed, and were not bound to be satisfied with an indemnity against the risk to which they were exposed by a breach of them. There must be a declaration that the trusts of the will in relation to the houses ought to be carried into execution by the Court, and a receiver of the rents must be appointed. The plaintiff's costs of the action must be declared a charge on the houses, and there would be no order as to the defendants' costs.

Bankruptcy — Liquidation—Composition—Confirmation Meeting—Power of Meeting to adjourn—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 126—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 300.

Appeal from County Court at Birkenhead.

The question was whether a meeting called for the purpose of confirming composition resolutions had an inherent power of adjournment.

The first meeting of creditors under the liquidation of Jonathan Jones, the debtor, was held on the 7th of January, 1881, and it was resolved that a composition should be accepted, and a trustee was appointed. On the 18th of January a second meeting was held within the fourteen days prescribed by s. 126 of the Bankruptcy Act, and the meeting was then adjourned to the 24th of January. At the adjourned meeting it was resolved that the affairs of the debtor should be liquidated by arrangement, and not in bankruptcy, and a trustee and committee of inspection were appointed.

The registrar had refused to register the resolutions, on the ground, that under r. 300 of the Bankruptcy Rules the second meeting of creditors was not duly held.

The order of the judge, dated the 8th of February, affirming the decision of the registrar, was the order appealed from.

F. O. Crump, for the solicitor entrusted with the registration of the resolutions, referred to Ex parte Till (Law Rep. 10 Ch. 631).

No respondent.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said he could see no fault in the resolutions. The requirements of the statute had been complied with. The second meeting had been held within fourteen days of the first. At that meeting the creditors present, for reasons that were not impeached, thought fit to adjourn the meeting. Could it be doubted that a regularly convened meeting had power to adjourn to another day? His Lordship thought there could be no doubt about it. It was the universal practice; and it would be most unreasonable not to allow further time for deliberation if the creditors wished it. There was no trace or suggestion of any want of good faith; and he must hold that the resolutions were duly and properly passed, and order the same to be registered; and the costs of the application must come out of the estate.

Bill of Sale—Power—Proviso for Possession by Mortgagor—Sale by Mortgagor to Third Person—Conversion.

Action for the conversion of live stock and goods assigned to the plaintiff by bill of sale.

In February, 1880, one Griffin executed the bill of sale to secure the payment of 26*l.* by him to the plaintiff. The bill of sale provided, that in case the mortgagor should, on demand being made by the plaintiff, pay the 26*l.*, the deed should be absolutely void; and that in case the mortgagor should make default in payment of the said sum, or in case he should assign the said goods, &c., or remove, or attempt to remove them before the money thereby secured should be fully paid, it should be lawful for the plaintiff to enter the mortgagor's premises, take and keep possession of the goods assigned to him by the deed, and dispose of them. It was further provided, that until the mortgagor should make such default in payment, or do any act in consequence whereof the proviso for entry should be put in force, it should be lawful for the mortgagor to hold, make use of, and possess the goods. Part of the consideration money was paid by Griffin, but in August, 1880, 14*l.* remained due, and in that month Griffin sold and delivered off his premises to the defendant the cattle, goods, and chattels, for 90*l.*, which was paid or settled in account. Upon hearing of this transaction, the plaintiff demanded the goods from the defendant, and upon his refusal to give them up brought this action. The learned judge at the trial directed the jury to find for the plaintiff if they thought that the sale to the defendant was not a sale in the ordinary course of business. The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff.

Bosanquet moved for a new trial on the ground of misdirection. The plaintiff's power of seizure under the bill of sale could only be exercised upon Griffin's premises, and upon the goods there. After these goods had been sold to the defendant and removed from Griffin's premises the right was gone, and the present action is not maintainable.

THE COURT (Field and Manisty, JJ.) refused the rule. The bill of sale conveyed the general property in the goods to the plaintiff, and not merely a power of seizure and sale. Under the circumstances the sale to the defendant gave him no valid title to the goods.

Poor Law—Irremoveability—9 & 10 Vict. c. 66, s. 1—Residence in Home maintained by Collections outside Parish—"Bonâ fide charitable gift"—Computation of Time.

By 9 & 10 Vict. c. 66, s. 1, no person shall be removed from any parish in which he shall have resided for five years (the period of residence being reduced by 24 & 25 Vict. c. 55, s. 1, and 28 & 29 Vict. c. 79, s. 8, to one year), with a proviso that the time during which any such person shall receive relief from any parish or shall be wholly or in part maintained by any rate or subscription raised in a parish in which such person does not reside, not being a bonâ fide charitable gift, shall not be computed as the time of residence. The pauper had resided in a parish within the Fulham Union for a period sufficient under ordinary circumstances to make her irremoveable, and settled there under 39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, s. 34, but she had been an inmate of a home for penitent women maintained in part by an offertory collected outside the parish. The question was whether her maintenance at the home was by virtue of a "bonâ fide charitable gift" under the proviso.

Charles, Q.C., for the appellant union, contended that the subscriptions to the home being for the benefit of the society and not for any particular pauper, the residence there ought not to be computed in the term of the pauper's residence.

Prosser, for the respondents, contended that the gift to the society was "charitable" within the proviso, not being in the nature of or in substitution for a rate.

THE COURT (Field and Manisty, JJ.) held that the pauper was maintained in the home by a "bonâ fide charitable gift" as described in the proviso, and that the period of her residence there ought not to be excluded in the computation of time.

This case is noted ante, p. 19.

Held, that no such ceremony of marriage as that alleged by the petitioner, styling herself Elizabeth Dowager Lady Huntingtower, was proved to have taken place between her and the late Lord Huntingtower: and that the evidence did not establish a marriage by habit and repute, therefore the claim on the part of the infant, Albert Edwin, to be the only legitimate son of the late Lord Huntingtower, had not been established.

Resolved also, that William John Manners, who was the issue of the marriage in facie ecclesiæ between Katherine the daughter of Sir Joseph Burke and the late Lord Huntingtower, in 1851, had made out and established his claim to the dignity of Earl of Dysart and Lord Huntingtower in the peerage of Scotland.

DICK AND STEVENSON, RESPTS.]

Contract—Obligation—Failure to implement Condition—Remedy.

The question here was whether the appellant, railway contractor, was bound to take delivery of a steam excavator which was built under a contract between him and the respondents, engineers in Airdie, Scotland, and to pay the contract price, 1115*l.* The appellant agreed to purchase the steam excavator from the respondents under certain conditions, the material one of which was, that it should be capable of excavating a given quantity of clay or other soft substance in a cutting called Carfin in a day of ten hours; the appellant to provide the means of trial "by a properly opened up face." The machine was first tried at another cutting, where it failed to excavate the required amount. It was then removed to have the strains it had undergone, and the breakages repaired; and to be strengthened. When this was done it was brought to the Carfin cutting, to a face which appeared from the evidence adduced not to be a "properly opened up" one. A breakage then occurred, and after that had been repaired the respondents proposed to go on with the trial, provided a proper working face was supplied, but the appellant refused to accept the machine or to give it any further trial.

The Lords of the First Division of the Court of Session, recalling the sheriff's interlocutor, and agreeing with the sheriff substitute's decision, held, that though it was not clear from the evidence whether the machine could or could not have performed the work had such a trial been given it, yet the appellant having prevented this condition of the contract from being implemented was liable to pay the price of the machine (Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series, vol. vii. p. 778; 17 Scot. Law Rep. 565.)

The appellant appealed against this decision, and asked for a remit that the fact whether the machine was or was not fit to do the work which the respondents guaranteed that it would do, should be found.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., and Mr. H. R. Johnstone, were heard for the appellant.

Mr. E. E. Kay, Q.C. (Mr. Brewster, Q.C., with him), was heard for the respondents.

Injury to Ship—Contributory Negligence.

This was an appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal in Ireland, which, by a majority of the judges, had affirmed a previous decision of the Court of Admiralty there. The appellants (the plaintiffs below) were the owners of a sailing-ship called the Ruby. The respondent and another person (since deceased) were the owners of the steam-tug Toiler. The master of the Ruby on approaching Dublin Harbour took on board, as the law of the harbour obliged him to do, a licensed pilot, and having done so, abstained from farther active management of the ship. He then engaged the Toiler to tow his vessel into the harbour. In going in, the Ruby went on a shoal called the Burford Bank, in the Bay of Dublin, and was injured. The plaintiffs, alleging that this injury was occasioned by the unskilful management of the tug, brought an action to recover damages from the owners of the tug. The defence set up was that of contributory negligence, it being insisted that the master of the Ruby, when the danger occurred, ought to have done something which would at least have lessened, if not prevented, the mischief. The Court of Admiralty had adopted this defence of contributory negligence, and had absolved the tug from blame, holding the Ruby to have been negligently managed. The Court of Appeal (diss. Lord Justice Fitzgibbon) had sustained that decision. This appeal was then brought.

Mr. Butt, Q.C., Mr. Boyd, Q.C. (of the Irish Bar), and Mr. Ram, appeared for the appellants.

Mr. Cohen, Q.C., and Mr. Burke (of the Irish Bar), were for the respondent.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR, remarking that an important point of law, whether a master who had his ship under the guidance of a licensed pilot, whom he was obliged by law to take on board, was not thereby absolved from liability for the management of his ship while the pilot was on board, had not been argued in this case, went through all the circumstances, and expressed his opinion that the master of the Ruby had not, in fact, been guilty of any personal negligence, such as would give rise to the defence of having been contributory to the mischief, and therefore moved to reverse the judgment of the Court below, and to remit the cause with a declaration that the plaintiff was entitled to damages.

LORDS BLACKBURN and WATSON concurred.

Judgment reversed, and cause remitted.

THE MANAGERS OF THE "METROPOLITAN ASYLUM DISTRICT," In re THE SMALL POX HOSPITAL AT HAMPSTEAD v. HILL AND OTHERS.

Nuisance created under Statutory Authority.

The appellant had under orders of the Poor Law Board (made under the authority of the Metropolitan Poor Act, 1867), erected, at first, temporary buildings, and afterwards a permanent building at Hampstead, for the reception of poor persons from certain unions in the metropolis, who were suffering from small-pox. The respondents were owners of property in the neighbourhood, and also residents there, and they joined as plaintiffs and complained that their houses and grounds had been injuriously affected by the erection of these buildings and the reception of the small-pox patients who passed close to their dwellings, and caused the air to become infected with noxious vapours. The respondents also alleged that the business of the management had not been carried on with proper skilfulness and care. The case was tried before Mr. Baron Pollock. The alleged negligence was entirely denied, and it was farther insisted that what had been done was authorized by Act of Parliament and therefore could not be treated as a nuisance—and also that the board of management could not be made responsible for obeying the orders of the Poor Law Board and the Local Government Board, which had, by statute, the power to issue these orders. The jurors found, first, that the hospital was a nuisance per se, and also that the work had not been carried on with proper care and skill. A verdict was therefore entered for the plaintiffs. A rule for a new trial was obtained, on the grounds that the verdict was not warranted in law, and that it was a verdict against the weight of evidence. The Queen's Bench Division had made absolute an order for a new trial. On appeal, the Court of Appeal directed that that order should be dismissed, unless the appellants paid the respondents the costs of the first trial within a given time. An appeal against this decision was presented to this House, and the question of competency with reference to the payment of costs was argued here, and the competency of the appeal established (5 App. Cas. 582). The appeal then stood on the question of law as to the right of the appellants under the statute to erect and maintain the asylum. It was argued in January last.

Sir J. Holker, Q.C., Mr. Willis, Q.C., Mr. C. H. Anderson, and Mr. Proudfoot, appeared for the appellants.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., Mr. Bompas, Q.C., and Mr. Finlay, were for the respondents.

THE LORD CHANCELLOR moved the judgment of the House. For the purposes of this case it must now be assumed, as a fact, that the hospital was in itself a nuisance, and could therefore only be protected by shewing that its erection, though a nuisance, was according to statutory authority. His Lordship went through the various sections of the Metropolitan Poor Act, 1867, and shewed that there was no authority of that kind to be found in the statute, and therefore he moved that the judgment of the Court of Appeal should be affirmed.

LORDS BLACKBURN and WATSON concurred.

The fixtures, machinery, and apparatus included in the so-called lease of the 26th of July, 1879, had never become the property of the debtors, and the trustee was not entitled to them. But he was entitled to the value of a horse and cart which was not included in the deed, and also to the proceeds of the distress which Whittaker had levied on chattels of the debtors, as the so-called rent was a fiction. In re ROYAL SOCIETY OF LONDON AND THOMPSON.

Right of Royal Society to sell Land without Consent of Charity Commissioners—Charitable Trusts Act, 1853 and 1855—Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874.

This was a summons under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, for a declaration that the Royal Society had power under their charters granted by King Charles II. in 1662, 1663, and 1669, to sell without the consent of the Charity Commissioners their estate at Acton.

The evidence shewed that the Royal Society originated in the voluntary association of a number of learned men during the time of the Commonwealth, and that it was subsequently incorporated as above mentioned. The charters enabled the society to purchase, hold, and grant lands, goods, and chattels, to sue and be sued, and they contained regulations by which the society could make its own laws so long as they were consistent with those of the realm. A royal licence was granted to the society by King George I., enabling the society to purchase, hold, and enjoy in mortmain lands of the yearly value of 1000*l.* The funds of the society consisted of contributions by its members, life compositions, capital funds and property, and rents, profits, and interest thereon, and of moneys bequeathed upon specific trusts. The society was voluntary, its members being elected, and they paid an annual sum or a life subscription. The public had no right of access to the premises of the society or its meetings, nor any supervision over its management. The estate of the society, situate at Acton, was purchased in the year 1732; the funds of the society in their own right having accumulated, they were so invested, i.e., a dwelling-house and forty-eight acres of land were bought for 1600*l.* The indenture of sale of the Acton estate to the society was a simple conveyance of the fee simple without a declaration of any trust. The society prior to the passing of the Charity Acts in 1853 and 1855, sold some parts of the estate, and no question was raised as to their power to do so. Recently the society sold the residue of the estate to Mr. Thompson for the sum of 32,250*l.*, and the question being raised whether the consent of the Charity Commissioners was necessary, it was arranged that the opinion of the Court should be taken under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874.

Hastings, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, were for the Royal Society.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Methold, for the purchaser.

During the arguments, ss. 9, 24, 26, 61, 62, and 66 of the Charitable Trusts Act, 1853; and ss. 29, 42, and 48 of the Amendment Act, 1855, were referred to.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the two statutes were to be construed together, and he was of opinion that the clauses were capable of being reconciled. Sect. 62 of the Act of 1853 declared exemptions from the operation of the Act of institutions or societies for religious or charitable purposes wholly maintained by voluntary contributions, or where maintained partly by subscriptions and partly from income arising from endowment the powers of the statute applied to such income only to the exclusion of the voluntary subscriptions. This land was purchased with moneys arising from voluntary subscriptions. He thought that the 29th section of the Statute of 1855 which directed that no sale should be made by a charity without consent of the commissioners, was not intended to interfere with such exemptions, and therefore he held that the consent of the Charity Commissioners was not required. The declaration would be, it having been proved to the satisfaction of the Court, that the land at Acton agreed to be sold by the Royal Society to Mr. Thompson was acquired by the society out of property which might be legally applied by such society as income, did not form an endowment within the meaning of the Charitable Trusts Acts of 1853 and 1855, and that the society had power to sell without the consent of the Charity Commissioners.

Taxation of Costs—"Affidavit of Increase."

This was an adjourned summons on behalf of the defendant that the taxation of the plaintiffs' bill of costs be reviewed. The action was to restrain the defendant from interfering with the free access of air and light to the plaintiffs' premises. Witnesses were examined, and the trial lasted four days in November, 1880. The Court decided that the plaintiffs had made out their right to the free access of air but not of light, and the defendant was ordered to pay the whole of the plaintiffs' costs of the action. The plaintiffs' costs were taxed by the master at 515*l.* 18*s.* 9*d.* after objections to some of the items had been carried in by the defendant. The only objection now raised was that the taxing master had refused to direct that the plaintiffs' solicitor should make an "affidavit of increase," according to the practice in the Common Law Division, to prove the payments of fees to counsel; the number of days the cause was in the paper; the names and descriptions of the witnesses; the distances of their residences from the place of trial, and the number of days they were absent from home; that all the witnesses were material and necessary to the case of the plaintiffs, and the several sums paid to them for conduct-money, loss of time, and expenses. The master stated as his reasons for refusing to require the affidavit, that in the Chancery Division it was the practice for the master to satisfy himself that the counsels' fees had been paid, and that the witnesses were material, and that they attended in Court on the days for which payments were claimed, and that all payments charged had been duly made. That in this case he had satisfied himself on all these points by proper evidence, and he saw no reason for departing from the practice by requiring an affidavit of increase.

Maidlow, for the defendant, urged that as the practice of examining witnesses in Court had been adopted in the Chancery Division, the practice of requiring an "affidavit of increase" adopted in taxing costs in the Common Law Division should also be introduced in the Chancery Division, and that the Court had power under the Additional Rules (Costs), 1875, r. 23, to adopt such practice.

North, Q.C., and Vernon Smith, for the plaintiffs.

FRY, J., considered that the reasons given by the taxing master shewed that sufficient evidence of the charges being correct was obtained by the master; and the only effect of the affidavit of increase would be to cause additional expense. He would lay down no rule as to the power of the taxing master to require such an affidavit if he thought fit, but in this case he should refuse the application with costs.

Breach of Contract—Damages—Concurrent Cause of Injury—Remoteness.

This was the further consideration of an action heard at the Welsh Assizes.

The plaintiff was a horse dealer, and the defendant, an innkeeper, had contracted to supply him with stabling for twelve horses sent by the plaintiff for sale, and to keep the horses for him. The horses were received by the defendant, but were subsequently turned out and had to be removed by night to other stabling, and some of the horses received injury. The plaintiff brought this action for damages for breach of contract, and pleaded that the injury done to the horses was the result of the breach of contract. The jury found that there had been a breach of contract, and gave 50*l.* damages in respect of the injury to the horses, and 25*l.* damages in respect of the loss the plaintiff was put to in finding other stables. The judge reserved for further consideration the question whether the damages in respect of the injury done to the horses were too remote.

McIntyre, Q.C., and Marshall, for the plaintiff, relied on Sneesby v. Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company (1 Q. B. D. 42).

B. T. Williams, Q.C., and Clement Higgins, for the defendant, were not called on.

FRY, J., said he was bound by the authority of the case of Hobbs v. London and South Western Railway Company (Law Rep. 10 Q. B. 111), a case in which the plaintiff's wife had been carried to Esher instead of Hampton Court, where she was booked to, late at night, and being obliged to walk home in the rain, suffered illness in consequence. There the Court held that the damage was too remote; probably, if there had not been this authority the other way, he should have held that the contracting party was liable for the consequence of his not carrying out his contract, but the reasons given by the judges and applied to the facts of that case were equally applicable to the facts of the present case, and he felt bound to follow it.

Bankruptcy—Date of Adjudication—Relation back to prior Act of Bankruptcy—Judgment Creditor—Garnishee Order—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 95, sub-s. 3.

Appeal from County Court at Bath.

The question was whether a creditor, who had attached a debt of his debtor who was afterwards adjudicated a bankrupt, was protected either by the 94th or the 95th section—the adjudication having been founded on an act of bankruptcy of which the creditor had no notice, committed before the date of the garnishee order.

On the 29th of June, 1880, the bankrupt, Curtoys, of the Walcot Brewery, Bath, mortgaged the property for 7500*l.* to King, who, on the 11th of August, 1880, entered into possession under an agreement enabling King to purchase the property at a valuation, and retain his debt out of the purchase-money. King elected to purchase, and it was agreed that the purchase should take effect as from the 11th of August. The balance remaining due from King to Curtoys, after deducting the mortgage debt, was 503*l.* 7*s.* 7*d.* On the 14th of August, Curtoys committed an act of bankruptcy. On the 1st of September, Tagart, a judgment creditor of Curtoys, having no knowledge of the act of bankruptcy, obtained a garnishee order attaching all debts due from King to Curtoys. The order was served on King on the 2nd of September, and on the 15th was made absolute. On the 25th Curtoys was adjudicated a bankrupt.

The trustee contended that the garnishee order was void as against him, on the grounds of the relation back of the commencement of the bankruptcy to the 14th of August, 1880, that the payment of the purchase-money was not absolute but conditional on completion of the purchase, and that the purchase-moneys were not bound by the order.

The County Court Judge having, by an order dated the 27th of January, 1881, decided that this transaction was a "dealing with" the bankrupt, under s. 94, sub-s. 3, of the Bankruptcy Act, and that the creditor Tagart was protected, the trustee appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the appellant.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and A. R. Poole, for the respondent.

THE CHIEF JUDGE, after observing that the point appeared to be new, and involved a difficult and nice question, said there could be no doubt that the debt due to the bankrupt was part of his "goods" within the 95th section, and no doubt that the garnishee order nisi, followed as it had been by the order absolute, was an "attachment against" the bankrupt's goods. Hence there had been an attachment against part of the bankrupt's goods, executed in good faith by seizure before the date of the adjudication, the portion of goods so seized being incapable of being sold. The case thus appeared to be entirely covered by the statute, and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

Case stated by justices under 42 & 43 Vict. c. 49.

The question was whether the appellant was properly convicted of not complying with an attendance order.

He was the father of a child, Amy Richardson, in respect of whom the following order was duly made under the Elementary Education Acts by a Court of summary jurisdiction:

"We do order the said Amy Richardson to attend the Board school being a certified efficient school at Belgrave . . . . every time the said school shall be open, and that the said defendant do see that this our order is complied with."

The appellant caused his child Amy to attend the school, but had not sent the school-fees payable by each child attending the school, and in consequence of such school-fees not having been sent with the child she was refused admission. The appellant had refused to attend before the School Board to obtain a remission of the school-fees, and had not attended nor obtained such remission.

He was summoned by the respondents on a charge that he unlawfully did not cause the child to attend school as required by the attendance order, and he was convicted and fined 5*s.*, or in default imprisonment for five days.

Hensman, for the appellant.

Douglas Walker, for the respondent, contended that by not sending the fees with the child, the appellant had not caused her to attend within the meaning of the attendance order and Education Acts.

THE COURT (Lindley and Lopes, JJ.) held that the appellant had complied with the order, and that there was no provision in the Acts or bye-laws requiring him to send the fees with the child.

Action for negligence. At the trial the evidence for the plaintiff was that he occupied premises above which were offices occupied by the defendant, a solicitor, and that on the 13th of August water ran down from the offices into the plaintiff's premises and did damage. It came from a lavatory in which a tap had been left open by a clerk. The judge refused to nonsuit, and one of the defendants being called on their behalf stated that the lavatory was in his room and was for his own use exclusively, and his orders were that no clerk should come into his, the defendant's, room after he had left, and that he had left the tap closed His clerk admitted that he had gone into the room to wash his hands, turned the tap and the water did not flow, and that he then went out. Verdict for the plaintiff, with leave to move.

A rule nisi having been granted to enter a nonsuit if the Court should be of opinion that there was no evidence of negligence, or that under the circumstances the defendants were not liable.

Poor-law—Liability of Married Woman to contribute to Support of Grandchild—Separate Estate—33 & 34 Vict. c. 93, s. 14.

In this case justices had made an order under 43 Eliz. c. 2, s. 6, 59 Geo. 3, c. 12, and 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 76, s. 56, for the appellant to contribute to the support of her grandchild.

It appeared that the appellant, a married woman, had separate estate, and was able, independently of her husband, to support the child. The question was whether this order was right.

Dugdale, for the respondent, admitted that before 33 & 34 Vict. c. 93, s. 14, there was authority that a married woman could not be made liable under 43 Eliz. c. 2, s. 6, to maintain her children, but the ground of the decision was that she had no property of her own, and s. 14 of 33 & 34 Vict. c. 93, having enacted that a married woman with separate property should have the same liability as a widow for the maintenance of her children, the ground of the former decision was removed, and there was no reason why the word "children" should not include grandchildren.

Bosanquet, for the appellant.

THE COURT (Field, and Manisty, JJ.) held that the appellant was not liable, for there was nothing to enlarge the ordinary meaning of the word "children" in 33 & 34 Vict. c. 93, s. 14, so as to make a woman, whose husband was alive, liable to contribute to the support of her grandchildren.

Bigamy—Conflicting Presumptions—Onus probandi—Presumption of duration of Life.

This was a case stated by Sir W. T. Charley, the Common Serjeant of the city of London. The prisoner was charged with committing bigamy in marrying one Edith Miller on the 23rd of September, 1880, his wife Charlotte Lavers, whom he married on the 7th of September, 1879, being then alive, and was upon such charge convicted before the learned Common Serjeant.

The above marriages were proved before him, and it was also proved that Charlotte Lavers was alive.

It was further proved that the prisoner had been previously, in June, 1868, convicted of bigamy, and that such conviction was for feloniously marrying one Ada Leslie on the 22nd of April, 1868, his wife Ellen Earle being then alive.

Upon these facts the learned Common Serjeant held, that the burthen of proof was on the prisoner to shew that Ellen Earle was alive when he married Charlotte Lavers, in which case Charlotte Lavers would not be his lawful wife, and the indictment would fail, the prisoner having by his act in marrying Charlotte Lavers furnished evidence that Ellen Earle was then dead.

Ribton, for the prisoner.

Poland, and Montague Williams, for the prosecution.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, L.C.J., Lindley, Lopes, Hawkins, and Bowen, JJ.) held that the conviction before the Common Serjeant must be quashed, as the question of whether Ellen Earle was alive at the time of the marriage with Charlotte Lavers depended upon conflicting presumptions, and should have been left to the jury, as judges of the facts; there being from the fact that Ellen Earle was alive at the time of the prisoner's conviction in June, 1868, a presumption that she was still alive; whilst the conduct of the prisoner in marrying Charlotte Lavers in September, 1879, afforded evidence against him of her being in September, 1879, dead.

CASTRO v. THE QUEEN. March 11.

Indictment—Two Counts—Cumulative Punishment.

Appeal against a judgment pronounced by the Court of Queen's Bench and afterwards affirmed by the Court of Appeal (5 Q. B. Div. 490). The appellant had been convicted on an indictment preferred against him for perjury alleged to have been committed by him on two separate occasions, one on a trial in the Court of Common Pleas, and the other in an affidavit in certain proceedings in Chancery. The indictment contained two counts stating the offences. A general verdict of guilty had been given, and the appellant was then sentenced to seven years penal servitude for the offence charged in the first count, and for the offence charged in the second count he was ordered to be kept in penal servitude for the farther term of seven years, to commence immediately upon the expiration of the term of penal servitude assigned in respect of the conviction upon the first count. The contention on behalf of the appellant was that this sentence was unwarranted by law; that the indictment was for one offence only, namely perjury; that that had a statutory punishment assigned to it; that that punishment could not be doubled merely because the one indictment charging one offence contained two counts; that if there were two offences there ought to have been two distinct charges, whereas there was only one, that consequently the different proceedings were inconsistent with each other and could not be sustained; and that without statutory authority the maximum of punishment awarded by law for a particular offence could not be doubled by repeating the award of that punishment to commence at a future day after the term of punishment specifically awarded by the law had been once exhausted.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. Atherley Jones (Mr. Hedderwick and Mr. Russell Spratt were with them), were heard for the appellant.

Sir Henry James, A.G., Sir Farrer Herschell, S.G., Mr. Poland, and Mr. A. L. Smith, appeared for the Crown.

THE LORDS (without calling on the counsel for the Crown to address the House) affirmed the judgment of the Courts below.

Bill of Exchange—Indorser and Indorsee—Circuity of Action.

Appeal of the defendant from the judgment of Bowen, J., after trial.

The son of the defendant was debtor to the plaintiffs and required credit to enable him to pay. It was agreed that the debtor should induce his mother, the defendant, to become indorser of bills of exchange in order that she might be surety for the debt. The plaintiffs drew bills and indorsed them to the defendant, who re-indorsed them to the plaintiffs. The present action was afterwards brought. The jury found that the defendant intended to make herself liable as surety, and Bowen, J., gave judgment for the plaintiffs.

Goodman, for the plaintiffs, was not called upon to argue.

McLeod Fullarton, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Brett, L.JJ.) affirmed the judgment of Bowen, J.

Debtor's Summons—Stay of Proceedings—Conditional Agreement to accept less than full Amount of Debt—Penalty—Waiver—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 7.

Neil being indebted to Burden under a judgment of the Divorce Division in the sum of 344*l.*, damages and costs, and Burden having issued a debtor's summons in respect of it, an agreement was come to that Neil should deliver to Burden a cheque for 50*l.* and three bills of exchange for 50*l.* each, payable respectively in three, six, and nine months, and that, on payment of the cheque and bills in due course, Burden should give a receipt in full for the damages and costs. In default of payment of any or either of them, Burden was to be at liberty to proceed for the full amount. The cheque and the first two bills were paid in due course; the third bill was, by an oversight of the acceptor, dishonoured at maturity, but it was paid by him to Burden a few days afterwards. Burden then issued a debtor's summons against Neil for 144*l.*, the balance of the damages and costs. Neil applied to the Court to dismiss the summons. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, as Chief Judge, stayed the proceedings on the summons, without security, pending the trial of an action to determine the validity of the debt.

A. Cock, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and Lewis Levy, for Neil.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Lush, L.JJ.) held that the equitable doctrine as to penalties did not apply, but that, on default in payment of the third bill at maturity, Burden was remitted to his original right, and that he had not waived that right by receiving payment of the third bill from the acceptor. The proceedings on the summons ought not to have been stayed, and the registrar's order must be discharged.

In re PARKER.

Act of Bankruptcy—Bill of Sale—Assignment of whole Property as Security for past Debt—Substantial Exception—Tenant Right—Further Advances.

Parker, a farmer, on the 13th of November, 1879, executed a bill of sale of all his property (except his tenant right under the agreement by virtue of which he occupied his farm) in favour of Dann, as security for a pre-existing debt of 667*l.*, and any further advances which Dann might make to him. The deed contained no covenant by Dann to make further advances, and there was no independent agreement by him to do so. But the deed contained a provision that it should not be a security for more than 1000*l.* principal moneys, and it was stamped so as to cover an advance of 1000*l.* Under the agreement between Parker and his landlord, Parker was tenant of the farm from year to year, and it was agreed that on quitting the farm the tenant should be paid for all fallows made in the last year (not exceeding one-fifth of the arable land), for all seeds duly sown by him, for dung made during the last year, for hay, fodder, and straw the produce of the last year, and for hop-poles, underwood, and tenants' fixtures, at a valuation. But the landlord was entitled to deduct from the valuation an allowance in respect of any breach or non-performance of the agreement by the tenant. In November, 1879, Dann made Parker further advances to the amount of 70*l.*, to enable him to pay weekly wages to his workmen. On the 31st of January, 1880, Parker was adjudicated a bankrupt. The Chief Judge declared the bill of sale void as against the trustee, as being an act of bankruptcy.

Robinson, Q.C., and Erskine Pollock, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the trustee, were not heard.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Lush, L.JJ.) held that the tenant right did not form a substantial exception. It was a mere contingent right of the tenant to receive a sum of money at the close of the tenancy, and would not enable him to raise money for the purpose of carrying on the business of the farm. The fact that further advances might have been in the contemplation of the parties would not validate the deed, there being no agreement entitling the grantor to require subsequent advances to be made. Ex parte Winder (1 Ch D. 290, 560) did not go to that extent. The appeal was accordingly dismissed.

Court of Bankruptcy—Jurisdiction—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 72.

Appeal by the trustee from decision of Chief Judge (Weekly Notes, 1880, p. 200).

E. Cooper Willis, and Warmington, for the appellant.

De Gex, Q.C., Winslow, Q.C., and Sidney Woolf, for Allen, the respondent.

THE COURT (James, Cotton, and Lush, L.JJ.) affirmed the decision of the Chief Judge, on the ground that, looking at the nature of the issues of fact which were raised, and especially at the questions of character which were involved, it was more proper that they should be tried in an action in the High Court, where a special jury could be had, than in the Bankruptcy Court. Though, as a general rule, cases in which the trustee in a bankruptcy claimed by a higher title than that of the bankrupt ought to be determined by the Court of Bankruptcy, it was not a hard and fast rule, but the Court had a discretion.

Costs—Reference, with Costs to abide "Event"—General Award in favour of Defendant upon Counterclaim—Reference back to find Specific Issues.

Appeal from order of Queen's Bench Division remitting an award to the arbitrator.

This was an action upon a builder's bill in which the plaintiff claimed 200*l.*, made up by the balance of a contract price of 1134*l.* 5*s.*, and other small items. The defendant raised various defences, and also counterclaimed 1200*l.* for penalties and bad work. The pleadings went on to surrejoinder, after which the action with all matters in difference was by a consent order referred to an arbitrator on the terms, inter alia, that the costs of the action and of the reference and award should "follow the 'event,' unless the arbitrator should otherwise order." The arbitrator found that 3*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.* was due to the defendant, and made no order as to costs. The Queen's Bench Division had made an order that the award be remitted to the arbitrator to find specifically the issues between the parties, and it was against this order that the defendant appealed.

Feb. 16. Henry Sutton, for the plaintiff.
Bigham, for the defendant.
March 11. THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Brett, L.JJ.) held, as the Court below had held, that inasmuch as the word "event" in the order of reference ought to be read distributively, the award ought to be referred back to the arbitrator to find specific issues, and dismissed the appeal.

Practice—Pleading—Action for Recovery of Land—Defendant in Possession of Land—Omission to deny Plaintiff's Title—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIX., r. 15.

Appeal of the defendant from the judgment of Stephen, J., at the trial.
This was an action for the recovery of land, and the plaintiff deduced his title to the land in dispute under a will containing numerous limitations, and made many years before action brought. The defendant pleaded under Order XIX., r. 15, that he was in possession of the land. The plaintiff joined issue. At the trial Stephen, J., held that the defendant under this form of pleading was not at liberty to question the plaintiff's title, and judgment was entered for the plaintiff.

Patent—Amended Particulars of Objection—Costs—Option given to Plaintiff to discontinue on Terms.

Aston, Q.C. (Davey, Q.C., and Stirling with him), moved on behalf of the defendants for leave to amend their particulars of objection to plaintiff's patent (the validity of which was the question in the action) by stating particulars of prior publication of the invention which they had only recently discovered.
Kay, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, for the plaintiff, submitted that the application, which, under 15 & 16 Vict. c. 83, s. 41, was in the discretion of the Court to grant upon such terms as it should seem fit, ought not, after the day of trial had been actually fixed, to be granted, except upon the terms of the plaintiffs having a given time within which to elect whether they would discontinue the action in consequence of the new case raised by the proposed amended objections, and payment by the defendants, in the event of discontinuance, of all costs incurred by the plaintiffs since delivery of the original particulars of objection (i.e. costs of summoning witnesses and preparing for trial) following the order made in Baird v. Moule's Patent Earth Closet Company (M.R., Feb. 3, 1876), which was adopted in Aveling v. McLaren (C. P. D., Dec. 23, 1880).
Aston, Q.C., submitted that all costs occasioned by the introduction of the new particulars of objection should be specially reserved, as in Penn v. Bibby (Law Rep. 1 Eq. 548, 551).
THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—The plaintiffs ought to have the opportunity of disclaiming any part of the patent, or discontinuing their action, if they think fit. The order in Baird v. Moule's Patent Earth Closet Company would be followed, and defendants must pay the costs of this application.

Forcible Entry—Damages—Injury to Furniture—5 Ric. 2, stat. 1, c. 8—Counterclaim—Costs.

The defendant, by his counterclaim, alleged that the plaintiffs had forcibly entered upon a house which he occupied as their tenant at will, and which they had given him notice to quit, and that they had expelled him from the house, and turned out his furniture, and had in so doing injured it. And the defendant claimed damages for the forcible entry and expulsion, and also for the injury to the furniture.
Cookson, Q.C., and E. S. Ford, for the plaintiffs.
Beaumont, for the defendant.
FRY, J., held, on the authority of Newton v. Harland, (1 Scott, N.S. 474; 1 Man. & Gr. 644), Pollen v. Brewer (7 C. B., N.S. 371), and Lows v. Telford (1 App. Cas. 414), that the defendant could recover no damages in respect of the forcible entry and eviction, inasmuch as the Statute of Richard 2 gives no civil remedy. But, that as the effect of the statute is to make the possession acquired forcibly an unlawful possession, even though acquired by the lawful owner, such a possession is no defence to an action founded on improper acts done by the defendant in the course of expelling the plaintiff, and therefore the defendant was entitled to damages for the injury to the furniture. As this was only a small part of the relief asked by the counterclaim, His Lordship said he should, instead of apportioning the costs, give the relief without costs.

Landlord and Tenant—Bankruptcy of Lessee after grant of Sub-lease—Disclaimer by Lessee's Trustee of Lessee's Interest in Premises—Ejectment by Lessor—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 23.

Statement of claim alleged as follows:—Plaintiffs by deed in 1870 demised a house to Jones for sixty-one years from 1868. Jones by deed in 1871, demised part of the house to Gardiner for twenty-one years from 1870. Gardiner afterwards by deed assigned his sub-lease in such part to the defendant who took possession thereof. In 1880, Jones liquidated, and his trustee under an order of the Court of Bankruptcy disclaimed the interest of Jones in the house. The defendant had notice of the intention to apply to the Court for leave to disclaim within a reasonable time before the order was made. The plaintiffs claimed possession of the premises assigned to defendant, and mesne profits, as from the date of the appointment of the trustee. Demurrer.

Bills of Sale, Unregistered and Registered, Priority of—41 & 42 Vict. c. 31, ss. 8, 10.

Appeal from the Devonshire County Court.

On the 4th of October, 1880, one Stanger, by bill of sale assigned his goods to the defendant, and on the 8th of November Stanger gave another bill of sale in respect of the goods to the plaintiff, who registered his bill of sale. On the 26th of November the defendant seized the goods under his bill of sale. On the 27th of November the plaintiff gave notice to the defendant that he claimed them, and afterwards brought an action for them in the County Court. The judge having given judgment for the defendant, a rule was granted to set aside the judgment, on the ground that the plaintiff as holder of a registered bill of sale had priority over the holder of a prior unregistered bill of sale.

A. Charles, Q.C., shewed cause, and contended that the provision in s. 10 of 41 & 42 Vict. c. 31 (Bills of Sale Act, 1878), that, "In case two or more bills of sale are given comprising in the whole or in part any of the same chattels, they shall have priority in the order of the date of their registration respectively as regards such chattels," applied only to registered bills of sale and only as against trustees in bankruptcy or for creditors, sheriff's officers, and execution creditors, the classes specified in s. 8.

R. S. Wright, in support of the rule, argued that the clause was not in terms limited to registered bills of sale, and was meant to have general application.

Cur. adv. vult.

THE COURT (Grove and Lindley, JJ.) held that the priority clause in s. 10 applied only to cases within s. 8, and that the defendant was entitled to judgment.

Rule discharged.

Q. B. Div. BEWICKE v. GRAHAM AND OTHERS. March 8.

Practice—Discovery—Production of Documents.

Appeal from chambers.

Under a discovery order in an action against indorsers of bills of exchange, the defendants and their clerk, Charles Granville, made an affidavit of documents and said, "We have in our possession or power certain documents numbered 101 to 110 inclusive which are tied up in a bundle marked with the letter A. and initialled by the deponent, Charles Glanville, the said documents relate solely to the case of the said defendants and not to the case of the plaintiff, nor do they tend to support it, and they do not to the best of our knowledge, information, and belief contain anything impeaching the case of the said defendants, wherefore we object to produce the same, and say they are privileged from production."

The plaintiff applied at chambers for an order for inspection of documents which was refused by Bowen, J.

Macrae moved to reverse this decision, and argued that as the defendants admitted the documents to be relevant, a mere oath that they related solely to the defendants' case and of a belief that they did not impeach it was not enough to protect them from production, and that there should be some statement of their nature so that the Court might judge whether the grounds for non-production were reasonable.

H. D. Greene, shewed cause.

THE COURT (Pollock, B., and Denman, J., Watkin Williams, J. diss.) held, on the authorities, that the refusal of the order for inspection was right.

Appeal dismissed.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL v. MITCHELL AND ANOTHER.

Succession Duty—Appointment by Donee of General Power—Predecessor Donor of General Power—Succession Duty Act, 1853 (16 & 17 Vict. c. 51), ss. 2, 4, 18—36 Geo. 3. c. 52, s. 18.

Information. J. Mitchell, by will in 1826, bequeathed trust funds to his sons and daughters for life, and after death amongst their children as they should appoint, and in default of children as they should appoint generally by deed. One of the testator's daughters married Baron Grothusen, and exercised her general power of appointment by deed-poll in July, 1859, whereby she appointed her share of the personalty, after the death of herself and her husband, to the children of her sister, Mrs. Jennison. The testator died 1835, and legacy duty at 1 per cent. was paid on the whole of his residuary estate, including the trust funds in question. Baron Grothusen died in 1864, and the Baroness died in 1867, never having had children.

Herschell, S.G., and W. W. Karslake, for the Crown, claimed succession duty at 3 per cent. upon the succession to Mrs. Jennison's children as derived from their aunt the Baroness, as predecessor within s. 2 of the Succession Duty Act, 1853.

Hemming, Q.C., and Hannen, for the defendants (trustees of the fund), contended, (1) that the succession was derived not from the donee of the general power of appointment, but from the donor, the testator, and that he was the predecessor within the meaning of s. 2, and the duty therefore was 1 per cent.: (2) that legacy duty at 1 per cent. having been paid under 36 Geo. 3, c. 52, s. 18, upon the whole absolute interest, no further duty was payable.

THE COURT (Grove and Lindley, JJ.) held, (1) following In re Barker (7 H. & N. 109; 30 L. J. (Ex.) 404, and Charlton v. Attorney-General (4 App. Cas. 427), that the donor and not the donee of the general power was the predecessor within s. 2, and the duty therefore 1 not 3 per cent.; and (2), that payment of the legacy duty had not discharged the defendants from the obligation to pay succession duty.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Q. B. Div. BEWICKE v. GRAHAM AND OTHERS. March 16.

Practice—Discovery and Inspection—Privilege—Description of Documents—Affidavit to be taken as true—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXXI., rr. 11, 12.

This was an appeal on the part of the plaintiff from the Divisional Court affirming an order of Bowen, J., which reversed a master's order for inspection of documents. The defendants in answer to an order for discovery of documents had made an affidavit in which they stated as follows: "We have in our possession or power certain documents numbered 101 to 110 inclusive, which are tied up in a bundle marked with the letter A, and initialled by the deponent, Charles Glanville; the said documents relate solely to the case of the said defendants, and not to the case of the plaintiff, nor do they tend to support it, and they do not, to the best of our knowledge, information, and belief, contain anything impeaching the case of the said defendants, wherefore we object to produce the same, and say that they are privileged from production." It was contended for the plaintiff that although, according to Taylor v. Batten, (4 Q. B. Div. 85) the documents were sufficiently described for identity, and the plaintiff was bound to take the affidavit as true, still the plaintiff had a right to inspect and see if the documents were such as to be privileged, and that what was stated in the affidavit was not sufficient to protect them.

C. C. Macrae, for the plaintiff, argued in support of the appeal.

Bayshawe, Q.C., appeared for the defendants but was not called upon.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Baggallay and Bramwell, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal, as, according to Taylor v. Batten, the description of the documents given in the affidavit must be taken to be true, and the Divisional Court had rightly exercised the discretion under Order XXXI., r. 11, in refusing the order.

Bankruptcy of Trader—Extent of Power of Creditors to authorize Trustee to carry on Business of Bankrupt—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 14, 20, 25.

Per JAMES, BRETT, and COTTON, L.JJ.:—The creditors of a bankrupt trader have no power under the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, to authorize the trustee to carry on the business of the bankrupt, except so far as may be necessary for the beneficial winding-up of the business.

The majority of the creditors cannot bind the minority to the carrying on of the business except for that purpose, and if the majority pass a resolution authorizing the trustee to carry on the business for any other purpose, the Court ought to interfere and to declare it ultrà vires.

Sureties—Contribution.

A surety has a right to call upon his co-surety for contribution when he has paid more than his proportion of the debt which is due from the principal debtor to the creditor, but not before.

One of two sureties for a customer of a bank having paid to the bank half the debt due by the customer to them, presented a bankruptcy petition against his co-surety, claiming as a debt from the co-surety a moiety of what he himself had paid to the bank. The co-surety had not been called upon by the bank to pay anything, but there was nothing to shew that they had released him.

Held by JAMES, BRETT, and COTTON, L.JJ., that the petitioner was not entitled to contribution, and that, there being no good petitioning creditor's debt, the petition could not be sustained.

Bill of Sale—Attestation by Solicitor being Grantee—Possession.

Appeal of the plaintiff from the judgment of Huddleston, B., at the trial.

The plaintiff was a solicitor and grantee of a bill of sale executed by one Johnson; the plaintiff attested the execution by Johnson. The plaintiff afterwards seized the goods; Johnson went away from Birmingham, where the goods were, to Brighton with his family; he afterwards returned, but he did not sleep in the house; he however came into the house as he pleased.

The question was whether the attestation of the bill of sale was sufficient within the Bills of Sale Act, 1878, and whether the goods were taken out of the apparent possession of Johnson.

J. S. Dugdale, for the plaintiff.

W. Graham, and Eustace Smith, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., Bramwell and Baggallay, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal. They were of opinion that the attestation was insufficient, and that the goods were in the apparent possession of Johnson.

Practice—Appeal—Interlocutory Order—Appeal from Order of Judge at Trial depriving successful Party of Costs—Jurisdiction of Divisional Court.

Appeal of the defendants from an order of the Exchequer Division as to costs of trial before Brett, L.J.

This was an action for injury to the female plaintiff through the defendants' negligence. The defendants paid 100*l.* into Court and the jury found a verdict for the plaintiffs for 5*l.* beyond the sum paid into Court. The learned judge thereupon gave judgment for the plaintiffs for 105*l.*, without costs. The defendants' counsel was present and would have applied for an order to deprive the plaintiffs of costs, if he had not been anticipated by the learned judge. The plaintiffs' counsel was also present and said nothing, but applied two days after to the judge to reconsider his decision as to costs, he however refused to alter it. The Exchequer Division afterwards ordered that the plaintiffs should have their costs. The present appeal was brought after the time had elapsed for appealing from an interlocutory order.

D. French for the plaintiffs, by way of preliminary objection, urged that the appeal being as to costs, it was interlocutory and was too late.

THE COURT were of opinion that the appeal was from an order of the Exchequer Division varying the judgment, and therefore from the judgment itself, and consequently it was not too late. It was not like an appeal from an order enforcing the judgment by execution, which might be interlocutory.

The case was then heard upon the merits.

D. French, for the plaintiffs.

Aspland (Gully, Q.C., with him), for the defendants.

THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., Bramwell and Baggallay, L.JJ.) gave judgment for the defendants and reversed the decision of the Exchequer Division. They were of opinion that the appeal being from the judgment, it ought to have been brought to the Court of Appeal in the first instance, and not to a Divisional Court.

Bill of Sale—Priority—Registered Bill of Sale—Unregistered Bill of Sale—Bills of Sale Act, 1878, s. 10.

Appeal of the plaintiff from the judgment of Bowen, J., after trial.

Croston, upon the 24th of January, 1879, executed a bill of sale upon goods in favour of the plaintiff. It was not attested or registered, as is required by the Bills of Sale Act, 1878. Upon the 21st of February, Croston signed an inventory of the same goods, falling within the definition of "bill of sale" in that statute. and subsequently a formal bill of sale, in favour of his father-in-law; the inventory and the bill of sale to Croston's father-in-law were both duly registered under the Bills of Sale Act, 1878. The defendant claimed title through the inventory and the last-named bill of sale.

Bowen, J., held that the inventory and the later bill of sale took priority over the earlier bill of sale, and gave judgment for the defendant.

Gully, Q.C., and C. Crompton, for the plaintiff.

Ambrose, Q.C., and Bigham, for the defendant, were not called upon.

Elton, Costelloe, and E. B. Cope, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) agreed with the conclusions of the Court below, that the decree of 1693 did not give the commoners any right to cut brakes, heather, or litter, and that no such right was shewn to have existed at that time. The Court, however, considered it to be shewn that the defendants and their predecessors in title had for more than sixty years cut brakes, heather, and litter, to be used on their tenement, without any permission from the lord, and had thus acquired, under the Prescription Act, a right to do so, and that they were not prevented from acquiring this right by the fact that they had claimed to take the brakes, heather, and litter under an alleged right which was not established.

GREENWAY AND OTHERS v. ATKINSON AND OTHERS.

Debtor and Creditor—Equitable Assignment.

Appeal of the defendant Atkinson from the judgment of Huddleston, B., at the trial.

Kirtley was a debtor to the plaintiffs and wanted credit. The plaintiffs declined to allow any time for payment without security. Kirtley had done work for the defendant Atkinson, and money was expected to be due in respect of it. Upon the 31st of July, 1879, Kirtley wrote out a document, whereby he "authorized" and "empowered" the defendant Atkinson to pay money due from him to the plaintiffs. Atkinson agreed to be bound by the document, and it was handed to the plaintiffs, who accordingly took bills of exchange from Kirtley. Kirtley afterwards revoked the document.

March 22. THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., Baggallay, and Bramwell, L.JJ.) held that the document was a good equitable assignment of the debt due to Kirtley from the defendant Atkinson, but they held that there must be an inquiry as to what was the amount of the debt.

Fiduciary Relation—Physician and Patient—Undue Influence.

Appeal of the plaintiffs from the judgment of Stephen, J., at the trial at Leeds.

The plaintiffs were executors of Mrs. Geldart, to whom the defendant was medical adviser. She made a gift to the defendant of a sum of 800*l.*, about one quarter of the property which she possessed. The case at a previous stage is noted Weekly Notes, 1880, p. 119. At the trial it was admitted that at the time of the gift no independent advice was given to Mrs. Geldart, that the defendant did not advise her to employ an independent solicitor, and that the relation of physician and patient then existed. The jury found that the defendant had not been guilty of any undue influence, and that after the relation of physician and patient had ceased, Mrs. Geldart intended to abide by the gift. Stephen, J., gave judgment for the defendant.

Will—Codicil—"Everything I am possessed of"—"I give and devise"—"Residuary Legatee"—No Real Estate at Date of Will or Codicil—After-acquired Real Estate—Intestacy as to Real Estate.

This was an application under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874.

A testatrix, by her will dated in 1854, gave as follows: "I commit to paper my wishes respecting the disposal of my property. Everything I am possessed of I leave to my . . . sister for her life, after her decease I give and devise as here annexed," and after giving certain legacies to her three nephews the will proceeded, "my two nephews, H. H. Methuen, and F. P. Methuen, I leave my executors and the latter residuary legatee after the demise of my sister."

The testatrix also made a codicil, but neither at the date of the will or codicil had she any real estate, but she afterwards acquired certain real estate, of which she died possessed.

Held, upon the objection of a purchaser of part of the real estate to complete, that the real estate did not pass to F. P. Methuen under the gift to him as "residuary legatee."

In re WILLIAMS.
WILLIAMS v. STRATTON.

Husband and Wife—Right of Representative of Husband to sue Representative of Wife.

The testator, John Williams, by his will dated the 7th of April, 1864, gave all his property to his wife, Florence Williams, for her life, and made her his sole executrix. In 1872, John Williams became insane, but was not found lunatic by inquisition. He became an inmate of a public lunatic asylum, where he died on the 16th of February, 1878. During his insanity, his wife Florence, without authority from him, took possession of his personal property to a considerable amount, sold the same and applied the proceeds to her own use. Florence Williams died on the 18th of April, 1878, without having proved her husband's will, and having by her own will appointed the defendants Henry Stratton and John Roch her executors. Administration to John Williams' estate, with his will annexed, was on the 22nd of September, 1880, granted to the plaintiff Henry Mansel Williams.

The statement of claim, delivered on the 14th of December, 1880, stated that the defendants had refused to furnish the plaintiff with any account of the property of the testator received by the testatrix during the testator's insanity; denied that the testatrix's estate was liable to make good to the testator's estate the moneys so received by her; and claimed such an account and payment.

The defendants demurred on the ground that as the testator and testatrix were husband and wife at the date when the alleged cause of action arose, no title to relief was disclosed by the statement of claim.

Church, for the demurrer, referred to Stephen's Bl. Comm. (8th Ed. ii. 259); Bac. Abr. Baron and Feme (G.),; Phillips v. Barnet (1 Q. B. D. 436).

Owen, for the plaintiff, was not called upon.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said this was a speaking demurrer; and, moreover, when the wife took possession of her husband's goods there was no change of ownership; they remained his goods, and his representative had a right to sue for them. It could not be argued that if she had been alive she would not have been liable to account for these goods. Possibly there had been no wrongful conversion, but the demurrer must be overruled.

V.-C. B. THOMPSON v. RINGER. March 17.

Vendor and Purchaser—Specific Performance—Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874 (37 & 38 Vict. c. 78).

Action by purchaser for specific performance of a contract to sell to him a leasehold house, and damages for delay in completing the contract and deterioration of the property; or alternatively, if defendant should be unable to perform the contract, damages for non-performance.

The contract was contained in letters between plaintiff and defendant's testator written in June, 1879.

Difficulties arose as to the title, and, in particular, whether the contract was for the sale of a lease or of an underlease of the property which was held for a term of which about sixty years were unexpired, and on the 25th of May, 1880, the plaintiff applied by summons at chambers, under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, for the purpose of enforcing compliance by defendant with plaintiff's requisitions.

By an order on this summons of the 8th of July, 1880, the judge, being of opinion that the contract was a contract for the sale of the lease and not of an underlease, and that plaintiff was entitled to compensation, the defendant was ordered to make such compensation, to be settled by the judge in case the parties differed, or to obtain an assignment of the outstanding reversion of ten days at his own expense, and to pay the costs of the application.

On the 30th of August, 1880, the plaintiff commenced his action for specific performance, and on the 1st of November delivered his statement of claim. The defendant on the 1st of December delivered his statement of defence and counterclaim, by which he claimed specific performance of the contract and damages for the delay caused by the plaintiff's unfounded demands.

The main question was, whether the plaintiff after taking out a summons under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, was entitled to bring an action for specific performance of the contract, and damages.

Millar, Q.C., and Alexander, for the plaintiff.

Higgins, Q.C., and F. Ivoare Colt, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that plaintiff, after availing himself of the provisions of the Vendor and Purchaser Act, which was intended to afford a more cheap and speedy tribunal for the determination of questions between vendor and purchaser not affecting the existence or validity of the contract, was not entitled to bring an action for specific performance. The order made on the summons exhausted every subject which the purchaser (the plaintiff) thought fit to include in his summons, and disposed of every question. If the vendor did not comply with the order, the purchaser could have applied in Chambers to get it enforced. The action must be dismissed, without prejudice to any proceedings plaintiff might adopt under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874.

RUDOW v. GREAT BRITAIN MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY.

Unregistered Company — Winding-up — Discharge of Winding-up Order — Restraint of Proceedings against Company refused — Companies Act, 1862, ss. 85, 119, 199, 201, 204.

Plaintiff, a creditor of an unregistered assurance company, recovered judgment in an action against the company. Winding-up petitions were, in November, 1880, presented against the company; and on the 19th of November a winding-up order was made by Vice-Chancellor Hall, but the order was on the 24th of November discharged by the Court of Appeal, and the petitions were not dismissed, but were ordered to stand over, in order to ascertain the wishes of the policy holders.

On the 3rd of December an order was made in the action, that the plaintiff should pay the costs of a co-defendant, Würth, and recover them over with some subsequent costs against the defendants, the company.

The plaintiff having paid the co-defendant's costs, and failed to obtain payment from the defendants, the company, issued execution.

The defendants, the company, moved to stay execution.

Hemming, Q.C., and Speed, for the motion.

Marten, Q.C., and Pugh, for the plaintiff, objected that there was no jurisdiction:—The only section under which the Court can proceed is the 85th section; but that section applies only to a company "under this Act," and an unregistered company which has not been wound up is, by the 204th section, not to "be deemed a company under this Act."

Hemming, contrà:—The 85th section is a general regulation intended to apply to all cases, applicable at any time after the presentation of a petition for winding up a company (s. 119). The 201st section is cumulative (see s. 204), and not restrictive.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said the objection was irresistible, and refused the motion with costs.

Settled Estate — Leases and Sales of Settled Estates Act, 1877 (40 & 41 Vict. c. 18).

At the death, on the 23rd of July, 1850, of a testator, his estate was, under his marriage settlement dated in 1841, limited to trustees for a term of 600 years upon trust to secure a jointure for his widow, and also for a term of 700 years to secure portions for younger children. The estate was, by the will, dated in 1846, devised to the testator's first and other sons in tail male, and in default of issue male of his body (which happened), to trustees upon trust "as soon as conveniently might be after his decease in the absolute discretion of his said trustees" to sell, and hold the proceeds in trust for his daughters, their interests to be vested at 21, with benefit of survivorship in the event of any one or more of them dying under the age of 21 without having been married.

The testator left three children, daughters. All were under age and unmarried at his death, but all had since attained 21, and were now married. One was married under age, and the share of each was settled. The widow had since died, and the term of 600 years was now satisfied. The petition was for power to grant mining leases, and the only question was, whether this was a settled estate.

Herton Smith, Q.C., and Warmington, for the petitioners, cited Collett v. Collett (Law Rep. 2 Eq. 203) and prior cases there referred to.

Marten, Q.C., and B. B. Rogers, for the respondents, did not oppose.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he had no doubt this was a settled estate within the meaning of the Act, and made an order as prayed.

Practice — Decree — Indemnity — Motion raising a Question not left to be decided in the Action, refused — Independent Action necessary.

The plaintiff and defendant carried on business in partnership, and they entered into a contract with a builder under which certain works were done, and for which the plaintiff had paid 35*l.* on account. By the decree made in February, 1880, dissolving the partnership and directing accounts to be taken, it was by consent ordered that the contract should be transferred, by assignment, to the defendant, and that the defendant should pay the plaintiff the sum of 35*l.*, and give a bond of indemnity to him in respect of the contract. Neither a deed of transfer nor a bond of indemnity had been executed, but the defendant had paid the 35*l.* to the plaintiff.

The plaintiff had been required to pay a further sum of 39*l.* 2*s.* 2*d.* to the builder.

Eastwick, for the plaintiff, moved for an order in the action that the defendant should pay that sum to him.

Oswald, for the defendant, objected to the motion, and contended that the order made should be carried out, and that the plaintiff should not have made the payment.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the Court intended that the contract should be assigned to the defendant, and he was by deed to indemnify the plaintiff in respect of his liability. The order had not been carried out either as regarded the assignment or the deed of indemnity. The plaintiff had made a payment which the defendant now said he should have resisted; that he could have successfully resisted the builder's demand, or part of it. The Court was asked to try the question in respect of that payment, but he could not deal with it upon motion in this action. The proper documents should have been executed, and then the parties could have sought to enforce their rights under them by an independent action. The motion must be refused with costs.

HINSLEY v. ICKERINGILL.

Will—Gift of Legacy for Life with Power of Appointment—Residuary Gift—Appointment—Lapse—Next-of-kin of Donee of Power entitled.

M. I. who died in July, 1860, by his will made in that month devised his real estate to his son M. I. absolutely, and gave him 770*l.* upon trust to invest, as therein mentioned, and to pay the income unto and for the separate use of his daughter A. I. for life, and after her decease upon trust to pay the 770*l.* and the income unto and for the use of such persons as his said daughter, whether covert or sole, should by deed or will appoint, and in default of appointment upon trust for his son M. I. for his own benefit. The testator gave his residuary personal estate to his son, M. I., and appointed him sole executor. The 770*l.* was set apart to meet the legacy, and invested on mortgages, and the interest was paid to A. I. until her death, in February, 1880.

A. I., by will made in June, 1866, gave and bequeathed all her money, and securities for money, and all other her personal estate, and effects, and property, whatsoever, and wheresoever, and all her real estate, if any, unto her two sisters, M. H. and L. C., their heirs, executors, &c., in the proportion of one equal third part of all her said real and personal property, and effects, unto her said sister M. H. absolutely, and two equal third parts of all her said real and personal property, and effects, unto her said sister L. C. absolutely. She appointed her said sister, L. C., sole executrix of her will, and she charged her said property and effects with the payment of his debts, and funeral and testamentary expenses.

L. C. died in October, 1868.

Letters of administration with the will of A. I. annexed were in June, 1880, granted to M. H. The 770*l.* had been paid by the mortgagors. One sum had been paid into Court, and the other was in the hands of M. I. A. I. at the time of her death was not seised of any real estate, and she was not possessed of any personal estate as distinguished from the 770*l.*

M. I. alleged that by reason of the death of L. C. in the lifetime of A. I., the will of A. I. was inoperative as an appointment of the two-thirds, and that, subject to the payment thereout of a due proportion of her debts, funeral and testamentary expenses, he was entitled thereto under the will of his father; but M. H. and others contended that the two-thirds belonged to A. I.'s next-of-kin.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Wiglesworth, for the plaintiff.

R. Norton, for a defendant in the same interest.

Eddis, Q.C., and Bunting, for the defendant M. I., the son of the testator.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that A. Appointment of Trustees—Two Sets of Trustees.

This was an action to administer the estate of a testator who devised his real property to three different persons and their families. Disputes arose between the parties, and an application was made for the appointment of a receiver, but, by arrangement, it was now proposed to appoint two sets of trustees in the place of the trustees appointed by the will; that is to say, two trustees of the property devised to one family and two other trustees of the property given to the other two families, and the Court was asked to sanction this appointment.

Winding-up—Rent payable—Landlord's Power to distrain.

This was a summons in the winding-up of the company by the landlord of one of the collieries worked by the company for leave to distrain for rent. The petition for winding-up was presented on the 7th of October, 1880, and the order was made on the 5th of November. A half-year's rent amounting to 125*l.* became due on the 3rd of November, and on the 6th of December, the landlord, under a power to distrain upon non-payment of rent for thirty days, gave notice to the liquidator under whose direction the colliery was still being worked, that either he must pay the rent in full or discontinue the working. The liquidator neither paid the rent nor stopped the working.

Popham, in support of the summons.

Higgins, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, for the liquidator.

FRY, J., considered that the liquidator by going on with the working after the notice served upon him by the landlord, had elected to continue in possession of the property, and that could only be upon the conditions of the lease, one of which was payment of the rent. The landlord was therefore entitled to the full value of his rent in priority to the other creditors and must be paid out of the first assets of the company.

*Will—*1 Vict. c. 26, s. 15*—Devisee marrying attesting Witness after Date of Will—Validity of Devise.*

Action to recover possession of a house devised by Jeremiah Bestwick to his niece, who subsequently married the plaintiff.

Defence. That the plaintiff was one of the witnesses to the execution of the testator's will, and that on the day of the testator's death such marriage was still subsisting. Demurrer.

Graham (Goddard with him), in support of the demurrer, argued that s. 15 of the Wills Act, 1 Vict. c. 26, which enacts that if any person shall attest the attestation of a will to whom or to whose wife or husband any beneficial devise shall be thereby given, such devise shall be void, did not affect the title of the plaintiff, as at the date of the attestation he was not married to the devisee.

J. F. B. Firth, for the defendant.

MATHEW, J., held that as the plaintiff took no benefit under the will at the date of the attestation, s. 15 did not apply, and the devise was good.

Personal and Real Property—Privileges stipulated for in Conveyance of Heritable Subjects—Jus quæsitum tertio—Theatre.

In 1858, trustees acting for the shareholders or rentallers of the Queen's Theatre and Opera House, Edinburgh, granted a disposition to one J. Brown, by which they sold to him this theatre, with the ground on which it stood, subject to the real burden of a perpetual annuity of 2*l.* to each shareholder or rentaller of the said theatre, and to the successors or assignees of the said shareholders or rentallers; and it was further provided that each of the said shareholders or rentallers, or the assignee or successor of such, should at all times be entitled to free admission to the audience department of the said theatre, other than the present private boxes; also declaring that the said J. Brown should not convert the said theatre to any other use or purpose; and that he should keep it open for performances during at least six months of the year. There was no stipulation as to insurance, or the re-building of the theatre in case of destruction, by the disponee. In 1865 the theatre was entirely destroyed by fire; and was re-erected under another name. It was again burnt down in 1875, and again rebuilt. From 1865 to 1879 the theatre was twice sold, but in each case the conveyance was made with and under the real burden of payment of the annuities, and reserved to the shareholders or rentallers the privileges to which they were entitled under the original disposition, and the privilege of free admission was, as a matter of fact, enjoyed by them for fourteen years after the destruction of the first theatre.

In 1879, disputes having arisen as to the validity of the right to free admission, the trustees, the appellants, acting for the shareholders or rentallers, raised this action against the respondents, the proprietors and the lessees of the present theatre, claiming that they were entitled, under the disposition of 1858 and the succeeding conveyances, to the same privilege of free admission in the new theatre which they had in the old.

The Second Division of the Court of Session, recalling the interlocutor of the Lord Ordinary (Lord Curriehill), (dissenting, Lord Ormidale) held that the privileges conferred on the shareholders or rentallers by the original disposition,—other than the annuities, which were constituted a real burden,—rested only on the personal obligation of the original disponee, and were confined to the theatre in existence at the date of the disposition to him; and that the subsequent deeds to which they were not parties were not intended to confer and did not confer on them any new right (Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series, vol vii. p. 997; 17 Scot. Law Rep. 678).

On appeal,

J. B. Balfour, S.G. (Scotland), and Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., were heard for the appellants.

SIR G. ELLIOT AND ANOTHER v. THE NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE RAILWAY COMPANY.

Conveyances—Mines—Roads.

Appeal against a decision of the Appeal Court which had reversed a previous decision of the Queen's Bench Division. The appellants were the tenants of certain minerals, under lands which were now in possession of the company. The right to these minerals had been reserved by the grantor, and there were in the deeds of conveyance certain reservations in favour of the tenants of the mines, as to rights of way, and the use of roads and tramways, which had become the subject of dispute between the parties. The case had been referred to an arbitrator, who had found a special case assessing the amount of compensation in alternative forms and amounts, and the question for the House was whether the constructions put on the words of the particular deeds as to reserved rights and compensations were or were not correct.

Sir Farrer Herschell, S.G., Mr. Webster, Q.C., and Mr. H. Sutton, appeared for the appellants.

Mr. Brown, Q.C., Sir John Holker, Q.C., and Mr. W. Graham, were for the respondents, but were not called on to address the House.

Fraudulent Transfer of Goods—Fraudulent Preference—Sale of Goods to co-Trustee and Application of Purchase-money to make good Breach of Trust—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 6, 92.

Appeal from decision of Chief Judge (Weekly Notes, 1880, p. 177).

Within three months before the filing of a liquidation petition the debtor, who was one of the trustees of a will, urged his co-trustee to buy some wool of him, telling him that he was in difficulties, that he had misappropriated more than 2000*l.* of the trust money, and that he wanted to replace it. The co-trustee reluctantly consented to buy the wool, and paid 2050*l.* for it to the debtor, who immediately, with the knowledge of the co-trustee, paid it to the credit of the trust estate with the bank at which an account was kept by the trustees.

Held (by JAMES, BRETT and COTTON, L.JJ.), that this transaction did not amount either to a fraudulent preference within s. 92, or to a fraudulent transfer of property within s. 6 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, and that neither the co-trustee nor the trust estate could be compelled to refund the money.

Decision of Chief Judge affirmed.

An actual sale of goods for money is not a fraudulent transfer within s. 6, because the vendor intends to use the purchase-money in making a voluntary payment and the purchaser knows of that intention.

A fraudulent preference is not an act of bankruptcy.

If a debtor, on the eve of bankruptcy voluntarily makes good trust money which he has misappropriated, this is not a fraudulent preference of the trust estate.

Bankruptcy—Attaching "Salary or Income" of Bankrupt—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 90.

Butt, Q.C., and Clarkson, Q.C., for the appellants.
Milward, Q.C., and Aspinall, for the respondents.
THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) said the question depended upon the true construction of the words used in the charterparty. The charterers were entitled to order the ship to go to a "safe port," but it must be a port into which she could go loaded, and one in which from the moment she went into it loaded, to the time she came out, she could always lay and discharge afloat. It was conceded on the evidence that Lowestoft Harbour was not a port in which vessels drawing the draught of water of the Alhambra could always lie and discharge afloat when loaded. It was said that a portion of her cargo could have been discharged with reasonable safety in Lowestoft Roads, into tenders, and it was alleged that it was the custom to do so; but in their Lordships' opinion the master was not bound to do anything of the kind. The appeal must be allowed with costs.

Incorporated Company—Projected new Company—Similarity of Name—Injunction quia timet.

This was an appeal from a decision of Jessel, M.R.
The action was instituted on behalf of the Universal Life Assurance Association, which had been incorporated by Act of Parliament in 1834, and was a very successful undertaking, against the promoters of a new company, in course of formation under the Companies Act, 1862, and which it was stated in the advertisements and published prospectuses was intended to be called the "Universe Life Assurance Association, Limited." As soon as the writ had been issued the plaintiff company moved for an injunction to restrain the defendants from registering their company under the proposed name, and from carrying on business under it, on the ground that there was such similarity between the two names that it was calculated to deceive the public and would be injurious to the plaintiff company.

Jessel, M.R., dismissed the motion, on the ground that, if based on the 20th section of the Companies Act, 1862, it was misconceived, as only companies registered under that Act could apply under that section; and, if based on the general law, it was premature, as no intention to deceive could be proved until the new company was actually carrying on business.

The plaintiff company appealed. On the appeal further evidence of actuaries was adduced, which went to shew that if the new company was registered with the proposed name, injury would most probably result to the plaintiff company.

Chitty, Q.C., and H. Walters Horne, for the appellants.

Roxburgh, Q.C., and Bond Coxe, for the respondents.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) were unable to agree with the view the Master of the Rolls had taken of the case. The application was in the nature of a bill quia timet, and was to prevent something being done under the Companies Act, but the application was not made under that Act. The defendants were threatening and intending to register a company with a name very similar to that of the plaintiffs', and to carry on in London and elsewhere all the ordinary business of a life assurance society. It was clear that there was such similarity between the two names as would lead to the two associations being confounded with each other, and the evidence shewed that nothing was more calculated to injure an existing society as a new one with a name so similar as to be mistaken for it. Under its general jurisdiction the Court had a right to interfere and prevent such an injury being done. The appeal must be allowed with costs.

This account having been taken an order was made for payment to the mortgagees of what was due to them, and subsequently an order was made for payment of the balance of the purchase-money to Jones and an order was made for the board to pay costs according to the Act. Costs—Taxation—Party and Party—Solicitor and Client—Attorneys and Solicitors Act (6 & 7 Vict. c. 73), s. 38.

A creditors' petition to wind up a company having been withdrawn on payment of the debt, the solicitors for the company undertook by letter, with the petitioning creditor's solicitors, "to pay all proper costs and charges incident to an recoverable under such petition; such costs, in case of difference, to be taxed."

The amount of the costs not being agreed upon, the company obtained ex parte an order to tax under the third party clause (sec. 38) of the Attorneys and Solicitors Act (6 & 7 Vict. c. 73), and served it on the solicitors of the petitioning creditors.

Held, on motion to discharge the order, that the undertaking given by the solicitors of the company was a personal undertaking to pay the costs, such costs being party and party costs; that the 38th section of the Attorneys and Solicitors Act had reference only to the taxation of costs as between solicitor and client, and that therefore the order was irregular, and must be discharged, with costs to be paid by the company.

Re Hartley (30 Beav. 620) considered and explained.

V.-C. B. VICKERS v. STEVENS. March 26.

Practice—Transfer from Equity Side of Lord Mayor's Court—20 & 21 Vict. c. clvii.

Motion on behalf of defendants, La Conception Gold Mining Company, for removal of this action to the Chancery Division from the equity side of the Mayor's Court.

Plaintiff Vickers, by his action in the Mayor's Court, sought to enforce an equitable assignment of moneys which defendant Stevens was entitled to receive from defendant company, of which he was the promoter, and restrain the company from paying over such moneys to Stevens.

The assignment, which was contained in a letter from Stevens to Vickers of January, 1881, was made in consideration of Vickers undertaking to expend 800*l.* in advertising the company, and making an immediate advance to Stevens for the purpose of preliminary expenses.

The plaintiff had obtained an injunction in the Mayor's Court.

Higgins, Q.C., and Grosvenor Wood, in support of the motion:—(1.) This case involves questions between Stevens and the company which cannot be satisfactorily determined in the Mayor's Court.

(2.) The jurisdiction of the Mayor's Court to deal with the case as between Stevens and defendant company is not shewn on the face of the proceedings.

(3.) The proceedings in the Mayor's Court are an evasion of the decisions as to garnishees upon the Mayor's Court Procedure Act, 1857.

(4.) It is doubtful whether the company can be sued in the Mayor's Court.

B. Eyre, for the plaintiff, and C. H. Turner, for Stevens, opposed the motion.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, founding his decision upon the Mayor's Court Procedure Act, 1857 (20 & 21 Vict. c. clvii.), and Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVI., was satisfied that a state of circumstances was presented in which it was fit that the proceedings should be removed into this Court, where all questions could be fully and fairly discussed. He therefore, without the slightest hesitation, made the order for the removal of the whole proceedings into this Court (in the terms of the order, Seton, 4th ed. p. 327, Form 1).

NOTE.—On the preceding day the Vice-Chancellor had declined to make the order upon an ex parte application.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Tucker, for the husband of the daughter, contended that as there was no guardian when the marriage took place, the condition was inoperative, and she became entitled to the money.

In re KING.

Debtor's Summons—Liquidated Demand—Equitable Mortgage—Interest—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 6.

Upon an advance in April, 1879, of 1000*l.* by Furber the appellant to King, the title deeds of King's property were deposited with Furber, and an agreement was executed that the deeds should be held as an equitable security for payment in July, 1879, of the 1000*l.* with interest at the rate of 7½ per cent. per annum, and that King should execute to Furber a legal mortgage of the property, with such power of sale and other powers as Furber might require for further securing payment of the money which should then be owing on the security of the agreement, "with interest for the same after the rate aforesaid." Power was also given to Furber to sell the property, and out of the proceeds to retain all expenses and the money advanced.

In December, 1880, Furber took out a debtor's summons against King, which was dismissed by the Wandsworth County Court Registrar on the ground that there was no liability for interest under the agreement after July, 1879, and accordingly no sufficient liquidated demand.

Attenborough, for the appellant.

Yate Lee, for the respondent.

THE CHIEF JUDGE (discharging the order of the Wandsworth County Court) held that the agreement of April, 1879, amounted to a distinct contract that if the principal was not repaid in July, 1879, the deposit was to be converted into a legal mortgage with a covenant for payment of interest "at the rate aforesaid," i.e. 7½ per cent. While the principal remained unpaid interest continued to be paid at that rate, and accordingly there was a liquidated demand of sufficient amount to support the debtor's summons.

Pledge—"Incoming Cargo."

Dubeux being, in November 1880, indebted to the appellants, Gleim & Co., applied to them for a further advance, and by letter of 29th November engaged "to let you have a letter of lien on A. B. Pedreira's incoming cargo to the extent of 2500*l.* to cover same, and any balance in your favour in account current."

Dubeux, to whom, in the course of business, Pedreira & Co., (merchants at Loanda) were then indebted to the extent of 2700*l.*, stopped payment on the 6th December, and on the same day, at Gleim's request, wrote to Pedreira & Co. to send their goods to Gleim & Co.

On the 21st January, 1881, Dubeux filed a liquidation petition under which Banner was appointed receiver. On the 24th January bills of lading for a cargo of palm oil, shipped by Pedreira & Co. on the 4th December, 1880, and consigned to Dubeaux, were received by Banner, and on the same day the cargo arrived at Liverpool.

The cargo was claimed by Gleim & Co. by virtue of the letter of the 29th November, 1880, but the judge of the Liverpool County Court being of opinion that the letter of the 29th November did not extend to future shipped cargo, dismissed their claim.

Winslow, Q.C., and Finlay Knight, for the appellants, Gleim & Co.

F. Thompson, and Kennedy, for the respondent, the trustee in liquidation. 1. The letter of the 29th November did not extend to cargo which might be shipped at any time after the date of that letter. 2. Dubeux being a mere factor for Pedreira & Co. had no power to transfer the property in these goods before they came into his possession.

THE CHIEF JUDGE held that the argument as to the right of a factor to pledge goods before they came into his possession had no application. The letter of 29th November, 1880, was an assignment by Dubeux of a debt from Pedreira, which was to be paid, not in money, but in goods consigned to him; and the assignment was not of any cargo then afloat in a particular ship, but of the whole quantity of consignments sent by Pedreira & Co., in payment of their debt.

Appeal allowed with costs.

Poor Law—Settlement—Abolition of derivative Settlements—The Divided Parishes and Poor Law Amendment Act, 1876 (39 & 40 Vict. c. 61). s. 35.

Case stated by the Essex Sessions on appeal from an order adjudging the last legal settlement of a pauper and her four legitimate children, aged respectively, 12, 8, 5, and 4, to be in the parish of Sutton Valence in the Hollingbourn Union, and ordering their removal from the respondent union to the appellant union. The father of the pauper's husband was born in the parish of Sutton Valence; neither he nor the pauper's husband, who died in 1875, acquired any settlement in his own right. It was admitted that the pauper was legally settled in the parish of Sutton Valence.

The sessions affirmed the order. The respondents affirmed and the appellants denied that the children being under the age of 16 and resident with their widowed mother followed the settlement of their widowed mother, and were removable with her to the parish of such settlement.

Philbrick, Q.C., and Woollett, for the respondents.

Kingsford, for the appellants.

THE COURT (Lindley, and Mathew, JJ.) held that the case fell within the first and not within the last clause of s. 35 of 39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, although it could not be shewn what settlement the children derived from their widowed mother without inquiring into her derivative settlement.

Order affirmed.

Poor Law—Settlement—Parish—Union—The Divided Parishes and Poor Law Amendment Act, 1876 (39 & 40 Vict. c. 61), ss. 34, 44.

Case stated by the Essex Sessions.

A pauper resided in the Basford Union for upwards of three years, in such manner and under such circumstances as would, in accordance with the several statutes in that behalf, render her irremovable. The residence was made up of a continuous residence of two years and five months in the parish of Bulwell, and a continuous residence of one year and eight months in the parish of Basford, both parishes being within the Basford Union.

The sessions confirmed an order of removal from the respondent union to the appellant union, on the ground that the pauper's last legal settlement was in the parish of Framlingham, in the appellant union, where she was born.

Philbrick, Q.C., and Woollett, for the respondents.

H. Tindal Atkinson, for the appellants, contended that "parish" in 39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, s. 34, included "union," and referred to s. 44, and to 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 76, s. 109; 9 & 10 Vict. c. 66, s. 1, 5; and 28 & 29 Vict. c. 79, s. 8.

THE COURT (Lindley, and Mathew, JJ.) held that "parish" in 39 & 40 Vict. c. 61, s. 34, meant parish only and not union, and that the residence in the parishes of Bulwell and Basford did not constitute a settlement within s. 34.

The Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London v. The London Joint Stock Bank.

Foreign Attachment—Corporation Aggregate.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal, which had confirmed a previous decision of the Common Pleas.

No. 12.—1881.

One Sarah Griesell filed a plaint in the Lord Mayor's Court against one Thomas Griesell, and process of attachment issued against the property of the said T. Griesell, alleged to be in the possession of the London Joint Stock Bank. This property did not consist of any definite goods, nor of any specific moneys which could be identified, but of a credit of Thomas Griesell with the Banking Company, which constituted a debt of that company owing to him. The company declared in prohibition, alleging that the company was a corporation aggregate, and so not liable to the process of foreign attachment; and the defendants in prohibition (the present appellants) put in certain pleas, in which the processes of the Court, as stated in the old records, were set forth, and Thomas Griesell was alleged to have been summoned and made default, and to have been called in Court and to have made default, and the various allegations of summoning and making default were put on the record, in order to shew how the jurisdiction of the Mayor's Court had arisen in the case. These allegations described what ought to have been done, if the formal processes of the Court had been exactly followed, but most of them were mere formal allegations, which had no real foundation in fact.

The pleas had been demurred to, and the Common Pleas Division had held that the jurisdiction of the Court, even if sustainable in itself, as matter of law, had not been properly founded in this case, as the formal and necessary course of proceeding had not, in fact, been regularly pursued, and therefore had not become applicable, and judgment was entered for the plaintiff in prohibition (the Banking Company). That judgment had, on appeal, been affirmed, the Court of Appeal being farther of opinion that foreign attachment could not be employed against a corporation aggregate. This appeal was then brought.

Sir H. James, A.G., Mr. Webster, Q.C., and Mr. R. S. Wright, were for the appellants.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. W. G. Harrison, Q.C., and Mr. Kemp, Q.C., were for the respondents.

The Lords, without in any degree impugning the validity of the custom itself, thought that the processes by which it was to be enforced shewed that it was inapplicable to a corporation aggregate. They therefore affirmed the judgment of the Court of Appeal.

In re BRITISH SEAMLESS PAPER BOX COMPANY.

Company—Directors—Fiduciary Relation—Company intended to be worked as a Private Partnership.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls. In February, 1875, an agreement was come to between three American gentlemen, who were the owners of a patent for making seamless paper boxes, to sell the patent to a company which it was proposed to form for 32,000*l.*, which might be discharged by an allotment of shares to that nominal amount in the new company.

The new company was registered in March, 1875, with a capital of 50,000*l.*, in shares of 100*l.* each; and the contract for the purchase of the patent was mentioned in the memorandum and articles of association. The first directors were the three Americans, Ransome, who had advanced money for preliminary expenses, and three gentlemen named Stevens who had also advanced money and given services towards the establishment of the company. These seven gentlemen and Mr. Tindell, the solicitor and secretary of the company, signed the articles for one share each, and were, until July, 1876, the only members of the company.

On the 14th of April, 1875, the directors allotted 320 fully paid-up shares to the vendors of the patent, who at the same time transferred thirty-five of them to Ransome, and fifteen to each of the Messrs. Stevens for a nominal consideration. It was at that time intended to work the company as a private partnership between the eight members, and not to admit any other members, but in July, 1876, the directors finding it necessary to increase their working capital allotted shares to four or five other persons. The company, however, did not succeed, and was eventually wound up by an order of the Court.

The official liquidator took out a summons charging the directors, Messrs. Stevens and Ransome, with misfeazance, with regard to the purchase of the patent and allotment of the shares, and calling upon them to pay the full nominal value of their shares. The Master of the Rolls having dismissed the summons, the official liquidator appealed.

Whitehorne for the appellant.

Chitty, Q.C, and Sangster Green, for the Messrs. Stevens.

Byrne for Ransome.

JAMES, L.J., said that he was of opinion that the Master of the Rolls had put the case on the right footing when he said that it resolved itself into a question of honesty or dishonesty, and he agreed with him in thinking that the directors were, and intended to be, thoroughly honest, and that they were at the time when the transactions took place, and that they intended to remain, the sole proprietors of the property of the company, and the sole members of it. If that were so, there could be no fraud on the company, for they all concurred in what was done; and there could be no fraud on the future members, for they did not, at that time, intend to admit any. In this respect the case entirely differed from the Society of Practical Knowledge v. Abbott (2 Beav. 559), where it was always intended to take in other shareholders. If the new shareholders in the present case had any reason of complaint, on the ground of concealment or misrepresentation, they might bring their actions; but the official liquidator, as representing the company, could not succeed in this application.

Order to produce Tenant for Life—Tenant pur autre vie—Stat. 6 Anne c. 18.

By the will of Sarah Hall, who died in February, 1870, two leasehold houses were bequeathed by the testatrix to her brother, John Castledine, for life, with remainder to the children of her three other brothers. In 1879, John Castledine assigned his life interest in the property to Margaret Doyle, the wife of James Doyle, and she and her husband entered into possession thereof, and had ever since remained in possession. In February 1881, the remaindermen applied for an order upon Mr. and Mrs. Doyle that they should produce, at a fixed period, the tenant for life, John Castledine. The order was made but had not been complied with.

B. Rogers now moved for an order that John Castledine should be deemed to be dead unless produced in Court on a day to be named.

Jemmett, for Mrs. Doyle, opposed the motion, on the ground that such an order could not be made upon the assignee for value of a tenant for life. They cited 6 Anne, c. 18.

FRY, J. was of opinion that Mrs. Doyle being a person having an estate determinable upon the life of John Castledine, the tenant for life, the case was within the scope and object of the statute of Anne, and this decision was in conformity with Re Dennis (7 Jur. N.S. 239), and Re Owen (10 Ch. D. 166). The order asked for must therefore be made.

In re SOUTH KENSINGTON CO-OPERATIVE STORES. Ex parte SEYMOUR.

Winding-up—Rent due—Power to distrain—Apportionment of Rent.

An application was made in the winding-up of the South Kensington Co-operative Stores on the part of Alfred Seymour, the landlord of the premises in Cromwell Road in which the business of the stores was conducted, for leave to enter and distrain upon the premises under a power in the lease, for the sum of 225*l.*, being one quarter's rent due on the 25th of December, 1880. The petition for winding-up was presented on the 27th of November, 1880, and H. Leslie was then appointed provisional liquidator. The order for winding-up was made on the 10th of December, when H. Leslie was continued as official liquidator, and the business of the stores had been carried on by him under the sanction of the Court up to the present time. The rent had been paid up to the 24th of June, 1880, but the rent due September 29th was still unpaid.

It was contended by the official liquidator that he could not be called upon to pay the full rent, except after the 10th of December, when he was appointed; that the rent ought to be apportioned under the Apportionment Act up to that day, and for that portion the landlord must come in and prove with the other creditors. The landlord on the other hand contended that he was entitled to his full rent for the whole quarter from the 29th of September to the 25th of December, when the rent became due.

North, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for the landlord.

Higgins, Q.C., and Buckley, for the liquidator.

FRY, J., considered that the rent was apportionable, and for the purpose of apportionment the division must be made on the 27th of November, the day when the petition was presented, because that was the period which fixed the liability of the company. Up to the 27th of November the landlord would only be entitled to prove in the winding-up, but after that date he should allow the landlord his rent in full.

Building Society — Incorporation — Certificate — Irregularity — Power of Court to declare Certificate invalid — Building Societies Act, 1874, ss. 7, 9, 12.

This action was brought by some of the members of a benefit building society against trustees and officers of the society. The society was originally enrolled under the Act 6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 32. Resolutions had been passed at a general meeting of the members that the society should be incorporated under the Act of 1874, with a view to its dissolution under the provisions of that Act, and a certificate of incorporation had been obtained from the Registrar of Building Societies. The plaintiffs alleged that the certificate had been irregularly obtained, on the ground that the meeting had been irregularly convened, and they claimed (inter alia) a declaration that the resolutions were invalid; that the certificate was of no effect, and ought to be delivered up to be cancelled; and that, notwithstanding the certificate and a subsequent instrument of dissolution, the society was a subsisting society under the Act 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 40, and entitled to the benefit of the Act.

Cookson, Q.C., and Russell Roberts, for the plaintiffs.

North, Q.C., and Oswald, for the defendants, were not heard.

FRY, J., held that he had no power to declare the incorporation void for irregularity. Incorporation was a prerogative of the Crown, and the proper proceeding to put an end to it was by quo warranto. Another fatal objection was that the body which it was sought to disincorporate was not made a party to the action. The action was dismissed with costs.

MIDLAND INSURANCE COMPANY v. SMITH AND WIFE.

Fire Insurance—Loss occasioned by Felonious Act of Assured's Wife—Rights of Insurer—Felony, Action maintainable before Prosecution.

Statement of claim stated that the plaintiffs had by a policy of fire insurance insured certain goods of the male defendant in a dwelling-house; that the female defendant, his wife, had maliciously set fire to the house for the purpose of destroying the goods insured and creating a claim on the policy, and that the goods insured were thereby damaged, and that the male defendant made a claim on the policy, and that by means of the premises the plaintiffs had incurred trouble and expense in investigating the said claim, and had become liable thereto if any such liability existed.

Dodd, for the defendants.

Waddy, Q.C., and Jackson, for the plaintiffs.

WATKIN WILLIAMS, J., gave judgment, holding that the action was not maintainable, on the ground that the insurer could have no rights other than his assured, and could enforce those only in his name and after admitting the claim, but that if the action had been maintainable it was maintainable without shewing that the felon had been prosecuted.

Highway, License to get Materials for repair of—5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 50, s. 54—"Search for, dig, and get in or through" Avenue to a House.

Case stated by justices raising the question whether a license could be granted under the 54th section of 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 50, to get materials for the repair of the highways from the land of the appellant where such materials if got must be carried away by means of a carriage drive or avenue leading to the appellant's house.

Dodd, for the appellant.

Gore, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Lindley and Mathew, JJ.) held that the 54th section of 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 50, though it prevented materials from being got from an avenue, did not prevent them when got from being carried away by means of an avenue. They therefore gave judgment for the respondents.

OVERSEERS OF WOOLWICH v. ROBERTSON.

Sea—Burial of Dead cast on Shore—Navigable and Tidal River—Liability of Parish—48 Geo. 3, c. 75.

By 48 Geo. 3, c. 75, the overseers of parishes throughout England in which any dead bodies shall be found thrown in or cast on shore from the sea by wreck or otherwise, are required to bury them in the parish burial ground, and by s. 6 an order may be made by a justice on the county treasurer for the payment of the expenses incurred by the parish.

In September, 1878, a number of persons were drowned by the sinking of the steamer "Princess Alice" in the Thames near Woolwich, and their bodies were found ashore within the boundaries of the parish of Woolwich, and there buried by the overseers. The Thames at Woolwich and at the places where the bodies were found ashore is a navigable tidal river, where great ships go. The respondent, a justice, had refused to make an order reimbursing the parish, and the question was whether the bodies could be considered to have been cast on shore from the sea within the meaning of the Act.

Sir H. Giffard, Q.C. (Wildey Wright with him), for the overseers.

F. M. White, Q.C. (Kingsford with him), for the respondent.

THE COURT (Lindley and Mathew, JJ.) were of opinion that the case was not within the Act, for the river Thames, where the steamer sank, could not be brought within the meaning of the term "sea."

Solicitor for the respondent: Scudamore, Maidstone.

Q. B. Div. HYMAN v. NYE. April 4.

Negligence—Jobmaster—Defect in Carriage—Warranty of fitness.

Action for negligence. At the trial before Hawkins, J., it appeared that the defendant was a job master, letting out carriages and horses for hire. The plaintiff hired of him a landau and a pair of horses and a driver, for a drive from Brighton to Shoreham and back. After having driven some way, and whilst the carriage was going down hill slowly, over a newly-mended part of the road, a bolt in the under part of the carriage broke. The splinter bar become displaced; the horses started off; the carriage was upset, and the plaintiff thrown out and injured. It was proved that no fault could be imputed to the horses nor to the driver. It further appeared that the carriage had been built by a good builder, some eight or nine years before the accident, had been repaired by a competent person about fifteen months before it, and that the defendant had no reason to suppose that there was any defect in it, or in any of its bolts; and that the defect, if any, in the bolt which broke could not have been discovered by any ordinary inspection.

The learned Judge told the jury that the plaintiff was bound to prove that the injury which he had sustained was caused by the negligence of the defendant, and if, in their opinion, the defendant took all reasonable care to provide a fit and proper carriage, their verdict ought to be for him. The jury found for the defendant, and in particular that the carriage was reasonably fit for the purpose for which it was hired, and that the defect in the bolt could not have been discovered by the defendant by ordinary care and attention. A rule nisi for a new trial having been obtained on the ground of misdirection.

Petheram, Q.C., shewed cause.

Houghton (Sir H. Giffard, Q.C., and Willis, Q.C., with him), supported the rule.

THE COURT (Lindley and Mathew, JJ.), after time taken to consider, held that the direction was wrong, the learned Judge having put the duty of the defendant too low. A person who lets out carriages is not responsible for all defects whether discoverable or not, but he is responsible for defects which care and skill can guard against, and it is his duty to supply a carriage as fit for the purpose as care and skill can make it. Under the circumstances it was incumbent upon the defendant to shew that the breakdown of the carriage was, in the proper sense of the word, an accident, not preventable by any care or skill. It was not enough to prove that he did not know of any defect in the bolt, and could not see that it was defective by an ordinary inspection of the carriage. And it followed that the evidence was not sufficient to warrant the finding of the jury that the carriage was in a fit and proper state when it left his yard.

House of Lords.

The Coltness Iron Co., App.; Black (Surveyor of Taxes), Respt. March 7.

Income Tax—Deduction—Pit-sinking.

This case originated in an appeal by the appellants, carrying on the business of coal and iron masters in Lanarkshire, against the assessment for income tax made on them for the year ending April 5th, 1878, by the surveyor of taxes, under s. 100, schedule D., of the Act 5 & 6 Vict. c. 35. The appellant then maintained that, from the amount of profits of their business for the year as assessed for income tax there ought to have been deducted a sum of 9027*l.*, being "the cost incurred by them in sinking new pits," and for which they contended they were not assessable. The Court of Session, on the 6th of February, 1879, held that the deduction could not be allowed. The appeal from that decision came before this House on the 1st of August, 1879, and the Lords, being of opinion that the statement of facts contained in the case submitted to the Court of Session was not sufficiently full to enable the House to finally dispose of the point of law raised, remitted the case, in order that it might be amended (37 & 38 Vict. c. 16).

Subsequently the case was amended, and (inter alia) by a statement explaining how the sum of 9027*l.* was arrived at. And it appeared that that sum did not represent the cost of pit-sinking during the year, but a sum arrived at by calculating two shillings per ton on iron made, and a penny halfpenny per ton on coal sold during the year, it being estimated that this would properly represent the amount of capital expended in making bores and sinking pits which had been exhausted by the year's working.

On this amended case coming before the Court of Session, as the Court of Exchequer in Scotland, they, on the 7th of January, 1881, held that the appellants were not entitled to the deduction claimed (18 Scot. Law Rep. 221).

On appeal,

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., and Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., were heard for the appellants.

The Lord Advocate, and the Solicitor-General for Scotland (with them Mr. Crawford), were heard for the respondent.

The Lords affirmed the decision of the Court below, and dismissed the appeal with costs.

Navigable River—Dredging—Right of Statutory Trustees to dredge the solum of a River though the Property of the Riparian Proprietor—Statute 21 & 22 Vict. c. 149, ss. 76, 84.

This was an appeal against a judgment of the First Division of the Court of Session on the 5th March, 1880, adhering to the interlocutor of the Lord Ordinary (Lord Young) holding that the Clyde Navigation trustees were entitled, under the Clyde Consolidation Act, 1858, ss. 76, 84, to carry on dredging operations on a part of the River Clyde between high and low water mark, which had been found by this House to belong in property to the appellants—Lord Blantyre, proprietor of the lands of Erskine and others on the banks of the Clyde, and the Master of Blantyre, heir male next entitled—the riparian owners; without prejudice, however, to any claim for compensation for damage which might be sustained by them (Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series, vol vii., p. 659; 17 Scot. Law Rep. 476).

On appeal,

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., and Mr. R. T. Read (of the Scotch Bar), were heard for the appellants.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. Asher (of the Scotch Bar), were heard for the respondents.

Sir Tollemache Sinclair, App. March 7.
The Caithness Flagstone Quarrying Co., Respts.

Construction of Agreement — Holograph Writing — Agreement between Tenant and Landlord, written from Latter's Dictation.

The respondents are lessees of the valuable pavement quarries of Weydale, and others belonging to the appellant, in Caithness. The works where the respondents prepare the stones for shipment, &c., are situated a considerable distance to the south from the quarries, and they were in use to convey the pavement by carts. With the view of constructing a tramway for that purpose an agreement was entered into between the parties in February, 1877. By that agreement the respondents agreed to construct a tramway from Old Weydale quarry by the Moss of Weydale, thence near Stainland House, near Oldfield House, and "by the end of the policy of Thurso Castle," to their works at Thurso East. And the appellant on his part agreed to give gratuitously the land required for the said tramway. The tramway was completed for some distance from the quarries. The portion yet to be made runs through land consisting chiefly of ground which forms part of the policy of Thurso Castle, the residence of the appellant, but it is also partly occupied by ground leased by the appellant to the Co-operative Pavement Company, and which interjects between the policy ground and the Thurso river, and, further, by the respondents' works, which are to the north of the Co-operative Company's works. There is also an occupation road running along the edge of the policy ground, from the point to which the tramway is completed, through the Co-operative Company's yard, to the respondents' works, where it terminates. The respondents raised this action, concluding that the appellant should be ordained in implement of the agreement to give them the use of land within, and by the end of, the policy of Thurso, sufficient for the construction of the tramway; or otherwise to give it to them in another place as suitable and convenient. The appellant maintained he was not bound to do this, and that the respondents had the occupation road on which they had hitherto done all their carting to put the tramway on.

Before this action was raised, there was an agreement dated the 28th of September, 1878, by which the appellant agreed, if a new clause in lieu of that for machinery were added to the respondents' lease, to give them a strip of land within the policy ground parallel with the occupation roadway leading to the respondent's pavement works.

This agreement the appellant dictated to his factor in the presence of the respondents, to whom it was then handed, unsigned. And on the 21st of October following the respondents' manager sent a written acceptance of the proposed clause: but subsequently they resiled from it. As to their agreement, the respondents contended that the proposed additional clause, and the letter of acceptance by them, being neither holograph nor tested, did not form an effectual or binding agreement, and that, therefore, they were entitled to have the agreement of the 21st of February, 1877, implemented.

The Court of Session held as to the document of the 28th of September, 1878, that it not being holograph, namely, written by the person who is bound by it, it could not be upheld. But as regards the February agreement they held, recalling the Lord Ordinary's interlocutor (Lord Rutherfurd Clark), and Lord Shand dissenting, that the appellant was bound to furnish gratuitously the ground necessary for the formation of the tramway throughout its whole length, and in particular the ground necessary for the formation of that portion hitherto unformed; and they ordered the appellant to state in a minute in what line he proposed that this portion of the tramway should be formed, and what ground he proposed to furnish for that purpose. (Ct. Sess. Cas., 4th Series, vol. vii., p. 1117.)

On appeal,

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., and Mr. Webster, Q.C., were heard for the appellant.

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. Asher, were heard for the respondents.

The Lords agreed with the decision of the Court below that the September agreement was not supportable; but as to the February agreement, being of opinion that the declarations contained in the interlocutor of the Court below were less favourable than they ought to have been to the appellant, they reversed a portion of that interlocutor, and remitted the cause with declarations, allowing the appellant his costs here and in the Court below.

Ecclesiastical Law—Definitive Sentence—Monition—Suspension.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had reversed a previous decision of the Queen's Bench Division (3 Q. B. D. 730; 4 Q. B. D. 697).

In 1874 a suit had been instituted in the Arches Court of Canterbury, by letters of request from the Bishop of London, against Mr. Mackonochie, under the provisions of the 3 & 4 Vict. c. 86, for having been guilty of certain offences ecclesiastical by the introduction of unauthorized performances in the celebration of Divine worship at his church of St. Alban's, Holborn. Sir R. Phillimore, then Dean of the Arches, pronounced against him a sentence of suspension for six weeks ab officio, and had admonished him to abstain for the future from the practices set forth in such of the articles as had been proved. This monition was disobeyed by the appellant. In 1878 other monitions of the like sort were issued, and also disobeyed. Lord Penzance had then become Dean of the Arches, and, after due notice (to which the appellant neglected to appear), decided that upon such disobediencies to the monitions of the Court the appellant should be suspended ab officio et beneficio for three years. The appellant applied to the Queen's Bench Division for a prohibition, which was issued, but on appeal the order for its issuing was reversed. This appeal was then brought, on the ground that the alleged acts of disobedience must, after a definitive sentence, such as had been originally pronounced in this case, be taken to be fresh offences, and could not be dealt with except as the subjects of fresh suits.

Mr. Charles, Q.C., and Dr. Phillimore, for the appellant.

Contract—Sale of Goods to be delivered by Instalments—Failure as to one Instalment—Right to cancel Contract.

By a contract made in October, 1879, the defendant sold to the plaintiff 2000 tons of pig-iron at 42*s.* a ton, to be delivered to the plaintiff free on board at maker's wharf at Middlesborough "in November, 1879, or equally over November, December, and January next, at 6*d.* per ton extra." The plaintiff failed to take delivery in November, but afterwards demanded of the defendant the delivery of the iron deliverable in the two other months. The defendant refused to deliver such, and gave notice to the plaintiff that the contract was cancelled. The action was tried before Field, J., at the London Trinity Sittings of 1880, when judgment was entered for the plaintiff for 933*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* less 66*l.* 13*s.* which had been paid into Court. A rule nisi for a new trial was obtained by the defendant but was afterwards discharged by the Queen's Bench Division.

McIntyre, Q.C., and Henn Collins, for the defendant.

C. Russell, Q.C., and Channell, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Bramwell and Baggallay, L.JJ., Brett, L.J., dissentiente) held that the failure of the plaintiff to perform the contract by not taking any portion of the iron in November, justified the defendant in refusing to deliver in December and January.

Marine Insurance—Policy attaching—No Risk—Action for Premium.

This was an action by an underwriter to recover the premium of 75 per cent., at which the defendant re-insured the cargo of a vessel he had himself insured for a particular voyage, and which vessel, at the time of such re-insurance, was believed by both parties to be considerably over due. In fact, as it was afterwards ascertained, she had already arrived in safety with her cargo, and the insured voyage had ended when such re-insurance was effected. It was therefore said, on behalf of the defendant, that there had never been any risk, and so there was no consideration for the premium, and consequently the same was not payable. Lord Coleridge, C.J., however, at the trial gave judgment for the plaintiffs for the amount claimed, and from this judgment the defendant appealed.

Benjamin, Q.C., and French, for the defendant.

Cohen, Q.C., and Hollams, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Brett, L.JJ.) now held that the policy had attached, and that the premium was therefore payable.

Action by plaintiff as the officer of, and on behalf of the company of Goldsmiths in London, for penalties under s. 3 of 7 & 8 Vict. c. 22, against the defendant for selling wares of silver with a counterfeit of the mark used by the said company for marking silver wares. The Queen's Bench Division held on demurrer that such action was by a "party grieved" within 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 42, s. 3, and consequently, as it was not brought within the two years limited by the Act, the defendant was entitled to succeed. The case is reported 6 Q. B. D. 21.

The plaintiff appealed.

Proof in Bankruptcy—Judgment Debt—Power of Court of Bankruptcy to go behind Judgment.

An action was brought against the debtors to recover a sum of money to which (as the Court of Appeal held) the plaintiff knew that he had no legal right, but (as the Court held) he brought the action for the purpose of extortion, knowing that the defendants would not dare to submit to a cross-examination, because, if they did so, they would be compelled to make admissions which would seriously affect their character. The plaintiff claimed 1042*l.* When the action came on for trial, the defendants, by the advice of their counsel, consented to a judge's order staying further proceedings, on the terms of their paying the plaintiff 400*l.* and the taxed costs of the action. A few days afterwards the defendants filed a liquidation petition. The plaintiff claimed to prove for 510*l.*, being the amount of the 400*l.* and the taxed costs. The Judge of the Liverpool County Court rejected the proof; the Chief Judge ordered it to be admitted. The trustee appealed.

Bompas, Q.C., and Neville for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and W. R. Kennedy, for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that, under the circumstances, the Court of Bankruptcy could go behind the judgment, and inquire into the consideration for the claim. It would be contrary to justice to allow such a claim to be proved in competition with the honest creditors. The order of the Chief Judge must be discharged.

Secured Creditor—Attachment in Tolzey Court of Bristol—Notice of Act of Bankruptcy.

A creditor of Price, a bankrupt, had, before the adjudication, and without notice of an act of bankruptcy previously committed on which the adjudication was founded, issued an attachment against the goods of Price in an action of debt in the Tolzey Court of Bristol, under which certain goods of his had been seized by the officer of the Court. The trustee claimed the goods as his property. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, as Chief Judge, held that the creditor had obtained a valid security on the goods. The trustee appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Rosenthal, for the appellant.

Northmore Lawrence, for the creditor.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held, upon the evidence, that the process of attachment in the Tolzey Court was in substance identical with the process of foreign attachment in the Mayor's Court of the City of London, i.e., only a process to compel appearance. The case was, therefore, governed by Levy v. Lovell (14 Ch. D. 234), and the trustee was entitled to the goods.

GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY v. WATERFORD AND LIMERICK RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Arbitration—Reference to Railway Commissioners—Railway Regulation Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 48), s. 8.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls refusing a writ of prohibition against the Railway Commissioners to restrain them from proceeding in the arbitration of a dispute which had arisen between them and the Great Western Railway Company (ante, p. 25).

The question turned upon the construction of the 8th section of the Railway Regulation Act, 1873, which provides, that when any difference between railway companies should, under the provisions of any special or general Act, be required or authorized to be referred to arbitration, such difference should, with the consent of the Commissioners, be referred to the Commissioners. In the present case the dispute arose under a working agreement between the two companies, which contained a special arbitration clause, but the Act authorizing the agreement contained no allusion to arbitration.

The Great Western Company appealed from this decision.

Davey, Q.C., Webster, Q.C., and R. S. Wright, for the appellants.

Chitty, Q.C., Pembroke Stevens, and Synott, for the Waterford and Limerick Company.

Sir H. James, A.G., and Rigby, for the Railway Commissioners.

THE COURT (James, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) reversed the decision of the Master of the Rolls, being of opinion that the 8th section applied, not to all differences, but only to particular differences which might be pointed out in any special or general Act, and were thereby required to be withdrawn from any other tribunal and submitted to arbitration. In the present case, although the agreement was made under the provisions of a special Act, there was no clause in such Act requiring or authorizing matters in difference to be referred to arbitration. Therefore, the Railway Commissioners had no jurisdiction to determine the questions in controversy between these two companies. The order of the Master of the Rolls must therefore be discharged, and the rule for a prohibition made absolute.

Railway Company—Liability to fence adjoining Land—Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845 (8 Vict. c. 20), s. 68—Owner releasing Right—Right of Occupier.

Appeal from the judgment of the Queen's Bench Division affirming the decision of the Judge of the County Court at Yeovil, as to the liability of the railway company for the loss of a cow of the plaintiff, the occupier of the adjoining land, from the neglect of the company to keep up the fences. The company had compensated the owner, but not the plaintiff, for accommodation works about forty years ago, the plaintiff being only a yearly tenant, but the plaintiff had, however, continued to occupy the same land ever since.

The case is reported 6 Q. B. D. 237.

R. S. Wright, for the defendants, in support of the appeal.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and Lush, L.JJ.) held that the tenancy of the plaintiff not having been ever determined, the plaintiff was entitled to have the land fenced by the defendants, and consequently to recover for the injury to his cow.

Judgment affirmed.

Gift by Husband to Wife, in Writing—No Appointment of Trustees—Will by Husband giving his Residue to Trustees and his Wife a Life Interest.

F. Breton, who died in June, 1880, by his will, made in August, 1878, after appointing two trustees and executors, and giving certain pecuniary and specific legacies, and disposing of his freehold property, bequeathed all the residue of his property and effects (amounting to about 22,000*l.*) to the trustees upon trust for investment, and to permit his wife to receive the income during her life, and after her death such residuary estate and income were to be held in trust for his six nieces. The testator married in January, 1868. At that time his wife was possessed of certain jewellery, and her husband presented her then, and subsequently, with other valuable articles, all of which she retained, and had sole possession.

In April, 1868, the testator wrote and signed a paper saying. "This is to certify that there being now" at M. & Co.'s "100*l.* worth of furniture belonging to me. I give the same to my dear wife," naming her, "absolutely and unreservedly, for her own use and benefit."

On the 1st of June, 1868, the testator wrote to his wife and signed a paper, saying, "I this day make you a present of the plate, &c., now at" M. & Co.'s, "which they are taking care of for me, for your sole use and benefit."

The testator and his wife went shortly after the latter date to reside at a house at Forest Hill, and thither the articles referred to in the paper writings were removed, and other articles of furniture were purchased and placed in the house.

The testator on the 18th of June, 1868, wrote and signed another paper to his wife, saying, "Having previously made over to you for your sole use and benefit, a certain amount of furniture, plate, &c., I now present you with everything, furniture, linen, &c., plate, china, and glass, and all jewellery now belonging to me at" the house in which they were residing, "all this to be yours, and yours only, from this date."

The testator and his wife afterwards removed to another residence, where he died. All the articles were taken there and used in the ordinary way. The plaintiff, the widow, claimed to have a declaration that she was entitled.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Renshaw, for the plaintiff.

Hastings, Q.C., and H. Greenwood, for the defendant, one of the nieces, and Cozens-Hardy, for the defendants, the trustees, were not called upon.

HALIFAX JOINT STOCK BANKING COMPANY v. SOWERBY BRIDGE TOWN HALL COMPANY.

Voluntary Association or Company—Committee of Management—Property vested in Trustees—Sale by Company—Refusal by Trustee to convey—Action by Purchaser against Company and Trustees for Specific Performance—Demurrer allowed.

The plaintiffs, the banking company, limited, had power to purchase real estate. The defendants, the company, were a voluntary association formed by deed dated in July, 1853, for raising capital in shares for building a town hall, and other purposes. The general affairs of the company were managed by a committee of fifteen shareholders. The capital was 4000*l.* in 1*l.* shares. Five members were elected trustees, and all the real estate was vested in them subject to the direction and control of the committee, and the trustees were at any time, when required so to do by the committee, to execute such deeds and do all other acts as the committee should direct. The company purchased copyhold land and it was surrendered to the first trustees, who were admitted thereto. The company sold a portion of the land, and on that remaining they built the hall, which was used for some of the purposes intended in the deed of 1853. A part of the building was let to tenants, and amongst others to the plaintiffs.

The first trustees had died, and under the powers of the deed five others were appointed. The hall and premises were surrendered to them and they were admitted tenants. One of those trustees had since died and the other four, including J. R. Atkinson, were defendants. The committee, in October, 1880, passed a resolution offering the hall for sale to the banking company for 4400*l.*, and they agreed to purchase, and at meetings of the company held in November, 1880, resolutions were carried by a bare two-thirds majority vote, confirming the offer to sell.

In December, 1880, the committee required the trustees to execute the necessary deed of conveyance and they, excepting Atkinson, acted as requested, but he refused to execute it. The plaintiffs brought this action claiming that the agreement for the purchase of the premises might be specifically performed and that Atkinson might be ordered to execute the deed; and costs.

The defendant Atkinson demurred on the ground that the facts alleged did not shew any privity of contract between the plaintiffs and himself, or any cause of action against him.

W. Barber, for the demurrer.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and B. Eyre, for the plaintiffs.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that he could not hold that a purchaser under such a contract was entitled to maintain an action against his vendor and a person who had a legal interest in the property, and who was bound to execute the deed by the direction of the vendor, and therefore he must allow the demurrer with costs.

Evidence—Admissibility—Unauthenticated Entries in Books of a College.

This was an administration action. The residuary devisee and legatee of the testatrix had died before her, and the defendant, who was a niece of the testatrix, claimed to be her heiress-at-law, and sole next of kin. The Attorney-General, on behalf of the Crown, claimed the property, on the ground that the testatrix had no heir-at-law or next of kin, alleging that her father (the grandfather of the defendant) had never been married to the lady who had passed as his wife. No certificate of the marriage of the grandfather could be found, and the defendant sought to establish her title by evidence of reputation of marriage. The grandfather was a clergyman, and had been a fellow of King's College, Cambridge. While holding his fellowship he had been curate of a country parish, and had lived there with the lady who passed as his wife. The Crown sought to put in evidence certain entries in a book belonging to the college, of an investigation by the authorities and the visitor of the college of a charge made against the grandfather, that he, while holding his fellowship, was either married, or was living as a notorious fornicator. The fellowship would have been vacated by marriage, and was liable to be forfeited for notorious evil living. It was the practice that the entries in the book in question should be attested by a notary public. But the entry of the proceedings in relation to the grandfather, and one or two other entries, were not so attested.

Solicitor—Liability—Notice of Settlement.

By a settlement executed in India after the marriage of Captain and Mrs. Williams in 1863, certain lands in Wales were conveyed by Captain Williams to trustees upon the usual trusts. Captain and Mrs. Williams returned to England, and in 1869 and the following years, both before and after the death of Captain Williams, which happened in 1879, portions of these lands were sold and conveyed to purchasers as if they were the property of Captain Williams, and were not comprised in the settlement.

An action was brought for the administration of the trusts of the settlement, and also to make Mr. Cheese, the solicitor who had been employed by Captain Williams in the sales, liable, as having, with notice of the settlement, allowed the money to pass through his hands and go in payment of the debts of Captain Williams.

The action as against him must be dismissed with costs.

COURT OF APPEAL.

Ecclesiastical Law—Public Worship Act, 1874, s. 9—Judge of Provincial Chancery of York—Requisition to hear Matter at Westminster—Power to sit out of the Province—Writ de contumace capiendo—County Palatine of Lancaster—Habeas Corpus.

This was an application on behalf of the Rev. Sidney Faithorne Green, rector of St. John, Miles Platting, Lancashire, in the diocese of Manchester and province of York, now a prisoner in Lancaster Gaol, for a writ of habeas corpus to bring him before this Court, with a view to his discharge, on the ground of certain irregularities in the proceedings against him, under which he was in custody. In November, 1878, a "representation" was made against him under the Public Worship Act by three parishioners of the parish to the Bishop of Manchester, complaining of certain breaches of ecclesiastical law, and in due course the bishop sent it to the Archbishop of York, who, on the 18th of February, 1879, sent a requisition to Lord Penzance, the judge under the Act, requiring him to hear and determine the matter of the representation, either in London or in Westminster, or within the province of York or the diocese of Manchester. Lord Penzance elected to hear it at Westminster, and on the 10th of June heard it, and the result was that the defendant was admonished to abstain from the practices complained of, and a monition was duly served upon him, commanding him so to abstain. He, however, continued those practices, and an inhibition was issued under s. 13 of the Public Worship Act, inhibiting him from performing divine service for three months, and until he should signify his obedience. He, however, still continued those practices, and on the 17th of July, 1880, he was served with a notice (headed in the Chancery Court of York) that Lord Penzance would be moved that he should be pronounced guilty of contempt of Court by reason of his disobedience to the inhibition in continuing to perform divine service notwithstanding the inhibition on certain days specified. The defendant paid no attention to this notice, and eventually, on the 20th of November, the matter being heard at Westminster, he was pronounced in contempt, and on the 25th Lord Penzance signified the contempt into the High Court, Chancery Division, and a copy of the significavit was sent by mittimus to the Chancery Court of the County Palatine of Lancaster. The Vice-Chancellor of the County Palatine of Lancaster thereupon, after notice to the defendant that he should sit at his chambers in Lincoln's-inn for the purpose of hearing the matter, on the 9th of March issued his writ de contumace capiendo, addressed to the sheriff of the County Palatine, commanding him to arrest the defendant for the contempt. Under that writ so issued by the Vice-Chancellor of Lancaster at Lincoln's-inn the defendant was on the 19th of March last arrested and taken to gaol.

Mr. Green applied first to the Queen's Bench Division for a writ of habeas corpus, and his application having been refused by Groves and Lindley, JJ., he renewed the application to the Court of Appeal.

The grounds on which the writ was asked for were as follows:—1. That Lord Penzance, sitting at Westminster, had no jurisdiction to hear the case and issue the writ of significavit in respect of disobedience to an inhibition, issued by his lordship as Official Principal of the Provincial Chancery of York, for breaches of ecclesiastical law committed within the province of York. 2. That the whole of the proceedings after the issue of the writ of significavit were void, there being no authority in the Vice-Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster to receive the writ of significavit, and issue the writ de contumace capiendo thereupon. 3. That, even assuming that the Vice-Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster had jurisdiction, he had no power to sit and exercise it in Lincoln's-inn, but could only exercise it within the limits of the Duchy.

The Court having granted a rule nisi, cause was now shewn against the rule.

Sir H. James, A.G., Sir F. Herschell, S.G., and A. L. Smith, for Lord Penzance.

West, Q.C. (the Attorney-General for the Duchy of Lancaster), and Clare, for the Vice-Chancellor.

Jeune, for the complainants.

Charles, Q.C., and W. Phillimore (Poland with them), were heard in support of the rule.

JAMES, L.J., said that as to the first objection, when Lord Penzance was empowered by the 9th section of the Public Worship Act to hear the matter out of the province, it applied not merely to the hearing the argument of the case, but to every proceeding incident to the hearing and necessary to carry out the order of the Court. That objection therefore failed. With respect to the second point he was of opinion that the provisions of the Statute 5 Eliz. c. 23, respecting the writ de excommunicato capiendo were imported into the 53 Geo. 3, and made applicable to the new writ de contumace capiendo. In the present case the same process had been pursued as had been pursued for centuries with respect to writs against persons within the jurisdiction of the County Palatine Court, and was, in his opinion, the correct one. As to the third objection, the Vice-Chancellor was not doing a judicial act, and although he might be exercising a discretion, it was such a discretion as might be exercised in any place, and not merely within the jurisdiction of the county palatine.

Will—Construction—Gift of Future Annuity—Inconsistency.

A testator gave to his wife during widowhood and until all his four daughters, by a former wife, should have attained 21, an annuity of 800*l.*, and 100*l.* a year for each daughter who should be under age, and after they had attained the said age of 21 years an annuity of 600*l.* during widowhood. He then, in case he should have any children by his present wife, bequeathed to her in respect of each of such children who should, for the time being, be living and under the age of 21 years, a further annuity of 150*l.* to commence after all his said four daughters should have attained 21 or died, to be paid by equal half-yearly payments to be made at the expiration of six calendar months after his decease. The testator died in 1874 leaving his four daughters by his first wife, the youngest of whom was of the age of 11, and two children by his second wife. The question now was whether the widow was entitled to two annuities of 150*l.*, from the testator's decease, some of the four daughters being still living and under age. The Master of the Rolls decided that she was. The plaintiff who was one of the children of the first wife and interested in the residuary estate, appealed.

Appeal of the defendants from the judgment of Brett, L.J., in favour of the plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs were the owners of the steamship, City of Paris which on the 20th of February, 1879, was chartered by the Commissioners of the Admiralty for transport service in the Zulu War, for three months certain, at the freight of 25*s.* per ton per month (3851*l.* 5*s.* per month), such charter to be cancelled and at an end, and such freight not to be payable in the event of the steamer becoming unseaworthy or unfit to perform the service for which she was chartered. On the 22nd of February, 1879, the plaintiffs effected with the defendants a policy of insurance on freight against the ordinary perils. The defendants had notice that the plaintiffs had chartered the City of Paris to the Commissioners of the Admiralty, but they did not know the terms of the charter. One month's freight was paid to the plaintiffs in advance. In February, 1879, the City of Paris sailed under the charter with troops for South Africa, and on the 21st of March, 1879, she struck on a rock in Simon's Bay and was so damaged as to become unseaworthy and unfit for the service for which she had been chartered, and the charter was cancelled and put an end to, and the plaintiffs lost the residue of the freight which they would have earned during the time covered by the policy.

AMOORE v. ELMSLIE.

General Power of Appointment, Exercise of—Improper Payments to Donee of Power—Rights of Creditors of Appointor.

Further consideration of an action to administer the estate of R. Newnham.

R. Newnham died in 1855, having by his will given his wife, Georgina Newnham, a life interest in, and a general power of appointment over a fund subject to the trusts thereof. The trustees of the will were induced by Georgina Newnham to advance to her during her life a large portion of the corpus of the fund.

By her will Georgina Newnham, in exercise of her power, appointed that the trustees of her late husband's will should hold the fund upon trust to pay and indemnify themselves against the advances so made to her, and subject thereto in trust for certain beneficiaries. Georgina Newnham died insolvent, except as to the fund so appointed, and her general creditors now contended that by appointing the fund she had made it available for the payment of her debts, and that the trustees of her husband's will must make good the fund or the portions of it they had misapplied before they could claim to prove against her estate for the advances, and they claimed to have the fund carried over to the credit of an action which they had commenced to administer her estate.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that as the creditors of the donee of the power could not get at the property subject thereto, except through the act of appointment, so they could not take it against the other acts of the appointor; and that the trustees having been induced to pay the fund to the appointor, could not be compelled to pay it over again to her creditors. He accordingly dismissed the claim of the appointor's general creditors with costs.

HILL v. HILL.

Settlement—Tenant for Life—Corpus or Income.

Upon the marriage of the plaintiff Madle. Mumm to Captain Hill, her property was settled upon trusts under which she took a life interest therein for her separate use without power of anticipation, and this property comprised a sum of money left in her father's business which he covenanted to pay to the trustees upon his death. After his death the trustees of the settlement instead of calling in this sum allowed it to remain in the father's business, which was reconstituted and carried on by several partners, of whom the plaintiff was one, upon the terms that each partner should be allowed interest on his or her capital and should be permitted to leave the profits attributable to each share as an accretion to the capital thereof. The greater part of the plaintiff's profits were left to accumulate in the business, which was extremely profitable, but some portions thereof were, with the plaintiff's consent, paid to her husband, Captain Hill. Captain Hill having recently died the question arose whether the whole of the accumulated profits were to be treated as income payable to the plaintiff, and if not what proportion thereof was rightfully payable to her as income, and what proportion should be treated as capital subject to the trusts of the settlement.

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Rigby; W. Pearson, Q.C., and Langworthy; Robinson, Q.C., and Henry Hood; and Whitehorne, and Armitstead, for the various parties.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the plaintiff being entitled for her separate use for life, without power of anticipation, was entitled to take as income four per cent upon the original sum employed in the business, and on all accretions of profits retained and employed in the business as capital; and that all the rest of the profits were to be regarded as capital subject to the trusts of the settlement, and to be made good by the husband's estate so far as he had received the same.

Will—Construction—Absolute Gift of Legacy—Direction for Settlement in Event of Marriage of Legatee.

A testator by his will bequeathed to his son the sum of 3000*l.*, but, in the event of his marrying a lady named in the will, he directed his executors to retain the 3000*l.* in their hands upon trust to invest the same, and to hold it on trust for the son and his wife successively for their lives, with remainder to their children. The testator died in July, 1880; the son married the lady in October, 1880. The action was brought by the son against the executors and his wife, claiming a declaration that the trusts declared by the will of the 3000*l.* in the event of his marrying had not come into operation and were incapable of taking effect. The wife demurred to the statement of claim.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Leeke, for the wife.

North, Q.C., and J. T. Prior, for the plaintiff.

Freeman, for the executors.

FRY, J., held that the trusts in question were limited to the case of the marriage taking place within twelve months after the testator's death, or before such time as the executors were ready to pay the legacy. Inasmuch as the marriage had taken place before either of those periods had expired, it was immaterial which was the limit. The demurrer must be allowed, and there must be a declaration that the 3000*l.* ought to be retained by the executors upon the trusts directed by the testator.

Action to rescind a Contract—Defect of Title—Materiality.

This was an action by the plaintiff to rescind a contract entered into in March, 1880, for the purchase of a house at Brighton on the ground of defect of title and misrepresentations as to value. The contract signed by the plaintiff described the premises as "a freehold house and garden, with a coach-house and stable, held on a lease of eighty-two years from September, 1817, less 15 days, at a ground-rent of 4*l.* 15*s.*, the whole premises being freehold except the stable and coach-house." The contract contained a proviso that if any mistake or omission should be made in the description of the property (except as to quantity) the same should not vitiate or annul the sale, but a compensation or allowance should be made, the amount thereof to be settled by arbitration. It appeared on the investigation of the title that the leasehold part of the property was held under an underlease, and that it was comprised with other property in a superior lease at a rent of 18*l.*, and that the property in the underlease was subject to the rent reserved by the lease, or was liable to forfeiture on non-payment of such rent or non-observance of any of the covenants contained in the superior lease.

Witnesses were examined as to the question of value, and as to the materiality of the small portion of leasehold property comprising the coach-house and stable.

The defence was that the value was not over-estimated, and that the defect of title could be compensated for under the compensation clause, and that the leasehold coach-house and stable was not a material portion of the property.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Langworthy, for the plaintiff.

Higgins, Q.C., and Everitt, for the defendant.

HIS LORDSHIP said the plaintiff's evidence as to misrepresentations of value was not sufficient to rescind the contract; but he was of opinion that the coach-house and stable formed a material portion of the property, and the defect of title as to that portion could not be brought within the compensation clause. The plaintiff was therefore entitled to a decree to rescind the contract, and the defendant must pay the costs.

BAINES v. BROMLEY AND ANOTHER.

Practice—Costs—Claim and Counterclaim—Costs of the Cause.

Appeal by plaintiff from refusal of Pollock, B., to order review of master's taxation of costs (reported 6 Q. B. D. 197).

The plaintiff claimed to recover commission due to him from the defendants on an agreement. The defendants denied the claim, and claimed by way of counterclaim 230*l.* 0*s.* 9*d.* for goods sold.

The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff on the claim for 114*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*, and a verdict for the defendants on the counterclaim for 230*l.* 0*s.* 9*d.* The judgment entered was "that the plaintiff recover £— for his costs of suit, and that the defendants recover 115*l.* 3*s.* 3*d.*, and £— for their costs of the counterclaim." The master on the taxation of costs gave the defendants the costs of the cause, and allowed the plaintiff only costs of establishing his claim to the extent to which he succeeded.

Pollard, for the plaintiff.

Forbes, Q.C., for the defendants.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the taxation must be reviewed, as the master had not allowed the plaintiff his costs of suit according to the terms of the judgment, but had taxed such costs as if he had succeeded only on certain issues.

Appeal allowed.

NOBEL'S EXPLOSIVES COMPANY v. JONES, SCOTT, & CO.

Patent—Infringement—Transhipment—Acting as Custom House Agents.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon (Weekly Notes, 1880, p. 89).

The plaintiffs were the owners of an invention for mixing nitro-glycerine with non-explosive substances, so as to render it safe for transportation. Messrs. Krebs & Co. of Cologne were manufacturers of a similar substance which they called lithofracteur, the manufacture of which in England had been decided by the House of Lords to be an infringement of the plaintiffs' patent. The plaintiffs accused the defendants of transhipping, or assisting in transhipping, some of the lithofracteur in the port of London, and thereby infringing their patent.

The defendants admitted that in the year 1877 they had acted as Custom House agents in the transhipment of some of the lithofracteur, and that in some of the forms used in the Custom House they were described as the importers. It appeared that the bills of lading were made out in the name of Krebs & Co., and were indorsed by their manager in London and delivered to the defendants. Application was then made by a clerk of the defendants to the Custom House for delivery orders, accompanied by a written declaration that the defendants were the importers of the goods, and the defendants wrote letters to the Custom House inclosing the importation licence required by the statute.

The Vice-Chancellor Bacon held that the patent had been infringed and granted an injunction, and the defendants appealed.

Davey, Q.C., and Goodeve, for the appellants.

Aston, Q.C., and E. Cutler, for the respondents.

JAMES, L.J., said that he could not concur in the judgment of the Vice-Chancellor. There was no evidence of any interference by the defendants with the plaintiffs' invention. As to the proceedings at the Custom House, the defendants' clerk had had to fill in some details in documents required for obtaining delivery orders. In so doing he had used expressions implying that the defendants were the importers of the goods. The documents were not really material to the main question, and at all events the defendants could not be estopped by their clerk's statement in complying with those formalities. The defendants never had any interest in or any control over the goods. Krebs & Co. might possibly be said to have been using the invention. It was by the invention that the highly explosive substance, nitroglycerine, was rendered storeable, moveable, transportable, with safety, and the utility of the invention was the safety, so that any one carrying the article with safety might possibly be said to be using the invention. If Krebs & Co. had imported the lithofracteur to London with a view merely to exportation, leaving the goods in packages, they might still be said to be using the invention in this country, on the same principle as that applied in Betts v. Neilson (Law Rep. 5 H. L. 1). As to the question of agency, the Court of Chancery had always held a hand over agents. But they must be actual agents directly employed in the transaction in question. Here the Court was asked to extend its doctrine and to say that any person who had anything to do with the removal of goods from a manufactory to a storehouse would be liable to damages or injunction if it turned out that the goods were an infringement of a patent or trade-mark. That would be going very far and giving a most injurious encouragement to idle and vexatious litigation, and to interference with the ordinary course of men's lives in the prosecution of their business. There was no authority for any such an extension of the doctrine, and the appeal must be allowed.

BAGGALLAY and LUSH, L.JJ., concurred.

Held that the taxing-master was right in allowing the costs of only one copy, and further that a mortgagee or transferee of a mortgage, although entitled to make and keep a fair copy for his own protection until the transaction is completed, has no right to keep copies of the mortgage deed or deed of transfer after he is paid off, but on the contrary, whatever copies he has, are, as a general rule, copies paid for by the mortgagor and to be delivered up to him when he pays off the mortgage.

Equitable Priorities—Mortgage by Deposit—Incumbrancers without Notice—Fraud—Legal Estate—Estoppel.

Action to settle the priorities of three sets of incumbrancers who had each advanced money, without notice, on the security of the same estate, two of the securities being forged leases of the property, and the third, though subsequent in date, being an equitable mortgage by deposit of the genuine title-deeds. In September, 1873, Frederick Dimsdale procured a transfer to himself of certain mortgages in fee of property in Surrey; the legal estate being subsequently dealt with as follows. On the 12th of September, 1873, Dimsdale sub-mortgaged the property to Thomas Lyon; in September, 1875, the property was sold by Lyon under a power of sale in the sub-mortgage and conveyed by him to J. Holmes as trustee for C. B. Moore. On the 9th of March, 1876, the legal estate in the property was conveyed to Moore in fee as trustee, it was alleged, for Dimsdale.

Shortly afterwards Dimsdale contrived a scheme for raising money thereon, which resulted in the creation of the incumbrances the subject of this action; in carrying out this scheme Dimsdale was assisted by Tait, Moore, and Leighton, as agents and confederates.

Plaintiffs' security: By a fictitious lease dated the 8th of March, 1870, Leighton purported to demise the property to Tait for a term of ninety-eight years at a ground-rent of 20*l.* 5*s.* On the 17th of August, 1874, Tait demised the property comprised in this lease to the plaintiffs by way of mortgage to secure 4860*l.* and interest at 5 per cent. Interest was regularly paid by Dimsdale, who was a solicitor, nominally on behalf of Tait, up to 1877.

The defendant Phillips' security: By another fictitious lease also dated the 8th of March, 1870, Tait purported to demise the Banstead property to Moore for a term of ninety-nine years, at a ground-rent of 37*l.* 10*s.* On the 16th of November, 1874, Moore demised the property comprised in this lease by way of mortgage to the Queen's Benefit Building Society to secure 4400*l.*, and interest. This sum was subsequently reduced by Moore to 2700*l.*, and on the 10th of October, 1877, an assignment of this mortgage was made to the defendant Phillips, and the lease and mortgage were handed over to him.

The defendant McStephens' charge: In January and February, 1877, Moore, representing himself as the absolute owner of this property, applied to McStephens for advances on the security of a mortgage by deposit. About 5000*l.* was accordingly advanced, and the above-mentioned genuine deeds were deposited together with a statutory declaration of Moore's ownership and a memorandum. Shortly afterwards Dimsdale came forward and stated that Moore was not the owner but only a trustee for him. Dimsdale, however, agreed to confirm the advances to Moore and also obtained a further loan of about 17,000*l.*, and the property was charged with payment of both advances. In October, 1877, Dimsdale, Moore, and Tait, were arrested for for forgery, and were subsequently convicted and sentenced to penal servitude. Defendant McStevens then took possession of the property.

In July, 1878, the plaintiffs commenced this action to establish their charge in priority to the other charges.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and E. T. Holland, for plaintiffs, claimed priority on the ground that the lease by Leighton to Tait and mortgage to them constituted a representation by Dimsdale's agents, which Dimsdale, as soon as he acquired any interest in the property (in March, 1876) was bound to make good; and that this obligation attached in equity on the property so as to give plaintiffs the right to a legal charge. All the incumbrances being without notice, that of plaintiffs, being earliest in date, was entitled to priority.

Hemming, Q.C., and Everitt, for Phillips:—The mortgage from Moore created a term by estoppel, and when the legal estate was acquired by Moore in March, 1876, the lease by estoppel became a lease by interest; in the absence of notice that legal estate must prevail over any prior equitable security, and could not be displaced even if there had been any fraud in the transaction by which the legal estate was conveyed to Moore.

Marten, Q.C., and T. A. Roberts, for McStephens:—As equitable mortgages, by deposit of the genuine deeds, without notice of any prior charge, we are entitled in priority over all the other incumbrancers.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—Even assuming that Tait was Dimsdale's agent or confederate, of which fact no evidence had been adduced, the plaintiffs had failed to establish that the personal obligation of Dimsdale, to make good the fraudulent representations contained in the lease, when he obtained an interest in the property, was one that could be said to attach to the land. With regard to the defendant Phillips' claim the legal doctrine of estoppel, being merely a legal fiction to enable Courts of Common Law to attain the ends of justice, had no place in Courts of Equity. Phillips' claim therefore failed in fixing any burden on the land comprised in the fictitious lease, and he must therefore hold that the defendant McStephens was entitled to a charge on the property of which he held the genuine title-deeds, in priority to the other incumbrancers. The action of plaintiffs and the counter-claim of Phillips must therefore be dismissed.

No costs to any party.

Company—Director—Stockbroker—Purchase of Shares by Director—Concealment of Material Facts.

Claim in respect of loss incurred by the plaintiff upon a sale of seventy-five preference shares in the Tunisian Railway Company, Limited, against the defendant, who, being both a director of the company, and a stockbroker, induced the plaintiff to sell the shares at 10*l.* each to an undisclosed principal, he (defendant) being himself instructed to purchase the shares by a co-director, on behalf of a syndicate formed, if not at the time, immediately afterwards, consisting of the co-director, a third director, and the defendant himself, who, ultimately, on a sale of the railway, realised the amount of 59*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.* on each of the shares purchased by them from the plaintiff.

Higgins, Q.C., and Romer, Q.C., for the plaintiff.

Glasse, Q.C., Willis, Q.C., and Latham, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that a sale of this kind could be supported only under circumstances of the most abundant good faith. The defendant's double capacity of director and stockbroker did not diminish his responsibility. As the evidence shewed there had not been that ample disclosure which the transaction required of facts which, if not known to the defendant at the date of the contract, came to his knowledge almost immediately afterwards, the plaintiff was entitled to damages for his loss—which would be measured by the difference between the price he received and the price which the shares ultimately realized, less the defendant's commission as broker; and the defendant must pay the costs of the suit.

In re THE LONDON, BOMBAY, AND MEDITERRANEAN BANK.

Company—Winding-up—List of Contributories—Shares taken by a Husband in his Wife's Name.

In 1864, S. J. Daver, a Parsee, applied for and paid the deposit on 300 shares in this bank, 100 in his own name and 200 in the name of his wife Mherbai. The application and payment was without Mherbai's knowledge, and Daver subscribed the memorandum and articles of association on his wife's behalf as well as his own, and also paid all sums which became payable in respect of both sets of shares, signing receipts as to shares taken in his wife's name thus "S. J. Daver for Mherbai his wife."

The bank was ordered to be wound up in June, 1866, and Daver died shortly afterwards, leaving Mherbai one of his executors. In 1868 Mherbai's name was put upon the A list of contributories in respect of sixty out of the 200 shares allotted to her, the other 140 having been sold and transferred by her husband shortly before the date of the winding-up.

This was an application by the liquidator to have Mherbai and her co-executors settled on the B list of contributories in respect of these 140 shares, so as to make her husband's estate liable instead of her own separate estate, which was of small value. It was contended on behalf of the liquidator that the case must be treated as coming within the authorities which decide that where a person has taken shares in the name of another, and the true owner is discovered, the name of the true owner and not that of the nominal applicant must be put on the register.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, however, held that as the wife's name had been deliberately put on the register by the company without any fraud or concealment of the real nature of the transaction on the part of the husband at the time the shares were taken, the case did not come within the authorities referred to, and he accordingly dismissed the application with costs.

Will—Construction—Stock-in-Trade—Barge builder's Business.

A Thames barge builder bequeathed to his son his business of a barge builder, "together with all and singular his stock-in-trade as a barge builder," directing that no barges or other craft in process of construction on his premises should be considered as part of his stock-in-trade, but that the same should fall into his residuary estate.

It is the custom of Thames barge builders on selling a new barge to take an old barge in part payment, and to repair and let it out to a lighterman if fit for the purpose. The testator had acquired and let out in this manner five old barges, treating the rent as profits in his business, and the question was whether they formed part of his stock-in-trade.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and W. Renshaw, for the plaintiff.

Hastings, Q.C., and Bush, for the defendant.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that having been acquired by the testator in his business, and belonging to him as part thereof, the five old barges formed part of his "stock-in-trade."

Sequestration for Costs—Debtors Act—Judicature Act—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XLVII.—Orders of April, 1880.

The plaintiff, Colonel Snow, had been ordered to pay certain taxed costs to the defendants which had not been paid, and evidence was produced to shew that the plaintiff had no effects sufficient.

The defendants now applied for a four-day order for the payment of the costs, and, in default of payment, for leave to issue a writ of sequestration.

Under the order of the 7th of January, 1870, issued under the Debtors Act (Morgan's Chancery Acts and Orders, p. 297), and afterwards under Order XLVII., issued under the Judicature Act, such writs of sequestration for costs could be issued without obtaining any order for the purpose, but by rule 2, added to Order XLVII. in April, 1880, "No subpœna for the payment of costs, and, unless by leave of the Court or a judge, no sequestration to enforce such payment shall be issued."

The above rule made it necessary to apply to the Court for leave to issue a writ of sequestration.

Rawlins, for the motion, said that no similar application had been yet reported, but he referred to Wilcocke v. Terrell (3 Ex. Div. 323), and the remarks of Lindley, J., at p. 330.

Oswald, for Colonel Snow, referred to Ex parte Nelson (14 Ch. Div. 41), and contended that a sequestration ought not to issue until other processes had been tried.

FRY, J., said that an application for fi. fa. would have produced no result, and a writ of attachment under the Debtors Act could only be obtained on shewing wilful refusal to pay. An order for sequestration was the proper order to apply for, and must be made.

Default of Appearance—Person of Unsound Mind—Appointment of Guardian—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XIII., rr. 1, 9.

One of the defendants to this action was a person of unsound mind, not so found by inquisition. The writ was served upon him as provided by r. 5 of Order IX. He did not appear. No relief was asked against him by the plaintiff. At the trial judgment was given for the plaintiff. On the drawing up of the judgment, the registrar suggested that a guardian ought to have been appointed for the defendant of unsound mind, under r. 1 of Order XIII.

Cozens-Hardy, for the plaintiff, mentioned the matter to the Court.

FRY, J., held that r. 1 of Order XIII. did not make it obligatory on the plaintiff to apply for the appointment of a guardian; it only enabled him to do so if he desired that the lunatic defendant should appear and defend the action.

Renewal of Lease—Covenants by Lessee—Condition precedent—Apportionment of Costs.

By an indenture dated the 14th of May, 1873, a house and premises were demised by Thomas Elkington, who held a lease thereof for eighty years from the governors of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, to the defendants for seven years from the 25th of March, 1873, at a rent of 190*l.*, and Thomas Elkington thereby covenanted that the defendants should be entitled on giving six months' notice before the expiration of the term of seven years, to have a further lease of the premises for twenty-one years from the expiration of the first term, at a rent of 200*l.* upon the lessee paying the rent and performing and observing the covenants in the lease, and the lessees covenanted to paint the outside and inside of the premises at particular periods, and also to keep them in good and sufficient repair. On the 25th of March, 1875, the defendants assigned their lease to the plaintiff for the residue of the term of seven years at the rent and subject to the covenants and conditions in the said lease reserved and contained. The defendants subsequently purchased the residue of the term of eighty years from Thomas Elkington. Six months before the expiration of the seven years' lease the plaintiff gave notice to the defendants that he should require a renewal of his lease for twenty-one years from the expiration of his term, but the defendants refused to grant such renewed lease on the ground that the plaintiff had not fulfilled the covenants in the lease, and in particular that he had not completed the painting and repairs in accordance with the terms of the lease. The plaintiff claimed specific performance by the defendants of the covenant by Thomas Elkington to grant a further lease for twenty-one years. Witnesses were examined as to the question whether there had been a breach of covenant on the part of the plaintiff.

Higgins, Q.C., and Leeke, for the plaintiff.

Marriott, Q.C., Millar, Q.C., and Boome, for the defendants.

KAY, J., was of opinion that the covenants in the lease on the part of the plaintiff must be performed before he could be entitled to a renewal of the lease. The performance of the covenants was a condition precedent to the renewal, which was in the nature of a privilege. It was shewn by the evidence that the painting and repairs had not been done in pursuance of the covenants in the lease, and if done afterwards and before the expiration of the lease that would not be a performance of the covenants but a remedying of the breach of covenant. However, in this case, there still remained some of the requisite amount of painting and repairs to be finished after the lease expired, consequently the covenants had not been performed, and the plaintiff was not entitled to a renewal. The bill must be dismissed with costs, except as to the evidence about the alteration of a staircase, upon a contention raised by the defendants, which proved to be immaterial. On this ground he would allow the defendants only three-fourths of their costs.

Mortgage—Attornment Clause—Distress—Liquidation of Mortgagor—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 34.

By a deed dated the 8th of November, 1873, estates in Lincolnshire were mortgaged by the debtor to trustees, to secure 12,500*l.* at 4½ per cent. interest, reducible to 3½ on punctual payment. Interest was made payable on the 8th of May and the 8th of November. If interest were regularly paid, the mortgage money was not to be called in until the 8th of November, 1880. The mortgagor, being in possession, attorned tenant to the mortgagee at the yearly rent of 593*l.* 15*s.* (being the amount of the interest at 4½ per cent.) payable half-yearly, on the 8th of May and the 8th of November. Afterwards, by agreement, the days of payment of the interest were altered to the 1st of January and the 1st of July.

On the 1st of March, 1880, the mortgagor filed a liquidation petition. Half-yearly interest was regularly paid up to the 1st of July, 1880. The trustee having advertised a sale of the stock on the farm, the mortgagees, on the 19th of November, 1880, distrained for 296*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*, being a full half-year's rent.

The mortgagees claimed to retain the whole of this sum; the trustee asserted they were entitled to no more than 162*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*, being the amount of interest at 3½ per cent. from the 1st of July to the 8th of November.

The County Court Judge at Lincoln having decided in favour of the trustee, the mortgagees appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and J. T. Humphry, for the appellants.

E. Cooper Willis, for the respondent.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said the case was clearly covered by authority. The mortgagees were entitled under the distress to the whole of the sum distrained for; first, in payment of interest, and then pro tanto in reduction of the principal debt; and discharged the order below so far as it was appealed from, with costs.

DAVIS v. W. TREHARNE. May 6.

Mines—Surface Land.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had affirmed a previous decision of the Common Pleas Division. One J. P. Traherne was the owner of certain land in the county of Glamorgan. Under this land were coal and ironstone. In 1865 he granted a lease of a part of this land to Davis. In 1869 he granted to W. Treharne another portion of the land with the buildings, then, or thereafter to be, on the same, reserving to himself the right to work the mines. In 1871 he granted to Davis the mines under these latter lands. The mines were to be worked in the usual and approved manner of such mines in the county of Glamorgan. They were worked, and the houses in the possession of W. Treharne were injured, and he brought his action for damages. The defences set up were the reservation of the right to work the mines, and that the mines were worked in the usual and approved manner of the county, and the question was whether the reservation was framed in such language as to justify, or excuse, the working of the mines so as to let down the land above, to the injury or destruction of the surface. Both the Courts below had been of opinion that the language used was not comprehensive enough to justify such a result. Hence this appeal.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., and Mr. Forbes, were for the appellant.

Mr. McIntyre, Q.C., and Mr. B. Francis Williams, for the respondent.

THE LORDS, without calling on the respondent's counsel, affirmed the judgment of the Court below.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Adm. Ct. THE CITY OF MECCA. May 4.

Jurisdiction—Action in rem to enforce Judgment of Foreign Tribunal of Commerce.

This was an appeal from a decision of Sir R. Phillimore, the Judge of the Admiralty Court (reported 5 P. D. 28.)

The action was brought in the Admiralty Division by the underwriters and owners of the Spanish steamship Insulano, against the owners of the British steamship City of Mecca, to recover damages in respect of a collision which took place between the two ships off the coast of Portugal in January, 1875. The damage was laid at 25,000*l.* The indorsement on the writ, which was issued on the 1st of September, 1879, stated that the plaintiffs' claim was "upon a judgment of the Tribunal of Commerce of Lisbon, by which the Court determined that the City of Mecca was alone to blame for the collision, and ordered the defendants to pay to the plaintiffs the loss sustained by them by reason of the collision." On the same day on which the writ was issued the City of Mecca was arrested in the action, but was released on bail being given. Her owners appeared under protest, and moved to set aside the writ and all the subsequent proceedings, on the ground that the writ had been improperly issued, and that a foreign judgment could not be enforced by proceedings in rem. The application was heard by Sir R. Phillimore in November, 1879, and upon the evidence before him it appeared that the judgment of the Portuguese Court, which was exercising Admiralty jurisdiction, was a judgment in rem; and, this being so, he held that the English Admiralty Court had jurisdiction to enforce it by proceedings in rem. He accordingly refused the application. The defendants appealed. Upon the appeal evidence was adduced which was not before Sir R. Phillimore, and which, in the opinion of the Court of Appeal, shewed that the Portuguese judgment was a merely personal judgment against the owners and the captain of the ship.

Benjamin, Q.C., and E. S. Roscoe (Butt, Q.C., and Clarkson, Q.C., with them), for the appellants.

Webster, Q.C., Gainsford Bruce, and W. G. Phillimore, for the plaintiffs.

JESSEL, M.R., said that the appeal was in form an appeal from a decision of Sir R. Phillimore, but it was not so in fact, for the facts before him were totally different from those which were before this Court. What he decided was that, there being a judgment in rem of a Portuguese Court having jurisdiction in Admiralty, and an action being brought on that judgment in the English High Court, it might be brought as an action in rem, and might be enforced by the arrest of the vessel. It now appeared that the real facts of the case had not been before him at all, but an imperfect affidavit had led him to an erroneous conclusion. It now appeared that by the law of Portugal there was no such thing as an action in rem; it did not exist at all. The course of procedure seemed to be this—a personal action was brought against the owners and captain of the ship, and when judgment had been obtained, if the owners and captain did not pay and the vessel afterwards came within the jurisdiction of the Portuguese Court, the personal judgment could be enforced against the vessel. By the law of nations, damages for a collision were the subject of maritime lien on the vessel which was to blame; but the lien was not created by the judgment. In the Portuguese action in this case judgment was given against the captain and owners by name, and there was no other judgment. There was, indeed, another action in Portugal in which an attempt was made to arrest the vessels, but the embargo, as it was called, was discharged and there was no arrest. It appeared to his Lordship quite clear that the judgment, to enforce which the present action was brought, was only a personal judgment in a personal action. This being so, it was said, first, that the action in Portugal was brought to enforce the maritime lien; and, secondly, that whatever the form of the action, it was really to enforce the maritime lien, and therefore the judgment was in rem, and was binding on the vessel wherever she was. The answer was that it was not an action to enforce the maritime lien. Nothing of the kind was suggested in the proceedings, and it did not even appear that the ship was then within the jurisdiction. No doubt an action to enforce a maritime lien might be commenced without the arrest of the ship. But it appeared by the evidence that no such thing as an action against a ship was known to the law of Portugal, though it was known in this country and in other countries. The judgment did not affect the ship at all, unless she afterwards came within the Portuguese jurisdiction. It was plain that the action was a personal one, and not an action in rem, and the attempt to make it out to be something else was an attempt to change the nature of the action to meet the exigencies of the case, and to make the effect of the Portuguese judgment different from what it really was. The arrest of the ship was therefore wrong, and the proceedings ought to be set aside.

BAGGALLAY and LUSH, L.JJ., expressed their opinions to the same effect.

Bill of Sale—Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31), s. 8—Statement of Consideration.

Appeal by one George Morgan, the claimant to goods which had been seized in execution by the plaintiff. The claimant claimed the goods by virtue of a bill of sale executed in his favour by Mrs. Chaine, the execution debtor. In that bill of sale the consideration for the assignment was stated to be "700*l.* now in hand, paid by the said mortgagee to the said mortgagor" The facts were that Morgan, at the request of Mrs. Chaine, gave 271*l.* to the holder of a previous bill of sale on the same goods, and that he gave her on the occasion of executing the bill in question a cheque for 429*l.*, the balance of the 700*l.* This cheque was cashed before Mrs. Chaine left the office where she executed the bill, and out of the money so received by her 7*l.* 10*s.* was paid to or retained by Morgan for commission on the loan and expenses in connection therewith, and Mrs. Chaine further gave him her promissory note for 10*l.* also in respect of commission on loan and expenses.

The County Court Judge for Brighton, before whom the case came, was of opinion that by reason of the retention of such 7*l.* 10*s.*, the consideration for which the bill of sale was given was not set forth as required by s. 8 of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878, and he accordingly gave judgment for the execution creditor. On appeal this was affirmed by the Divisional Court, and from this last decision the claimant appealed.

Proof in Bankruptcy—Interest after Adjudication—Proof against Two Separate Estates.

A. and W. Collie, partners, were adjudicated bankrupts. Findlay & Co. were admitted to prove against the separate estates of both of the bankrupts in respect of a debt which they had fraudulently contracted. One of the separate estates paid 14*s.* 8*d.* in the pound; the other paid 12*s.* 11*d.* in the pound. Findlay & Co. received 10*s.* in the pound from each estate, and were thus paid their debt in full. The joint estate had paid only 1*s.* 6*d.* in the pound. Findlay & Co. claimed to retain the benefit of their proofs until they had received interest on their debt up to the time of payment. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, acting as Chief Judge, held that they were not entitled to interest after the adjudication until the other creditors, joint and separate, had been paid in full.

Findlay & Co. appealed.

Stirling, for the appellants, contended that each proof was a separate security, and the appellants were entitled to apply their security to payment of interest: Ex parte Warrant Finance Company (Law Rep. 5 Ch. 86); Ex parte Warrant Finance Company (Law Rep. 5 Ch. 88).

Bankruptcy—Examination as to Bankrupt's Property—Production of Documents—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 96.

Thorp was adjudicated a bankrupt in 1877. In 1873, after his marriage, a policy for 4700*l.* on the life of his wife, which had been effected by her before the marriage, was, with his concurrence, assigned to trustees on trust for the wife as her separate property. There had been no ante-nuptial agreement for a settlement. In 1880 the wife died. The trustee in the bankruptcy summoned a solicitor who had formerly acted for the wife, for examination as to the property of the bankrupt. In his examination the solicitor stated that the policy was in his possession; that, by a deed to which Thorp and his wife were parties, it was mortgaged to one Newson; that by another deed the mortgage was transferred by Newson to himself; and that by a third deed Mrs. Thorp had assigned the equity of redemption to him as purchaser. Mr. Registrar Pepys, acting as Chief Judge, ordered that the solicitor should produce these three deeds. The solicitor appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Dryden, for the appellant.
A. Beddall, for the trustee.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay and Lush, L.JJ.) affirmed the Registrar's decision.

JAMES, L.J., said that on the marriage the policy became the husband's property, subject to the wife's equity to a settlement; primâ facie it was the husband's property. It was attempted to make it her separate property by a post-nuptial deed. If it was not disposed of by the wife during her life, it would pass to the husband as survivor, and to his trustee as representing him. The trustee was therefore entitled to production of the three deeds.

Practice—Action — Bankruptcy of Sole Defendant—Making Trustee a Party to the Action—Rules of Court, 1875, Order L. r. 2.

Action by the holders of a bill of exchange against G. A. Dubeux, the sole defendant in the action, who traded as G. A. Dubeux & Co. The defendant by his defence stated that the bill had been delivered to the drawers to discount, who had not done so, and that the plaintiffs took the bill without value and with notice that the defendant had been so defrauded. After issue had been joined the defendant filed a petition in liquidation in the Liverpool County Court, and a liquidation having been resolved upon by the creditors John S. Banner was appointed trustee. The plaintiff obtained an ex parte order from a master, ordering, in the terms of Order L. r. 2, "that such trustee be made a party to the action or be served with notice thereof." The County Court Judge on being applied to by the trustee for that purpose, did not think fit to restrain the action, but restrained the plaintiffs from enforcing any judgment they might obtain in the action either against the property or person of the said liquidating debtor.

CAVE, J., at chambers, affirmed the order of the master making the trustee a party, but he further ordered that if the trustee would consent to be bound by the result of the trial for the purposes of proof, or would admit proof if tendered by the plaintiffs within four days, the said master's order should be set aside.

The trustee appealed to the Divisional Court, and that Court having set aside the said order making the trustee a party, Ancient Lights—New Windows—Evidence.

The plaintiffs were the owners of buildings in Liverpool, erected in 1868 on the site of three cottages which had been pulled down. The action was to restrain the defendants from building so as to interfere with the light coming to the plaintiffs' buildings. There was no original drawing of the cottages, but drawings had been made from memory and information shewing the position of the old windows as partly coinciding with the present windows. The Vice-Chancellor Bacon had dismissed the action, holding that even if the plaintiffs had proved that the old windows coincided with the new windows, no damage had been proved.

The plaintiffs appealed.

North, Q.C., Millar, Q.C., and Bardswell, for the plaintiffs.
Davey, Q.C., and Gent, for the defendants.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Lush, L.JJ.) were of opinion that there was nothing which could be called legal evidence to shew the coincidence of the old with the new windows, and dismissed the appeal with a variation as to an inquiry into damages sustained by the defendants in consequence of an undertaking given by them.

Motion for an injunction to restrain defendant from carrying on the trade of innkeeper, or retailer of wine, &c., upon premises at Dulwich, in breach of stipulations against carrying on such trades affecting the land on which the house occupied by defendant was built, and contained in the conveyance of the land on building lease in 1875.

Defendant's case was that he was tenant under an agreement for a lease from one Dean, who held under Firminger, to whom the property was conveyed on building lease, in 1875, by the the British Land Company, and that defendant had no notice from Dean of any restriction against trade affecting the property.

Marten, Q.C., and Woodhouse, for the plaintiff.

Millar, Q.C., and Dauney, for the defendant, contended that, though bound to make inquiries of his immediate lessor, the defendant was not bound to make any further inquiries of the original lessor.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—The land having been conveyed in 1875, subject to this restriction against trade, that restriction could not be loosed except by consent of the parties, and everyone into whose possession the land came took it subject to this restriction. Notice was immaterial, as the defendant could not take more than his own lessor had to give him. The restriction still existed in all its vigour, and no subsequent owner was justified in breaking it. Plaintiff was entitled to an injunction.

Debentures given to Vendor—Assignment of them to Solicitor for Money lent and Services rendered—Debentures given up to Company to be cancelled for Shares fully paid up—Liquidation—Contributory—Proof for Damages.

Adjourned summons. This company, now in liquidation, entered into a contract to purchase a mine in Australia. They gave as part of the purchase-money two debentures for 500*l.* each, dated in 1873, payable in 1878, and bearing interest at 10 per cent., to Kavenagh, one of the vendors. Kavenagh, for money lent and for services rendered, assigned the two debentures to Mr. Appleyard, and he subsequently gave them up to the company to be cancelled on condition that he should be allotted 500 shares fully paid up. The liquidator had, however, placed Mr. Appleyard on the list of contributories for the shares, and he was called upon to pay two sums of 500*l.* each.

The question now was, whether in respect of the contract between Mr. Appleyard and the company, he was entitled to prove in the liquidation as for damages against the company.

Rigby, Q.C., for the summons taken out by Mr. Appleyard, submitted that he was, upon the decisions in Mudford's Claim, (14 Ch. D. 634) entitled to prove for 1000*l.*, the contract on the part of the company to allot fully paid-up shares in consideration of the giving up to be cancelled of the two debentures not having been performed.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Grosvenor Wood, for the liquidator, opposed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR was of opinion that the contract between the company and Mr. Appleyard had been established. The contract for the purchase of the mine had not been set aside, but had been acted upon, and he could not, on this occasion, treat it as wholly void. The evidence as to the consideration given by Mr. Appleyard was not altogether clear, but he was not able to say, the two debentures having been given in part payment of the purchase-money for the mine, that the giving up of the debentures should be considered as not being any consideration for the issuing of the shares, or that Mr. Appleyard should be treated as having received the debentures, and in substitution for them the shares, as promotion money, and therefore unable to make any claim upon his contract, that the shares should be fully paid up. It appeared to him that the consideration was in part recompense for money lent, and in part services rendered to Kavenagh by Mr. Appleyard as his solicitor. Fraud on the part of Mr. Appleyard had not been suggested. Because Mr. Appleyard was a director and the solicitor of the company, and did not have his contract registered, was no answer to his claim, as his not having done that was not a loss to the company, and the creditors were benefited by the omission. It did not appear to him that the contract was ultra vires, looking at the powers which the directors possessed, under which they could issue the debentures and shares fully paid up. He must hold that Mr. Appleyard was entitled to prove in the liquidation, unless Mudford's Claim were shewn not to be law, but he considered that that case had been supported by the Court of Appeal in White's Case (12 Ch. D. 511). He thought that the case of Houldsworth v. City of Glasgow Bank (5 App. Cas. 317) could not be deemed to be applicable to a case of contract like this, and that this case must be considered to be governed by Mudford's Claim.

Executor—Power to pledge Testator's Assets—Leaseholds—Deposit of Lease to secure Executor's own Debt—Purchaser for Value without Notice—Title-deed.

The sole executor of a testator surrendered a lease belonging to the testator and obtained a renewed lease in his own name. He deposited the renewed lease with a creditor of his own, as security for a private debt of his own. The creditor did not know that the lease was not the executor's own property. The question was whether the creditor was entitled to a charge on the property as against the persons beneficially entitled to the estate. It was contended on his behalf that he was, on the authority of Heath v. Crealock (Law Rep. 10 Ch. 22), at any rate entitled to retain the lease itself.

Glasse, Q.C., and Method, for the creditor.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and D. Jones, for the persons interested in the estate.

FRY, J., said that it was a question which of two equities was entitled to priority. The equity of the testator's estate to the renewed lease attached the moment it was granted; the equity of the creditor did not attach till the deposit was made. There was no superiority in one of these equities over the other, and therefore the ordinary rule must apply qui prior est in tempore potior in jure, and the testator's estate had the better right. And as the creditor had not shewn that he had made any inquiry into the title to the property he could not be allowed to say that he was a purchaser for value without notice. That defence was available only to a man who had made every reasonable inquiry; not to a man who had wilfully shut his eyes.

Covenant to pay Royalty for Coal "shipped for sale"—Practice—Third Parties—Costs—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XVI., rr. 20, 21.

This was an appeal from a judgment of Mr. Justice Fry (Weekly Notes, 1880, p. 108).

The action was brought by the former owners of land under which a coal mine had been opened, against the present owners, claiming damages for a breach of covenant to pay them a royalty on all coal "shipped for sale." The defendants denied their liability, but, in the event of their being held liable, claimed to be indemnified by the Hutton Colliery Company, who were lessees of the mine, and who were accordingly brought before the Court under Order XVI. They, in their turn, claimed an indemnity against certain other parties, who were also brought before the Court. Mr. Justice Fry held that the covenant only extended to coal actually shipped for sale by the proprietors, and did not include coal sent by railway, and he ordered the plaintiffs to pay the costs of the third and fourth parties. The plaintiffs appealed from this decision.

Chitty, Q.C., Cookson, Q.C., and Chapman Barber, for the plaintiffs.

Whitehorne, Q.C. and Wolstenholme, for the defendants.

Davey, Q.C., and J. G. Wood, for the third parties.

Marten, Q.C., C. J. Simpson, and Ellis Davis, for the fourth parties.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Lush, L.JJ.) held that there was no evidence that the deed of covenant had ever been executed by the covenantor, and, consequently, the defendants were under no liability to the plaintiffs, and dismissed the bill with costs as against the defendants, expressing no opinion on the construction of the covenant. They were also of opinion that the Court had no jurisdiction to make the plaintiffs pay the costs of the third and fourth parties; but held that, under the circumstances, the third and fourth parties must bear their own costs.

Bill of Sale—Act of Bankruptcy—Hiring Agreement—Order and Disposition—Evidence of Custom.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins (Weekly Notes, 1880, p. 71).

In May, 1877, Messrs. Lewin, Crawcour, & Co., upholsterers, entered into an agreement with Messrs. W. and F. J. Salter, who held a lease of the Queen's Hotel, Ventnor, to let them a large quantity of furniture for the purposes of the hotel. The furniture was to be paid for by monthly instalments, and on payment of the full price agreed upon it was to become the property of the Salters. Till this had been done it was to remain the property of Messrs. Crawcour. The Salters became bankrupt before the whole price had been paid, and the trustee in the bankruptcy claimed the furniture on the ground that it was at the date of the bankruptcy in the possession of the bankrupts as reputed owners, with the consent of the true owners, Messrs. Crawcour. The Vice-Chancellor was of opinion that the custom of hiring furniture in this way was now so notorious that he was bound to take judicial notice of it, and that its notoriety prevented the bankrupts from being the reputed owners of the furniture. The trustee appealed.

G. Beaumont, for the appellant.

Glasse, Q.C., and Stock, for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (James, Baggallay, and Lush, L.JJ.) agreed with the Vice-Chancellor as to the notoriety of the custom, especially as to the furniture in hotels, and said that no person who gave credit to an hotel keeper was entitled to assume that the furniture of which he was in possession was his own property. The foundation of the doctrine of "reputed ownership" was that a man had been permitted to obtain false credit; this custom was so common and so well known that a man could not gain false credit by the possession of furniture.

The appeal was accordingly dismissed.

Railway Company—Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 31)—Reasonable Facilities for forwarding Traffic—Excessive Charges to Passengers—Jurisdiction of Railway Commissioners.

This was an appeal by the Railway Commissioners from an order of the Divisional Court ordering a writ of prohibition to prohibit the Railway Commissioners from proceeding in the matter of an application made to them by James Brown, under the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854 (17 & 18 Vict. c. 31), and the Railways Regulation Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 48), against charges made by the Great Western Railway Company for conveying him on a certain portion of their line, which charges were, for the purpose of this case, admitted to be in excess of what the said company were authorized by their special Act to charge. The question was whether this was an application which the Commissioners had jurisdiction to entertain, and it was urged on the part of the Commissioners that they had such jurisdiction, as by excessive charges a railway company might omit to offer reasonable facilities for forwarding traffic upon its railway.

The case came on at the Mansion House, and, with the consent of the presiding alderman, the prosecution was withdrawn on Anstruther's wife depositing the title deeds of certain property to which she was entitled for her separate use as security for the loss the plaintiff had sustained. The present action was to enforce the claim against the property. Mrs. Anstruther, by counterclaim, asked for a declaration that the deeds ought to be Lessor—Lessee—Restrictive Covenant—Constructive Notice—Title.

Motion.

By deed dated the 25th of October, 1876, the plaintiff conveyed to one Hervè certain plots of land subject to the restrictions and obligations as to building and other matters contained in an indenture of mutual covenants of even date, one of such covenants being that private dwelling-houses only should be erected.

In 1878 Hervè conveyed the same plots to the defendant Harland, subject to the same restrictions as to building as were contained in his conveyance, and in March, 1881, Harland, having built a dwelling-house on the property, demised it to the defendant Louisa Bennett for the purposes of an art college, but she, before taking the lease, stipulated that she should be at liberty to erect in the garden, at the rear of the house, a studio of corrugated iron, and a proviso to that effect was inserted in the lease. Neither she nor her solicitor was informed or was aware that there was any restrictive covenant affecting the land.

The defendant Bennett having proceeded to erect the studio, this was a motion for an injunction to restrain her and the defendant Harland from erecting or continuing to erect or permitting any building other than a private dwelling-house to remain on the land.

Ince, Q.C., and Shebbeare, for the motion.

Crossley, Q.C., and Simmonds, for Harland.

Byrne, for Miss Bennett, contended that she was not bound by the restrictive covenant.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that she was bound by the covenant having constructive notice of her lessor's title, which she was bound to have inquired into; and further, that the structure in question was within the covenant, not being an adjunct to a private dwelling-house.

BARKER v. PEROWNE.

Tenant for Life and Remainderman—Investment—Dividends—Apportionment.

Testator died on the 7th of March, 1879.

By an order made on the 26th of February, 1880, the trustees were directed on or before the 8th of March, 1880, out of testator's personal estate to raise the sum of 15,000*l.*, together with 124*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* for interest thereon to the 8th of March, 1880, at the rate of 4½ per cent. per annum. The 15,124*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* when raised was to be held upon the trusts of the will.

Oh the 6th of March the trustees raised the 15,000*l.* and placed the same at deposit at a bank (the rate of interest on deposits then being 2 per cent.), and shortly afterwards they paid the widow 124*l.* 4*s.* 2*d.* for interest on the legacy of 15.000*l.*

On the 27th of May, 1880, the trustees invested the 15,000*l.* in the purchase of 4 per cent debenture stock of the North Eastern Railway Company, with interest thereon from the 28th of May; 4 per cent. debenture stock of the Great Western Railway Company, with the accruing half-year's dividend payable on the 1st of July, 1880; 4 per cent. debenture stock of the London and North Western Railway Company, with the accruing half-year's dividend payable on the 15th of July, 1880.

The question raised by adjourned summons was whether the half-year's dividends on the debentures of the Great Western Railway Company and London and North Western Railway Company received by the trustees in July, 1880, were apportionable.

Hemming, Q.C., and Kingdon, for the widow, contended that an apportionment of income would not be directed when the period of investment fell between two dividend days; and that the Apportionment Acts applied only where there was a determination or change of interest, not where there was merely a change of investment.

Horton Smith, Q.C., Speed, and W. B. Heath, for the trustees and persons interested in remainder, contended that the case was within the Apportionment Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict. c. 35), and that unless an apportionment was directed, the tenant for life, who had received interest up to the 8th of March, 1880, and also the deposit interest until the 27th of May, would get interest twice over.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that upon the terms of the will, which directed that the widow should have 4½ per cent. interest on the 15,000*l.* until investment, and the dividends for life of the investment when made with her consent, the widow was entitled to the whole of the dividends received in July, 1880, without any apportionment.

And in case all the children should die under 21 without leaving issue, the fund was given over. The daughter was dead. She had had four children who had all attained 21. T. A. Roberts, for the petitioner.

W. Renshaw. and W. Phipson Beale, for the respondents.

FRY, J., held that the words "payable as aforesaid" meant the attaining by the children of the age of 21, and that the children's shares vested at 21. The fund was consequently divisible into four parts.

Bankruptcy Petition—Alleged Formal Defect—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c 71), ss. 6, 82.

A bankruptcy petition alleged that Henry Palmer "resides and carries on business within the district of S. in the county of Derby as a licensed victualler," and that "the act of bankruptcy committed by him was that he has with intent to defeat or delay his creditors departed from his dwelling-house and place of business, or otherwise absented himself."

Criminal Law—Obstruction of Highway—Indictment—Acquittal—No New Trial.

Indictment for obstruction of a highway. The indictment was found at Quarter Sessions and removed by certiorari into the Queen's Bench Division, and tried at Winchester Assizes in January last before Baggallay, L.J., and a special jury. The defendant pleaded not guilty. He was acquitted.

A rule for a new trial having been obtained on the ground, inter alia, that the verdict was against the weight of evidence.

A. Charles, Q.C., and Bullen, shewed cause, and argued that although new trials had been granted in cases of indictment for non-repair of a highway when the defendant was acquitted, yet those were practically civil proceedings in which a conviction was not followed by imprisonment, but new trials were never granted after acquittal on indictments for obstruction of the highway.

Collins, Q.C., and Warry, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Bowen, J.) said that according to the practice of the Court no new trial could be granted, as the case was one of a criminal kind in which a defendant had been in danger of imprisonment and had been acquitted.

Damage—Liability of Shipowners for Improper Navigation of Master and Crew on High Seas—Respondeat Superior—Conflict of Laws.

This was an action of damage in personam instituted on behalf of the owners of the British screw steamship Harelda against the owners of the Spanish steamship Leon. The collision occurred on the high seas, and the defendants in the 10th paragraph of their statement of defence alleged that before and at the time of the collision the Leon was a Spanish ship sailing under the Spanish flag, and wholly owned by subjects of the king of Spain, and that if the said collision was occasioned by any improper or negligent navigation of the Leon, which the defendants denied, it was wholly occasioned by the negligence of the master or mariners of the Leon, and not by such owners, or the defendants, or any of them, and that, by the law of Spain, in force at the time of the happening of the said collision, and at the date of the statement of defence, the master and mariners of the ship, and not the owners, were liable in damages, in respect of the collision. The plaintiffs demurred to the above paragraph of the statement of defence.

Benjamin, Q.C., and Myburgh, for the plaintiffs, in support of the demurrer.

Webster, Q.C., and E. C. Clarkson, for the defendants, contrà.

THE COURT allowed the demurrer, on the ground that the collision having occurred on the high seas, the owners of the Leon were, under the law administered by this Court, liable, and that the liability of the defendants for the damage proceeded for must be governed by that law, and not by the law of Spain.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. DEACON v. DOLBY. May 11.

Order of Jessel, M.R., affirmed.

From Q. B. Div. May 16.

WRIGHT v. MARWOOD AND OTHERS.

Ship—General Average—Deck Cargo.

Argument of rule nisi for new trial granted by Lord Coleridge, L.C.J., Bramwell and Baggallay, L.JJ.

The plaintiff shipped certain cattle as deck cargo on board the defendants' vessel: during the voyage a storm arose, and owing to stress of weather the master jettisoned the deck cargo by throwing the cattle overboard. The act of jettison was proper and necessary on the part of the master.

At the trial before Brett, L.J., the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff by the direction of the learned Lord Justice, and judgment was entered for him. The Court of Appeal afterwards granted a rule for a new trial upon the ground of misdirection.

March 15. C. Russell, Q.C., and Bigham, shewed cause.

Benjamin, Q.C., and Myburgh, supported the rule.

May 16. THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, L.C.J., Bramwell and Baggallay, L.JJ.) made the rule absolute, and reversed the judgment of Brett, L.J.

Costs—Appeal—Fresh Affidavits filed but not used.

In this case the defendant appealed from an order of Vice-Chancellor Bacon, and in his notice of appeal he gave notice that at the hearing of the appeal he intended to apply for liberty to read a further affidavit as to certain facts. The fresh affidavit having been filed the plaintiff filed affidavits in answer to it. When the appeal was heard the respondent objected to the appellant's fresh affidavit being read, and neither that nor the respondent's affidavits were used.

THE COURT dismissed the appeal with costs.

Woodroffe, for the respondent, asked that the costs of the appeal might include the costs of the affidavits filed by him in answer to the appellant's affidavit.

Marten, Q.C., and R. B. Muir, for the appellant.

JESSEL, M.R., said that the costs of the affidavits could not be allowed. The respondent intended to object to the appellant's affidavit being used, and in that case he ought not to have filed any affidavits in answer to it. His proper course would have been to wait till the hearing and then to apply for time to answer the fresh evidence, if the Court allowed it to be used. The costs were quite needlessly incurred.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL v. BIRMINGHAM DISTRICT BOARD.

Demurrer—Action to enforce Judgment against Successors in Title—Nuisance—District Board.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon. In July, 1858, a suit was instituted in the Court of Chancery by the Attorney-General at the relation of Sir C. B. Adderley (now Lord Norton), and by Sir C. B. Adderley and his son as plaintiffs against the council of the borough of Birmingham, the then sanitary authority for Birmingham, and on the 16th of April, 1875, a decree was made by Vice-Chancellor Bacon granting a perpetual injunction to restrain the defendants, their servants, workmen, and agents, from permitting the sewage of the borough to flow into the river Tame so as to occasion a nuisance to the plaintiffs. The operation of the injunction was suspended for five years to enable the defendants to complete some works for the purification of the sewage. In 1877 a provisional order was made by the Local Government Board, under section 279 of the Public Health Act of 1875, constituting the borough of Birmingham and some adjacent districts a united district for sanitary purposes, and to be governed by a joint board. This order was afterwards confirmed by an Act of Parliament passed in 1877. The new board thus constituted took over or purchased, under the powers given to them by the above order, the outfall and intercepting works belonging to the council of the borough of Birmingham. The period of five years for which the operation of the injunction was suspended expired in April, 1880, and in February, 1881, the plaintiffs commenced the present action against the new district board, asking a declaration that the decree in the former suit was now binding as between the plaintiffs and the new board. The statement of claim did not allege that the new board had committed any breach of the injunction. The defendants demurred to the statement of claim, on the ground that it did not shew any cause of action against them. Vice-Chancellor Bacon overruled the demurrer and the defendants appealed.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., Horton Smith, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, for the appellants.

Davey, Q.C., Rodwell, Q.C., and Carson, for the respondents.

JESSEL, M.R., said he was of opinion that the action could not be maintained. The case was clearly one of first impression; no one had ever heard of such an action before. There was nothing like it in the old practice of the Court of Chancery. The first observation was that in the old suit the injunction granted was only against the council of the borough, their servants, workmen, and agents, and it did not run with the land. If they sold the land, the injunction would not affect the purchaser. If he committed a nuisance, a fresh action could be brought against him; but he would be in no way bound by the former proceedings. It was said, however, that by virtue of the Public Health Act of 1875, the new board was bound by the old decree. The section of the Act relied upon was the 275th, and it was said that the effect of it was to transfer to the new board the obligations of the town council. That section, however, was limited to obligations attaching under the Act. The obligations arising under the decree had nothing to do with the Act, and therefore that section did not make the decree binding on the new board. No other ground having been suggested, the demurrer should have been allowed, and the appeal must be allowed.

JAMES and LUSH, L.JJ., concurred.

Partnership—Dissolution by Court—Date from which Dissolution ordered.

In this case the plaintiff and defendant carried on the profession of medical practitioners in partnership, under articles dated the 14th of December, 1875. The partnership was to continue during their joint lives, and there was no stipulation as to any previous dissolution.

Differences having arisen the present action was commenced claiming a dissolution of the partnership. Vice-Chancellor Bacon ordered that the partnership should be dissolved from the date of the writ, and also made an order with respect to the premium paid by the plaintiff. The defendant appealed.

Davey, Q.C., and J. G. Wood, for the appellant, contended that the dissolution ought to be from the date of the judgment. They referred to Besch v. Frolich (1 Phil. 172).

Caldecott, for the plaintiff.

JESSEL, M.R., said that as to the question from what date the partnership ought to be dissolved, he was of opinion that when there had been no definite breach of the partnership articles, the proper order was that the dissolution ought to be from the date of the judgment. The inconvenience of making a retrospective order and taking the accounts on that footing would be very great. With respect to the question of the premium, it was a matter within the discretion of the judge, and unless there was some clear miscarriage, the Court of Appeal would not interfere with his decision.

Administration—Insolvent Estate—Covenant to pay on certain Event—Annuity—Valuation—Contingent Liabilities—Contingency happening during Administration—Proof of Debts—Rebate of Interest—Judicature Act, 1875, s. 10—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 31—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 77.

A testator covenanted by deed for payment to his daughter of a sum of 5000*l.*, with interest at 4 per cent. per annum, within one month after the death of his wife: also for payment to his daughter of an annuity of 100*l.* during the joint lives of himself and his wife, and the life of the survivor, if his daughter should so long live.

The testator died in 1879, insolvent, leaving his widow and daughter surviving, and a judgment was made, in a creditor's action, for administration of his estate.

The daughter having sent in claims in respect of the principal sum and the annuity, both were valued as at the date of the judgment, but subsequently the widow died.

No certificate had yet been made in the action.

Held, applying the rules in bankruptcy as to contingent liabilities (Judicature Act, 1875, s. 10), that the daughter was entitled to prove for the full amount of the 5000*l.*, less a rebate of interest at 4 per cent. per annum for the period between the date of the judgment and the death of the widow; and that her proof in respect of the annuity must be treated on the same principle.

Practice—Debtors Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 62), s. 4, subs. 3—Contempt of Court—Attachment—Form of Order.

Administration action.

The executrix, who was defendant in the action, was in November last ordered to pay into Court the proceeds of the testator's estate, which she had realized, the amount thereof to be verified by affidavit.

Not having complied with this order, an order was subsequently made that an attachment should be issued against her, but when this order came to be drawn up the Registrar objected that as no sum was specified in the order, the case was not within the exception in sub-s. 3 of sect. 4 of the Debtors Act, 1869.

E. C. Willis now asked that the order might be drawn up, notwithstanding this objection.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the Act must be strictly construed, and the real contempt being the default in making the affidavit, the case was not within the sub-section. The applicant must take some other proceeding.

Practice—Partition Act, 1876 (39 & 40 Vict. c. 17), s. 6.—Request for Sale by Married Woman.

Partition action.

A husband and wife were co-plaintiffs; and the parties desiring a sale, the question was how the request for sale should be made by the married woman.

Bardswell, for the plaintiffs, suggested that the order should be in the form adopted in Crookes v. Whitworth (10 Ch. D. 289). The married woman "by her counsel, duly authorized, requesting a sale," but stated that in a recent case of Wallace v. Greenwood (16 Ch. D. 362), the Master of the Rolls considered that the request should be made by some one separately and specially authorized on her behalf.

Methold, as amicus curiæ, stated that in a similar case in which he was counsel, the Master of the Rolls had accepted a written request by the married woman authorizing her counsel to ask for a sale.

A. C. Sém, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR directed that there should be a request in writing by the married woman authorizing and requesting her solicitor to instruct counsel to ask for a sale.

Executor—Retainer—Equitable Assets—3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 104.

This was a suit instituted in 1865 for the administration of the real and personal estate of a testator who died in April, 1865. The will contained no charge of debts on real estate. The plaintiff was an executor; the defendants were the testator's widow, who was executrix, and the daughters of the testator, who took benefits under the will, and their husbands. The plaintiff died in 1867, and the suit was revived by his executrix. The widow did not die till after August, 1876. In 1866 an administration decree was made. In 1867 another suit for the administration of the plaintiff's estate was instituted by one of the original testator's daughters and her husband. The specialty debts of the original testator amounted to 51,000*l.*; his personal estate realized only 43,000*l.* His real estate was sold, and the proceeds of sale were paid into Court. In August 1876, an order was made for payment of the specialty debts out of the funds then in Court, which had arisen partly from personal estate, and partly from the sale of real estate, the whole of the fund which had arisen from personal estate being applied in this way. After this payment had been made, further funds came into Court, partly from personal estate and partly from real estate. These funds, with the balance of the proceeds of real estate which remained in Court after paying the specialty debts, were insufficient to pay the simple contract debts in full. The suit now came on for further consideration. The executrix of the original plaintiff claimed to be paid in priority a simple contract debt which the testator owed him, and, with her consent, a summons was taken out by the plaintiff in the second suit, asking that the amount of that debt might be carried over out of the funds in the Court in the first suit to the credit of the second suit.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and W. Barber, for the executrix of the original plaintiff.

North, Q.C., and Chapman Barber, for the summons.

Glasse, Q.C., and Oswald, for other parties, supported the summons.

Cookson, Q.C., T. Stevens, and H. Follows, for the representative of the original testator, opposed.

FRY, J., said that the executor's right of retainer existed only inter pares, and if the personal estate had been applied first in payment of the specialty debts they would have exhausted it, and the executor could never have asserted the right. The right applied only to legal assets, and did not apply to assets which were made such by the statute 3 & 4 Wm. 4. That statute made real estate only assets in equity; the proceeds of sale never came into the hands of the executor; and there was no incapacity on his part to sue by reason of his being executor, for he never could have sued at all in respect of these assets. If, therefore, there was any right of retainer in the present case it must arise by reason of the accident that the specialty debts had not been paid in the first instance out of the personal estate. This accident could not prevent the Court from administering the assets according to the legal rights of the parties, and, moreover, the executor above all persons was bound by the rule that legal assets were the first fund to be resorted to for the payment of debts. The order of August, 1876, must have proceeded upon the right of the specialty creditors to be paid out of any funds which were available, and could not have been intended to enlarge the rights of the executor. The specialty debts had exhausted the legal assets, and the executor had no right of retainer against equitable assets. Consequently, there was no fund as against which he had any right of retainer, and the summons must be dismissed.

Kay, J. CLARKE v. HARCOURT. May 19.

Registration of Design—Alleged Fraudulent Imitation.

The plaintiffs, who were brass founders, had registered under the Act 5 & 6 Vict. c. 100, s. 1, class 1, a design applicable to the ornamenting of drop-down handles, and they claimed an injunction to restrain the defendants, who were also brass founders, from applying the said design, or any fraudulent imitation thereof, for the purpose of sale, to any articles manufactured by them.

The defence was that the plaintiff's design was not new or original, and that it had no reference to any purpose of ornamentation for which a design could be lawfully registered, and that the defendants had not applied such design or any imitation thereof to articles sold by them.

Rigby, Q.C., and Beale, for the plaintiffs.

W. Karslake, Q.C., and Owen, for the defendants.

HIS LORDSHIP said this was a case of the registration of a design for ornament applied to an article, and not a case of utility, and the only question was whether the entire design had been fraudulently imitated, in respect of the back-plate, standards, cross-bar, and drop. He felt justified, from the evidence of the witnesses as well as his own eyesight, in coming to the conclusion that the two designs were entirely different, and the action must be dismissed with costs.

After an act of bankruptcy had been committed, a judgment creditor for a sum exceeding 50*l.*, having no knowledge of the act of bankruptcy, issued an elegit against the goods of the debtor (there being no land), and the sheriff took possession; but before inquisition proceedings were commenced, a bankruptcy petition was filed, and the sheriff was restrained.

Warmington, for the appellant, the judgment creditor.

R. Vaughan Williams, for the respondent, the trustee in bankruptcy.

Warmington, in reply.

Licensing Acts—Retail Bottle Licence—24 & 25 Vict. c. 21—Sale of Spirits after Closing Time—37 & 38 Vict. c. 49, s. 3—"All Premises."

Case stated by justices of Barrow-in-Furness.

The appellant was convicted on an information laid under sections 3 and 9 of the Licensing Act, 1874, for unlawfully keeping open his premises for the sale of intoxicating liquors by retail at 12 p. m., a time when premises for the sale of intoxicating liquors by retail were by the Act directed to be closed.

The appellant was holder of a retail bottle licence in addition to a wholesale licence granted by the Excise under 24 & 25 Vict. c. 21. He did not hold any licence granted by the licensing justices for the sale of intoxicating liquors. The appellant's premises were used exclusively for the sale of intoxicating liquors.

The sale of a bottle of gin after 12 p.m. on the 14th of August on the premises was proved and admitted, but the appellant contended that he had a right to sell it, and that although 37 & 38 Vict. c. 49, s. 3, enacts that "all premises in which intoxicating liquors are sold by retail shall be closed" as in the section is prescribed, the marginal note refers to "premises licensed" for the sale of intoxicating liquors, and that the section dealt only with the "licensed premises" defined by sect. 74 of the Licensing Act, 1872, viz. premises in respect of which a licence as defined by that Act has been granted by the magistrates.

J. F. Clerk, for the appellant.

Shee, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Huddleston, B., and Hawkins, J.) said that the 37 & 38 Vict. c. 49, s. 3, applied, and the conviction was right.

Conviction affirmed.

Forgery—Inchoate negotiable Instrument—Common Law Forgery.

The prisoner was convicted before Stephen, J., at the last assizes at Durham under the following circumstances:—

The prisoner purchased certain goods upon the terms that he should give to the vendors his acceptance for the price of the goods, indorsed by a solvent third party. The vendors sent to the prisoner, for such acceptance and indorsement, a document in the form of a bill of exchange for the price, but without any drawer's name thereon. The prisoner returned this document accepted by himself, and with what purported to be an indorsement by a third party named Hunt. No drawer's name was ever inserted upon the document. The signature of Hunt was a forgery, the prisoner forged the indorsement which purported to be that of Hunt.

The prisoner was indicted for the offences of feloniously forging and feloniously uttering a certain indorsement on a bill of exchange. He was found guilty of such offences, subject to the opinion of this Court, as to whether, under the above circumstances, the conviction was correct.

No counsel appeared.

Held by THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, L.C.J., Grove, Hawkins, Lopes, and Stephen, JJ.) that the document was not a bill of exchange, as it bore no drawer's name, and held further, per Stephen, J., that the prisoner might have been convicted had he been indicted for a common law forgery.

Conviction quashed.

C. C. R. REG. v. FENNELL. May 21.

Confession, Admissibility of—Evidence—Inducement to confess.

The prisoner was convicted on the 11th of April, 1881, at the Surrey Sessions, evidence having been received, upon the trial, of a confession made by the prisoner to the prosecutor in the presence of a police inspector, after the prosecutor had said to the prisoner "you had better tell the truth, it may be better for you."

The question for the opinion of this Court was whether such confession had been rightly received in evidence. If not rightly received the conviction was to be quashed.

J. Mews, appeared for the prisoner.

A. Prankerd, appeared for the prosecution.

Held by THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, L.C.J., Grove, Hawkins, Lopes, and Stephen, JJ.) that the evidence was not rightly received.

Conviction quashed.

COMMISSIONERS OF SUPPLY OF THE COUNTY OF ABERDEEN, APPS.; MORICE, RESP.

Construction of the Roads and Bridges (Scotland) Act, 1878, ss. 7, 37.

This action was raised by the respondent as representing the Wellington Suspension Bridge trustees, to have it found (inter alia) that these trustees are henceforth entitled to be relieved of all their duties and liabilities in connection with the Wellington Bridge and the roads leading therefrom, by the county road trustees of Kincardineshire and the commissioners of supply of Aberdeenshire taking over the management of the bridge and roads, and the liability for the debts due thereon. The Wellington Bridge spans the river Dee, and the trust embraces 650 yards of road in the county of Aberdeen, and about four miles of road in the county of Kincardine. The immediate cause of the action was the adoption by the county of Kincardine of the Roads and Bridges (Scotland) Act, 1878; but the county of Aberdeen has not yet adopted that Act. Under the Local Acts 10 Geo. 4, c. 43, and 23 Vict. c. 26, the bridge was erected and subsequently managed and maintained.

The principal defenders to the action were the county road trustees of Kincardine (who acquiesced in the judgment of the Court of Session) and the Commissioners of Supply for the county of Aberdeen, who are the present appellants.

On the 19th of March, 1880, the Second Division, adhering to the interlocutor of the Lord Ordinary (Lord Young), found in favour of the pursuers to the effect that the Local Acts above given have ceased to be of force and effect within the county of Kincardine; and that under s. 7 of the Roads and Bridges Act, 1878, the pursuers had ceased to be under any obligation, right, privilege, or duty, in regard to the management or maintenance of the Wellington Suspension Bridge, and the road by the said bridge towards the city of Aberdeen; and that the county road trustees of Kincardine and the commissioners of supply of the county of Aberdeen are bound to maintain and keep in proper repair the said bridge and road; and further, that the pursuers (the bridge trustees) have ceased to be liable for the debts incurred by them as trustees, and for the sums subscribed, for the erection and creation of the said bridge and road, and that the defenders, the county road trustees of Kincardine, and the commissioners of supply of the county of Aberdeen, are jointly and severally liable therefor, and are bound to free and relieve the pursuers thereof.

On appeal,

The Solicitor-General for Scotland (Mr. J. B. Balfour, Q.C.) and Mr. Benjamin, QC., were heard for the appellants.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., and Mr. Badenoch Nicolson (of the Scotch Bar), were heard for the respondent.

THE LORDS reversed the interlocutors appealed from; and declared that the true effect of the Road and Bridges (Scotland) Act was to continue in force the Local Acts, 10 Geo. 4, and 23 Vict., so far as relates to the powers and duties imposed on the pursuers for the management and maintenance of that part of the bridge and road which is within the county and parliamentary burgh of Aberdeen, together with the powers of demanding and taking tolls, or pontage, within the county of Aberdeen, conferred by the above cited Local Acts, so long as the Road and Bridges Act shall not be in force in the county of Aberdeen; that the liability of the pursuers for the debts incurred under the Local Acts had now ceased and fallen upon the county road trustees of Kincardine and the appellants; that the appellants were entitled to receive from the pursuers all surplus of income accruing to them from the tolls, after providing for the expense of management and maintenance, and that they so paying over the surplus were entitled to be relieved by the appellants from the proportion of the debts belonging under the Roads and Bridges Act, 1878, to the county and parliamentary burgh of Aberdeen until the said Act shall be in force in the said county and burgh. And declaring that as regards that part of the bridge and road which is within the county of Kincardine the Acts 10 Geo. 4, and 23 Vict., have ceased to be in force; and that the road trustees of Kincardine are bound to maintain and keep in proper repair that part of the bridge and road; and to relieve the trustees from the proportion of the debts belonging thereto.

Cause remitted with these declarations, and ordered that there should be no costs of the appeal.

MACDOUGALL, APP.; May 17.
EARL OF BREADALBANE AND HOLLAND, RESP.

Casualty of Superiority—Lands described by the same Name.

This was an appeal against a judgment of the First Division of the Court of Session, Scotland, finding the appellant liable to pay to the respondent a casualty of one year's rent, 284*l.* 13*s.*, of the appellant's estate of six-merk land of old extent of Soroba, in the county of Argyle.

The only question was whether the respondent is truly the superior of the "six-merk land of Soroba," of which the appellant is proprietor. The appellant produced a regular progress of titles to the dominium utile of the lands commencing with a disposition by Major Duncan MacDougall in favour of Hugh Munro and sasine therein, dated 1824, and terminating with a disposition in the appellant's favour by George G. Mackay, dated 1870. During all these years no entry had been taken with the superior. But it appeared that in 1821 Major Duncan MacDougall had been infeft in the lands now held by the appellant, conform to a precept of clare constat granted by the respondent's predecessor, as superior, and Major MacDougall's father and grandfather had also been entered with the respondent's predecessors as the superiors, the former in 1795, and the latter in 1740. Thus all the entries in the appellant's lands have been taken since 1740 with the respondent's predecessors, and in such circumstances the respondent maintained that the rule of law in Innes v. Gordon (Ct. Sess. Cas. 2nd Series, vol. vii. p. 141) applied. The appellant contended that there was no evidence to establish that the "six-merk land of Soroba" possessed by him are the lands of which the respondent holds the superiority, and he produced certain titles which he alleged instruct that MacDougall of Dunolly holds the "six-merk land of Soroba" directly under the Duke of Argyll, conform to a series of titles dated back to 1745; and that he and not the respondent is the superior of the appellant's lands.

The Court below (4th November, 1880), adhering to the interlocutor of the Lord Ordinary (Lord Curriehill), found that the respondent was the superior of the lands belonging to the appellant.

On appeal,

Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Grosvenor Woods, were heard for the appellant.

The Solicitor-General for Scotland (Mr. J. B. Balfour, Q.C.) and Mr. Young, appeared for the respondent, but were not called upon.

THE CONSERVATORS OF THE RIVER LEE NAVIGATION
v. BUTTON.

Lee Navigation—Soil and Freehold of the Land forming the Towing-path—Injunction.

The appellants were the conservators of the River Lee Navigation, appointed in virtue of different Local Acts of Parliament, under which they claimed to be owners of the freehold of the soil running along the banks of the river, and they had brought an action against the defendant (now the respondent) alleging that he had occasioned damage to the towing path, claiming damages from him for the alleged injury, and asking also for an injunction to restrain him from repeating the acts of which they complained.

The defence set up was that the appellants were not owners of the soil and freehold of the towing path, that the part thereof in front of his own land had never been sold to them by the respondent, or his predecessors in title, and that they did not possess the freehold of it in virtue of any of the Acts passed with reference to the Lee navigation. The fact of the respondent having occasioned damage to the towing path was also denied.

The cause was heard before Vice-Chancellor Malins, who, on May, 1878, pronounced a decree in favour of the appellants, declaring them to be possessed of the soil and freehold of the towing-path, and granting an injunction against the defendant to restrain him from using the towing-path with horses and carriages, &c., or using the same otherwise than as a footway. On appeal this decree was ordered to be reversed, the Lords Justices being of opinion that the plaintiffs had not established any right to the freehold, or any possessory right to the towing-path connected with the river Lee; but their Lordships granted a perpetual injunction to restrain the defendant from, in any way, damaging or obstructing the towing-path connected with the river Lee navigation, or using the same in any manner which interfered with its free use for the navigation of the river (12 Ch. D. 883).

The conservators then brought this appeal.

Mr. J. N. Higgins, Q.C., Mr. Crossley, Q.C., and Mr. Birrell, for the respondent, were not called on.

HARE, APP.; v. OVERSEERS OF PUTNEY, RESPS.

Poor-rate—Occupier ceasing to occupy—32 & 33 Vict. c. 41, s. 16 —Bridge free of Toll—Beneficial Occupation.

By virtue of 40 & 41 Vict. c. xcix. (local), the Metropolitan Board of Works purchased and took possession of Putney Bridge on the 26th of June, 1880, and from that day threw it open for the use of the public free of toll. The Putney Bridge Company, in whom the bridge was vested prior to such purchase, had before that time levied tolls on persons using the bridge, and were duly rated to the poor-rate in respect thereof by the respondents. At the time of the transfer of the bridge, viz. the 26th of June, 1880, there remained unpaid a poor-rate, in respect of which the bridge had been assessed, which had been made on the 24th of April, 1880, for a period extending beyond the 26th of June, 1880. The appellant, who represented the Putney Bridge Company, contended that by the transfer to the Metropolitan Board of Works the Putney Bridge Company had ceased to occupy, and the Metropolitan Board of Works had come into the occupation of the bridge, and that, therefore, by virtue of s. 16 of the Poor-rate Assessment Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 41), the Putney Bridge Company were liable only for so much of the rate as was proportionate to the time of their occupation. The justices decided, however, that the Putney Bridge Company were liable to the parish for the whole of the rate, and on a special case stated by the justices, the Queen's Bench Division affirmed this on the authority of Overseers of St. Werburgh v. Hutchinson (5 Ex. D. 19).

Charles, Q.C., and Danckwerts, for the appellant.

Jelf, Q.C., and Morton Smith, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the Metropolitan Board of Works were not beneficial occupiers of the bridge capable of being rated in respect of it, and that as there were therefore no occupiers who could be rated who came into the occupation immediately on the Putney Bridge Company ceasing to occupy, the latter remained liable for the whole rate which had been so previously made.

This was an appeal by the plaintiffs from an order of Vice-Chancellor Hall transferring the action, on the application of the defendants, to the Queen's Bench Division.

The action was brought on a policy of marine insurance, warranted free from particular average under 3 per cent., unless general or the ship stranded, for a particular average loss sustained by the plaintiffs in respect of their vessel called the Vancouver. The plaintiffs delivered their statement of claim setting out the policy and averring a particular average loss by perils insured against, to an extent not under 3 per cent of the declared value of the ship, and claimed to have the amount of the loss and the charges and expenses payable by the defendants ascertained by the Court, and for that purpose that an account should be taken.

The defendants, before delivering their statement of defence, applied to transfer the action to the Queen's Bench Division, and on the hearing of the application stated that they desired to have the questions of fact tried by a jury.

The Vice-Chancellor made an order transferring the action to the Queen's Bench Division, subject to the consent of the President of that division. From this order the plaintiffs appealed.

Davey, Q.C., and Stirling, for the plaintiffs.

Rigby, Q.C., and Manisty, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and James and Lush L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal, observing that the action was one which could more conveniently be dealt with and disposed of in the division in which all actions of that character had hitherto been brought, involving as they did questions of fact proper for the decision of a mercantile jury of the city of London. There were no special circumstances in the case rendering it expedient to retain it in the Chancery Division.

Undischarged Bankrupt—Remuneration for Personal Services—Architect—Right to sue—Substitution of Trustee as Plaintiff.

This was an appeal from a decision of Mr. Justice Fry (17 Ch. D. 169). The plaintiff was an architect, and in 1877 the defendant agreed to employ him for the building of a theatre. In April, 1878, the plaintiff was adjudicated a bankrupt. In June, 1880, he was dismissed by the defendant. The plaintiff brought the action claiming 1790*l.* as remuneration for services rendered under the agreement subsequently to the adjudication and 3000*l.* for wrongful dismissal. The plaintiff not having obtained a discharge in the bankruptcy, the trustee took out a summons in the action, asking that he might be substituted as plaintiff in the action in the place of the bankrupt, and might be at liberty to carry on the proceedings. Mr. Justice Fry was of opinion that, although the personal services of the bankrupt as architect were an inducement to the contract, the fruit of the contract by way of remuneration and the right to damages for wrongful dismissal passed to the trustee, and that the trustee had a right to intervene in the action. And his Lordship added the trustee as a co-plaintiff, and gave him the conduct of the proceedings. The bankrupt appealed.

Beddall, for the appellant.

F. Turner, and G. A. Vennell, for the trustee.

JESSEL, M.R., said that he entirely agreed with Mr. Justice Fry. No doubt the words of the Bankruptcy Act were large enough to pass everything which a bankrupt had to his trustee. But there were many cases in which it had been held that money paid to a bankrupt for his manual labour or personal services was not to be taken by the trustee. Those cases had no application to a case like the present. The plaintiff was an architect carrying on his business in the ordinary way, with extensive offices and a staff of clerks. Could it be supposed that such large sums as were claimed in this action were to be kept by an undischarged bankrupt? None of the Judges who had made the distinction between personal earnings and property ever dreamt of laying down such law as that. Mr. Justice Fry had arrived at a right conclusion as to the title to the subject-matter of the claim, and that being so, he was also right in adding the trustee as a co-plaintiff, Trustee in Bankruptcy—Disclaimer of Onerous Property of Bankrupt—Effect on Rights and Liabilities of Third Parties—Construction of Statutes—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 23.

Per JESSEL, M.R., and JAMES and LUSH, L.JJ.

A disclaimer by the trustee in a bankruptcy of a lease or other onerous obligation of a bankrupt operates only so far as is necessary to relieve the bankrupt and his estate and the trustee from liability, and does not otherwise affect the rights or liabilities of third parties.

If, for instance, the bankrupt has granted an under-lease of property leased to him, a disclaimer of the original lease by the trustee does not affect the right of the original lessor to distrain on the property for the rent reserved by the original lease, and to re-enter for breach of covenant or non-payment of rent.

But, if the under-lease is made at a rent less than the rent reserved by the original lease, the under-lessee is, after the disclaimer, entitled to prove in the bankruptcy for the value of the difference between the two rents.

The object of sect. 23 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, is only to relieve the bankrupt and his estate and the trustee from liability, and it was not intended otherwise to affect the rights or liabilities of third parties.

A statute may be construed contrary to its literal meaning when a literal construction would result in an absurdity or an inconsistency, and the words are susceptible of another construction which will effectuate the manifest intention.

Bill of Sale—Registration—Inventory of Goods—Receipt of Sheriff's Officer for Purchase-money of Goods sold under Execution—Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31.)

Appeal by the claimant against an order of Mathew and Williams, JJ., deciding that the goods seized by the sheriff belonged as against him to the plaintiff.

The goods seized were originally those of the defendant, and on the 6th of January, 1879, the sheriff took possession of them under a writ of fi. fa., issued upon a judgment obtained against the defendant by Copland. On the same day the claimant agreed to purchase from the sheriff the goods which were then on a farm in the occupation of the defendant, and paid a deposit of 40*l.* on account of the purchase-money, and thereupon the sheriff gave possession of the goods to Salmon, who, nevertheless, allowed the defendant to remain in possession. On the following day the claimant sent the sheriff a cheque for the remainder of the purchase-money, and on the 8th of January, the sheriff's officer sent a receipt together with an inventory of the goods; the inventory was apparently affixed to the receipt by a pin only; but a letter to the claimant was written on the same piece of paper as the receipt, and it referred to both the inventory and receipt.

The question was whether the inventory and the receipt ought to have been registered under the Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31).

Charity—Scheme—Cy-près—Diversion of Gift to Educational Purposes.

This was an appeal from an order of Vice-Chancellor Hall made in the petition of the vicar and some of the inhabitants of the parish of St. Mary Abbotts, Kensington, by which he disallowed the scheme settled by the Charity Commissioners for the regulation of the Campden Charities (Weekly Notes, 1880, p. 151).

The property comprised in the scheme was derived from three sources: (1.) From the will of Viscount Campden in 1629, who gave 200*l.* for the benefit of the poor of the town of Kensington in such manner as the churchwardens should determine; (2.) From the will of Lady Campden in 1643, who gave 200*l.* to be laid out in the purchase of land, the income of which was to be applied as to one half for the better relief of the most poor and needy people of good life and conversation in the parish of Kensington, to be given in doles at the church door, and as to the other half, in apprenticing one or more poor boys of the parish; (3.) From a gift by an unknown donor, which went by the name of Cromwell's gift. This was laid out in 1651, in the purchase of a piece of land, which was conveyed to trustees, but no trust was declared. The property had increased enormously in value, and now produced an income of upwards of 3000*l.* a year.

For a long time the charities had been administered by the the same body of trustees, who had applied the income of Lord Campden's gift in pensions to the deserving poor of the various districts into which the parish had been divided; and the income of Lady Campden's gift, half in similar pensions and half in apprenticing poor boys; and the income of Cromwell's gift, three-fourths in similar pensions and one-fourth in apprenticeship fees.

The Charity Commissioners in 1878 settled a scheme for the future management of the charity, by which they proposed to apply part only of the income of the Charity property in eleemosynary purposes, and the other moiety in the promotion of education, with power to the trustees to apply some part of that moiety in the apprenticeship of poor boys.

The vicar and some of the parishioners objected to this scheme, and the Vice-Chancellor remitted the scheme to the commissioners, holding that it was not in accordance with the directions of the donors.

The commissioners appealed from this decision.

Davey, Q.C., Vaughan Hawkins, and Cecil Russell, for the appellants.

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Lewin, for the respondents, the petitioners.

JESSEL, M.R., said that the scheme settled by the commissioners was made in pursuance of the cy-près doctrine. He was of opinion that the present was eminently a case for the application of that doctrine. The property had increased enormously in value, and the parish had increased from being a small village to a large and wealthy suburb of London. Moreover, the habits of society had very much changed. There was no question about Lord Campden's gift and Cromwell's gift, the only difficulty arose from the terms of Lady Campden's will. But it could not be supposed that, if Lady Campden had foreseen the present state of circumstances, she would have given the same directions. The system of apprenticeship, which was then compulsory, was now almost obsolete; and every one agreed that the practice of giving charity by doles at the church-doors was demoralizing to the poor. He therefore quite agreed with the commissioners in the principle of the scheme which they had drawn up. As to the particular objections which had been made to the scheme he did not think they were tenable, and if he did he should not consider it his duty to interfere with a scheme which had been settled by a body of competent persons selected by the legislature for that purpose; unless he were satisfied that they had gone wrong in law, or had made some slip or gross miscarriage. The order of the Vice-Chancellor must therefore be discharged.

In pursuance of the standing orders a sum of 1780*l.* was deposited with the Court of Chancery in respect of the application to Parliament for the last-mentioned Act.

The company never gave any notice to treat for and never purchased any lands under the powers conferred upon it by the Acts of 1872 and 1874, never commenced the railways authorized by the Acts, and had not paid up one half of the capital authorized to be raised, nor expended for the purposes of the Acts a sum equal in amount to one half the capital.

This was a petition on behalf of a person claiming to be a judgment creditor of the company for 1274*l.*, asking that a receiver of the undertaking of the company might be appointed, and for an inquiry what compensation was due to any landowners, and that the sum of 1942*l.* 14*s.* 1*d.* New 3 per cent. Annuities, which represented the deposit money of 1780*l.*, might be applied by the receiver in payment of the compensation (if any) and of the amount due to the petitioner and the other creditors of the company.

H. B. Buckley, for the petitioner.

Whitehorne, Q.C., for the directors.

Brooksbank, for the company.

Stirling, for the Crown.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that the railways authorized by the Acts never having been commenced the company was not an undertaking within the meaning of sect. 4 of the Railway Companies Act, 1867; and that therefore no receiver could be appointed, and dismissed the petition, but without costs.

GREAT EASTERN RAILWAY COMPANY v. NORWICH AND SPALDING RAILWAY COMPANY.

Practice—Costs—Defendant's Costs of taking Copies of and perusing Answer of co-Defendant.

Summons by defendants named Cobbold and others, seeking to vary a certificate of the taxing master (Skirrow), who had disallowed them costs of taking copies of and perusing answers of their co-defendants the company. The suit was instituted in 1875, and went on to replication under the old practice. The hearing was under the new practice, upon vivâ voce evidence only. Judgment was given for the plaintiffs on the 26th of June, 1880, the costs to be paid by the defendants, the company, and the costs of the present applicants to be paid by the plaintiffs, and added to their own. The master had overruled the applicants' objection on the ground that the defendants, not having given notice of their intention to read the answers, there being no issue between them and their co-defendants, were not entitled to those costs.

Terrell, for the summons, read a statement, not in evidence, said to have been made by the master, to the effect that had the action been altogether under the present practice, he should after replication, have allowed defendants to take copies of the statements of defence of their co-defendants, allowing perusal, payment for copy, and copy for counsel. He contended that, under the circumstances of this case, these answers under the old practice were equivalent to statements of defence under the new, and hence within the master's own rule. The master must have been in error in supposing that the defendants by giving notice of their intention to read the answer, could have made them evidence at the hearing, which went upon vivâ voce evidence only.

Hemming, Q.C., and Smart, for the plaintiffs:—The applicants were mere trustees, and the answers could have been of no possible use to them.

T. H. Robertson, for the defendants, the company:—It is plain that the new practice has not given to these defendants any rights which they had not under the old.

Terrell, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR, referring to what had been stated to be the taxing master's view as to the new practice, said he did not admit the existence of any such rule, but even if it were the proper rule, it was clear these answers were filed under the old practice, and therefore did not come within it. The circumstance that the hearing took place under the new practice could not turn an answer into a statement of defence.

Summons dismissed; and, being an experiment only, with costs.

Father and Child—Deed obtained by Undue Influence—Onus Probandi—Purchaser for Value without Notice.

The plaintiffs, a daughter and two sons, when they were respectively of the ages of 25, 24, and 22, at the request of their father executed a deed by which they assigned their reversionary interests (subject to the life estate of their father and mother) in the funds subject to the trusts of the marriage settlement of the father and mother to some mortgagees of their father, to secure the future punctual payment of the interest on the mortgage debts, which had fallen into arrear, the consideration for the assignment being the reduction of the rate of interest reserved by the mortgage deeds in the event of punctual payment. The plaintiffs brought the action against the mortgagees and the father, claiming to set aside the deed, on the ground that they executed it under their father's influence; that they had no independent advice; that the deed was never explained to them, and that they were ignorant of its contents, and believed that it only carried out an arrangement, to which they had previously assented, for a change of the investment of the trust funds. By the evidence at the trial it appeared that the deed was prepared or approved by the father's solicitor, who professed to be acting on behalf of the plaintiffs as well as of their father, and that the mortgagees had no notice of any undue influence being exercised over the plaintiffs. There was no evidence that they knew the ages of the plaintiffs, except that the marriage settlement (executed in 1851) was recited in the deed (executed in 1877) which it was sought to set aside.

Glasse, Q.C., and Freeman, for the plaintiffs.

North, Q.C., and Rigby, Q.C., for the mortgagees.

The father did not appear.

FRY, J., said it was plain that the plaintiffs had not been emancipated from their father's control, and though there was no distinct evidence of pressure by him, his Lordship thought that, as against the father, the plaintiffs had shewn that state of facts from which the Court would infer pressure and undue influence. The burden was on him to shew that the plaintiffs executed the deed with independent advice, with full knowledge of its contents, and with the free intention of giving the benefit which the deed conveyed. He had not shewn this, and therefore so far as he was concerned the deed must be set aside. The question then was how far this inference of undue influence operated? It clearly operated against the person who had exercised the influence, against any one who took from him as a volunteer and against any one who took with notice of the circumstances which raised the equity, but not against any purchaser for value who took without notice of the circumstances. There was no evidence that the mortgagees knew of any undue influence or pressure by the father, or that they knew that the plaintiffs were not emancipated from their father's control. The father's solicitor affected to act for the plaintiffs, and his letters shewed that he realized the nature of the duty which he had undertaken. This being so his Lordship could not conclude that the solicitor did not discharge his duty properly, and unless he was to hold that it was absolutely necessary that the solicitor who was advising children in such a transaction should be a different person from the solicitor who was advising their father, he could not hold that the mortgagees had notice of any circumstance that would give rise to the equity asserted by the plaintiffs. The action must therefore be dismissed as against the mortgagees.

Administration—Costs—Heir—Next of Kin.

This was an action by a co-heiress, who in her statement of claim pleaded, contrary to the fact, that she was also one of the next of kin, for administration of the real and personal estates, and a decree was made accordingly; considerable difficulty arose in finding the other co-heiress at law.

It was suggested by the next of kin that the real estate ought to bear the costs under the circumstances rateably with the residuary personal estate.

Cohen, Q.C., and Nalder, for the plaintiff.

Beaumont, for the next of kin.

The cases cited in Morgan and Davey's Costs, 116, 117, were referred to.

FRY, J., said that if the matter were res integra he should order the costs to be paid rateably, but Pickford v. Brown (2 K and J. 426), and all the decisions except Sanders v. Miller (25 Beav. 154) which had not been followed, shewed that the heir was favoured, and the personal estate must pay the costs.

A testatrix gave the residue of the proceeds of her estate to trustees upon trust to divide the same in equal shares between a number of persons specified by name, and such of the children of John Gale, her late deceased uncle, as were living at the date of her will. This was an action for the administration of the estate. The chief clerk found that John Gale, the uncle of the testatrix, had died before her and that he had left no children or child. The question was whether the interest given to the children of John Gale had lapsed for the benefit of the next of kin of the testatrix, or whether the whole residue was divisible among the other persons named as residuary legatees.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Cecil Russell, for the plaintiff.

Sale by Auction—Statute of Frauds.

This was an action by the plaintiff, who purchased certain property at a sale by auction, for specific performance of his contract. The plaintiff was declared the highest bidder at 420*l.*, and after the sale the following memorandum signed by the auctioneer and appended at the foot of the conditions of sale, was handed to the plaintiff: "The property duly sold to Mr. A. Shardlow, butcher, Pinxton, and deposit paid at close of sale." The auctioner also gave the plaintiff the following receipt signed by him: "Pinxton, March 25, 1880. Received of Mr. A. Shardlow the sum of 21*l.* as deposit on property purchased at 420*l.* at 'Sun Inn,' Pinxton, on the above date, Mr. George Cotterell, owner." Posters were published containing a description of the property, which consisted of a dwelling-house with stable and brick-yard. The conveyance was prepared by the vendor's solicitor at the direction of the plaintiff, and on the 29th of April, the day fixed by the conditions for the completion of the purchase, the plaintiff attended at the solicitor's office with the remainder of the purchase-money, but the defendant refused to complete the sale on the alleged ground that the property was sold under its real value.

The principal defence now raised was that there was no sufficiently defined contract to satisfy the Statute of Frauds.

Rigby, Q.C., and J. G. Alexander, for the plaintiff.

Whitehorne, Q.C., and W. Fooks, for the defendant.

KAY, J., was of opinion that the two documents signed by the auctioneer were not a sufficient description of the property to satisfy the Statute of Frauds, and the two documents taken together were not sufficient to enable him either to refer to the poster containing a description of the property or to allow parol evidence to be given as to what the property was. The bill was therefore dismissed with costs.

Mortgage—Sale by First Mortgagor—Claim by second Mortgagee for an Account—Statute of Limitations—Express or Constructive Trust.

The second mortgagee of a ship claimed an account in this action from the defendant, the first mortgagee, who had sold the vessel in the year 1873. In the course of correspondence the first mortgagee stated that he had made up the account, and there would be a certain amount due to the plaintiff, which could be finally settled between them. The defendant now paid that sum into Court, refused to account further, and pleaded the Statute of Limitations. The plaintiff contended that there was an express trust which took the case out of the statute. He further contended that the defendant had improperly credited himself with six months interest upon the mortgage in lieu of notice, the purchase-money for the ship having been received two days after a half-years interest became payable.

Rigby, Q.C., and Warmington, for the plaintiff.

Higgins, Q.C. and Northmore Lawrence, for the defendant.

KAY, J., was of opinion that there was no express trust enabling the plaintiff after six years to sue the defendant, but there would be a constructive trust of an undoubted surplus. The plaintiff could not be allowed, after six years, to have an account in order to ascertain whether there was a surplus, but in this case the defendant had within six years admitted a surplus, and submitted to a settlement of the account, consequently there must be a decree for an account. His Lordship was also of opinion that the defendant, who had himself sold the ship in exercise of his power as a mortgagee, was not justified in crediting himself with interest in lieu of notice.

Receiver—Debt of Record—Trustee—Statute of Limitations.

The receiver in an administration suit sold out in 1870 railway stock, and received the proceeds, but he had not brought them into his accounts. He died in 1876. His personal representatives brought in and passed his final account, and his recognizances were vacated in 1877. In 1880 the sale of the railway stock was discovered, and an action was brought by the plaintiff in the administration suit as a creditor for the administration of the estate of the receiver. The personal representative of the receiver pleaded the Statute of Limitations.

Higgins, Q.C., and Fellows, for the plaintiff.

Oswald, for the personal representative of the receiver.

Haughton, for his heir.

KAY, J., said that this debt had been due from the receiver under his recognizance, and as such became a debt of record, and had therefore not been barred by the statute. Moreover, if necessary, his Lordship would have decided that a receiver was a trustee for the parties interested in the money, and as such would not be protected by the statute. Judgment for administration must therefore be given.

Appeal by special case from Chester County Court.

The plaintiff having recovered judgment against a defendant in the County Court, issued execution, under which the respondent, the high bailiff of the County Court, seized a piano lent on hire to the defendant by the appellants who gave notice to the bailiff of a claim to the piano, but declined to pay any sum or give any security to prevent a sale of the piano to satisfy the execution and a distress levied by the landlord of the premises. The bailiff did not ask the claimants to deposit the cost of keeping possession of it, or its value. He sold it and paid the proceeds into Court. He took out an interpleader summons, and claimed damages against the high bailiff. At the hearing the County Court Judge was of opinion that the claimants made out their title to the piano, but that they were not entitled to recover as damages the difference between the amount of the proceeds and the value of the piano, inasmuch as by 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108 (the County Courts Act, 1856), s. 72, the bailiff was directed to sell unless the claimants deposited either the value of the goods or the cost of keeping them, and that there was, notwithstanding the terms of Order XXI. of the County Court Rules, 1875, no obligation on the bailiff to request the claimants to make such deposit.

The question was whether the Judge ought not to have given the claimants the damages claimed.

R. Henn Collins, for the claimants, argued that the high bailiff not having taken interpleader proceedings under 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, s. 31, before selling the piano, he sold it at his risk, and the claimants were not bound to make any deposit unless such proceedings were first taken.

H. Tindal Atkinson, for the respondent.

Cur. adv. vult.

THE COURT (Huddleston, B., and Hawkins, J.) held that the County Court Judge was right, and that if the claimants wished to prevent the piano being sold they should have taken the first step and made a deposit, and that any request to them by the high bailiff was unnecessary.

Appeal dismissed without costs.

Bastardy Order—Subsequent Marriage of Mother—Ability of Husband to maintain her Bastard Child—Enforcement of Order against Putative Father.

Case stated by justices of Lancashire.

The appellant, then a single woman, obtained on the 25th of August, 1877, a bastardy order adjudging the respondent to be the father of her bastard child, and ordering the respondent to pay to the appellant the sum of 5*s.* per week for the maintenance and education of the child from its birth, until it should attain the age of sixteen years, or should die.

On the 22nd of March, 1880, the appellant married one Hardy, and on the 27th of November, 1880, took proceedings before the justices to recover 4*l.* 5*s.* arrears, then due from the respondent under the order, the child being alive.

It was admitted that the appellant's husband was able to maintain the child.

The justices were of opinion that the order could not be enforced so long as the appellant was a married woman whose husband was capable of supporting her child, and dismissed her application.

The question was whether the order, although in existence, could be legally enforced against the respondent by committal during such period as the appellant resided with her husband and he was liable to maintain the child. Could there be a double liability?

McClymont, for the appellant, relied on Sotheron v. Scott (6 Q. B. D. 518).

Croome, for the respondent, argued that bastardy orders were intended to relieve the parish of the burthen of maintaining bastard children; and marriage of the mother to a husband bound by law and able to support her child suspended the order. In Sotheron v. Scott it did not appear that the husband was able to support the child.

Cur. adv. vult.

THE COURT (Huddleston, B., and Hawkins, J.) were of opinion that bastardy orders are no longer made merely in relief of the parish, and as the proviso in 7 & 8 Vict. c. 101, that they should cease to be in force after the marriage of the mother was expressly repealed by 35 & 36 Vict. c. 65, the order could be enforced notwithstanding the marriage of the appellant and the ability of her husband to support the child.

THE LATE LORD JUSTICE JAMES. June 14.

LORD COLERIDGE, L.C.J., took his seat on the bench, accompanied by LORDS JUSTICES BRAMWELL, BRETT, and COTTON, Mr. BARON POLLOCK, Mr. JUSTICE GROVE, Mr. JUSTICE LINDLEY, Mr. JUSTICE MANISTY, and Mr. JUSTICE LOPES.

LORD COLERIDGE, L.C.J., then said:—We attend here to-day to do honour to the memory of the late Sir William James; but, though I am a member of this Court, it is far better that what is to be said as to Lord Justice James should be said by one who has been in the habit of sitting with him, and who is, therefore, a better and more experienced judge than I am of his judicial qualities.

LORD JUSTICE BRAMWELL then said:—I am senior of those who were in the habit of sitting with him, and I think expression ought to be given to the great and, in my judgment, irreparable loss which the public have sustained in his death. He possessed every quality and accomplishment that a judge needed. He had a very great intellect, at once keen and profound. He was a consummate lawyer, thoroughly imbued with legal principles. He was a man of vast experience, not merely in the law, but in those things which make a man what is commonly called a man of the world, fitted to deal with the affairs of the world. He had but one desire when he took his seat upon the bench—that was, that justice should be done according to right. It was said of him, and truly, that he was rapid in the formation of his opinions and confident in his expression of them, and so he was, and so a man of his ability had a right to be; but I can say this of him, that a more candid man never lived, nor one more ready to renounce an opinion, though he had given expression to it in the most confident way, if he thought it was wrong. I should like to read a letter written to me by one of my brethren, and I read it because, inasmuch as it is certain he never thought it would be published, it is a genuine expression of his opinion, an opinion in which we all agree. He says: "When I learnt to know what a grand old man he was, what a gigantic memory he had, what a large and comprehensive talent, what a freedom from all technicality and prejudice, what a firm knowledge of principles of law, what an intense resolution that justice should be done, and what a firm, generous mind he had; I esteemed him and respected him as much as ever was in me. I suffer great pain from his loss." And so do we all. We have lost a most dear friend and an invaluable associate.

The Attorney-General (Sir Henry James, Q.C.) said (all the members of the Bar standing during his address):—My Lords, it is a sad reflection that within the last few months—since the commencement of the legal year—I have had on four occasions to express, on behalf of the members of the Bar, their deep regret for the loss of eminent judges, and now a fifth name is added to that roll which records the list of the distinguished dead. It is just fifty years since Sir William James entered upon our profession. During those fifty years he stood conspicuously among us; at the Bar and on the Bench he passed his life surrounded by eminent men and gifted colleagues, and from them all he ever gained the acknowledgment that his duty had been right well done. During that time many changes have been effected in our legal procedure. In conceiving most of them, and administering the law under many of them, Sir William James took share and part. Thirty years ago he was a member of that commission, whose labours effected great and beneficial changes in the proceedings of the Court of Chancery. One of your Lordships—Lord Justice Bramwell—can bear witness to the strength of the colleague who mainly shared with him the responsibility of framing that report on which the Judicature Act of 1873 was based. And others of us can tell how the last days of health left to him were employed in framing suggestions for the still further adaptation of our procedure to the necessities of an altered time. My Lords, before you, who were his daily associates, it is almost unbecoming that I should bear testimony to the great worth of the late Lord Justice; you know better than we that, although full of years, his faculties still remained untouched and unimpaired. The facts of the most intricate case required no record except on the tablets of his memory. His powerful mind was ever ready quickly to form and strongly to express those judgments, the effect of which will remain behind him. I trust, my Lords, you will forgive me for saying that while this Court of Appeal has gained the full and perfect confidence both of the public and our profession, no judge has contributed more to the high position it occupies than he whose great loss we have now to regret. But in his high qualities as a judge the sense of his worth as a man must not be lost. Those will mourn him most who knew him best. Within the circle of his home and friendships that charm, which can only be found in the combination of a great mind and good heart, drew all closely to him; but beyond and outside these others stand, and for them (I mean the members of the Bar) I desire to give expression to the deep sense of the loss all sustain by the death of so great a judge and so good a man.

LORD JUSTICE BRAMWELL then added:—The Lord Chancellor desires it to be known that he had the strongest wish to be present, but is absolutely prevented by the state of business in the House of Lords.

House of Lords.

COMMISSIONERS OF WORKS AND DALTON v. ANGUS.

Building—Support from adjoining Land—Prescription.

In this case there had been a judgment of the Queen's Bench Division (3 Q. B. D. 85) which had been reversed by the Court of Appeal (4 Q. B. D. 162). In 1849 two houses stood together in Westgate Street, Newcastle-upon-Tyne. One belonged to Mr. Angus, the other to a different owner. Mr. Angus's house was converted from a private house into a coach factory. The internal walls were removed, and stronger and heavier structures erected, and a stack of brickwork was put up, which served as a chimney, and also as a support to some iron girders. This stood on the borders of the property of the other occupier. It did not appear that the exact nature of the alterations made was known to him, and the works were allowed to proceed without interruption. Some years afterwards the Commissioner of Works purchased the adjoining house, and in September, 1875, entered into a contract with Mr. Dalton to execute works by which they proposed to convert that house into a Probate Office. Dalton was to execute the works in a substantial manner, and in doing them was to shore up the adjoining buildings, and make good all damage. Dalton dug below the old foundations, and shored up Angus's chimney, but the clay employed in the work, though at first apparently sufficient, became cracked, and the chimney fell. The question then arose whether Angus could maintain an action for the damage done, and could maintain a claim both against the commissioners and against Dalton. On argument in the Queen's Bench, Chief Justice Cockburn and Mr. Justice Mellor thought that the action was not maintainable. Mr. Justice Lush was of a different opinion. On appeal Lords Justices Cotton and Thesiger were for reversing the judgment of the Queen's Bench, and Lord Justice Brett for affirming it. It was reversed. This appeal was then brought.

Sir J. Holker, Q.C., Mr. Hugh Shield, Q.C., and Mr. A. E. Gathorne Hardy, appeared for the Commissioner of Works.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., and Mr. Wheeler, for Dalton.

Mr. Littler, Q.C., Mr. Gainsford Bruce, and Mr. Ridley, for the respondent Angus.

The judges had been summoned and heard the case some time ago. They were not unanimous in their opinions, which were delivered on the 17th of March last.

THE LORDS took time to consider the case, and now, on the ground that the building of Mr. Angus had by the lapse of time acquired the right to the lateral support of the adjoining ground, affirmed the judgment of the Court of Appeal.

Appeal against a decision of the Court of Appeal which had reversed a previous decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon.

In June, 1872, J. W. Batten, a builder, being indebted to the bankers, deposited with them a conveyance dated July, 1871, relating to certain houses erected by him at Erleigh in Berks upon freehold land of his own, to secure his then current account with the bankers, and all moneys which should at any time be due by him to the bank including future advances; and he executed a memorandum to that effect. In January, 1873, he made another deposit of a conveyance to cover what was then due, and to be a security for farther advances. Batten had built villas called Woodbine, Twyford, and Canterbury Villas on the property. The respondent was a brother-in-law of Batten and was his creditor for money advances. In March, 1873, Batten proposed to the respondent to sell to him the villas and other property for an aggregate price of 3200*l.* A Mr. C. A. Graham acted as solicitor for Batten, and was also in communication with the bankers. The respondent agreed to become the purchaser of the villas. He was aware of the condition in which Batten stood towards the bankers. The bankers knew that the respondent was the proposed purchaser of the property, and had claims of his own against Batten. After the agreement for purchase made between the respondent and Batten, the bankers advanced farther sums of money to Batten. The villas were conveyed by deed to the respondent, and the bankers claimed from him the money that was due in respect of the purchase to the full extent of what was due to them from Batten in respect of their general balance whether created before or after the respondent's advances. The respondent contended that as both parties knew each other's position there could be no claim made by the bankers on him for advances made by them after the date of his agreement of purchase. The Vice-Chancellor had held the security of the bankers to be paramount. The Court of Appeal, acting on the case of Rolt v. Hopkinson (9 H. L. C. 514), had adopted the respondent's contention and dismissed the action. Hence this appeal,

Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., Mr. Davey, Q.C., and Mr. Russell Roberts, for the bankers.

Mr. John Pearson, Q.C., Mr. Horton Smith, Q.C., and Mr. Ingle Joyce, for the respondent.

THE LORDS affirmed the decision of the Court of Appeal.

ARTISTIC COLOUR PRINTING COMPANY v. FILLAN.

County Court—Practice—Judge's Note—Affidavit—Omission to state Ground upon which Rule has been granted—County Courts Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c. 50), s. 6—County Courts Act, 1856 (19 & 20 Vict. c. 108), s. 26.

Argument of rule nisi for a new trial granted by the Court of Appeal on application of the plaintiffs.

This action had been remitted to a county court under 19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 26, and judgment had been given for the defendant. The application for the judge's notes as required by 38 & 39 Vict. c. 50, s. 6, had been made to the registrar of the county court instead of the judge. No notes were produced at the argument. An affidavit had been used in moving for the rule, but the rule was not drawn up on reading it, and the rule did not state the grounds of the motion.

Laxton, for the defendant, urged that the motion ought not to be heard.

Casserley, for the plaintiffs.

Cock, amicus curiæ, referred to London v. Roffey (3 Q. B. D. 6).

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the appeal must be heard, and the rule was made absolute upon the merits.

V.-C. B. BENBOW v. LOW. June 3.
LOW v. BENBOW.

Injunction—Right to use Trade Name—Registration of Identical Trade Marks—Trade Marks Registration Act (38 & 39 Vict. c. 91), s. 6.

Action by a firm styled "Benbow & Sons," consisting of two persons named Henry and Francis Benbow, for a declaration that the plaintiffs were entitled to manufacture a particular kind of soap from a particular receipt, and to sell the same under the name of "Low's Highly Perfumed Brown Windsor Soap;" and for an injunction to restrain the defendants, a firm styled "Low, Son, & Haydon," consisting of two persons named Alfred Low and Robert Thomas Haydon, from representing that the soap made by the plaintiffs was an imitation of the soap made by the defendants, and from interfering with the plaintiffs in the use of certain labels and wrappers, and from representing that the same were an infringement of the labels and trade-marks of the defendants.

Counterclaim delivered on the 20th of March, 1880, for an injunction to restrain the plaintiffs from selling soap not made by the defendants in connection with wrappers or labels bearing the plaintiffs' alleged trade-mark, or any other mark only colourably differing from the defendants' trade-mark, and from selling soap not made by the defendants as soap made by them.

On the 21st of March, 1879, plaintiffs applied to have registered a trade mark containing the words "Low's Highly-Perfumed Brown Windsor Soap." On the 2nd of August, 1879, the writ in the original action was issued; and on the 13th of November, the plaintiffs' application, being opposed, was ordered to stand over to abide the result of the action.

Meanwhile, on the 1st of August, 1879, the defendants applied to register a trade-mark containing the same words, and there being no opposition, such trade-mark was duly registered on the 2nd of January, 1880.

Theodore Aston, Q.C., and Willis-Bund, for the plaintiffs.

W. Karslake, Q.C., and Byrne, for the defendants.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR decided in favour of the plaintiffs, by dismissing the cross action and counterclaim, and making a declaration, and granting an injunction, as claimed by the plaintiffs. Upon the question of registration of the trade-mark, the Vice-Chancellor referred to an unreported case of In re Jelley (18 May, 1878), before the Master of the Rolls, in which his Lordship said that "the rule of the Court is to register up to three, but not more than three, even if they are identical; if they are old marks. If there are more than three applications to register, we do not register them, because they come under the classification of common property" (see In re Hargreaves' Trade Mark, 11 Ch. D. 669, 673). Acting upon this rule, the Vice-Chancellor said he had no hesitation in ordering the registration of the plaintiffs' mark; the defendants to pay the costs of the actions, and of the opposition to registration.

Bill of Sale—Bankruptcy—Order of Discharge—After-acquired Chattels.

The plaintiff, when an engineer, gave to the defendant a bill of sale, which in terms included not only the chattels which were then upon his business premises, but also any additional or substituted chattels which at any time thereafter should be brought thereupon. The plaintiff subsequently went into liquidation, and obtained an order of discharge although he paid no dividend to his creditors. After his discharge he carried on a different business upon the same premises and brought other chattels thereon, and the question was whether the plaintiff could sell such after-acquired chattels under his bill of sale.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and E. Cutler, for the plaintiff, contended that the effect of the order of discharge was to enable the plaintiff to make a fresh start in life, and that the bill of sale could not extend to chattels brought upon the premises after the order of discharge, so that the plaintiff was entitled to an injunction to restrain the sale of such chattels. They relied on Cole v. Kernot (Law Rep. 7 Q. B. 534, n.).

Byrne, for the defendant, contrà.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR commented on Cole v. Kernot (u. s.) and held that the discharge of the debt did not render the security of the bill of sale inoperative as to the after acquired-chattels which were in terms included in it, and that the plaintiff was not entitled to the injunction.

Glasse, Q.C., and Cracknall, for creditors, asked for a compulsory order.

North, Q.C., in reply, said that the company could not at this moment pay its debts, but would probably do so hereafter.

FRY, J., said that it seemed to him that this was a case for a compulsory order, but as there was no precedent for making a compulsory order on a petition for the continuance of a voluntary order, he would allow the petition to stand over, that the creditors might, if they chose, present a petition of their own.

Landlord and Tenant—License to eject—Forcible Entry—5 Rich. 2, stat. 1, c. 8—Public-house—Covenant by Tenant to buy Beer of Landlord only—Implied Covenant by Landlord.

A license by a tenant to his landlord to eject him on a given date without any process of law is void, as authorizing a forcible entry, which is made illegal by 5 Rich. 2, stat. 1, c. 8.

If a landlord, desiring to eject a tenant whose interest has come to an end, is allowed to enter the property peaceably, it is still illegal under that statute for him to eject the tenant by force.

When the tenant of a public-house covenants with his landlord (a brewer) to purchase from him all the beer to be consumed on the demised premises during the term, a covenant will be implied on the part of the landlord to supply the tenant with any beer which he may require, and to supply him with beer of good quality, and if the landlord fails to discharge this obligation, the tenant will be justified in buying beer from any one else.

Such a covenant by a tenant will not be broken by his buying through an agent beer made by the landlord without the knowledge of the landlord.

The plaintiffs took no steps in the matter until August, 1880, when they brought this action to have the forfeiture of the shares declared invalid.

Rigby, Q.C., and C. Healey, for the plaintiffs.

Higgins, Q.C., and N. Lawrence, for the defendants.

KAY, J., was of opinion that whether the shares were or were not duly forfeited, the calls had been regularly made, and the plaintiffs could not be allowed, after lying by for six years, to maintain a claim now that the mine had become profitable. Action dismissed with costs.

Statute of Frauds, s. 4—Memorandum in Writing—Reference to Previous Document containing Terms of Contract.

Action for breach of an agreement by the defendant to hire a carriage for a period of one year.

Statement of defence (inter alia) relied on the provisions of the 4th section of the Statute of Frauds.

It appeared at the trial that there had been in fact an agreement for the letting of a carriage by the plaintiff to the defendant for the period of a year, from the 1st of January, 1880, at so much a month. The plaintiff had signed a memorandum dated the 1st of December, 1879, containing the terms of the agreement. On the 11th of February, the defendant wrote to the plaintiff a letter in the following terms; "You, no doubt, remember that it was agreed at our interview on January 28 that our arrangement as to the hiring of your carriage was at an end." It was proved that there was no other arrangement with regard to the letting of a carriage but that the terms of which were contained in the memorandum of the 1st of December. The jury negatived any rescission of the contract, and assessed the damages at 25*l*. The learned Judge left the parties to move for judgment.

C. C. Scott, for the plaintiff, moved for judgment.

Gully, Q.C., and Frith, for the defendant.

COMMITTEE FOR PRIVILEGES.

June 20.

THE ANNANDALE PEERAGE CASE.

This peerage and the dignities attached are claimed by Sir Frederic J. William Johnstone, Bart., of Westerhall, Dumfries, who claims through Matthew, the second son of Adam Johnstone of Johnstone, who lived between the years 1440-1455. (2) Mr. Edward Johnstone, of Fulford Hall, Warwick, who claimed through William Johnstone of Gaitney, and laird of Newbie, and who died before 1565, and who he alleged to be the third son of James Johnstone, laird of Johnstone in 1509, who was the great grandson of John Johnstone the eldest son of the above-mentioned Adam Johnstone.

The peerage is also claimed by Mr. Hope Johnstone, through heirs female, on the ground that all the heirs male are extinct.

THE LORDS COMMITTEE FOR PRIVILEGES resolved that Mr. Edward Johnstone had not established the identity of the William Johnstone of Gaitney from whom he traces his descent, and William Johnstone the third son of James Johnstone, laird of Johnstone, in 1509, but on the contrary, that their identity was disproved by the evidence adduced, and that, consequently, Mr. Edward Johnstone had not made out his claim.

Mr. Fleming, Q.C., and Mr. Cust, appeared for Sir Frederic Johnstone.

Mr. Birkbeck, and Mr. Cowie, were for Mr. Edward Johnstone.

Sir John Holker, Q.C., Mr. Marten, Q.C., and Mr. Badenoch Nicolson, appeared for Mr. Hope Johnstone.

Unauthorized Investment in Real Estate—Reversionary Interest of Married Woman.

By a settlement made in 1842, a fund of personalty was settled upon trust for the wife and husband successively for life and after the decease of the survivor for the children of the marriage. There was no power to invest in the purchase of real estate.

There were two children only, both daughters who attained 21. In 1853 the trustees of the settlement invested part of the trust funds in the purchase of a freehold messuage. By deed in 1875, duly acknowledged by the wife and by the daughters, both of whom were married women, the messuage was conveyed to such uses as the husband and wife should jointly appoint, and after the death of either, and in default of joint appointment, to such uses as the survivor should appoint, and in default of appointment, then after the death of the survivor to the use of the daughters as tenants in common in fee. The wife having died the husband contracted to sell the property. The purchaser objected to the title on the ground that as the purchase by the trustees was a breach of trust, the interests of the daughters must be treated as reversionary interests in personalty, which, as the original settlement was made before Sir R. Malins' Act, they could not aliene. Vice-Chancellor Hall decided that a good title could not be made. The vendor appealed.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Holt, for the appellant.

B. B. Rogers, for the purchaser.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Baggallay and Lush, L.JJ.) held that the interests of the daughters in the land could be effectually disposed of by acknowledged deed under 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 74, and that a good title was shewn.

JOHNSON AND ANOTHER v. RAYLTON, DIXON, & Co.

Sale of Goods—Sale by Manufacturer—Implied Contract that Goods are of Manufacturer's Make—Evidence—Custom.

Plaintiffs, who were manufacturers, but not dealers in iron, by a written contract headed with their mark (a crown with their initials) contracted to sell to the defendants, who were ship builders, and who thereby contracted to buy of the plaintiffs 2000 tons of iron ship plates of the quality know as crown, and to pass Lloyd's survey at a certain price per ton. The contract contained a strike clause, by which the supply of the iron contracted for might be suspended during the continuance of any strike of workmen.

The defendants having afterwards refused to accept ship plates which the plaintiffs offered because they were not of the plaintiffs' own make, but those of another firm, although of the quality mentioned in the contract, the present action was brought, and at the trial before Manisty, J., at York, evidence was tendered on the part of the defendants to shew that in the iron trade there is a custom that under a contract between a manufacturer and purchaser of iron plates the seller must, in the absence of a stipulation to the contrary, supply plates of his own make, and that the purchaser is entitled to reject other plates if tendered, though of the quality contracted for. This evidence was rejected, and the learned judge entered the verdict and judgment for the plaintiffs.

The defendants appealed.

Benjamin, Q.C., and H. Shield, Q.C., for the defendants, in support of the appeal.

Digby Seymour, Q.C., and Forbes, Q.C. (Cohen, Q.C., with them) for the plaintiffs.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) were now of opinion that the evidence of custom tendered was improperly rejected: but they held (Bramwell, L.J., dissentiente) that the defendants were entitled to have judgment entered for them without any further trial, on the ground that on a contract of sale such as the present, by a manufacturer who is not a dealer, there is, in the absence of a usage in the trade or stipulation to the contrary, an implied contract that the goods to be supplied shall be of the manufacturer's own make.

This was an application under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, by the purchaser of certain property settled by the will of Edward Warner, and sold pursuant to an order of the Court made under the Settled Estates Act, 1877, calling on the vendors to shew cause why the succession duty payable on the death of the tenant for life should not be paid or compounded for by the vendors. J. J., who died in July, 1871, by will made in March, 1871, bequeathed to the plaintiffs (trustees) the lease of the premises at S. where he carried on business, with the goodwill and stock-in-trade, book debts, and the balance of moneys which, after the payment of legacies, should be at his bankers at his death, upon trust to continue the business for three years, and to accumulate the profits in the way of compound interest, and subject thereto the trustees were to sell and convert the lease and stock-in-trade, &c., and out of the proceeds of sale and the accumulations of profits as should be pure personal estate set apart the sum of 10,000*l.*, and as to 4000*l.*, part thereof, apply the whole or such part as they should think fit, and the income of the 4000*l.* as should not be so applied, in the establishment of a soup kitchen for the parish of S. and of a cottage hospital adjoining thereto, in such manner as not to violate the Mortmain Acts, such hospital to be provided with not less than four beds for patients whose cases should be of an urgent character, and with all necessary furniture and appliances, and as to the 6000*l.*, the residue of the 10,000*l.*, and any portion that should not be required of the 4000*l.*, the trustees were to invest as therein mentioned, and out of the income pay a woman a sum weekly to attend upon the patients, and a sum to a surgeon for such hospital, and apply the residue of such income towards the necessities of the hospital, in such manner as the trustees should, in their discretion, think fit. And they were to set apart the further sum of 2500*l.* out of the moneys which should arise from such sale and conversion and the accumulations of profits as should be pure personal estate and might be bequeathed for charitable purposes, if sufficient, and if not, then out of any other personal estate he might possess applicable for charitable purposes, and should, so far as they lawfully could, without violating the laws enacted against the disposition of property in mortmain, apply a sum not exceeding 1000*l.*, part thereof, in establishing an Independent chapel at Little Asby, Westmoreland; and they were to invest the residue of the 2500*l.*, and pay the income to the trustees or deacons of the chapel, to be applied by them in providing a stipend for a minister, or in such other manner for the benefit of the chapel as the trustees or deacons should in their discretion think fit.

There was no residuary bequest.

This suit was instituted in 1872 against the next of kin and the Attorney-General for administration of the estate. The question was whether the bequests were, under the statute 9 Geo. 2, c. 36, valid.

Eddis, Q.C., and E. Ward, for the plaintiffs.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, for the defendants, next-of-kin, and Stirling, for the Attorney-General.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR:—As to the bequest of 10,000*l.*, Vice-Chancellor Wickens had said in a case before him, that in order to validate a gift of this kind there must be in the will a reference to an existing site on which the building contemplated should be erected, or words expressly excluding the application of the money given in the acquisition of land. If that were the rule without further addition the gift of the 10,000*l.* was valid, because the testator directed that the trustees were not to violate the Mortmain Acts. The only way in which they could not violate them would be by establishing a soup kitchen and hospital upon land already in mortmain, or by begging land, or inducing somebody to give it. That was a mode of establishing them which would be legal, and he should hold that the gift was valid. The gift of the 2500*l.* was not expressed in the same way, and, treating it as a separate and independent gift, uninfluenced by the prior disposition, and considering how the trustees were to apply it, it seemed to him that the gift failed, and so he should hold.

Declaration accordingly.

Fry, J. DAVIDSON v. KIMPTON. June 17.

Will—Construction—Survivors.

A testator bequeathed the dividends of a sum of 10,000*l.* consols to his wife for her life, and from and after her death he gave the dividends unto and equally between his four daughters named in the will, and "from and immediately after the several and respective deceases" of the four daughters, he bequeathed the 10,000*l.* unto their children respectively—viz.: one fourth part thereof unto and equally between the children of each daughter. And, in case any one or more of the four daughters should die without leaving any lawful issue her or them surviving, he bequeathed the share or shares of the stock so bequeathed to and intended for the issue (had there been such) of her or them so dying without issue "unto the survivors or survivor" of the four daughters, equally, if more than one, and if but one then to such one.

The wife died before the testator; the four daughters survived him. Three of them married and died leaving children them surviving. The surviving daughter, who was 54 years of age and unmarried, now petitioned for the transfer to her of one fourth of the 10,000*l.* consols, alleging that she was past the age of childbearing, and that, if she was dead without issue, she would, as the "survivor" of the four, be entitled under the will to the one-fourth absolutely.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and F. T. White, for the petitioner.

Cookson, Q.C., for the residuary legatees.

FRY, J., held, following the decision of Jessel, M.R., in Maden v. Taylor (45 L. J. (Ch.) 569), that the words "survivor or survivor" meant the persons or person who, for the time being, would be properly described as the survivors or survivor of the class consisting of the four daughters: i.e., those members or that member of the class who had survived the other members of the class. In this sense the petitioner was now the survivor, and she must be taken to be past the age of childbearing, and was entitled to have the one-fourth transferred to her. And, even if this construction was wrong, the original gift to the daughters was an absolute gift of the income, which was equivalent to a gift of the capital, and the gift over was only in the event of the daughters dying leaving issue, or in the event of their dying without issue, and there being survivors or a survivor. There was no gift over in the event of there being no issue and no survivor, and the original gift would take effect.

Will—Construction—Gift over on Death of Legatee before his Legacy shall have been paid to him.

A gift over of a legacy, in the event of the death of the legatee before his legacy shall have been paid to him, is not void for uncertainty, when it is clear from the will that the testator refers, not to the time of actual payment, but to the time when payment ought to be made by the executor.

Kay, J. TAYLOR v. SALMON. June 15.

Sale by Auction—Contract signed by Solicitor—Description of Vendor—Trustees for Sale—Specific Performance.

The plaintiff claimed specific performance of an agreement for the sale of a piece of land which he had purchased at an auction on the 18th of July, 1879. The defendants, Salmon (a solicitor) and Berkley, were trustees for sale under a will. The property was knocked down to the plaintiff, who thereupon paid his deposit, and an agreement for the sale to him was signed by Salmon as agent for the trustees for sale. Berkley refused to complete the sale on several grounds. First, that the vendors were not sufficiently described; secondly, that there had been unreasonable delay in bringing this action, the action having been commenced in January, 1881; thirdly, that the sale was not bonâ fide, and that there was a conspiracy between the plaintiff and Salmon, by which the plaintiff was to purchase the property for Salmon at a price below the real value; and fourthly, that the defendant Salmon was not the authorized agent of the vendors for signing the contract.

Whitehorne, Q.C., and S. Dickinson, for the plaintiff.

Higgins, Q.C., and T. A. Roberts, for Berkley.

Rigby, Q.C., and Field, for Salmon.

HIS LORDSHIP was of opinion that the terms used in the contract for sale, namely, agent for the trustees for sale, constituted a sufficient description of the vendors; secondly, that the plaintiff was not to blame for a delay which he had reason to believe would prevent litigation; thirdly, that the evidence disclosed no ground whatever for imputing blame in the transaction either to the plaintiff or to Salmon; and fourthly, that although a solicitor could not, merely as solicitor acting for a vendor, sign a contract for sale without express authority, yet the conduct of the parties was such as to shew that Berkley had recognised Salmon as the agent of the trustees for the sale of the property. A decree for specific performance was therefore directed, the costs to be paid personally by Berkley, and not to come out of the trust estate.

Demurrer to statement of claim.

It appeared from the statement of claim that the writ of summons in the action issued on the same day as the cause of action arose upon but subsequently thereto, and the ground of the demurrer was, that the writ being a judicial act must be taken to have issued at the earliest moment of the day, and therefore before the cause of action accrued.

The defendant in person supported the demurrer.

Sir Hardinge Giffard, Q.C. (Kydd with him), for the plaintiff.

THE COURT (Denman and Watkin Williams, JJ.) held that the Court could for this purpose take cognizance of the fact that the writ did not issue till later in the day than the cause of action accrued, and that the statement of claim was therefore good.

C. C. R. REG. v. MOST. June 18.

Murder, endeavouring to persuade, or encouraging to commit—Foreign Sovereign, Newspaper Article inciting to murder of—24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, s. 4.

Case reserved by Lord Coleridge.

The prisoner was indicted under 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, s. 4, which enacts, inter alia, that "Whosever shall solicit, encourage, persuade, or endeavour to persuade, or shall propose to any person to murder any other person, whether he be a subject of Her Majesty or not, and whether he be within the Queen's dominions or not, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour."

The only encouragement and endeavour to persuade proved at the trial was the publication by the prisoner of an article written in German, in a newspaper published in that language in London, and enjoying an average weekly circulation of 1200 copies.

The article was one exulting in the recent murder of the Emperor of Russia, and commending it as an example to revolutionists throughout the world.

The learned Judge directed the jury, that if they thought that by the publication of the article the prisoner did intend to, and did encourage or endeavour to persuade any person to murder any other person, whether a subject of Her Majesty or not, and whether within the Queen's dominions or not, and that such encouragement and endeavouring to persuade was the natural and reasonable effect of the article, they should find the prisoner guilty.

The question reserved for the opinion of the Court of Criminal Appeal was whether such direction was correct in point of law or not.

Sir Henry James, A.G., Sir Farrer Herschell, S.G., Poland, and A. L. Smith, appeared for the prosecution.

A. M. Sullivan, for the prisoner.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Grove, and Denman, J.J., Huddleston, B., and Watkin Williams, J.), held that such direction was correct.

Conviction affirmed.

HISLOP, APP.; LECKIE AND OTHERS, RESPS.

Feu-Charter—Right of Co-feuar to enforce Conditions—Suing with common superior's "consent and concurrence."

The appellant, John Hislop, is proprietor of a small piece of ground in Gayfield Square, on which there is a dwelling-house that stands twenty-five feet back from the street. The frontage is about fifty feet, and the house is No. 2 of the square. The respondents are proprietors of No. 4 of the same square, which is separated from No. 2 by No. 3. The appellant recently erected a building on the portion of his ground of fifty by twenty-five intervening between his house and the square; thereupon the respondents raised this action to obtain an order for the removal of this building as being "in contravention of the appellant's titles."

The parties both hold under Cauvins Hospital as their immediate superior, their feus having been granted in 1782 and 1784 respectively by the hospital's predecessors in title; and the respondents sued with their superior's consent and concurrence. By the feu charter of 1782 the appellant's predecessor bound himself and his successors "not to erect any other buildings upon the said piece of ground except the tenement of houses and walls of enclosure already erected thereon."

But neither feu contract referred to a settled or proposed plan, or to conditions imposed or intended to be imposed with a view to the execution and maintenance of any plan or design: nor are the houses of the same style, height or dimensions.

The appellant contended that the respondents had no title or interest to interfere in respect that there were not similar restrictions in both the titles which would confer a mutuality of title and interest to sue among the feuars themselves; and, secondly, that the concurrence of the superior was of no avail in supporting the respondents' title, as it did not bring him into the action.

The Second Division of Court of Session, 17th December, 1879, adhering to the interlocutor of the Lord Ordinary (Lord Rutherfurd Clark), held—Lord Young dissenting—that the restrictions in the feu charter had been contravened; and the fact that the respondents sued with the consent and concurrence of the superior, imported into the suit the title and interest of the latter to have the obligations of the feu right implemented. They therefore ordered the removal of the building in question (Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series vol. vii. p. 384; 17 Scot. Law Rep. 254).

On appeal,

The Dean of Faculty (Mr. Kinnear, Q.C.), and Mr. Davey, Q.C., were heard for the appellant.

The Solicitor-General for Scotland (Mr. J. B. Balfour, Q.C.), and Mr. Wallace, were heard for the respondents.

Practice—Service out of the Jurisdiction—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XI., r. 1.

E. F. Silvester moved by way of appeal from the Divisional Court for leave under Order XI., r. 1, to serve the defendant out of the jurisdiction, such rule giving the Court power to allow such service where, inter alia, "any act or thing for which damages are sought to be recovered was or is done within the jurisdiction." The complaint, the subject of the action, was slander alleged to be spoken by the defendant to the representative of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, on board one of the company's vessels on a voyage to Kingston, Jamaica, and which consisted of a charge of misconduct against the plaintiff, a ship's officer in the service of the said company, and which it was stated in the affidavit in support of the application "was intended to be transmitted and was transmitted to the said company in London." The result of making such charge was the dismissal of the plaintiff from the company's service when he with the vessel arrived in England.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) refused the application on the ground that if the speaking of the slander was the act or thing for which damages were sought, it was not done within the jurisdiction, and if the damage, viz. the dismissal in England, was such act or thing, the defendant did not direct the transmission of the charge to England, and he was not responsible for its repetition there.

That being so, Dubeux could not pledge goods consigned to him by Pedreira & Co. until they came into his possession or power. And he had not professed to give Gleim & Co. any charge on the debt due to him by Pedreira & Co. All he had done was to promise to give them a lien on goods which might be consigned to him by Pedreira & Co., but before any such goods arrived he had filed a liquidation petition. The claim of Gleim & Co. must, therefore, be disallowed.

Damages—Remoteness—Contract.

The defendant, an innkeeper at Rugeley, contracted with the plaintiff, a horse dealer, to provide stabling for eleven horses which the plaintiff was about to send for sale at the Rugeley Fair. The plaintiff sent nine horses, which were put into the defendant's stables, but the defendant having in breach of his contract let these stables, the person to whom he had so let them came and with the assistance of one of the defendant's servants turned the plaintiff's horses out without their clothing, and, the plaintiff being unable for some hours to obtain other suitable stables for them elsewhere, the horses remained during all that time standing about exposed to the weather, and so several of them caught cold, which depreciated their value in the market. The plaintiff claimed damages in respect of such depreciation, as well as for the expense and loss he incurred in getting other stables. At the trial before Fry, J., at Chester, the jury found that there had been a breach of contract by the defendant, and that the cold caught by the plaintiff's horses was the result of such breach, and, in addition to other damages the plaintiff had sustained, they found 50*l.* damages for the loss consequent upon the cold. The learned Judge at the trial, acting on the authority of Hobbs v. London and South Western Railway Company (Law Rep. 10 Q. B. 111), felt obliged to hold that such damages in respect of the loss from the cold were too remote to be recovered.

The plaintiff appealed.

THE COURT (Bramwell, Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) now held (Bramwell, L.J., doubting, and stating that if it had been left to him alone he should have come to a different conclusion) that the damages in respect of the cold could be recovered, as the catching cold was the probable consequence of the horses being turned out of the defendant's stables in the way they were turned out.

Will—Construction—Bequest to "my four nephews and nieces, or their personal representatives respectively."

A testator by will dated in 1866, after giving (inter alia) an annuity "between the four children of my sister, Ann Hemmant, or their respective personal representatives" gave the residue of his estate to "my said four nephews and nieces, the children of my sister Ann Hemmant, or their respective personal representatives equally."

At the date of the will there were four children of Ann Hemmant living, but one of them died in the lifetime of the testator.

The testator died in April, 1867, having, after the death of the deceased child, made a codicil to his will by which he gave a pecuniary legacy to "my nephews and nieces the children of my sister Ann Hemmant."

The questions were whether the residuary gift was a gift to a class or to four designated persons, and also what was the meaning of the expression "personal representatives."

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the reference to the number of the children being equivalent to the insertion of their names, that the residuary gift was to designated persons and not to a class; that there was no lapse; and that "personal representatives" must be taken to mean next of kin, who took by substitution.

Will—Construction—Bequest of "All the rest of my money however invested"—Residuary Gift.

A testatrix, by will dated in 1866, gave a pecuniary legacy to the plaintiff and certain wearing apparel, a leasehold house and certain dock shares to other legatees, and then gave as follows: "all the rest of my money, however invested, to my nephew Robert John Foley under deduction of 50*l.* to be paid to each of my executors after named." The will then contained bequests of certain specified articles of small value and an appointment of executors.

The question was whether the gift of "all my money, however invested," was a residuary gift or not.

Statute of Limitations—Mortgage—"Payment" of Principal or Interest—Foreclosure Action—3 & 4 Wm. c. 27, ss. 2, 24, 40—7 Wm. 4 & 1 Vict. c. 28—37 & 38 Vict. c. 57, s. 1.

A simple foreclosure action is not an action to recover the money secured by the mortgage, but is an action to recover land. Therefore it is within ss. 2 and 24 of the Act 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 27, and not within s. 40.

The "last payment of any part of the principal money or interest secured" by a mortgage mentioned in the Act 7 Wm. 4 1 Vict. c. 28, may be made by the mortgagor or his agent, or by any person who, as between the mortgagor and and mortgagee, is liable to make a payment to the mortgagee in respect of the mortgage.

Therefore, a payment of rent, made by one of the tenants of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, in consequence of a notice by the mortgagee requiring the rent to be paid to him, within twelve years before the commencement of a foreclosure action, though made without the knowledge of the mortgagor, will keep alive the mortgagee's right to foreclose, although no payment of principal or interest has been made by the mortgagor for more than twelve years before the commencement of the action.

Whitehorne, Q.C. (Everitt with him), for the plaintiff, the settlor.

Higgins, Q.C., Rigby, Q.C., D. Jones and A. Brown, for the defendants.

KAY, J., said it was not the law that the onus of supporting a voluntary deed was always thrown on those who set it up. A power of revocation would have been inconsistent with the objects of this deed. Nor had the plaintiff any ground for saying that he did not understand the deed. The action must be dismissed with costs.

Kay, J. HART v. HART. June 24.

Jurisdiction—Divorce Court Proceedings—Compromise of Action—Separation Deed—Dum casta Clause.

This was an action by the plaintiff, Mrs. Hart, for specific performance of an agreement for the compromise of a divorce suit. The plaintiff was married to the defendant, Henry Hart, in April, 1875. On the 2nd of May, 1879, a petition was filed by the defendant in the Divorce Court against his wife as respondent and several co-respondents, praying for a dissolution of the marriage on the ground of the adultery of his wife. To that petition the plaintiff filed an answer making countercharges against her husband, and also praying for a dissolution of the marriage. During the trial an arrangement was come to between the plaintiff and defendant, through their counsel, Mr. Willis, Dr. Deane, and Mr. Searle, for a compromise of the divorce suit, which was in the following terms: "Petition and answer dismissed. Deed of separation with usual covenants. Costs of preparing deed to be borne by Mr. Hart. Mr. Hart to covenant to pay Mrs. Hart for herself and child, or children, 150*l.* a year quarterly. Mrs. Hart to maintain the child or children. Mr. Hart to pay wife's costs. In case of difference in working out these terms, matter to be referred to Mr. Willis and Dr. Deane." Signed, Henry Hart; Louisa H. Hart. In pursuance of that agreement the trial of the petition was discontinued, and a separation deed was prepared by the plaintiff's solicitor, which the defendant refused to execute on the ground chiefly that the deed under the words "usual covenants" ought to have contained a clause providing for its validity only so long as the plaintiff should continue to lead a chaste life.

Rigby, Q.C., and Chapman Barber, for the plaintiff.

Higgins, Q.C., and Stephens, for the defendant.

HIS LORDSHIP, referring to the different questions argued, decided, first, that this Court had power to enforce specific performance of the agreement to compromise proceedings in the Divorce Court, part of which agreement was that the petition should be dismissed, so that there were now no proceedings pending in the Divorce Court. Secondly, that the Court could enforce performance of a separation deed notwithstanding the introduction of a clause that the husband should give up the custody of his child. Thirdly, that the terms of the agreement were not too vague to be enforced, either because of the omission of the mention of trustees to the deed, or on the ground of the clause as to arbitration, which was not to come into operation unless the parties differed. A decree was therefore made for specific performance; and his Lordship was of opinion that under the term "usual covenants" it was not necessary to insert a clause making the annuity payable to the wife only so long as she should continue chaste.

Solicitor and Client—Refusal by Town Agent to pay over to lay Client Sum recovered in an Action—Summary Jurisdiction of Court over its own Officer.

This was an application to the court in the exercise of its summary jurisdiction to order the payment of a sum of money by a solicitor to the applicant.

It appeared that the applicant had instructed a solicitor in the country to bring an action. He instructed his town agent to take proceedings accordingly. Judgment was recovered by the plaintiff in the action for 33*l.* 5*s.* and costs. The country solicitor then instructed his town agent to issue a writ of fi fa., which he did. The town agent received from the sheriff under the fi. fa. the amount of the debt and costs, but refused to pay over the amount of the debt to the plaintiff, on the ground that he was entitled to retain it against a debt of an equal amount due to him from the country solicitor.

Dodd, for the applicant, moved.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. June 22.

DONNISON v. PEOPLE'S CAFÉ COMPANY.

Vendor and Purchaser—Contract by Letters—Statute of Frauds.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins. The plaintiff, Mrs. Donnison, was the lessee of certain vaults beneath the Royal Exchange, under a lease granted by the corporation of London and the Mercers' Company. The defendant company entered into a negociation for the purchase of the lease. After some correspondence the secretary of the defendant company wrote to the house agents acting for the plaintiff a letter in which he said that the directors thereby offered to purchase the Royal Exchange Vaults for 2500*l.* cash, and to take over the mortgage for 3500*l.* on the lease, these terms to include the lease, goodwill, fixtures, fittings, tables, &c., of every description as the place then stood.

To this letter the house agents replied as follows:—"Royal Exchange Vaults.—In reply to your letter of the 7th instant, we are now instructed to accept the offer therein contained, and will forward contract as soon as we obtain it from the solicitor." Differences, however, arose between the parties respecting the time when possession should be given, and other matters, and eventually the plaintiff brought the present action against the defendants claiming damages for breach of contract. The Vice-Chancellor held that the letters contained a binding contract between the parties, and gave judgment for the plaintiff with an inquiry as to damages. The defendants appealed.

Higgins, Q.C., and Snape, for the appellants.

Glasse, Q.C., and Latham, for the plaintiff.

JESSEL, M.R., said that he was of opinion that no binding contract had been entered into between the parties; first, because the name of the vendor had not been disclosed or a sufficient description given so as to satisfy the Statute of Frauds; and, secondly, because the letters which were said to constitute the agreement mentioned only what was the property to be purchased and the price to be given for it, but left the other necessary terms of the agreement, such as the time when possession was to be given, to be settled by a formal contract, to be prepared by a solicitor in the ordinary way. No such contract had ever been entered into, and there was no binding agreement. The appeal must, therefore, be allowed, and the plaintiff must pay the costs.

BAGGALLAY and LUSH, L.JJ., concurred.

Practice—Costs—Discretion of Judge—Costs by way of Penalty.

In this case, which is reported 15 Ch. D. 96, an action had been brought for specific performance of an agreement for the sale of land, and the defendant, who was the vendor, brought a counterclaim charging the plaintiff with acts of trespass and waste. Mr. Justice Fry thought that the plaintiff had failed in his claim, and that the defendant had also failed in his counterclaim, and made an order dismissing the claim without costs; and also dismissing the counterclaim, and ordering that the defendant should pay the costs of the counterclaim, and that if the costs of the counterclaim should exceed half the whole costs of the claim and counterclaim the defendant should pay the plaintiff the excess.

The defendant appealed from the latter part of the judgment.

Baynold (North, Q.C., with him), for the appellant, objected to the order as to costs as being beyond the jurisdiction of the judge. He had dismissed the claim without costs, and then had ordered the defendant to pay some costs beyond the costs of the counterclaim by way of penalty.

Cookson, Q.C., and T. A. Roberts, for the plaintiff.

JESSEL, M.R., said that no doubt a judge could not impose costs beyond the costs of the suit by way of penalty. But the order was only wrong in form. What the judge meant to do was to order the defendant to pay half the whole costs of the claim and counterclaim, and he had full power to do that. The order should have been that the claim be dismissed without costs except as thereafter declared, and then a declaration that the defendant should pay half the costs of the claim and counterclaim.

Property acquired by the Crown—Subsequent Ascertainment of Next of Kin—Interest payable by the Crown.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins (15 Ch. D. 67.)

Certain personal property had been paid over to the Crown under a supposed intestacy, but the next of kin having subsequently come forward and brought a petition of right and proved their title, the Crown brought the money into Court.

The Vice-Chancellor held that the Crown was also chargeable with interest on the amount at 4 per cent. The Crown appealed.

Stirling, for the Crown.

Higgins, Q.C., and G. Murray, for the plaintiffs.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Romer, Q.C., for other parties.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay, and Lush, L.JJ.) held that there was no ground for charging the Crown with interest and reversed the decision of the Vice-Chancellor.

Railway Company—Mortgages and Debenture Bonds—Debenture Stock—Priority—Companies Clauses Act, 1845, Part III.—Cornwall Minerals Railway Company's Acts, 1873, 1875, 1877.

In this case an appeal was brought from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall (16 Ch. D. 66). The question related to the priority of various classes of debenture holders and mortgagees, under the Cornwall Minerals Railway Companies Acts, and turned on the construction of those Acts.

W. Pearson, Q.C., Benjamin, Q.C., Hastings, Q.C., Kekewich, Q.C., Norton, Prior, and Stirling, for the various respondents.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay, and Lush, L.JJ.) varied the order of the Vice-Chancellor. The following was the order of the priority declared: 1. Mortgages and debenture stock issued before the 19th of July, 1875. 2. Debenture stock issued between the 19th of July, 1875, and the 10th of August, 1877. 3. The debenture stock issued after the 10th of August, 1877. The principal secured by the mortgages to rank in priority to the interest of all debenture stock issued after the 19th of July, 1875.

Will—Remoteness—Gift to Child who shall attain 25—Annuity charged on Real Estate—Exoneration of Personalty—Conditional Bequest—Name and Description.

This was an appeal from the decision of Vice-Chancellor Malins on several questions of construction arising on the will of J. Patching (Weekly Notes, 1880, p. 135).

The testator gave all his real estate after the death or second marriage of his wife upon trust, if the youngest of the grandsons of his maternal uncles, Anthony and Thomas Patching, who should be living at the death or marriage of his wife should be then under 21, to apply so much of the rents and profits as they should think fit for the maintenance of such youngest grandson until he should attain 21 or die, and after attaining that age, then upon trust until such grandson should attain the age of 25 or die, to pay and allow such grandson until he should attain 25 or die an annuity of 200*l.*, and to accumulate the surplus rents until he should attain 25; and if such youngest grandson should live to attain the age of 25, then, but not otherwise, to stand possessed of the accumulations and income upon trust for such youngest grandson absolutely. But in case he should die under 25, then upon the same trusts as thereinbefore declared as to the residue of his personal estate. And, subject and without prejudice to the trusts aforesaid, his trustees were to hold the real estate upon trust for the said youngest of his grandsons of his said two maternal uncles who should be living at the death of his wife and who should have attained or should live to attain 25 years, and his assigns, for life, and after his decease for the first son of his body lawfully begotten and the heirs male of his body.

The Vice-Chancellor held that there were no words in the will which could have the effect of vesting the property in the youngest grandson before the age of 25, and that the gift was void for remoteness.

The testator bequeathed, after the death of his wife, his bust of Oliver Cromwell to John, Duke of Bedford, upon condition that he should cause it to be placed in the library at Woburn Abbey, and to be settled as an heirloom in his family.

John, Duke of Bedford, died long before the date of the will. The name of the Duke of Bedford then existing was Francis. He survived the testator but died before the tenant for life, without making any settlement of the bust. His executors were willing to accept the bust, and settle it as required. The Vice-Chancellor held that the gift of the bust took effect, and that the bust should be handed over to the Duke's executors.

The testator by a codicil gave an annuity of 100*l.* to E. Snowling, to be paid quarterly, and charged the same upon two freehold farms, with powers of distress and entry if it fell into arrear.

The Vice-Chancellor held that the annuity was primarily payable out of the personal estate.

The appeal was brought from these decisions.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Currey, for the youngest grandson.

Glasse, Q.C., and Lloyd, for the heir-at-law.

Millar, Q.C., and Kingdon, for the residuary legatees.

Latham, for the Duke of Bedford.

Higgins, Q.C., Berkeley, Ingle Joyce, C. P. Leach, A. J. Leach, Coltman and Onslow, for other parties.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay, and Lush, L.JJ.) on the first point agreed with the Vice-Chancellor, holding that the devise to the youngest grandson was void for remoteness. On the second point they held that the bust was well given to Francis, Duke of Bedford, but as he had died without performing the condition, the bequest failed. On the third point, they held that the annuity was a rent-charge out of the two freehold farms, and was not charged on the personal estate.

Administration of Assets—Secured Creditor—Proof—Valuation of Security—Judicature Act, 1875, s. 10.

This was an appeal from a decision of Fry, J. The plaintiff, who was an equitable mortgagee, obtained a common decree for administration of the mortgagor's estate and sent in a claim for his whole debt. The chief clerk called on him to put a value on his security. He valued it at 1800*l.*, and was admitted as a creditor for the balance, 28*l.*, and the certificate of debts proceeded on that footing. After this the plaintiff took out a summons asking that the mortgaged estate might be sold, and that if the proceeds were insufficient to pay the mortgage debt he might be admitted to prove for the deficiency. A sale was ordered, without prejudice to any question, and the summons stood over. The sale realized only 1457*l.* The summons was then brought on again and was dismissed by Fry, J., who held that the plaintiff could prove only for the 28*l.* The plaintiff appealed.

During the marriage Mrs. Dawes became absolutely entitled to a sum exceeding 200*l.* for her separate use. Fry, J., held that it was within the covenant. Mrs. Dawes appealed.

Trustee in Bankruptcy—Disclaimer of Lease—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 23—Bankruptcy Rules, 1871, r. 28.

In December, 1875, a lease of a public-house was granted by the East and West India Dock Company to Hill. He assigned the lease to Clarke absolutely for the remainder of the term, Clarke paying a premium. Clarke mortgaged the property, by way of under-lease, for the remainder of the term, less 3 days, to Truman and Co. Afterwards Clarke filed a liquidation petition. The trustee applied to the Court for leave to disclaim the debtor's interest in the property. The application was opposed by the dock company, on the ground that the disclaimer would destroy their remedies under the lease against Hill, and by the mortgagees, on the ground that it would destroy their under-lease. The dock company offered to undertake not to sue the trustee on the covenants in the lease, and not to make any claim against the debtor's estate. Mr. Registrar Murray, acting as Chief Judge, gave leave to disclaim. The dock company appealed.

Kekewich, Q.C., and W. Latham, for the appellants.

Cookson, Q.C., and MacSwinney, for Hill; Herbert Reed, for the trustee; and Gregory, for the mortgagees, were not heard.

THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., and Baggallay and Lush, L.JJ.) held that in exercising the discretion given to it by r. 28, the Court ought to have regard only to the benefit of the persons interested in the administration of the bankrupt's estate, and not to any collateral considerations, such as the injury which might be done by a disclaimer to outsiders. If the view of the majority of the Court of Exchequer in Smyth v. North (Law Rep.

7 Ex. 242), and the view of the Court of Appeal in Ex parte Walton (ante, p. 90), was correct, the disclaimer would not injure the appellants; if that view was wrong, still it would be inconsistent with the policy of s. 23 to refuse to allow the debtor's estate the benefit of the disclaimer. The undertaking offered by the appellants would not be as beneficial to the estate as a disclaimer. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

Action—Judgment of Nonsuit—Effect of—County Courts Rules of 1875 & 1876, Order 16, r. 17—Power of the County Court Judges to make such Rule—19 & 20 Vict. c. 108, s. 32.

The plaintiff in 1880 sued the defendant for a debt of 37*l.* in the County Court of Lichfield, but the plaintiff not being in England, and the summons having been taken out without giving security for costs as required by the County Court rules, the County Court judge nonsuited the plaintiff, but reserved leave to re-enter the case upon security being given. The plaintiff took no further steps in the County Court, but brought the present action, which was for the same debt as that for which he sued the defendant in the County Court. For the defendant it was contended that the judgment of nonsuit not having been set aside was a bar to the action, Order 16, r. 17, of the County Court Rules of 1875 & 1876 being that "any judgment of nonsuit shall have the same effect as a judgment for the defendant upon the merits." The learned Judge at the trial considered that the nonsuit mentioned in the rule meant one on the merits, and that as it had only been given in this case because of the failure of the plaintiff to give security for costs it was not a bar to this action, and he gave judgment accordingly for the plaintiff. The defendant appealed, and on the argument the point was raised whether the County Court Order 16, r. 17, was ultra vires, the power of the County Court Judges to frame rules being, by the County Courts Act, 1856 (19 & 20 Vict. c. 108), s. 32, only "to frame rules and orders for regulating the practice of the Courts and forms of proceedings therein."

THE COURT (Bramwell, Baggallay, and LUSH, L.JJ.), unanimously agreed that the learned judge at the trial was wrong in his construction of the County Court Order 16, rule 17, and that the judgment for the plaintiff must therefore be reversed, unless the County Court rule was ultra vires.

Appeal on behalf of one Edwards, who had been a witness before the Sandwich Election Commissioners, from the decision of the Queen's Bench Division refusing a mandamus to the commissioners to grant to him a certificate that he had answered all such questions required by the said commissioners as mentioned in s. 7 of the Corrupt Practices Prevention Acts (26 & 27 Vict. c. 29). The application for the mandamus was made on the authority of The Queen v. Price (Law Rep. 6 Q. B. 411). The certificate was refused by the commissioners on the ground that they considered that his answers to questions they had put to him were untrue and evasive.

It was now argued in support of the appeal that the answers complained of were not such as criminated him or tended to criminate him in any corrupt practice at an election, and that, therefore, such answers being untrue was not a reason for refusing the certificate.

Henderson, in support of the motion, contended that the defence was evasive.

Chester, for the defendants.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS held that although the defence might have been evasive if it had been that of the testator himself, it was not evasive on the part of the defendants, who were his executors, and could not know of the sale and delivery of the goods.

The steward of a manor (Singleton in Sussex) deposed that the custom of the manor with regard to descent was "that all copyholds descend to the youngest son or daughter, brother or sister, uncle or aunt."

Samuel Smart died intestate on the 12th of December, 1878, seised of copyholds of the manor, and leaving neither son, daughter, brother, sister, uncle, nor aunt living, but leaving sons of uncles living. Plaintiff, as youngest son of the intestate's youngest uncle, claimed the copyholds, as against the heir-at-law.

Estate pur autre vie—Devise in Fee with Executory Devise over—Power of Alienation of First Devisee—Settlement of Leaseholds for Lives—Refusal of Reversioner to renew—Sale under Settled Estates Act—Application of Purchase-money.

A testator, who was the holder of a bishop's lease of land for three lives, devised it by his will to trustees, their heirs and assigns, upon the trusts therein declared. And he directed the trustees out of the rents to keep the estate renewed and full lived. And he declared that his trustees should stand possessed of the hereditaments upon trust for J., his heirs and assigns, but, if he should die without leaving lawful issue living at his death, then upon trust for W. and his heirs. After the death of the testator the lease was, upon the dropping of one of the lives, renewed by the bishop upon the payment of a fine. The money necessary to pay the fine was raised by J. upon the security of an agreement to give an equitable charge on the property. Afterwards the bishop refused to renew the lease any more, or to sell the reversion, and the estate was sold with the sanction of the Court under the Settled Estates Act.

Held, that the quasi estate in fee given to J. and the quasi executory devise over in fee to W., must be regulated by analogy to similar limitations of an actual estate in fee, and that consequently J. could not alienate the estate so as to defeat the executory devise to W.

Held also, that the mortgage money must be paid out of the purchase-money, and that the residue must be invested and the income only paid to J. for his life.

Trade Name—Wrongful User of—Needle Manufacturers.

The plaintiffs were the executors and trade successors of Abel Morrall, a needle manufacturer of extensive business at Studley. The defendants, who were also needle manufacturers, purchased from another Abel Morrall, a nephew of the plaintiffs' A. Morrall, a patent for making double-eyed needles, together with the goodwill of a small trade in needles carried on by him at Studley. The plaintiffs alleged that the defendants were using the name of Abel Morrall in the sale of their own needles in such a manner as to represent to the public, and to lead them to believe that they were selling the goods of the plaintiffs' firm, and the plaintiffs claimed an injunction to restrain the defendants from a wrongful use of the name of A Morrall.

The defendants claimed the right to use the name of Abel Morrall in the manufacture and sale of every kind of needle required by their customers.

Higgins, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the plaintiffs.

Rigby, Q.C., and Methold, for the defendants.

HIS LORDSHIP was of opinion that the defendants, by soliciting through their travellers the plaintiffs' customers, and by supplying needles of all descriptions in addition to the patent double-eyed needles, to those purchasers who asked for Abel Morrall's needles, had so used the name as to deceive the public, and to induce purchasers who required Abel Morrall's needles to believe they were purchasing the needles of the plaintiffs' A. Morrall. He was also of opinion that the defendants had purchased the trade of Abel Morrall the nephew for the express purpose of making a wrongful user of the name. There would be therefore a decree for an injunction; but, in consequence of a certain amount of delay and acquiescence by the plaintiffs, and by reason of there being allegations in the claim which were unsupported, each party must pay his own costs.

Under the will of General Maclean, his widow, Mrs. Maclean, was to have the use of certain plate for her life, and after her decease the plate was to go to his daughter, afterwards the wife of Mr. Wade. On the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Wade a settlement was executed whereby the plate was assigned by Mrs. Wade to two trustees on trust to permit her to have the sole use and enjoyment thereof during her life, and upon certain trusts after her death. Mrs. Maclean allowed her daughter to have the possession and enjoyment of the plate. In October, 1879, Mr. Wade, with the assent of Mrs. Wade, deposited the plate with Mr. Robert Attenborough, a pawnbroker, as security for 385*l.* advanced to them. The plate was afterwards handed over to a Mr. Wells, who paid the amount due to Robert Attenborough, and in May, 1880, it was handed over to Robert Percy Attenborough, another pawnbroker, who paid off Wells and made a further advance to Mr. and Mrs. Wade. The pawnbrokers had no notice of the will or of the settlement.

In March, 1881, the trustees of the settlement and Mrs.

Maclean brought an action against Robert Percy Attenborough, and Mr. Wade (who afterwards died), and Mrs. Wade, claiming the plate from Attenborough.

Higgins, Q.C., and E. Ward, for the plaintiffs.

Whitehorne, Q.C., Smart, and Attenborough, for R. P. Attenborough.

Thomas Terrell, for Mrs. Wade.

KAY, J., said that the case of the pawnbroker had completely failed. On the evidence it was clear that Mrs. Maclean had only lent the plate and could resume possession of it at any time. Then it had been argued that Mr. Attenborough had obtained a good title by the delivery of the plate, but it had long ago been decided that the true owner of goods could not be deprived of them by the delivery of a person who had not the property in them except where a sale had taken place in market overt, and pawning was not a sale in market overt. Mrs. Maclean had a right to recover possession, and the goods must be delivered to the plaintiffs.

Court of Bankruptcy—Jurisdiction—Discretion—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 72.

On the 12th of May, 1881, a motion was made before the judge of the County Court at Walsall, on behalf of the respondent Henry Burton, trustee in the liquidation of Thomas Vernon, calling upon the appellant, Samuel Winter, to shew cause why a bill of sale, dated the 17th of February, 1880, and made between the debtor of the one part, and the appellant of the other part, to secure repayment of 220*l.* and interest at 5 per cent., should not be declared fraudulent and void. On behalf of the appellant it was contended that the Court had no jurisdiction, and should leave the respondent to his remedy in the High Court, inasmuch as the respondent was charging the appellant with conspiring with the debtor to defraud the creditors. The appellant was a butcher. The Court ordered a trial before a County Court jury.

This was the order appealed from.

Winslow, Q.C., and Alfred Young, for the appellant:—The learned County Court Judge considered himself bound by Ex parte Brown (11 Ch. D. 148); Ex parte Armitage (17 Ch. D. 13) had not then been reported.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that, although the sum at stake here was not so large as that in Ex parte Armitage, he thought, on the whole, as a question of character was involved, the appellant was entitled to have the case tried by a jury of twelve in the High Court.

Order discharged: costs to abide the result.

On the 14th of February, 1849, the appellant, a non-trader committed an act of bankruptcy by neglecting for three weeks, after service on the 23rd of January preceding, of a debtor's summons requiring payment of the sum of 631*l.*, to pay, or to secure or compound for the same.

On the 9th of August, 1879, a bankruptcy petition was presented against the appellant, alleging the above act of bankruptcy.

On the 15th of March, 1880, an adjudication order was made, and an application on behalf of the appellant to annull the bankruptcy was, on the 17th of June, 1881, refused by the County Court at Stonehouse, Devon.

This was the order appealed from.

Winslow, Q.C., and G. W. Lawrance, for the appellant, relied on the 11th section of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, and contended that the title of the trustee must relate back to the act of bankruptcy of the 14th February, 1849 (which was committed more than twelve months before the adjudication) or to nothing; hence that the adjudication was bad, and ought to be annulled.

De Gex, Q.C., and F. Knight, for the respondent, the trustee in the bankruptcy, were not called upon.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that the six months limit from the presentation of the petition, prescribed by the 6th section, within which the act of bankruptcy, to be a valid ground for adjudication, must have occurred, was one thing; the twelve months limit from the adjudication within which a former act of bankruptcy to which the title of the trustee may relate back, must have been committed, was another. The 11th section had no application to this case; the adjudication was perfectly good, and the appeal must be dismissed, with costs in both Courts.

PATERSON AND OTHERS, APPS. July 12.
MAGISTRATES OF ST. ANDREWS AND BAIN AND OTHERS, RESPTS.

Power of Magistrates in the exercise of Administration to make Road across Land held for Public Recreation and Amusement: Provided no Alienation of Solum nor Constitution of New Rights or Burdens.

The Links of St. Andrews consist of an expanse of turf and sand, about two miles long, bounded by the sea and adjacent to the City of St. Andrews.

The present action relates to a small portion which is held by the magistrates of St. Andrews from time immemorial for behoof of the inhabitants, and, inter alia, subject to the obligation of preserving the same for the purpose of the game of golf, and for the recreation and amusement of the inhabitants.

In 1820 a small portion of this land was feued off, without serious or persisted objection, and since then some of the feuars, or their authors, have built handsome houses on portions of this ground, and have opened entrances on to the links. The magistrates gave permission to the feuars, Bain and others, respondents, to form a macadamized road, twenty-one feet wide, in front of their houses. The appellants objected to this, as being an act which was an encroachment upon the rights of the public, and, inter alia, interfered with the privilege of golfing.

The magistrates stated their object in appearing was to maintain their exclusive right to resolve and determine whether or not the road is to be allowed upon due consideration by them of the public interest, and of the purposes of golfing.

The respondents, Bain and others, averred (1) that there was from time immemorial use of the road or tract by the public in carts, and therefore they had a prescriptive right; and (2) that they were entitled to the road by the consent of the magistrates in the due exercise of their administrative rights.

The Second Division of the Court of Session, adhering to the interlocutor of the Lord Ordinary (Lord Curriehill), held, 9th of December, 1879, that there was no prescriptive right; that the magistrates had no power to do anything, which would destroy or injure the primary purposes for which this land is held, namely its public enjoyment by golfing or otherwise, but that the evidence of skilled golfers shewed that the proposed road, if made, would not have any material effect to the disadvantage of the golfing course, or to other interests involved, and that being so, the magistrates had power to permit the road, provided they did not allow the alienation of the solum, nor permit the constitution of any new rights over it (17 Scot. Law Rep. 225).

On appeal,

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., and Mr. Webster, Q.C., were heard for the appellants.

Mr. Vary Campbell (with him Mr. Benjamin, Q.C.), was heard for the respondents, the Magistrates of St. Andrews.

The Solicitor-General for Scotland (Mr. J. B. Balfour, Q.C.), (with him Mr. Haldane), was heard for the respondents Bain and others.

THE LORDS varied the interlocutor of the 9th of December, 1879, by adding words to the effect that the magistrates were bound to retain the portion of the Links in question in their own hands for behoof of the community of the burgh, so that any road which may be formed thereon shall remain in all time coming a portion of the said Links, held in the same way and subject to the same uses as any other portion of the Links; and that the magistrates were bound to take such steps as may be requisite to prevent either the Police Commissioners or any other person acquiring any title thereto, or any right to interfere therewith;—so that it may always be in the power of the said magistrates to take away or alter such road, and in the meantime to restrict and regulate the traffic thereon; and with this variation affirmed the interlocutors appealed from, but gave no costs of the appeal.

Will—Construction—Remoteness.

A testator, by will made in 1837, devised certain real estate to trustees, and directed that after the decease of the longest liver of the testator's son William, the son's widow, if any, and the testator's daughter, the trustees should sell the estate and should stand possessed of the proceeds and of the rents and profits till sale, upon trust to divide them among all and every the child and children of the testator's said son and daughter, and the lawful issue of such of them as might be then dead leaving issue, such issue to be entitled to no more than their parent or respective parents would have been if living. The heir-at-law claimed the estates as undisposed of after the decease of the longest liver of the son William, the son's widow, and the testator's daughter, on the ground that as the widow might be a person not born till after the testator's death, it was possible that the class to take might not be capable of being ascertained till after the death of a person not in being at the testator's death. Vice-Chancellor Hall decided that the limitations were not open to objection on the ground of remoteness. The heir-at-law appealed.

Rigby, Q.C., for the appellant.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, Robinson, Q.C., Romer, Q.C., and Follett, for the respondents.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the gift was not to be construed as a gift to such of the children as should be living at the time of distribution, and the issue of such of them as should be then dead, but as a gift to all the children, with a substitution of the issue of such of them as should die before the period of distribution leaving issue for their respective parents, and that if the substitution as to any share was too remote the only effect was that the original gift of that share remained unaffected; that there was therefore no intestacy, and that the heir-at-law had no title.

PETERS v. LEWES AND EAST GRINSTEAD RAILWAY COMPANY.

Lands Clauses Act, 1845, ss. 7, 9—Taking Lands—Sale by Trustees for Persons absolutely entitled—Trustee appointed Valuer—Power of Sale, Determination of.

This was an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Hall (16 Ch. D. 703).

A testator gave his residuary real estate to trustees in trust for his wife for life, and after her death to convey the same to his two married daughters in equal shares for their separate use as tenant in common; with a gift over in favour of their respective issues in events which did not happen; and "for the purpose of division" he empowered his trustees to sell his residuary estate, and he declared that his trustees should be entitled to be paid for all business done by them in relation to his estate.

Before the death of the testator a railway company had given him notice to treat for part of the land.

After the death of the widow of the testator the trustees sold and conveyed the lands to the railway company for a price to be determined by the valuation of two surveyors as provided by the 9th section of the Lands Clauses Act. The trustees having first for the purpose of making such valuation, appointed one of themselves as the surveyor on their behalf. One of the daughters disputed the validity of the sale, and brought an action to restrain the company from taking or using the land. The Vice-Chancellor held that the sale to the company was invalid and granted the relief prayed. The defendants appealed.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Prior, for the appellants.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Shebbeare, for the plaintiff.

JESSEL, M.R., said that there were several points in this case about which he would give his opinion although they were not all necessary for deciding the case. In the first place he was of opinion that the power of sale on the death of the tenant for life for purposes of division could be exercised within a reasonable time, but they did not in fact exercise it or profess to exercise it. They acted all along under the powers of the Lands Clauses Act. He also thought that trustees for married women entitled to land for their separate use were not competent to make contracts for the sale of the land on behalf of their cestuis que trust under s. 7 of the Lands Clauses Act. He was also clearly of opinion that the appointment by trustees of one of themselves as a surveyor to make a valuation on their behalf under s. 9 of the Act was improper, and sufficient to invalidate the sale. On the whole, therefore, the sale must be set aside, and it must be declared that the plaintiff was not bound to accept the price offered by the company, but was entitled to have it ascertained according to the provisions of the Lands Clauses Act.

Interference with Receiver—Liability to account—Jurisdiction—Solicitor—Contempt of Court.

Two partners in trade filed a liquidation petition under which the creditors resolved to accept a composition, but, owing to some informality in the proceedings, the resolutions were not registered, and the debtors were adjudicated bankrupts on the petition of a creditor. A receiver had been appointed on the filing of the liquidation petition, but no manager of the business was appointed. The debtors' solicitor, who had filed the petition, advised them to continue carrying on their business and told the receiver not to collect the debts due to the estate, and that he would indemnify him against liability. In consequence of this advice the receiver did not interfere with the management of the business, and the debtors carried it on until the adjudication was made, and in so doing received various sums of money and made various payments. The business was ultimately sold.

Held (by LORD SELBORNE, C., and BRETT and COTTON, L.JJ.) that the interference of the solicitor with the discharge of the duties of the receiver was a contempt of Court, and that the solicitor was liable to account, jointly with the receiver, in the Court of Bankruptcy for any loss which might have been incurred by the estate by reason of the carrying on of the business from the appointment of the receiver until the adjudication.

Per LORD SELBORNE, C., and BRETT, and COTTON, L.JJ.:—After a composition has been accepted by creditors under s. 126, and the resolutions have been registered, the debtor cannot, before the completion of the composition in accordance with the resolutions, enter into a valid agreement with one of the creditors, who is bound by the resolutions, to pay him his debt in full.

Such an agreement would be inconsistent with good faith to the other creditors, and with the spirit of s. 126.

The debtor does not stand in the same position as a discharged bankrupt until the composition has been paid.

Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, s. 4—Sale under Power by Legal Personal Representatives of Mortgagee of Freeholds—Vesting Order.

Petition for a vesting order.

The question upon this petition was whether a conveyance to a purchaser by the executors of a deceased mortgagee of freeholds, who had sold under a power of sale in the mortgage, was within the 4th section of the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874.

Nalder, for the purchaser, in support of the petition, submitted that the case was analogous to that of a transfer of a mortgage of freeholds, as to which it had been held by the Master of the Rolls in In re Spradbery's Mortgage (14 Ch. D. 514), that the 4th section did not apply, and that the legal personal representative of a mortgagee of freeholds could not, on receiving payment of the mortgage debt, convey the estate to a transferee. In the present case the will of the mortgagee contained no devise of trust or mortgaged estates: it was not known who was his heir-at-law, and the conveyance to the purchaser had only been executed by the executors of the mortgagee, and persons beneficially interested in the equity of redemption. He also referred to Dart's Vendors and Purchasers, p. 16.

Hiring Agreement—Instalments for twenty-six Months—Lunar or Calendar Months.

This was an adjourned summons to vary the chief clerk's certificate.

In the year 1878 the plaintiff, being in difficulties and there being a distress warrant levied upon his furniture and effects, applied to the defendant Brown for a loan of 1300*l.*, which was advanced in this mode: the defendant paid off the money due in respect of the distress and became the purchaser of the furniture. On the same day an agreement was entered into by which Hutton was to pay for the hire of the furniture a weekly rental of 22*l.* 10*s.* per week, the first payment to be made on the following Monday, the 13th of April, and the succeeding payments on each succeeding Monday after the 13th of April, the hiring to be for a term of twenty-six months from the date of the first payment. An account having been directed, the chief clerk decided that the word "months" in the agreement meant "lunar months," while it was contended by Brown that it meant calendar months, and he therefore claimed eight weeks more rent than had been allowed by the chief clerk.

Glasse, Q.C., and T. L. Wilkinson, in support of the summons by the defendant Brown.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Alexander, for the plaintiff.

HIS LORDSHIP said that on the general principle of law "months" meant lunar months unless there was anything to shew that the parties intended to mean calendar months. It had been contended that in mortgage transactions months always meant calendar months, but that arose from the fact that interest upon mortgage money was a fixed sum per annum and then of course a half year's interest would be for six calendar months; that principle could not be justified as a general principle, besides which, this was not primarily a mortgage transaction but a purchase of the furniture with a subsequent contract to pay off the money expended in the purchase by weekly instalments. The word "months" must therefore be construed as lunar months.

Ex parte EYRE.

Fraudulent Settlement—13 Eliz. c. 5—Subsequent Creditors.

Appeal from a decision of the Leicester County Court, declaring void under the statute of Elizabeth a deed dated the 14th of May, 1880, made between the bankrupt, Hubert Edward Eyre, his father, Mr. Vincent Anthony Eyre, and trustees, being an assignment and settlement of the bankrupt's reversionary interests in property of considerable value.

The bankrupt who resided at Lindley Hall, Leicestershire, got into the hands of bill discounters, and incurred debts which he was unable to satisfy. The deed in question was the result of negociations originally entered into between the bankrupt's solicitors and the solicitors acting for his father for the purpose of paying the bankrupt's liabilities, of which a list had been submitted to the father. By this deed, after reciting that V. A. Eyre, the father, had contracted with his son for the absolute purchase of his reversionary interests for 2500*l.*, and an annuity of 300*l.*, payable as therein limited only, it was also recited that V. A. Eyre in consideration of natural love and affection, had determined, notwithstanding his purchase of the reversions, to settle them upon certain trusts which were therein expressed. It was also agreed that an annuity of 300*l.* should be granted to the son until he should become bankrupt or mortgage or assign the same, with trusts in favour of the bankrupt's wife and children, if any, and, in default of wife and children, for his father, V. A. Eyre. The deed provided also for the payment of the sum of 1000*l.* to the bankrupt, in addition to 1500*l.* paid to secured creditors. For these considerations the bankrupt assigned his reversionary interests in property amounting to about 20,000*l.* to trustees. It appeared, however, that the bankrupt made no provision for the payment of the debt of Mr. Green and other creditors; and on these debts he was, in December, 1880, adjudicated bankrupt. The trustee applied for an order to set aside the deed of May, 1880, and the Registrar, being of opinion that the bankrupt intended to put his property out of the reach of his creditors, and that the limitation to him until he became bankrupt was within the mischief of the statute of Elizabeth, declared the deed void as against creditors. Mr. V. A. Eyre appealed.

H. Matthews, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and Hugo Young, for the respondents.

H. W. Challis, for the trustees.

THE CHIEF JUDGE:—In order to avoid a transaction of this kind there must have been bad faith, and an intention on the part of the vendor, assignor, or settlor, to cheat and delay his creditors. Nothing of the kind was to be found here. The father was anxious, and did everything in his power, that his son's debts should be all paid. It was only reasonable that on buying his son's reversion he should prescribe terms; and full consideration had been given for the deed. The transaction had been entered into in perfect good faith, and the deed was not open to any objection either under the Bankruptcy Act, or under the statute of Elizabeth.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Bktcy Ct. Ex parte FORDER. July 14.
In re SPARKS.

Trustee in Bankruptcy—Sale of Bankrupt's Property—Incapacity to purchase—Relationship between Trustee and Purchaser.

The trustee in a bankruptcy, with the sanction of the committee of inspection, entered into a contract for the sale of a policy of insurance for 550*l.* on the bankrupt's life, to two persons, one of whom was the trustee's own son and was under 21, and the other was the nephew of the trustee's partner in business. The bankrupt was 75 years old; the policy had been effected in 1840, and the price agreed upon was 250*l.* The attention of the committee was not called to the relationship between the trustee and the purchasers. The policy had been previously offered by the trustee for sale by tender, when it was stated that the surrender value was 213*l.*, but no tender was made. One of the creditors disapproved of the sale, and offered to give 270*l.* for the policy himself, but the offer was declined. He then applied to the Court to set aside the sale. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt acting as Chief Judge, refused the application, but the only objections to the transaction raised before him were that the sale had been made at an undervalue, and had not been made by public auction. Upon the appeal the objection mainly relied upon was the relationship between the trustee and the purchasers.

No. 25.—1881.

Winslow, Q.C., and Edward Pollock, for the appellant.

E. Cooper Willis, and R. T. Wright, for the trustee.

A. Morley, for the purchasers.

THE COURT (Lord Selborne, C., and Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the case fell within the principle of the cases which have decided that an assignee in bankruptcy cannot sell the bankrupt's estate to his partner in business or his solicitor. The sale would therefore be void as contrary to the policy of the law, even independently of the fact that one of the purchasers was a minor and legally incapable of entering into a contract. The sale must be declared void, and, as the trustee had been guilty of misconduct, he must personally pay the costs of the appeal.

Divorce—Costs of Wife—Limit.

This was an appeal from a judgment nisi of the Divorce Court dissolving a marriage at the suit of the husband on the ground of the adultery of the wife, and ordering her costs to be paid, but not exceeding the amount secured by the petitioner for the purpose.

Mrs. Robertson in person contended, first, that on the evidence the judgment was wrong, and secondly that she was entitled to be paid her full costs.

Inderwick, Q.C., and J. P. Middleton, for the petitioner.

THEIR LORDSHIPS held that on a question of evidence when the Judge of the Court below had seen the witnesses they could not interfere. As to the question of costs, no doubt the practice of the Divorce Court had been to give only so much as the security given by the husband extended to. Their Lordships thought that both according to the practice of the Ecclesiastical Court and to justice, a wife who had no property of her own ought to be able to have her means of defence supplied by her husband, and that her full costs should be allowed.

Appeal dismissed without costs.

Collision—Porting—Thames Navigation Rules 22 & 23.

The steamship Libra was going down the Thames on the north shore against tide, and off Tilburyness came into collision with the steamship Ricketts coming up with tide. The Libra had starboarded, and contended that she was under the 23rd of the Thames Navigation Rules, and that the Ricketts ought also to have starboarded, whereas the Ricketts had ported according to the 22nd rule.

The Admiralty Court had found the Libra to blame, and had given judgment accordingly. The Libra appealed.

Solicitor—Costs—Charging Order—Property recovered or preserved—23 & 24 Vict. c. 127, s. 28.

This action was brought by an undischarged bankrupt claiming remuneration as an architect, and damages for wrongful dismissal, and other relief. On the application of the trustee in the bankruptcy for an order substituting him as plaintiff, Fry, J., held (17 Ch. D. 169) that the trustee was entitled to the remuneration and damages claimed, and added the trustee as co-plaintiff. This order was affirmed on appeal (ante, p. 90). The defendant had, on delivering his statement of defence, paid 360*l.* into Court, though he did not admit the plaintiff's right to anything. The original plaintiff's solicitor in the action took out a summons asking a declaration that he was entitled, under s. 28 of the Act 27 & 28 Vict. c. 127, to a charge on the 360*l.* for his taxed costs, charges, and expenses of or in reference to the action as the plaintiff's solicitor, alleging that the 360*l.* was "property recovered or preserved" by means of the action.

A. Beddall, for the solicitor.

F. Turner, for the trustee.

FRY, J., held that the 360*l.* was not "property recovered or preserved" to the trustee, inasmuch as the action was brought with the view of obtaining the money, not for the trustee, but for the bankrupt; consequently the solicitor was not entitled to any charge.

Leasehold Interest of Debtor—Express Stipulation that Lessee may remove Trade Fixtures—Disclaimer of Lease by Trustee—Right to Fixtures.

By a lease of a brick-making field it was provided that the lessee, his executors, administrators, or assigns, might during the continuance of the lease, or within twelve months from the expiration or sooner determination of the term, remove any buildings or machinery which he might have erected on the premises for trade purposes. Upon the liquidation of the lessee, the trustee sold the fixtures and disclaimed the lease. The lessor claimed the fixtures.

The county court judge decided against the right of the lessor, who now appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and O. L. Clare, for the appellant:—The disclaimer of a lease surrenders all the rights under it, amongst the rest, this power to disannex.

Winslow, Q.C., and Bardswell, contrà.

De Gex, in reply.

THE CHIEF JUDGE observed that the jurisdiction of the Court of Bankruptcy was an equitable jurisdiction, and that confusion had sometimes resulted from the introduction into bankruptcy of common law doctrines, which in their own orbit were consistent, and were to be received with the utmost respect. The authorities which had been cited were, by the express language of the learned judges who decided them, excluded from applying to the present case, in which there was an express stipulation between the landlord and tenant that the tenant should have the fixtures. The trustee was entitled, and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

Case stated under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43.

A tricycle was capable of being propelled by the feet of the rider or by steam as an auxiliary or by steam alone. There was no smoke, nor escape of steam into the air, nor anything to indicate that it was being worked by steam, nor anything which could frighten horses or cause danger to the public using the highway beyond any ordinary tricycle. The weight was about two hundredweight, and the tires of the wheels being of india-rubber and about one and a half inches in width, no injury would be done to the surface of the road by working the machine on it. The appellant (owner and inventor of the tricycle) was convicted under the statutes mentioned below.

Mellor, Q.C. (Channell with him), for the appellant.

Leese, for the respondent, was not heard.

Held by LORD COLERIDGE, C.J., POLLOCK, B., and MANISTY, J., that the tricycle was a "locomotive" within the definition in s. 38 of the Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 77), and was therefore subject to the rules and regulations for the use of locomotives on highways prescribed by ss. 28 and 29 of that Act, by The Locomotive Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict. c. 70), s. 12, and The Locomotives Act, 1865 (28 & 29 Vict. c. 83), ss. 3, 4, 7.

Conviction affirmed.

ANNANDALE PEERAGE. July 20.

CLAIM OF SIR FREDERIC JOHNSTONE.

Admissibility of Evidence—Pedigree made out in 1776—Doctrine of Lis mota.

Sir Frederic John William Johnstone, of Westerhall, Dumfriesshire, claims this peerage from Matthew Johnstone, who he sought to prove was the youuger son of Adam Johnstone, who was certainly the ancestor of the Earls of Hartfell and Marquesses of Annandale, and who died in 1455.

Mr. Fleming, Q.C., and Mr. Cust, appeared for Sir Frederic Johnstone.

Sir John Holker, Q.C., Mr Marten, Q.C., and Mr. Nicolson (Scotch Bar), appeared for Mr. Hope Johnstone, who claims the peerage through the only daughter of the first Marquess of Annandale.

Sir Henry James, A.G., The Lord Advocate, and Mr. Crawford, appeared for the Crown.

The petitioner, Sir Frederic Johnstone, sought to use a pedigree made in 1776, which was similar to one found in the charter chest of the Westerhall family. It was proved that at the date of this pedigree the third and last Marquess of Annandale was unmarried, and that he had been hopelessly insane since 1747, and that materials were being collected as early as 1765 with a view to the claim to the peerage to be brought forward on his death.

THE LORDS' COMMITTEE resolved that the pedigree must be rejected as evidence, as it was clearly proved that before it came into being the controversy existed, and preparations were being made by the Westerhall family for the coming litigation.

The Committee also resolved that Sir Frederic Johnstone had not made out his claim, not having proved that Matthew Johnstone, from whom he claimed, was the son of Adam Johnstone, chief of the clan Johnstone, and who died in 1455.

PREHN v. BAILEY.

Ship raised—Damage—Thames Conservancy—Lien—Limitation of Liability.

The ship Ettrick sank in the Thames after a collision. The owner admitted that the collision was by the fault of the Ettrick and paid into Court 8*l.* a ton in a limitation action. On board the Ettrick were 290 bales of wool, and Dr. Wendt, their owner, had made a claim against the fund in Court. The Thames Conservancy finding the Ettrick an obstruction had raised her. The owner had paid the cost, 400*l.*, and she had been delivered to him. He refused to deliver the wool to Dr. Wendt except on payment by Dr. Wendt of 125*l.*, which would be to the 400*l.* as the value of the wool was to the value of the ship and cargo. The question was whether the owner had a right to be paid anything, and the Judge of the Admiralty Court decided that he was not.

The owner of the ship appealed.

Millar, Q.C., and Phillimore, for the appellant.

Myburgh, and Stubbs, for Dr. Wendt.

THEIR LORDSHIPS (Jessel, M.R., Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) said that the Thames Conservancy had a charge in the first instance on the ship, and the 400*l.* must be taken to have been paid for the ship not for the wool. Moreover, as the owner of the ship had made default in his contract to carry the wool safely, he could not claim against the owner of the wool a sum which he would have to pay back as damages for his default. The money paid into Court by way of limitation of liability had nothing to do with it.

Appeal dismissed.

This was an appeal by the defendant from a decision of Fry, J., reported 16 Ch. D. 440, granting an injunction to restrain the defendant from removing shingle from a part of the foreshore at Margate, and refusing the defendant leave, at the trial, to amend his defence, so as to turn a qualified denial of the plaintiff's possession to the foreshore in question into an unqualified denial of mere possession.

North, Q.C., and T. Brett, for the plaintiff.

Cookson, Q.C., and W. W. S. Follett, for the respondents.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the amendment ought to have been allowed, and that upon the true construction of the building agreement under which the plaintiff claimed to be entitled to the possession of the locus in quo, he had no title or estate therein whatsoever, but only a right of entry for the purpose of the building agreement, and on this ground allowed the appeal with costs. Their Lordships also intimated that they must not be considered as having adopted the construction placed by Fry, J., on the 8th section of the Prescription Act. That was a most important point and was in no wise concluded by their present decision, and must be fully argued out and decided whenever it should come before the Court.

In this case a County Court had made in the course of an action an order on the plaintiff for production of documents, which order was disobeyed. The defendant applied to commit him, but the judge refused to commit him, being of opinion that he had no jurisdiction to do so. The defendant obtained a rule nisi for a mandamus, which was discharged by Denman and Williams, JJ., on the ground of an omission to produce certain exhibits, without any opinion being given on the merits. The defendant appealed.

J. C. Bigham, for the defendant.

The plaintiff in person contrà.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., and Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the County Court had jurisdiction to commit, and that the case was governed by Martin v. Bannister (4 Q. B. D. 491), the fact that the order in that case was final, and in the present case only interlocutory, not making any difference.

This was an action against the secretary of the Charity Organization Society. At the trial the judge directed the jury that the communication was privileged, and left to them the question whether malice was proved, which the jury negatived. The Queen's Bench Division having refused a rule nisi for a new trial the plaintiff appealed.

Tatlock and Rose Innes, for the appellant.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., and Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the communication was privileged, and that it was not made out that the verdict negativing express malice was against evidence.

In the liquidation of this company, a meeting of the mortgage-holders was summoned by the official liquidator, pursuant to an order under the Joint Stock Companies Arrangement Act, 1870, to ascertain their wishes as to a proposed sale of the company's undertaking to the Indian Government. The official liquidator presided at the meeting, at which a resolution in favour of the proposed sale was declared to be carried by the statutory majority in number and value of the mortgage-holders present in person or by proxy. A large number of proxies, which were used in favour of the resolution, were given to the official liquidator himself, who was not a mortgage-holder of the company. No list of the mortgage-holders had been settled in the liquidation.

On a summons to confirm the proposed sale

The Master of the Rolls held that (though the 46th rule of the General Orders of November, 1862, was in the circumstances of the case inapplicable) it was well established that for the purposes of a meeting of any particular class of persons, proxies could only be given to, and held by, members of that class, and that accordingly the proxies given to the official liquidator were invalid, and that another meeting of the mortgage-holders must be held.

RAMWELL'S CASE.
PENNINGTON'S CASE.
SIMPSON'S CASE.

Winding-up—Set-off—Prepayment of Calls—Companies Act, 1862, s. 164.

Adjourned summons for balance orders against Messrs. Pennington, Ramwell, and Simpson, three contributories, for non-payment of a call of 8*l.* per share made in the winding-up of this company.

The company was registered in 1872. At the beginning of this year it was unable to meet its liabilities, and on the 11th of January, 1881, the directors passed resolutions for summoning an extraordinary general meeting for the 28th of January, at which resolutions for a voluntary winding-up were to be submitted to the shareholders.

On the 20th of January a petition was presented by a creditor for a compulsory winding-up, and on the 29th of January the order was made.

On the 23rd of May a call of 8*l.* per share was made, and in respect of this call the summons for balance orders had been taken out.

RAMWELL'S CASE.

Ramwell, who was the holder of forty shares, acted as solicitor of the company in partnership with Pennington, and the practice had been to have the bills of costs for business done for the company written off against the amount due for calls. On the 14th of January, 1881, the directors passed a resolution that Ramwell should be at liberty to pay 250*l.* to the company in prepayment of his calls. The 250*l.* was applied by Ramwell on the 14th or 15th of January in paying three creditors of the company who had been pressing for payment.

The amount claimed from Ramwell by the liquidator upon the call of May, 1881, was 320*l.* Of this amount Ramwell offered to pay 70*l.*, but insisted that the 250*l.* paid by him on the 15th January had discharged him pro tanto from liability in respect of future calls.

Higgins, Q.C., and R. F. Norton, for the liquidator.

Warrington for Ramwell.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the payment of 250*l.* made by Ramwell was made bonâ fide for the purpose of relieving pressing liabilities of the company, and was not void under the Companies Act, 1862, s. 164. There was nothing illegal or fraudulent in the transaction, and all that Ramwell was now liable to pay in respect of the call was the balance of 70*l.*, which he had already offered to pay.

PENNINGTON'S CASE.

Pennington was the holder of thirty shares, and had paid 215*l.* upon the sum of 240*l.*, which represented the amount claimed from him on the call of May 1881.

He objected to pay the balance of 25*l.* on the ground that he had in January, 1881, authorized his partner Ramwell to advance this amount to the company. It appeared that Pennington, who was ill and unable to attend to business at the time, on being told about the 22nd of January that the company was in urgent need of money and relied on his assistance, authorized Ramwell to apply 50*l.* of the partnership money to the assistance of the company. Only 25*l.* was actually advanced, and for that a receipt dated the 28th of January, 1881, was given by the secretary for "25*l.* being the amount of prepaid calls in respect of thirty shares held by him (Pennington) in this company."

Higgins, Q.C., and R. F. Norton, for the liquidator.

Phipson Beale, for Pennington.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the advance of 25*l.* did not affect Pennington's liability to the call made by the liquidator for the purpose of providing for the debts of the company. He must therefore pay the balance of 25*l.*

SIMPSON'S CASE.

Simpson, who was the holder of eighty-four shares, objected to payment of the call (672*l.*) on the ground that the company were indebted to him to the extent of 5182*l.* deposited by him with them, and he claimed set-off in respect of that amount, and to restrain proceedings for recovery of the call until it had been ascertained that the amount of the dividend payable in respect of his deposit would not be sufficient to pay the call.

Higgins, Q.C., and R. F. Norton, for the liquidator.

T. Brett, for Simpson.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that Simpson was bound to pay the call, and was not entitled to any set-off in respect of his deposit. To allow him this set-off would be giving him twenty shillings in the pound, while the other creditors might get a small fraction only in respect of their debts.

Railway Companies Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 127)—Scheme for Arrangement—Petition for Confirmation—Alteration or Amendment of Scheme by the Court.

Under the Railway Companies Act, 1867, a receiver and manager of this railway had been appointed, and the directors having prepared a scheme of arrangement for enabling the company to resume the management of its affairs, which did not give satisfaction to certain rent-charge holders, debenture holders, and other creditors of the company, a petition was presented under the 16th section of the Act for the confirmation of the scheme. Upon the hearing of the petition an objection was taken by the opponents of the scheme that the Court had no jurisdiction under the Act to introduce into it any material alterations or amendments.

W. Pearson, Q.C., Ingham, and Trevor White, for the directors.

G. Foster Cooke, and Northmore Lawrence, for rent-charge holders, and Kekewich, Q.C. for the Cambrian Railway Company, supported the scheme.

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Kenyon Parker, for other rent-charge holders, and Burton Buckley for other debenture holders, contrà.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the Court had jurisdiction not only to confirm, but also to alter or amend a scheme, although any such amendments might affect the priorities of debenture holders; but in the result he declined to approve of the scheme proposed.

Trustee—Breach of Trust—Negligence—Liability to make good good Trust Fund received by Tenant for Life—Accretions to Trust Fund—New Shares in Company allotted in respect of old Shares.

A testator bequeathed his leasehold and other personal estate upon trust for his widow for her life, and after her death to his niece absolutely. The testator died in June, 1847; the widow died in December, 1864. In 1851 the niece married, and prior to the marriage she assigned all her interest in the testator's residuary estate to trustees, upon trust to pay the income to herself for life, and after her death to her husband for life, and at the death of the survivor in trust for the children of the marriage as the wife should appoint. The settlement authorized the trustees to permit the testator's residuary estate to remain in its actual state of investment, or, with the consent of the wife during her life, and after her death at the discretion of the trustees, to sell any leasehold property or any shares in any public company of which the residuary estate of the testator should consist, and to invest the proceeds of sale in other securities specified. The wife was the surviving executrix of the testator, and in 1866 her husband sold the testator's leasehold property and other parts of his personal estate, and appropriated the proceeds of sale to his own use. Part of the testator's personal estate at the time of his death consisted of some shares in a gas company. In 1867 these shares were transferred out of the names of the testator's executors into the name of the husband alone. In 1869 and in 1871 new shares were allotted to the husband in respect of the old shares, and the calls on the new shares were afterwards fully paid up by him. In February, 1876, he transferred all the shares, old and new, by way of mortgage to secure the repayment of moneys which he applied to his own purposes. The mortgagee had no notice of any trust. Judgment having been given that the trustee of the settlement was liable to make good to the trust estate the amount of the proceeds of sale of the leasehold property and all other the residuary personal estate of the testator received by the husband:

Held, that the trustee must account for the present market value of the new shares allotted to the husband, and not merely for the selling value of the option to take those shares at the time when they were created.

But held, that, the trustee having paid into Court the amount of the proceeds of the sale of the leasehold property and other personal estate of the testator which had been received by the husband, he was entitled to be repaid out of what he had so paid in any sums in respect of calls on the new shares which the husband had paid out of those proceeds of sale.

A representation having been made against the Rev. S. F. Green, rector of St. John, Miles Platting, within the county palatine of Lancaster, in the province of York, under the Public Worship Regulation Act, 1874, for various offences under the Acts of Uniformity and the Public Worship Regulation Act, 1874, the bishop transmitted the matter to the archbishop, who required Lord Penzance, the judge of the Provincial Courts of Canterbury and York, to hear the matter of the representation at London or Westminster, or within the province of York, or diocese of Manchester. The judge elected to hear it at Westminster, and having there heard the case, issued a monition warning Mr. Green to abstain from the practices complained of. Mr. Green still continuing the practices, the judge, sitting at Westminster, issued an inhibition inhibiting him from performing divine service, and on his persisting in his disobedience pronounced him in contempt, and issued a significavit under seal of the Chancery Court of York. The tenor of the significavit was sent by mittimus from the Petty Bag Office to the Chancellor of the county palatine of Lancaster. The Vice-Chancellor of the county palatine, sitting at Lincoln's Inn, ordered the writ de contumace capiendo to issue, and it was accordingly issued, and Mr. Green was arrested and imprisoned in Lancaster gaol.

On a motion by Mr. Green for a habeas corpus, the Court of Appeal (James, Brett, and Cotton, LJJ.) held, affirming a decision of the Queen's Bench Division (Grove and Lindley, JJ.) that all the proceedings were perfectly regular, and refused the habeas corpus.

Per LORD SELBORNE, C., and BRETT and COTTON, LJJ.—The delivery of goods seized by the sheriff under an elegit to the execution creditor at the value appraised by the jury on the inquisition is a sale of the goods within the meaning of sub-s. 3 of s. 95 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, and consequently the delivery is a protected transaction if the execution creditor had not at the time of the delivery notice of any act of bankruptcy committed by the debtor and available against him for adjudication. But the notice must be a notice of an act of bankruptcy committed by the debtor before the seizure by the sheriff. A notice of an act of bankruptcy committed between the seizure and the sale will not deprive the creditor of the protection. Ex parte Schulte (Law Rep. 9 Ch. 409) followed.

Company—Winding-up—Jurisdiction—Companies Act, 1862, ss. 81, 116, 174—Stannaries Court.

This was an appeal from the refusal of Vice-Chancellor Hall to discharge an order made by him appointing a provisional liquidator under a petition presented in his Court for the winding-up of the above company.

The company was incorporated and registered in London on the 25th of April, 1881, and was formed with the object of "acquiring and working mineral properties in Cornwall or elsewhere." It appeared from the prospectus that the company contemplated purchasing a mine in Cornwall, but there was no evidence that the company were engaged in working a mine in Cornwall, or that they had acquired any mining rights there. The winding-up petition alleged that the company had not commenced to carry on business.

Higgins, Q.C., and Grosvenor Woods, for the appellants, some of the shareholders, contended that under s. 81 of the Companies Act, 1862, the proper forum for winding up the company was the Stannaries Court, and that the Vice-Chancellor had therefore no jurisdiction, and also relied on In re East Botallack Consolidated Mining Company, Limited (34 Beav. 82), as being directly in point.

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Beddall, for the petitioners, and E. Ford, and Leverson, for the company, were not heard.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) held that the words "engaged in working" a mine, in s. 81 of the Companies Act, 1862, meant "is or has been engaged in working," or "now or formerly engaged in working," but could not be said to apply to a case where, as here, there was no evidence that the company had acquired a mine in Cornwall at all, or had ever engaged in working a mine there. The appeal therefore failed, and must be dismissed with costs. Their Lordships were also of opinion that the case of In re Botallack Consolidated Mining Company (supra) was wrongly decided, because in that case the company, although formed to purchase and work mines in Cornwall, had never acquired or worked a mine there.

Company—Rectification of Register of Members and Return of Moneys paid by Allottees of Shares—Fraudulent Articles of Association.

Motion on behalf of shareholders to have their names removed from the register of members, on the ground that they were induced to apply on the faith of untrue and misleading statements in the prospectus, and in consequence of the concealment and suppression of material facts; and for repayment of the moneys paid in respect of their shares, with interest.

Higgins, Q.C., and G. Woods, for the motion.

Millar, Q.C., and Everitt, for the company, asked for time to answer affidavits.

Higgins thereupon moved without evidence, beyond that of the application for shares, the allotment, and payment of the moneys—facts which were not disputed.

The capital of the company was to be 75,000*l.* in 1*l.* shares.

By the articles of association (seven in all) the provisions of Table A were excluded; it was agreed that the business of the company should be conducted "either by a board of directors or by trustees, or by a manager as shall be agreed"; that "in the meantime and until the same be altered in general meeting, the business of the company shall be conducted by a manager, and Mr. William Harrison shall be the first manager of the company, and he shall not be deposed unless by a special resolution, signed by three-fourths of the shareholders in extraordinary general meeting"; that no director should be elected until he had been a holder of at least 500 fully paid shares in the company for not less than six months; but that this should not apply to the first directors; that general meetings should be held at the registered offices of the company on such day in each year as "the directors" might determine, and that notice of meeting should be given "by advertisement in a newspaper circulating in London"; that the manager "may, whenever he thinks fit, convene an extraordinary general meeting by giving twenty-four hours' notice by advertisement in a newspaper circulating in London; that at such meetings three shareholders might form a quorum"; that no meetings should be called by shareunless under a written roquisition signed by at least three-fourths of the company; that such notice of meeting, stating the place, time, and hour of meeting, should be left at the registered offices of the company in the hands of the manager, with 50*l.* in cash to cover expenses, at least twenty-one days before the holding of such meeting; and that no business should be transacted at such meetings unless one-fourth of the total number of shareholders (reckoned by the company's register on the day of the meeting) should be present.

Upon these articles alone the applicants are entitled to relief.

Millar, Q.C., and Everitt, contrà:—The applicants had notice of the articles, and are bound by them. We are entitled to an opportunity of answering the charges of fraud.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that the articles were grossly fraudulent, and an abuse of the statute. They could bind no one—certainly not the present applicants. No time was required to answer affidavits, deposing to the only facts upon which the motion was made, which must be within the knowledge of the company, from their own books. There must be an order according to the notice of motion; payment to be within fourteen days of the service of the order, with interest at 5 per cent., if precedent could be shewn; if not, at 4 per cent.; and costs.

Practice—Married Woman suing by her next Friend—Authority—Security for Costs.

Motion on behalf of defendants, a husband and the wife's trustee under a separation deed (the trustee having refused to give his consent to the wife's proceeding) that the action, which had been commenced by the wife, suing by her next friend for payment of unpaid instalments of maintenance money under the deed, might be dismissed, on the ground that the plaintiff had never given the alleged next friend any authority to act; or that the next friend might be ordered to give security for costs, on the ground that he was not a householder, and that a witness had ascertained upon inquiry that he had no visible means of paying costs. In defence the next friend deposed that he was in a position to pay any costs that he might be ordered to pay, but as to his authority he said nothing.

Farwell, for the motion.

Higgins, Q.C., and R. W. Andrews, contrà.

Farwell, in reply.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said it was new to him that a next friend should be interrogated as to his authority. If a wife were to come forward and say she had not given any authority, that would be another thing. But until the wife said this, or until some one said this and proved it, the case must go on. Neither could he put the alleged next friend on the terms of giving security for costs. The defendant, the husband, was the last man who should make this application, having deprived his wife of the means of subsistence. If he could answer the case he had the remedy in his own hands, for if he should succeed, he might pay himself the costs out of the annuity.

Motion refused; costs to be costs in the cause.

In re MANCHESTER AND MILFORD RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Branch Line—Abandonment—Parliamentary Deposit.

In the year 1873 this company promoted and obtained an Act for the construction of a branch line called the Devil's Bridge Branch.

The parliamentary deposit money in respect of this Act had been paid for the company by Mr. Barrow, a director, and the principal proprietor in the company, and he and another person (who had found no part of the deposit money) were the persons whose names appeared in the warrant.

The provisions in the Act for the disposal of the deposit money in case the line should not be constructed, or half the capital subscribed within the period limited by the Act, were in the usual form. The line was never begun, and no part of the capital was ever subscribed. In the year 1875 a receiver of the line was appointed.

In 1880, before the expiration of the period limited for the completion of the branch line, the company obtained an Act which authorized its abandonment; but provided that such abandonment should not affect the right of landowners and others to compensation for injuries caused by the company in respect of the branch line, and directed that, subject to the provisions contained in the Act of 1873 with respect to payment of compensation to landowners and other persons injured and to the protection of creditors, the Court, on the application of the person or persons named in the warrant, might and should order the deposit money and interest to be paid to the persons or persons so applying, or their nominees.

An inquiry had been directed, in answer to which it had been found that there were no persons injured within the meaning of the Act, and no creditors in respect of the branch line.

The costs of obtaining the Abandonment Act and an Act in the year 1876, extending the time for the completion of the line had been paid by Mr. Barrow, and not repaid to him by the company. It was admitted that there were general creditors of the company whose claims were far more than the fund in court.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Ingham, for Mr. Barrow, contended that as the Abandonment Act had been obtained before the period for the completion of the line had expired, the provisions for forfeiture of the deposit never applied; that according to the true construction of the Act of 1880, Barrow was placed in the position of the Crown; so that the Court in the exercise of its discretion could order the money to be paid to him; that only creditors of the particular branch, of whom in this case there were none, were intended to be protected, and that, at all events, the costs of obtaining the Act of 1876 and of the Abandonment Act should be paid out of the fund, even if the Court should think the fund ought to be paid to the receiver.

Graham Hastings, Q.C., and Kenyon Parker, for Mr. Pugh, M.P., who had conduct of the proceedings in which the receiver was appointed, contended that the deposit was part of the company's assets and should be paid to the receiver.

The Vice-Chancellor declared that the deposit money was part of the assets of the company, available for its general creditors, and that subject to the costs of the petition it ought to be so treated.

A testator, by his will, directed his residuary estate to be held on trust for division among all his children in equal shares. By a codicil he directed his trustees to hold 2000*l.*, part of the share of his daughter Eliza, upon trust to pay the income thereof to her for her life for her separate use, and after her death upon certain trusts for the benefit of her children, with an ultimate trust, in case she should have no children, for the benefit of the survivors or survivor of the testator's own children, and the issue of such of them as should be dead leaving issue. And the testator directed his trustees to hold 2000*l.*, part of the share of his daughter Catherine, upon trust to pay the income to her for her life for her separate use, and after her death to hold the 2000*l.* "upon such and the like trusts" as were thereinbefore declared of the 2000*l.* secured for the benefit of the daughter Eliza, "as fully and effectually as if such trusts were here fully repeated." And the testator directed his trustees to hold 2000*l.* part of the share of his daughter Louisa, and should pay, and apply, and dispose of the same and the income thereof "upon such and the like trusts as are hereinbefore declared of the two several sums of 2000*l.* and 2000*l.* secured for the benefit of my daughters Eliza and Catherine, as fully and effectually as if such trusts were here fully repeated." The daughter Catherine was dead without issue. The question was whether her 2000*l.* was to be held upon trusts identically the same as those directed of the daughter Eliza's share (she being dead and having left issue) or whether the trusts were to be the same mutatis mutandis, i.e., inserting the name of Catherine for Eliza.

Fry, J., held that the latter was the right construction.

Bankruptcy — Fraudulent Preference — Fraudulent Transfer — Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71), s. 6, sub-s. 2; s. 92.

A firm of traders being pressed by creditors, one of them, the first appellant, Aitken, a creditor for about 1600*l.*, having knowledge of the pressure, on the 22nd of January, 1881, served them with a debtor's summons. Four days afterwards one of the partners offered to pay the summoning creditor 100*l.*, and to assign to him a good debt for 200*l.*, if he would withdraw the summons; and these terms were agreed to, and proceedings on the summons were discontinued. On the 28th of January the debtors filed a liquidation petition. The debts turned out to be about 9000*l.*; the assets something under 2000*l.*

The county court judge found that the transaction with Aitken was not a fraudulent preference, owing to the pressure; but that it was a fraudulent transfer, and an act of bankruptcy; and ordered Aitken to repay the money.

Aitken appealed against the latter part of this order; and the trustee appealed against the former part.

Purchase of Article in course of Completion—Unfinished Ship—Advances on Sale or on Security—Bankruptcy—Mercantile Law (Scotland) Amendment Act, 1856, s. 1 (19 & 20 Vict. c. 60).

The appellant is the trustee in the estate of James Roney, shipbuilder, in Arbroath, Scotland, under a sequestration in bankruptcy, dated the 24th of April, 1880. The respondents are iron merchants in Dundee. The appellant raised this action by a process of suspension and interdict, to have the respondents interdicted from entering the bankrupt's shipbuilding yard, and from selling and completing a vessel which the trustee found there nearly ready to be launched.

The respondents claimed the vessel as theirs by virtue of a formal and unqualified written contract of sale between the bankrupt and them dated the 17th and 25th of January, 1878. By this contract Roney agreed to sell and complete the vessel within three months for the sum of 2500*l.* The instalment of the then stage of the vessel's build was declared to be 2000*l.*, and the final instalment of the price for the vessel and her appurtenances was 500*l.*, both of which instalments were payable on completion and launching of the vessel. It was also agreed that if the respondents should elect to pay any sums for settlement of these instalments sooner, the sums so advanced should bear interest.

The respondents advanced at sundry dates from the 18th of January, 1878, to the 7th of October, 1879, in all the sum of 2550*l.* to Roney. That was done in this way, a cheque was given for a certain amount, and receipts as for money to account of the price of the ship, were granted by Roney. But whenever a receipt was given, with one exception, a bill for a similar sum was drawn by the respondents upon Roney. The bills were renewed from time to time until Roney's insolvency, and were then paid by the respondents.

There was no reduction or challenge of the contract as not being bonâ fide, or as in fraud of creditors, but the appellant contended there was no real sale; that it was shewn by the written evidence after the contract that the whole transaction was merely a security arrangement for advances; that whether a sale or merely a security, not having been followed by actual possession or delivery before the bankruptcy, it was invalid by the law of Scotland: and that the Mercantile Law (Scotland) Amendment Act did not apply, because (1) there was no sale, (2) the ship was not completed, and (3) the vessel was left at the order and disposition of the seller.

The Lord Ordinary (Lord Rutherfurd Clark) granted the interdict as craved by the appellant by interlocutor dated 23rd of November, 1880; but the Lords of the Second Division of the Court of Session recalled that interlocutor, and refused the note of suspension and interdict (Ct. Sess. Cas. 4th Series, vol. viii., p. 368).

On appeal,

The Solicitor-General for Scotland (Mr. J. B. Balfour, Q.C.), and Mr. Benjamin, Q.C., were heard for the appellant.

Mr. Charles, Q.C., and Mr. Vary Campbell, were heard for the respondents.

The Lords dismissed the appeal with costs, on the grounds that there was no reputation of ownership nor any intention to create it, in the seller; and this being a sale in fact and intent of subjects which were left in the custody of the vendor, the Mercantile Law (Scotland) Amendment Act, 1856—which assimilated the law of Scotland to the law of England—applied, and the creditors of the bankrupt seller could not defeat the sale.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. Cockburn v. Edwards. Aug. 2.

Fiduciary Relation—Solicitor and Client—Improper Sale—Measure of Damage—Costs as between Solicitor and Client.

North, Q.C., and Bardswell, for the appellant.

Cookson, Q.C., and R. W. Ingham, for the plaintiff.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., and Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) affirmed the decision of Fry, J., that the insertion of an unqualified power of sale without full explanation to the plaintiff, was a breach of the defendant's duty as his solicitor. Their Lordships further held that the sale having been made without notice to the plaintiff and at a time when, as appeared by accounts which had been rendered by the defendant to the plaintiff, no interest was in arrear, was improper, and that the plaintiff was entitled to damages, but their Lordships reduced the 80*l.* given by Fry, J., to 10*l.*, and held that the difference between solicitor and client costs and party and party costs of the action could not be given to the plaintiff by way of damages. Their Lordships also gave the defendant his costs of the issue as to sale at an undervalue on which he had succeeded, such costs to be set off against the general costs of the action.

In this case Vice-Chancellor Hall had made an order at the suit of a mortgagee for the appointment of a receiver of the rents of the mortgaged property, which was in the occupation of the mortgagor. The registrar drew up the minutes with the usual direction for the tenants to attorn. The plaintiff applied to vary the minutes by substituting a direction for the defendant to give up possession to the receiver. This application was refused. The defendant appealed from the order appointing a receiver, and the plaintiff gave notice that he should apply to vary the form of order as above.

Resolutions accepting a composition of 2*d.* in the pound, payable in three months, and not secured in any way, were passed by the statutory majority of a debtor's creditors. The debtor's statement of affairs shewed that he had no assets;

ROBERTSON v. AMAZON TUG AND LIGHTERAGE COMPANY.

Contract—Implied Contract as to Condition of a Specific Article—State of Repair and Fitness for Use.

Plaintiff, who was a master mariner, entered into a contract with the defendants by which, for a lump sum to be paid him by the defendants he was to take a steam tug, the Villa Bella, belonging to the defendants, towing six sailing barges from the Downs to Para, Brazils, the plaintiff undertaking to provide and pay the crew (forty-one men) and to provide provisions for all on board for seventy days. The complaint was that the boilers and engine of the Villa Bella were out of repair, and that in consequence thereof the expense and time occupied in the voyage were increased.

The action, which was for a breach of the contract in this respect, was tried before Lord Coleridge, C.J., who, after the jury had been discharged, gave judgment on further consideration for the plaintiff, leaving the amount of damages to be settled by an arbitrator.

The defendants appealed.

Sir H. Giffard, Q.C., and Kenelm Digby, for the defendants.

Butt, Q.C., and E. Pollock, for the plaintiff.

Cur. adv. vult.

THE COURT (Brett and Cotton, L.JJ., Bramwell, L.J. dissenting) now held that as the contract related to a specific thing there was no implied contract on the part of the defendants that the boilers and engine of the Bella Villa should be in a fit state of repair for the purpose for which the tug was to be used, and that as there was nothing to shew that they were more out of repair or in a worse condition than they were at the time of the contract the defendants were entitled to judgment.

Insurance Society—Contributory—Policy-holder.

In the case of Re Albion Life Assurance Society (16 Ch. D. 83) it was held, on the construction of the articles of association that participating holders of life policies are members of the company, and liable (after the resources of the shareholders have been exhausted) to become contributories in the winding-up of the company.

Brown, the present applicant, took out a policy on his own life, which he assigned by way of mortgage and which was subsequently sold by the mortgagee. Notice of the assignment was given to the office, but no one else than Brown was put on the register of members as holder of the policy. This was a summons by Brown to have his name removed from the list of contributories.

North, Q.C., and Vernon Smith, appeared for the applicant.

BANKRUPTCY.

C. J. B. Aug. 1.

Ex parte WEST OF ENGLAND INSURANCE COMPANY.
In re GASKELL.

Bankruptcy—Liquidation—Debt secured by Policy—Failure of Security—Renewal of Security by means of new Policy—Right of Liquidation Trustees.

On the 31st of May, 1876, a policy of assurance was effected by the debtor, Gaskell, on his own life for 1200*l.* with the company, and on the 3rd of June, 1876, the policy was deposited with the company as a collateral security for repayment by quarterly instalments of a loan by the company to the debtor of 600*l.*, which loan was secured by a bond of the last mentioned date, executed by the debtor and four sureties. On the 29th of August, 1877, the debtor filed a liquidation petition. At this date the premium on the policy due on the 31st of May preceding was unpaid, the policy had become void, and the period of three months within which by the conditions a dropped policy might be revived, had (reckoning them as lunar months) expired. At a first meeting on the 25th of September, 1877, liquidation resolutions were agreed upon, and the debtor was discharged. On the same day the company tendered a proof of debt, in which they stated that "the policy by a rule of the said company has not obtained any office or other value." The trustees wrote for details of the company's proof, and received an answer that the proof explained the details. The trustees again in October, 1877, wrote requiring further proofs before deciding on the claim, and also requiring production of the bond and delivery up of the policy. To this letter no answer was returned, and the proof was never admitted. The liquidation causing a breach in the suretyship, it was arranged that a new policy should be effected, that a new surety should be found, and that the back premium with a fine and over due instalments and law charges should be paid; and on the 17th of December, 1877, J. T. Carr became bound to the company under a bond of that date in similar terms to the former, and the expenses, quarterly instalments of loan, and annual premiums had since been paid by Carr. On the 30th of April, 1878, resolutions were passed, releasing the trustees, and closing the liquidation. On the 12th of June, 1880, the debtor died; and the company after satisfying their debt, interest, and a premium then due, paid the balance of the insurance money to Carr, on the receipt of himself and the executrix of the debtor.

The trustees in the liquidation who had been asked to disclaim any interest, on having their costs paid, which offer they had declined, on the 30th of June, 1881, obtained an order in the County Court at Manchester against the assurance company, declaring that they were entitled to the balance of the policy moneys, with interest, after deducting the amount of all premiums paid on the policy since the commencement of proceedings in the matter, with interest.

This was the order appealed from.

Marten, Q.C., and Edge, for the appellants, the company.

Winslow, Q.C., and Samuel Taylor, for the respondents, the trustees.

THE CHIEF JUDGE considered the case free from doubt. At the time of the liquidation the company had a right to prove for their debt; and they were bound to state whether they held security or not, and if they held security, what was its value. They stated that the security which they held was of no value, because the policy had become forfeited; and their proof was never admitted. Afterwards a Mr. Carr agreed to enter into a similar bond, and the company granted to him a new policy, which was deposited as a security for the old debt. What had the trustees to do with that? They were no more entitled to take advantage of a contract which had turned out advantageously for Carr, than they would have been to get the benefit of any free gift, or act of bounty, by the company to Carr. The order of the County Court must be discharged with costs in both Courts.

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION.

Q. B. Div. Aug. 1.

REG. (on the prosecution of ASTIN) v. HANDSLEY AND OTHERS, JUSTICES OF THE BOROUGH OF BURNLEY.

Poor-rate—Distress Warrant—Power of Justices to delay Execution.

Justices in issuing a distress warrant for the recovery of poor-rates have no power to order that there shall be any delay in the execution of the warrant.

Rule calling upon R. Handsley, Esq., and others, justices of the Borough of Burnley, Lancaster, to shew cause why a mandamus should not issue commanding them to grant a distress warrant upon the goods of W. Whitaker in respect of poor-rates for the borough.

It appeared upon affidavit, that Whitaker having been summoned to shew cause why he should not pay 6*s.* 6*d.* due from him for poor-rate, his wife appeared and stated that her husband was unable to pay owing to his being ill and out of work, but that she would be able to pay the rate within a month. The overseer thereupon applied to the justices for a distress warrant. The justices granted the warrant but directed their clerk to keep it in his possession for three months, and not to cause the goods of Whitaker to be taken in execution until the expiration of that time.

Atherley-Jones, shewed cause:—What the justices did was tantamount to ordering an adjournment of the case. The power to delay the execution of the warrant is in fact implied in the jurisdiction to grant it. [HUDDLESTON, B., referred to Corner's Crown Practice, 210. "The Court will not permit justices to annex conditions to the performance of their duty which the law does not warrant, and where magistrates refused to issue a distress warrant for levying a poor-rate unless an indemnity were given, the Court issued a mandamus commanding them to do so: Reg. v. Middlesex (12 L. J. (M.C.) 36)."] In the present case the justices did not refuse the warrant.

Petheram, Q.C., and R. H. Collins, in support of the rule, were not heard.

FIELD, J. The rule must be made absolute. The justices upon due application for a distress warrant are bound to grant it and place it at the disposition of the overseers. They themselves have nothing to do but to act ministerially as a kind of sheriff in the execution of the process. The case of Reg. v. Middlesex (12 L. J. (M.C.) 36) referred to by my Brother Huddleston, seems to me a direct authority against the course taken by the justices. I think they had no jurisdiction to interpose any delay in the execution of the warrant.

HUDDLESTON, B. I also have no doubt that the mandamus must go. There can be no doubt that the justices act ministerially and not judicially. It is most important that these warrants should be put in force without delay, otherwise the ratepayers in default would remove their goods and go out of the parish and thereby throw a heavier burden upon those who have not neglected their liabilities.

Rule absolute.

FRASER OR ROBINSON, APP.; MURDOCK AND ANOTHER, RESPS. — Aug. 3.

Trust—Liability of Trustees and Indemnity from Trust Estate—Creation of separate Trusts.

At the date of the City of Glasgow Bank failure, October, 1878, 200*l.* stock of that bank stood in the name of James Fraser Robb and William Murdock as trustees, and they were placed in the list of contributories in respect of 200*l.* They claimed a right to indemnify themselves out of the whole trust estate. The appellant, Mrs. Robinson, applied for an interdict to prevent the application of certain stocks specified in payment of calls or in relief of any obligation which may have been incurred in consequence of those calls.

The respondents' truster, after providing for her debts, &c., directed her trustees to make payment of the interest or annual rent of 2000*l.* to her daughter, Mrs. Sinclair, during her lifetime, and of the capital to her children after her decease, and to make payment in like manner of the interest or annual rent and of the capital of another sum of 2000*l.* to her daughter Mrs. Robinson and her children. The testatrix then bequeaths 5*l.* to each of her trustees, and directs them, after payment of debts, and after "making provision for payment of the legacies above mentioned," to divide the free residue of the trust estate equally between her son, James Robb, and her two daughters, Mrs. Sinclair and Mrs. Robinson. The truster also gave the trustees full power to continue to hold any of the stocks which belong to her at the date of her decease should they consider it advisable to do so, without any personal responsibility on them.

The estate falling under the trust, amounting in value to 5000*l.*, or thereby, consisted chiefly of railway stocks, and of 850*l.* consolidated stock of the City of Glasgow Bank, which was duly transferred to the respondent, William Murdoch, and his co-trustee, James Fraser Robb. The trustees, in the course of their administration, sold bank stock to the extent of 650*l.*; and after paying debts, expenses, and minor bequests, they proceeded to make provision for payment of the two legacies of 2000*l.* to the daughters of the testatrix and their issue, by appropriating to them severally the remaining stocks which had belonged to the testatrix, at their current value in the market. In this division, the unsold balance of 200*l.* City Bank stock was, with the knowledge and consent of Mrs. Sinclair, appropriated to her and her children, as representing part of their 2000*l.* The funds remaining in the hands of the trustees, after such appropriation, were equally divided among the three residuary legatees. These arrangements are narrated in detail in a deed of discharge executed by the residuary legatees in March and May, 1877. It proceeds upon the recital that the trustees "have invested" each of the two legacies of 2000*l.* upon the respective stocks therein specified; and in respect that they had been paid or received credit for their several shares of the remainder, the residuary legatees thereby exoner the trustees of their whole actings and management, and discharge all claims of residue competent to them under the provisions of the deed of trust. It also appeared from the books and accounts of the trust that, from the time the two legacies were thus severed, each of the daughters of the testatrix received the income of the stocks which had been assigned to herself and her family, under deduction of expenses applicable to her own stocks.

The Second Division of the Court of Session, being of opinion that the trustees were entitled to relief against the trust estate belonging to both the appellant and her sister for payment of calls, recalled the interlocutor of the Lord Ordinary (Lord Rutherfurd Clark), and pronounced an interlocutor, 10th of March, 1880, refusing the interdict.

On appeal,

The Solicitor-General for Scotland (Mr. J. B. Balfour, Q.C.), and Mr. Moncreiff, were heard for the appellant.

Mr. Chitty, Q.C. (with him Mr. Benjamin, Q.C.), and Mr. Pearson, were heard for the respondents.

THE LORDS dissenting from the decision of the Court below, reversed the interlocutors appealed from with costs.

Composition Resolutions—Registration—Presence of Debtor at Meetings of Creditors—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 126 (sub-s. 4).

Per Lord Selborne, C., and Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.:—The intention of sub-s. 4 of s. 126 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869, is that the debtor shall be personally present at the meetings of the creditors, and shall personally present his statement of assets and liabilities.

Under special circumstances it may be that (as in Ex parte Grunelins, Weekly Notes, 1876, p. 244), though not actually in the room in which the meeting is held, the debtor may be taken to have been present at the meeting within the meaning of the sub-section. But, as a general rule, the debtor ought to be actually present, unless the creditors dispense with his attendance; it is not sufficient for him to remain out of the room (in an adjoining room, for instance) until the creditors send for him.

The refusal of the registrar to register composition resolutions, on the ground that the debtors were not present in the room in which the first meeting of the creditors was held, though they were in the same building, affirmed.

Winslow, Q.C., and Herbert Reed, for the debtors.

De Gex, Q.C., and Sidney Woolf, and James Greenwood, for opposing creditors.

Dowd v. Hawtin.

Practice—Conduct of Proceedings—Administration Actions—Receiver—Bankrupt Administrator.

This action was commenced in 1880, in the Court of Bacon, V.-C., for the administration of the estate of D. Hopkins, the plaintiffs being Mrs. Dowd, one of the next-of-kin of the deceased, and her husband, and the defendant Hawtin his administrator with the will annexed. An order for administration was made on the 27th of November, 1880. The defendant Hawtin was entitled to a share in the estate of T. Eldridge, and in January, 1881, he brought an action for the administration of that estate in the Court of Hall, V.-C. (In re Eldridge. Hawtin v. Wyatt). An order for administration was obtained in that action in February, 1881.

In May, 1881, Hawtin became a liquidating debtor, and the plaintiffs thereupon took out a summons before Bacon, V.-C., in the action of Dowd v. Hawtin, asking that a receiver might be appointed of Hopkins' estate, and that the plaintiffs might be permitted to use Hawtin's name in prosecuting the action of Hawtin v. Wyatt. The Vice-Chancellor appointed the receiver, but refused the second part of the application. The plaintiffs appealed.

Higgins, Q.C., and Terrell, for the appellants.

Whitehorne, Q.C., and T. N. Lawrence, for Hawtin.

Jessel, M.R. said that he was of opinion that the second part of the order ought to have been made. It was properly made in the first action, before Vice-Chancellor Bacon, and followed as a necessary corollary from the first part. The practice was different to what it was in Lord Eldon's time, the conduct of an action was never now given to a receiver. The administrator having become a bankrupt it was quite right that the conduct of the second action should be taken out of his hands, and the application to give it to the plaintiffs in the first action ought to have been granted as a matter of course.

Baggallay, Brett, and Lindley, L.JJ., expressed their opinions to the same effect.

Action by Undischarged Bankrupt—Money paid into Court—Intervention of Trustee—Solicitor—Costs—Charging Order—Property recovered or preserved—23 & 24 Vict. c. 127, s. 28.

Appeal from decision by Fry, J. (ante, p. 118).

The action was brought by an undischarged bankrupt claiming remuneration as an architect and damages for wrongful dismissal. The defendant denied any legal liability on his part to pay the plaintiff anything, but nevertheless paid 360*l.* into Court. The trustee in bankruptcy then intervened and claimed payment of the fund. The solicitor of the bankrupt then took out a summons, asking a declaration that he was entitled under s. 28 of the Act 23 & 24 Vict. c. 127, to a charge on the 360*l.* for all his costs, charges, and expenses incurred in the action, alleging that the 360*l.* was "property recovered or preserved" by means of the action. Fry, J. held that the 360*l.* was not "property recovered or preserved" to the trustee, inasmuch as the action was brought with the view of obtaining the money, not for the trustee, but for the bankrupt; consequently the solicitor was not entitled to any charge.

Beddall (M. Cookson, Q.C., with him), for the appellant.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and F. Turner, for the trustee.

Everitt, for the bankrupt.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay, Brett, and Lindley, L.JJ.) held, reversing the decision of Fry, J., that the 360*l.* was "property recovered or preserved in the action," that the trustee on intervening and adopting the action took the fruits of it subject to the liabilities incurred by the original plaintiff, and, therefore, that the solicitor was entitled to a charge for his costs, charges, and expenses down to the date when the trustee intervened.

Appeal of the plaintiffs from order of Vice-Chancellor Hall, refusing to vary the chief clerk's certificate, came on along with appeal by the defendants from the judgment. The Court was of opinion that as the judgment stood the certificate was wrong, but that the judgment ought to be varied in certain particulars, the result of which was that the figures found by the certificate were correct.

The order was made on the 23rd of June, 1881, and passed and entered on the 4th of July, 1881, and the notice of motion to discharge the order was given on the 18th of July, 1881.

THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS refused the motion with costs, on the ground that the notice of motion was out of time, it being his invariable rule that notices of motion to discharge orders made in chambers must be given within twenty-one days from the date of making the order in chambers, and not from the date of passing the order.

J. T. Hutchinson, for the petition.

HARVEY v. PRINCIPAL AND ANTIENTS OF BARNARD'S INN.

Specific Performance—Conditional Contract.

The plaintiff claimed the specific performance of an alleged agreement in writing by the defendants, dated the 24th of August, to sell to him certain freehold property for 50,000*l.*, "subject to a contract to be settled between Messrs. C., the plaintiff's solicitors, and the defendants," and of another alleged written agreement by the defendants, dated the 1st of September, to sell the same property to the plaintiff at the same price, "subject to a proper contract and the payment of a deposit to be agreed on." The defendants demurred to the statement of claim, on the ground that neither of the agreements alleged was a definite or final agreement binding on them.

Glasse, Q.C., and C. T. Simpson, for the demurrer.

Cookson, Q.C., and Boome, for the plaintiff.

FRY, J., held that neither of the alleged agreements was anything more than an agreement to agree at a future time. The demurrer must therefore be allowed.

Vendor and Purchaser—Contract for Sale of Lease—Evidence of Performance of Covenants.

Upon an open contract for the sale of a lease the purchaser required evidence that the covenants had been performed. The vendor produced the lessor's receipt for the rent due at Michaelmas, 1879, but could not produce any later receipt, the lessor having refused to receive the rent subsequently tendered to him. In November, 1880, he brought an action against the vendor to recover possession of the property, alleging that there had been breaches of the covenant to repair. In this action on the 23rd of November, 1880, an order was made that the plaintiff should deliver to the defendant written particulars of breaches, and that, unless they were delivered within a week, all further proceedings in the action should be stayed. No particulars were delivered, and no further proceedings had been taken in the action. No fresh proceedings were commenced by the lessor, and the vendor remained in undisturbed possession of the property. The lessor had, however, told the purchaser that he intended to go on with his action. The vendor took out a summons under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, asking for a declaration that the purchaser was not entitled to any further evidence that the covenants had been performed. The vendor had deposed that to the best of his knowledge and belief all the covenants had been duly performed and observed, and the purchaser, who had inspected the premises, did not allege any breach.

J. Pearson, Q.C. and Colt, for the summons.

Cookson, Q.C., and Alexander, for the purchaser.

FRY, J. held that under the circumstances the purchaser was not entitled to any further evidence of the performance of the covenants.

Fry, J. ELTON v. CURTEIS. Nov. 7.

Mortgage—Foreclosure—Computation of Subsequent Interest.

This was a foreclosure suit, instituted by a first mortgagee against the mortgagor, and the second and third mortgagees. On the 11th of November, 1874, the ordinary foreclosure decree was made, directing successive foreclosures in default of redemption. The second mortgage was afterwards transferred to one Pryse, and he on the 26th of January, 1876, paid to the plaintiff the sum which the chief clerk had certified would be due to him on his mortgage on that day, and the plaintiff's mortgage was then transferred to Pryse. By another certificate dated the 26th of July, 1880, the chief clerk found what would be due to Pryse for interest up to the 26th of October, 1880, on the sum which he had paid to the plaintiff in respect of the first mortgage, and also what was due to him in respect of principal on the second mortgage, and would be due to him for interest thereon to the 26th of October, 1880; and that in the whole 17,304*l.* would then be due to him, which sum the third mortgagee was directed to pay on the day. The third mortgagee made default, and on the 5th of February, 1881, the decree for foreclosure was made absolute against him. On the 25th of July, 1881, the chief clerk made another certificate, finding that on the 25th of October, 1881, there would be due to Pryse from the mortgagor in respect of the first and second mortgages the sum of 17,859*l.*, which the mortgagor was to pay on that day. In this amount was included interest on the sum of 17,304*l.* from the 26th of October, 1880, to the 25th of October, 1881. The mortgagor took out a summons to vary the certificate, on the ground that it was contrary to the practice to allow interest on interest, and that the subsequent interest ought to have been calculated only on so much of the sum of 17,304*l.* as represented capital.

H. J. Lake, for the summons.

Cookson, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for Pryse.

FRY, J., held, that it was in accordance with the practice to calculate subsequent interest on the total amount which the third mortgagee ought to have paid. The summons was accordingly dismissed.

HOWELL v. METROPOLITAN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Vendor and Purchaser—Railway Company—Specific Performance—Purchase-money—Garnishee Order Nisi—Attachment of Equitable Debt—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XLV., r. 3.

In August, 1878, the defendant company served the plaintiff with a notice to treat in respect of a leasehold house, and on the 27th of November the purchase-money was assessed by a jury and verdict given for 3,650*l.* On the 4th of December a good title to the property was shewn. Before that date, but after the verdict, garnishee orders nisi were obtained and served by two judgment creditors of the plaintiff. On the 25th of January, 1879, the plaintiff issued the writ in this action against the company for specific performance, and on the 8th of May obtained judgment with costs accordingly, in pursuance of which the company paid the purchase-money into Court. Other garnishee orders nisi were served after good title shewn but before judgment.

Several charges having been given by the plaintiff upon the house and purchase-money, a question arose upon the priorities as between the several incumbrancers, whether the fund in Court was a debt which could be attached by a garnishee order under Rules of Court, 1878, Order XLV., r. 3.

Phipson Beale, Grosvenor Woods, Godefroi, and Leach, for incumbrancers.

Northmore Lawrence, for the holders of the garnishee orders nisi, contended that the purchase-money in Court was in the nature of an equitable debt from a purchaser to a vendor, and as such was capable of being attached.

CHITTY, J., held that the purchase-money did not constitute a debt "due or accruing" within the meaning of Order XLV., r. 3, its payment being conditional only, that is, upon the execution of a conveyance by the vendor. The Order meant a debt that had been actually perfected. Consequently the fund could not be attached by the garnishee orders.

Appeal—Notice to Registrar of Court appealed from—"Forthwith"—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 71—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, rr. 143, 144.

Appeal from County Court at Manchester.

The order appealed from was pronounced and made on the 12th of July, 1881. Notice of appeal, to be moved on the 7th of November, 1881, dated the 5th of August, 1881, was entered with the Registrar of Appeals on the same 5th of August, being within the twenty-one days required by rule 143, but the appeal notice was not sent by or on behalf of the appellants to their own solicitors at Manchester till the 6th of August, which was Saturday, and was not received by them till Monday, the 8th. On Monday the 8th the appellants' solicitors sent a copy of the appeal notice to the Registrar of the County Court, and they served the respondents' solicitors with a copy of the notice on the same day.

Smyly, for the respondents, took the objection that this was not a service "forthwith" upon the registrar of the County Court, as required by the Bankruptcy Rule 144, of 1870.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that after the decisions which had been referred to, namely Ex parte Sillence (7 Ch. D. 238) and Ex parte Donnithorne (40 L. T. 660), he must hold that the notice was out of time, and irregular, and the appeal must be dismissed with costs.

SCOTT AND ANOTHER, APPS.; JOHN SMITH, RESP.

Supply of Goods—Whether to Sub-contractor or on Credit of Contractor.

This was an appeal from a judgment of the Second Division of the Court of Session, adhering to the Lord Ordinary's interlocutor (dissenting Lord Young), finding that Messrs. Scott & Best, the appellants, a firm of contractors in Leith, and contractors for the construction of Forfar waterworks, were liable for payment to the respondent of 43*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* This was the amount of an account for stones supplied to a man named Cameron, who professed to be a foreman of the appellants, and which stones were supplied for and used in the erection of a bridge to carry a pipe across the river Esk at Justinhaugh, which was a part of the Forfar waterworks' contract. The appellants' defence to the action was that Cameron in point of fact had a sub-contract from them for the erection of the bridge, and had no authority to pledge their credit with the respondent or any one else.

On appeal,

Mr. Webster, Q.C., and Mr. E. Rolland, were heard for the appellants.

Mr. Dundas (of the Scotch Bar), was heard for the respondent.

THE LORDS being of opinion that the fact of a sub-contract with Cameron had been established, and that the respondent had not been misled by any act of the appellants, reversed the interlocutors appealed from, with costs in the Court below as well as of the appeal.

Taxation—Costs of Interlocutory Application—Copies of Pleadings—Orders 12 Aug. 1875, r. 26.

The Court of Appeal had ordered part of an affidavit filed on behalf of the plaintiff to be expunged as scandalous, and had given the defendants their costs of the application as between solicitor and client. The taxing master disallowed the costs of copies of the pleadings for the use of counsel and the judges on the ground that it was not the practice to allow the expense of copies of pleadings except at the hearing. Bacon, V.-C., disallowed objections to this finding.

S. Dickinson, for the appellants.

Grosvenor Woods, contrâ.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Brett and Lindley, L.JJ.) reversed the decision, and allowed the cost of the copies, holding that the general rule laid down by the taxing master could not be sustained, and that as the copies were necessary to enable the case to be properly argued they must be allowed.

Winding-up—Application by Bankrupt Contributory.

Appeal from Fry, J. Rooney was on the list of contributories and became bankrupt. He afterwards applied for an order that the official liquidators might be directed to take proceedings against one of the directors to recover certain sums of money. Fry, J., made an order that on Rooney depositing with the official liquidators 100*l.*, the liquidators should lay a case before counsel as to the proposed proceedings, and on obtaining their opinion should apply to the judge for directions. Two of the contributories and creditors appealed.

Davey, Q.C., and Farwell, for the appellants.

Northmore Lawrence, contrà.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Brett, and Lindley, L.JJ.) held that Rooney having become bankrupt was a stranger to the proceedings, and that the Court had no jurisdiction to make any order on his application, and that the order must be discharged without regard to the question whether in substance it was a right order or not.

The trustees of a friendly society lent out of the funds 300*l.* to Joseph Marshall on the security of a joint and several promissory note by Marshall and two sureties, of whom Coltman was one. Joseph Marshall was not a member of the society. Coltman's estate was being administered in this action, and the trustees of the society claimed to prove on the note. Fry, J., rejected the proof on the ground that under the Friendly Societies Act the lending to a stranger on personal security was forbidden, and that the contract was therefore an illegal one which could not be enforced.

The trustees appealed.

Davey, Q.C., and Woodroffe, for the appellants.

Glasse, Q.C., and Dunning, contrà.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Brett, and Lindley, L.JJ.) reversed the decision, holding that the transaction was a breach of trust only, and not illegal in such a sense that no remedy could be had under it.

Bill of Sale—Statement of Consideration—Bills of Sale Act, 1878, s. 8.

A bill of sale of chattels, dated the 23rd of March, was expressed to be made "in consideration of the sum of 50*l.* by the assignee paid to the assignor at or before the execution hereof." In fact only 21*l.* 10*s.* was paid by the assignee to the assignor on the execution of the deed, 3*l.* 10*s.* being retained for the expenses of the deed, and 25*l.* being retained and paid by the assignee on the 30th of March to the landlord of the assignor's house, in which the chattels comprised in the deed were, for two quarters' rent. The house was held at a rent of 50*l.*, payable quarterly, and there was nothing to shew that it was payable in advance. So far as appeared the 25*l.* retained represented the rent for the quarters ending respectively the 25th of March and the 24th of June. The retainer of the 25*l.* and the 3*l.* 10*s.* was made by the assignee on the written request of the assignor. On the 25th of April the assignor filed a liquidation petition. Bacon, C.J. held that the consideration for the deed had been properly stated in compliance with s. 8 of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878.

The trustee in the liquidation appealed.

Winslow, Q.C., and F. A. Broxholm, for the applicant.

E. Cooper Willis, for the bill of sale holder.

JESSEL, M.R. said that no rent at all was due till the 25th of March. But supposing that the whole 25*l.* would become due for rent then, did the borrower ever receive the 25*l.*, or have a chance of receiving it? Certainly not. The real meaning of the transaction was that the lender did not wish to trust the borrower with the money; he wished to avoid the risk of a distress for rent being levied on the goods. The true consideration for the deed was so much money then paid by the lender to the borrower, and a covenant by the lender to pay so much more for him on a future day, and this was not stated in the deed, and on that ground the deed was void under s. 8. Another ground was this; in the deed the 50*l.* was stated to have been paid "at or before the execution hereof." This was not true. The 25*l.* was not paid till seven days afterwards. Though the word "at" had a somewhat elastic meaning, it had never been extended so far as that. The cases of Ex parte National Mercantile Bank (15 Ch. D. 42), and Ex parte Challinor (16 Ch. D. 260) were distinguishable.

ASSESSMENT COMMITTEE OF WEST HAM UNION AND ANOTHER, RESPS.

Poor-rate—Rating of Owner instead of Occupier—Application of 59 Geo. 3, c. 12, s. 19.

By 59 Geo. 3, c. 12, s. 19, the vestry of any parish is empowered by resolution to rate owners instead of occupiers in the case of houses, &c., "which shall be respectively let to the occupiers thereof at any rent or rate not exceeding 20*l.* nor less than 6*l.* by the year for any less term than one year, or on any agreement by which the rent shall be reserved or made payable at any shorter period than three months," and also to "rescind, vary, and amend every such resolution, so as no such resolution shall extend to assess or charge the owner of any house which shall be let at a greater rent than 20*l.* or less than 6*l.* as aforesaid."

The vestry of West Ham Union having passed a resolution in the terms of the above section, the churchwardens and overseers assessed Mr. Iles thereunder in respect of certain houses let at rents payable weekly, but amounting to more than 20*l.* for the year. The assessment committee having confirmed this assessment, and Mr. Iles having appealed, a case was stated by consent for the opinion of the High Court.

The question was whether in 59 Geo. 3, c. 12, s. 19, the words "at a rent not exceeding," &c., governed the whole clause, so that the section could only be applied to houses let at not more than 20*l.* a year, although the rent might be payable at shorter periods than three months, or whether the words "or any agreement" &c. constituted an independent clause, so that the section could be applied to houses let at rents payable at shorter periods than three months, although such rents might exceed 20*l.* by the year.

In the Divisional Court, Huddleston, B., and Hawkins, J., differed in opinion, but gave formal judgment against Mr. Iles, who now appealed.

Bond Debt—Mortmain—Impure Personalty.

By an indenture dated the 6th of August, 1868, James Robson covenanted to pay 20,000*l.* to trustees upon trust for his wife, Mary Elizabeth, for her life, and after her decease for James Robson, with remainder upon such trusts as Mary Elizabeth Robson should by will appoint. She by her will of the same date gave certain legacies out of the 20,000*l.*, and subject thereto gave the same to trustees on trusts to be declared by a deed-poll. By a deed-poll of the same date she declared charitable trusts of the residue of the 20,000*l.* Mary Elizabeth Robson died in 1870, and James Robson died in 1871.

A suit was instituted for the administration of the estate of James Robson, a great part of which consisted of impure personalty. The question was whether so much of the gift of the residue of the 20,000*l.* as would come out of impure personal property was void. The Vice-Chancellor Bacon held that the transactions of 1868 were a scheme to evade the Mortmain Act, and that no part of the money given to the charities could come out of the impure personalty.

The Crown appealed.

Rigby, Q.C., and Stirling, for the Crown.

Hemming, Q.C., and Cozens-Hardy, for trustees.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and Whitworth, for the persons interested in the estate.

Romer, Q.C., and Williamson for other parties.

THEIR LORDSHIPS said that if Mrs. Robson had survived her husband the money would have been a mere debt from his estate, and there could have been no question about it. Nor would there have been any question if he had called in the money which was secured on land. It was a mere accident that recourse must be had to money due to Mr. Robson on mortgage. There was no reason to believe that Mr. and Mrs. Robson knew anything about the law as to impure personalty. The money must be paid out of his estate to the trustees for the charitable purposes.

Practice—Payment out of Court—Petition by Married Woman—Separate Estate—Next Friend—Married Women's Property Act, 1870, s. 11.

This was a petition under the Trustee Relief Act for payment out in certain shares of a fund in Court. Two of the shares were claimed by women who had married since the passing of the Married Women's Property Act, 1870, and the petition alleged that they were entitled to their shares for their separate use, and that the application was within the provisions of the Act of 1870. The other beneficiaries were co-petitioners, and the husbands of the married women were respondents; but the married women did not petition by next friends, and an order having been made for service of the petition out of the jurisdiction upon certain respondents who were resident abroad, the registrar refused to draw up the order on this ground.

T. Ribton, for the petitioners, now applied ex parte for a direction that the order might be drawn up, submitting that the petition was a "remedy for the protection and security of property" within the meaning of the Married Women's Property Act, 1870, s. 11, and the married women could petition without next friends.

He referred to Moore v. Robinson (27 W. R. 312).

Francis Little, who died in February, 1880, by his will, made in November, 1879, gave to two trustees all his estate and effects in trust to pay funeral expenses and debts, and a small legacy. He gave some of his furniture to his wife and the remainder he directed to be sold and the money arising therefrom and other moneys, together with any dividends arising from shares, were to be paid into a bank in the names of the trustees. The testator then directed that of the interest and dividends the sum of 25*l.* should be paid each three months to his wife, and if the income would after such payment admit, he desired that the sum of 25*l.* per annum should be paid to one son, and 20*l.* per annum to the other son, and any balance thereafter during the lifetime of his wife was to be paid to her; and after the death of his wife he directed that the income should be divided into six parts, of which three-sixths should be paid to his son F. W. L., two-sixths to his son F. G. L., and one-sixth should be retained by Major Roddy for his trouble; and in case of the death of either of his sons it was his will that the survivor should take the portion of the one so deceased, and in case of both his sons dying unmarried and without lawful issue, the whole should be settled upon L. The income would now be divided in the way mentioned.

Apprenticeship, Contract of—Place of Performance.

Case stated by justices of which the facts were in substance as follows.

The respondent had made a claim before justices in petty sessions against the appellant under the Employers and Workmen Act, 1875, for damages for breach of the terms of a deed of apprenticeship whereby the respondent was apprenticed to the appellant.

The appellant was described by the deed of apprenticeship as a shoe manufacturer of Mansfield, in the county of Nottingham, at which place at the time of the execution of the deed he carried on business, and at which place also, as it appeared from the deed, resided the apprentice and his mother, who by the deed undertook to provide the apprentice with food and lodging. The deed contained no express provision as to the place where the contract was to be carried out. The appellant subsequently ceased to carry on the business at Mansfield, and removed it to Leicester. He was therefore unable to employ the respondent as an apprentice at Mansfield, but was ready to do so at Leicester. It was contended by the respondent that the appellant was bound to carry out the contract of apprenticeship at Mansfield.

The justices held that the respondent's contention was correct, and adjudged that the appellant should pay to the respondent 16 shillings damages.

The question for the Court was whether the appellant was bound to carry out the deed of apprenticeship at Mansfield.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. In re LAWES. Nov. 9.
LAWES v. LAWES.

Double Portion—Satisfaction—Bond—Articles of Partnership.

This was an appeal from a decision of Fry, J.

T. Lawes the elder executed a bond binding himself to pay to T. Lawes the younger, his reputed son, 10,000*l.* on the 30th of March, 1872.

On the 22nd of March, 1872, articles of partnership were executed by both father and son, by which it was recited that the father was desirous of taking his son into partnership in his business of a feather merchant, and of giving him absolutely 19,000*l.*, part of the capital employed in the business; and it was provided, among other things, that the capital should consist of 37,500*l.*, and that 19,000*l.* part thereof should belong to T. Lawes the younger, being absolutely given to him by T. Lawes the elder for his own use and benefit.

T. Lawes the elder died in 1876, having never paid anything in respect of the 10,000*l.* secured by the bond, and the question now raised was whether the gift of 19,000*l.* under the partnership articles operated as a satisfaction of the 10,000*l.* secured by the bond. Mr. Justice Fry decided that the bond was satisfied by the provision in the articles of partnership, and T. Lawes the younger appealed from this decision.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Colt, for a defendant in the same interest.

JESSEL, M.R. said that it was admitted that the voluntary bond would have been satisfied by a subsequent gift, as a portion, of a larger sum of money. The only question therefore was whether that which has occurred did not really amount to this. He was of opinion that the father by giving his son a share of the capital in partnership, and declaring that it was to amount to 19,000*l.*, did in effect give him the money, just as if he had given him a cheque for it. This was accepted by the son, and he could not now say that it was not in satisfaction of the bond. The decision of Mr. Justice Fry must be affirmed.

Practice—Costs—Shorthand Notes of Evidence.

This action was originally tried before Vice-Chancellor Bacon, on which occasion numerous witnesses were examined in Court. His Lordship decided in favour of the plaintiff, but his judgment was reversed by the Court of Appeal (reported 17 Ch. D. 535). The question of costs was reserved and was subsequently argued, when the Court of Appeal gave the defendant the general costs of the action and of the appeal. The present application was made by the defendant, for a direction to the taxing master in taxing the costs to allow the costs of copies of the shorthand notes of the evidence taken before Vice-Chancellor Bacon; no special direction having been given by the Court of Appeal with respect to them.

Maidlow, for the defendant.

Davey, Q.C., and Elton, for the plaintiff, were not called on.

JESSEL, M.R., said that the first objection to the present application was that according to the settled practice the costs of the shorthand notes of the evidence were not allowed unless the judge or Court of Appeal at the hearing gave a special direction to that effect. He thought that was a reasonable rule and ought to be adhered to. As a general rule the notes of the judge were sufficient, and certainly when supplemented by the notes of counsel they would be amply sufficient. The copies of shorthand notes very much increased the cost of counsel's briefs, and often led to the time of the Court being taken up by immaterial evidence. Therefore the Court would only give the costs of shorthand notes of evidence in extraordinary or exceptional cases. Another objection to the present application was that the order of the Court of Appeal was not now in minutes, but had been actually drawn up. The application must be dismissed with costs.

LUSH and LINDLEY, L.JJ., expressed their opinions to the same effect.

Bill of Sale—Bankruptcy—Order of Discharge—After-acquired Chattels.

This was an application by the plaintiff from a decision of Hall, V.-C. (noted ante, p. 97), holding that chattels brought by the plaintiff upon his premises after he had obtained his order of discharge became subject to a bill of sale given by the plaintiff before his bankruptcy, which included not only the chattels which were at the time upon his business premises, but also any additional or substituted chattels which might at any time thereafter be brought upon the premises.

E. Cutler, and Vaughan Williams, for the appellant.

E. W. Byrne, contrà.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay and Lush, L.JJ.) reversed the decision of the Vice-Chancellor. The assignment of after-acquired chattels, although absolute in form, constituted only a contract that the chattels when they should be brought upon the premises should become subject to the security for the breach of which the contracting party incurred liability. That liability was a debt proveable in the plaintiff's bankruptcy, from which he was released by the order of discharge.

Trustee in Bankruptcy—Disclaimer of Lease—Licence to Lessee to remove Fixtures after Expiration of Term—Removal by Trustee before Disclaimer—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 23.

Appeal from a decision of Bacon, C.J. (ante, p. 118).

A lease contained a proviso that the lessee, his executors, administrators, and assigns, might at any time or times during the continuance of the term, or within twelve months from the expiration or sooner determination of the term, remove any buildings or machinery which he might have erected on the premises for trade purposes.

The lessee filed a liquidation petition, and the trustee in the liquidation sold the trade machinery and fixtures, which were then removed by the purchasers. The trustee afterwards disclaimed the lease, and the lessor claimed the proceeds of sale of the property which had been removed, on the ground that the removal was unlawful. Bacon, C.J., held that the removal was justified by the proviso. The lessor appealed.

De Gex, Q.C., and O. L. Clare, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., and Bardswell, for the trustee.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Baggallay and Lush, L.JJ.) held that, as, by s. 23 of the Bankruptcy Act, the disclaimer had the effect of a surrender of the lease on the date of the trustee's appointment, and the effect of a surrender would be to put an end to all the provisions of the lease, including the license to remove, the removal became, by virtue of the disclaimer, an act done under a license which had ceased to exist, and could not be justified. The lessor was, therefore, entitled to the proceeds of sale.

Landlord and Tenant—Distress for Rent—Lodger—Lodgers' Protection Act (34 & 35 Vict. c. 79).

The defendant, a bailiff, had distrained for rent due from one Brooke to his landlord, and under such distress had seized the goods of the plaintiff, who claimed to be entitled to the protection of the Lodgers' Protection Act (34 & 35 Vict. c. 79), and the question was whether at the time of such seizure the plaintiff was a lodger within the meaning of that Act. Brooke, who was the tenant of the house, let the upper floors unfurnished to the plaintiff at an annual rent payable quarterly, reserving to himself the ground floor (in which there was a shop) and the basement. After this had continued for some years Brooke apparently ceased to occupy the premises, and one Jacques, instead of Brooke, occupied the shop, but it was not clearly shewn at the trial, which took place before Huddleston, B., at last Middlesex Trinity Sittings, whether Brooke had or not given up all dominion over the house. The learned judge substantially left to the jury whether the plaintiff was a lodger, without explaining to them what would constitute a lodger under the Act. The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff, and this Court having granted a rule nisi for a new trial,

F. Saford, for the plaintiff, shewed cause.

W. G. Harrison, Q.C., and Forster, for the defendant, in support of the rule.

THE COURT (Brett, Cotton, and Lindley, L.JJ.) made the rule absolute on the ground that the learned judge had failed to give the jury sufficient assistance to enable them to determine whether the plaintiff was a lodger or not; that assuming the plaintiff was at one time a lodger to Brooke, still it was a question whether Brooke had afterwards so dealt with the premises as to have given up the dominion over the house as master, in which case the plaintiff's position as a lodger would have been destroyed, and as this had not been left to the jury, and there were not sufficient materials before the Court to enable it to direct in which way the verdict should be entered, it was necessary to order a new trial.

Rule absolute.

Ex parte WEST RIDING UNION BANKING CO.
In re TURNER.

Proof in Bankruptcy—Secured Creditor—Deduction of Value of Security—Security on Lease of Bankrupt and former Partner.

Appeal from a decision of Bacon, C.J.

Berry & Turner carried on business in partnership as cloth manufacturers, at some mills of which they held a lease for 999 years, granted to them, their executors, administrators, and assigns. They were entitled to the profits, and liable to the losses, in equal shares. On the 1st of June, 1875, they entered into an agreement to dissolve the partnership, as from the 1st of May, 1875, by which the value of the partner's interests was agreed at 40,000*l.*, of which 34,000*l.* was the value of the mills and the fixtures therein. A moiety of the 40,000*l.* (other than the value of mills and fixtures) was received by Berry, and he agreed to grant a lease of his moiety of the mills and fixtures to Turner for a term of seven years. It was agreed that Turner should be entitled to carry on the business on his own account, as from the 1st of May, 1875, and he agreed to pay all the debts of the firm, and to indemnify Berry against them. On the same day Berry demised his moiety of and in the mills and fixtures to Turner for seven years from the 1st of May, 1875. At the date of the dissolution the firm owed a large sum to their bankers. On the dissolution the account with the bankers was closed, and was carried over to the account of Turner. On the new account being opened the original lease of the mills was deposited by Berry & Turner with the bankers as security for the balance which might for the time be due to them from Turner on his current account. A memorandum of deposit was signed by Berry & Turner, which provided that Berry should not be liable to the bankers in any other way than as concurring in the deposit of the lease, and as a surety for Turner.

Turner carried on the business alone until the 18th of November, 1880, when he filed a liquidation petition. There was then a balance due from him to the bankers, and they claimed to prove for the whole of it in the liquidation, without deducting anything in respect of the value of their security. The Chief Judge held that the bankers could only prove for the balance of their debt, after deducting the value of a moiety of the lease of the mills. The bankers appealed.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., Winslow, Q.C., and T. E. West, for the appellants, contended that after the dissolution the lease of the mills was still in the contemplation of law partnership property, inasmuch as Berry could have insisted on its being applied in paying the debts of the firm, and if Turner had been adjudged a bankrupt, the lease would have been administered as partnership property. The security was, therefore, given upon the property, not of Turner, but of a distinct legal entity—the partnership, and no deduction ought to be made from the proof in respect of the value of the security.

Cookson, Q.C., and Yate Lee, for the trustee, were not heard.

JESSEL, M.R., said that the principle of the bankruptcy law was plain. A creditor was not allowed to prove against the estate of a bankrupt and at the same time to retain a security which, if it were given up, would augment that estate. If the security would not go to augment the estate, it need not be given up. Therefore a security given by a stranger might be retained, and this exception had been extended to a security given to a separate creditor upon joint estate, or to a joint creditor upon separate estate. The principle was clearly laid down by Lord Lyndhurst in In re Plummer (1 Phil. 56). The exception had never been extended any further. Upon the dissolution of partnership, Berry & Turner became as between themselves each entitled to a moiety of the mills, though the whole lease was liable to the claim of the joint creditors. Then each of them pledged his moiety to the bank as security for Turner's debt, Berry being only a surety for Turner. As regarded the bank there were two securities, one on Berry's moiety and one on Turner's moiety; it was not in any sense a joint security. Whatever rights the partnership creditors might have had against the property, they could not affect the rights of the bankers against Berry & Turner, who had not been made bankrupts. The argument had no foundation, and the appeal must be dismissed.

Higgins, Q.C., and Langworthy, for the appellants.

Macnaghten, Q.C., and Simmonds, for the plaintiff, and John Pearson, Q.C., and Cadman Jones, for Pritchard and Jones, were not called upon.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Baggallay, and Lush, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal, holding that as Peck being paid off in 1877, had become a dry trustee of the legal estate, the surrender taken in 1879 from him by Beckett & Co. after they had received notice of the prior incumbrances, could not give them any priority.

Higgins, Q.C., asked that that the order might be varied as to costs. He argued that it was a matter of principle that in a suit to ascertain priorities each incumbrancer should add his costs to his debt.

THE COURT expressed an inclination of opinion that the order of the Vice-Chancellor as to costs was erroneous, but held that although there was no doubt that this was a bonâ fide appeal on the merits, and not a mere attempt to evade the rule that there can be no appeal for costs only, still there ought not to be any variation of the judgment as to costs when it was not altered in any other respect, the case being one where it was within the jurisdiction of the Vice-Chancellor to make Beckett & Co. pay the costs if their conduct in the cause had been such as to deserve it.

WELLS AND WIFE, CLAIMANTS.

Practice—Judgment Creditor—Attaching Debt under Garnishee Order—Trust Moneys—Rules of Court, 1875, Order XLV. rr. 6, 7.

In May, 1879, the plaintiff Roberts obtained a judgment against the defendant Death for 50*l.* and upwards, and in April 1881, Death, who was a trustee under a settlement made by Mr. and Mrs. Wells, recovered in the County Court against one Robert Castle the sum of 40*l.* 6*s.*, which it was said by Mr. and Mrs. Wells formed part of the trust property under the settlement. Roberts, however, sought to attach this money in part satisfaction of his judgment, and obtained for that purpose the usual garnishee order nisi, which was served on Castle, the garnishee. The solicitors for Mr. and Mrs. Wells gave Roberts notice of their claim to the money as the cestuis que trusts for whom Death was trustee, but as Castle the garnishee did not suggest that the debt sought to be attached belonged to any one else, the master was of opinion that the case was not within Order XLV. r. 6, and he therefore refused to hear any statement on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Wells that the money recovered by Death was trust money, and accordingly made the garnishee order absolute, and Castle thereupon paid the money to Roberts the judgment creditor. A summons was then taken out by Mr. and Mrs. Wells, the claimants, and their trustee Death, to rescind or vary such order by directing that the 40*l.* 6*s.* should be paid into Court to abide the event of an issue between the judgment creditor and the judgment debtor, and Mr. and Mrs. Wells, or some of them. This was dismissed by the Master, and on appeal by Mathew, J., at chambers, and afterwards by the Divisional Court. The claimants appealed.

Horne Payne, for the claimants.

C. Dodd, for the judgment creditor.

THE COURT (Brett, Cotton, and Lindley, L.JJ.) made an order in the terms of the summons, holding that although the suggestion that the money sought to be attached is trust money cannot be made by the cestui que trust under Order XLV. r. 6, or perhaps r. 7, still it is for the master or judge, who now acts as a Court of Equity, to listen to such suggestion, and if there be some colour for it then, although the fact that it is trust money is disputed, to decline to make the garnishee order absolute, and to order the money to be brought into Court to abide the event of an issue as to whether it is such or not.

Order accordingly.

Specific Performance—Agreement for a Lease—Date—Statute of Frauds.

This was an action for specific performance of an alleged agreement by the defendant to grant a lease to the plaintiff. Various defences were set up, one being that the agreement did not specify the time from which the lease was to commence. Fry, J., overruled this objection in conformity with his prior decision in Jaques v. Millar (6 Ch. Covenant—Beershop—Notice.

In July, 1863, part of an estate intended to be laid out for building purposes was sold to the plaintiff's predecessor in title for the purposes of a public-house, and the conveyance contained a covenant by the vendors that they, their heirs and assigns, would not thereafter sell or convey any portions of the estate without requiring the purchaser to enter into a covenant with them not to erect thereon, or use or permit to be used, any building to be erected thereon as a tavern, public-house, or beershop.

Upon the sale in December, 1870, to the Gas Light and Coke Company of further portions of the estate, the conveyance, after reciting the covenant in the conveyance of July, 1863, contained a covenant by the purchasers, for themselves and their assigns with the vendors, that they would not at any time thereafter use or permit to be used any building erected on the land and premises intended to be thereby assured as a tavern, public-house, or beershop.

In 1879 the defendant Prosser purchased from the Gas Light Company part of the land comprised in their purchase of 1870, and entered into a covenant with them "in terms similar to those of the covenant contained in the indenture of December, 1870."

Prosser conveyed one of the houses on his lot to the defendant Turner, who had recently obtained an "off license" for the sale of beer not to be drunk on the premises.

Plaintiff brought this action, with the trustees of the estate as co-plaintiffs, to restrain this infringement of the covenant of July 1863, of which Prosser admittedly had notice, and with constructive notice of which Fenning was, it was contended, bound.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the property was bound by the restrictive covenant of July, 1863, which was entered into for the benefit of all future purchasers. Prosser bought expressly subject to the restriction, and it was binding on his assignee, who, according to the cases, had clearly broken the covenant by selling beer under an "off license." GREAT BRITAIN MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY, In re.

Winding-up Petition—Life Assurance Companies Act, 1870, s. 22—Scheme for reduction of Contracts of Society—Special Case for Opinion of the Court—Date as from which Scheme to be settled.

Special case. On the 28th of October, 1880, C. Popham, the administratrix of the assignee of a participating policy of and which had become a claim against the society, presented a petition for a winding-up order, or that the amount of the contracts of the society might be reduced upon such terms as the Court might think fit under the 22nd section of the Life Assurance Companies Act, 1870.

On the 30th of October, 1880, another petition for the like purpose was presented by H. and G. M. the holders of a current policy.

On the 13th of January, 1881, the holders of two non-participating policies, the moneys assured by which had become due, brought an action for a declaration that they were entitled to a preferential claim on the funds of the society, but in consequence of the proceedings under the order made on the 19th of January, 1881, after mentioned, no further steps had been taken in the action.

On the 19th of November, 1880, upon the hearing of both petitions, no order was made upon C. P.'s, but upon H. and G. M.'s it was ordered that the society should be wound up.

On the 19th of January, 1881, the Court of Appeal upon the hearing of an appeal by C. P. and upon the application of certain policy holders that the contracts of the society might be reduced in place of making a winding-up order, orderod that the order of the Vice-Chancellor should be discharged, and that it should be referred to him to settle a scheme for the reduction of the contracts pursuant to the 22nd section of the above Act.

On the 27th of January, 1881, the matter was referred to J. Y. as special referee, to inquire and report to the Court upon what terms the contracts of the society should be reduced, and to settle a scheme for reducing them for the approval of the Court. The referee was to be at liberty to exercise and do any power or thing given or authorized by Rules of Court, 1875, Order 36, Rule 34.

A special case which had been prepared for the purpose of submitting questions for the opinion of the Court prior to a scheme being settled, now came on to be heard.

Popham's petition: that where the holders of policies had died, or annuities had become payable prior to the presentation of the petition, the claims of the parties must be provided for out of the assets of the society, and not be reduced: that the holders of non-participating and participating policies which were current should have their contracts reduced pari passu; that the holders of policies whose premiums were in arrear must pay the arrears in full, and that the costs of preparing the special case must be paid out of the assets of the society.

Lands vested in trustees of a charity administered under a scheme approved by the commissioners in 1878, having been taken by the Corporation of London under the Leadenhall Market Act, which incorporated the material parts of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, and the purchase-moneys having been paid into Court, the trustees petitioned under ss. 69, 70, of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1875, for the reinvestment of a portion of the purchase-moneys in the purchase of other lands.

The consent of the charity commissioners had not been obtained.

The testator who made his will in 1834, and gave real and personal estate, made an interlineation in it, and probate was in November, 1835, granted by the Consistory Court at Lewes. As regarded the personalty the probate would be acted upon, but as regarded the realty the question to be considered was whether the interlineation was made before the will was executed or afterwards.

STURGE AND GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY COMPANY.

Will—Life Interests in Land—Power of Appointment—Gift in default of Appointment to Next of Kin of Testator—Purchase by Railway Company—Title—Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874.

Adjourned summons. Young Sturge, who died in February, 1844, by his will made in 1842, after appointing four trustees, gave certain lands to them and their heirs, &c., in trust for his children for their lives, and after the decease of each respective child then, both as to the property and the income, for all or any one or more of the children, grandchildren, or other issue of such child, for such interest as such respective child should appoint, and in default of appointment then, after the decease of such respective child, in trust for all the children who should attain 21 years or marry, equally, and if there should be no child of such child of his who should live to acquire a vested interest, in trust for all or any one or more of his other children, grandchildren, or other issue then living for such interest, as such respective child of his so dying, without leaving any child, who should acquire a vested interest, should at any time appoint, and in default of appointment then as to the property in trust for such child so dying, and the income from the time of the decease of each respective child, upon trust for the person or persons who at the time of such respective decease of his children "shall by virtue of the statutes for the distribution of the estates of persons dying intestate be my next of kin, and if more than one then in the shares, proportion and manner prescribed by the said statutes," and whether such property consisted of freehold estate or not, the freehold estate was for the purposes of the trusts to be considered, and to go as personal estate.

The testator's daughter, F. S., survived him, and died in May, 1871, a spinster. By her will made in March, 1861, she gave the residue of her estate to such of her brothers and sisters as should be living at her decease, and such children then living, if any, of her brothers and sisters then deceased as should live to attain 21 years. She declared that it was not her intention by her will to exercise any power of appointment with which she was invested over any real or personal estate which was not her own absolute property. At the time of the decease of F. S. there were five children of the testator living. M. H., another child of the testator, died in the lifetime of F. S., and seven of her children were living at the death of F. S.

In June, 1879, the Great Western Railway Company gave notice under an Act passed in 1872, to the trustees of the will of Young Sturge, that they required to purchase some of the land devised, and the trustees in December, 1880, agreed to sell the same to the company.

The company contended that as M. H. survived the testator her children did not, either at the death of the testator or at any subsequent time, satisfy the description of his next-of-kin by virtue of the statutes, and that the trustees of the will and M. H.'s husband and children could not make a good title to the one-sixth of the land to which M. H. would have been entitled if she had survived F. S., and the question upon the summons taken out under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874, was whether the Harwoods—husband and children of M. H.—were entitled to and competent to sell and convey the one-sixth mentioned, or to concur with the vendors in conveying and assuring to the company the said land, and in giving an effectual receipt and discharge for the purchase-money of the said sixth.

Dunning, for the vendors.

Hastings, Q.C., and O. A. Saunders, for the company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the true construction of the will was that at the several periods mentioned the trustees must ascertain the class of persons entitled to take, and having ascertained them they would take in the way regulated by the statutes, or as near as the circumstances would admit. He was of opinion that a good title to the one-sixth of the land could be made to the company in the manner proposed.

Deed—Construction—Parcels—General Words.

The owner of a house, who was also the owner in fee simple of the eastern moiety of an adjoining stable-yard, conveyed the house to the plaintiff by a deed the parcels of which did not expressly comprise the moiety of the yard. But the deed contained the following general words:—"Together with all buildings, erections, fixtures, commons, yards, trees, hedges, ditches, fences, walls, ways, waters, watercourses, liberties, privileges, easements, advantages, and appurtenances whatsoever" to the house and premises or any of them "appertaining, or with the same or any of them now or heretofore demised, occupied, or enjoyed, or reputed, or known as part or parcel of them or any of them or appurtenant thereto." The plaintiff claimed to be the owner in fee simple of the eastern moiety of the yard, and the action was brought to restrain the defendants from interfering with an easement which the plaintiff claimed over the western moiety of the yard, which belonged to the defendants. One of the defences raised was that the fee simple of the eastern moiety of the yard had not passed to the plaintiff under the conveyance to him.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Beaumont, for the plaintiff.

Cookson, Q.C., Tremlett, and R. T. Reid, for the defendants, contended that the word "yards" in the general words could not pass the fee simple in the eastern moiety of the yard; it could not pass more than an easement over it. It was the opinion of conveyancers that general words were applicable only to easements.

FRY, J., said he thought that general words must be construed, like all other words, according to their meaning. In the present case there were eighteen general words in the deed, one of them being the word "easements," and if this argument was sound, all the other seventeen words would be made inoperative. Moreover, the plaintiff's grantor was the owner in fee simple of the moiety, and could not have an easement upon his own land. He might have granted a new easement upon it, but it was not suggested that he had done this. He could not convey that which he had not himself.

In re PALMER.

Payment of Debt by means of post-dated Cheque—Bankruptcy of Payee before Date of Payment—Notice—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 94.

Appeal from an order of the County Court at Sheffield.

On the 15th of February, 1881, the bankrupt Palmer entered into an agreement for the sale to the respondents, Richdale and Tomlinson, brewers, of a freehold public-house for 2700*l.*, together with fixtures and fittings to the value of 400*l.* On the 28th of March the agreement was completed by conveyance and payment of the 2700*l.*, and there remained only to be paid to Palmer the amount of the fixtures when valued. On the 14th of April Palmer committed an act of bankruptcy by absconding, his wife continuing to carry on the business until the 25th, when the respondents took possession. On the same day they paid for the fixtures and stock, which had been valued at 250*l.* 7*s.* 10*d.*, after deducting 54*l.* 13*s.* 3*d.* on their own account, by a cheque for 195*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*, which was post-dated the 28th of April. This cheque, which was made payable to Palmer's order, was delivered to Mrs. Palmer, and by her given to her husband, who handed it to his nephew Alfred Palmer. On the 26th of April the petition in bankruptcy was filed, and on the same day the man who was in possession on part of the respondents was served with a copy of it.

On the 27th of April the petitioning creditor's solicitors sent to the respondents a formal notice that an act of bankruptcy had been committed, and a petition filed, and giving them further notice not to part with any moneys, bills, goods, or other assets in their possession or control which might be due to or claimed by Palmer, until the petition should be dismissed. On the same day, two hours' later, the adjudication was made; the respondents' man in possession having been subpœned, and their solicitors being present. On the 29th of April the licenses were handed over, and on the same day Alfred Palmer paid the cheque into his own banker's account, and afterwards, finding that it was honoured, drew the cash, and spent it on behalf of the bankrupt.

The appellant, the trustee, applied to the Court for an order upon the respondents to pay the 195*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.* to him.

The respondents denied notice, and said they drew a post-dated cheque by the advice of their valuer as the licenses had not been handed over.

Winslow, Q.C., and Kenyon Parker, for the appellant.

E. Cooper Willis, and Bigham, for the respondents.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that the giving of the post-dated cheque amounted to an acknowledgment of a present debt to be paid at a future day. Before that day arrived the respondents had clear notice that the debt belonged to the trustee, and that they were to pay no one else; yet they suffered the money to get into the hands of the bankrupt himself.

The appeal must be allowed, and the respondents must be directed to pay the 195*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.* again to the trustee. As only part of the County Court order was appealed from, there would be no variation in the order below as to costs, but the appellant must have the costs of the appeal, so far as they were not increased by evidence which did not relate to the subject matter of the appeal.

Practice—Time—County Court—Delivery of Summons to Bailiff—Service of Summons—County Court Rules, 1875—Order VIII. r. 7—Appeal—Prohibition.

By Order VIII., r. 7 of the County Court Rules, 1875, "the summons in an action brought under s. 11 of the County Courts Act, 1867, to recover lands shall be delivered to the bailiff forty clear days at least before the return day, and shall be served thirty-five clear days before the return day thereof." The plaintiff in an action brought, under s. 11, of the Act of 1867, to recover land delivered the summons to the bailiff thirty-nine clear days before the return day, and the bailiff served the summons on the defendant thirty-seven clear days before the return day. A county court judge having heard the case and given judgment for the plaintiff, the defendant obtained a rule for a new trial.

Lindsell, for the plaintiff, now shewed cause.

Guiry supported the rule.

THE COURT (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) made the rule absolute for a new trial, being of opinion that the provision in Order VIII. r. 7, with respect to the time of delivering the summons to the bailiff was obligatory, and not directory merely, and also that the defendant, whether or not he had a remedy by prohibition, was entitled to appeal from the judgment of the county court judge.

Q. B. Div. SHARPE v. BIRCH. SIMPSON, CLAIMANT. Nov. 15

Bill of Sale—Affidavit of Attestation—41 & 42 Vict. c. 31, s. 10, sub-s. 2.

Interpleader summons remitted to the Court by Hawkins, J., from chambers. The claim was founded on a bill of sale given to the claimant by Birch. The bill of sale was duly executed, and a regular attestation clause was signed by the attesting witness, a solicitor, stating that before the execution of the bill of sale the effect thereof had been explained to the grantor by him, the attesting solicitor.

The bill of sale was filed with an affidavit of a clerk verifying the execution and the description of the grantor of the bill of sale, and further saying "that the name W. F. Law set and subscribed as the witness attesting the due execution thereof is of the proper handwriting of William Farnie Law, and that he resides at No. 3, Saint Mary's Place, Stamford aforesaid."

Foote, for the execution creditor, objected that the affidavit was not in compliance with 41 & 42 Vict. c. 31, s. 10, sub-s. 2, which required an affidavit of, inter alia, the "due execution and attestation" of the bill of sale, whereas the affidavit in question verified only the signature and residence of the attesting witness.

Lindsell, for the claimant, contended that "attestation" meant attestation clause, as the word must mean in sub-s. 1.

THE COURT (Denman and Hawkins, JJ.) held that the Act required the security of an oath that the bill of sale was "duly attested" after explanation by the attesting solicitor, and that therefore the affidavit was insufficient and the registration invalid.

The names of the claimants were inserted in the lists as inhabitant householders, and the facts in each case were substantially as follows: the claimant occupied as his residence a room in a house at a weekly rent, and had also a key of the outer door, and the right to use the staircase and other conveniences of the house; the landlord exercised general control over the whole house, but rendered no services to the claimants; and in two of the cases the landlord himself lived in another part of the same house. In the first and third cases the revising barristers decided that the claimants were not entitled to be on the register as occupiers; in the second case the revising barrister held that they were so entitled.

C. C. R. REG. v. MARTIN. Nov. 19.

Grievous Bodily Harm, maliciously inflicting—24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, s. 20.

Martin was convicted before the Recorder of Leeds at the sessions holden in and for that borough upon an indictment charging him with unlawfully and maliciously inflicting grievous bodily harm upon two persons, named respectively Pybus and Dacey.

The facts were as follows:

Shortly before the conclusion of the performance at the Theatre Royal, Leeds, on the night of the 30th of April, 1881, the prisoner turned out the gas-lights on the staircase, by which a large portion of the audience had to descend to leave the theatre, and placed across a doorway through which they had to pass an iron bar, thus obstructing the means of exit.

Upon the lights being thus extinguished a panic seized the audience, who rushed in fright down the stairs, and endeavoured to leave the theatre.

By reason of the pressure of the panic-stricken crowd thus obstructed and hindered in leaving the theatre a number of persons, and amongst them Pybus and Dacey, were seriously injured.

The prisoner, Martin, was found guilty by the jury, who, in answer to questions put to them by the Recorder, found that Martin extinguished the lights with the intention of causing terror and alarm in the minds of persons leaving the theatre, that he put the iron bar across the doorway with the intention of obstructing the means of exit, and that the injuries to Pybus and Dacey were caused by him. The learned Recorder reserved for the opinion of the Court the question whether, upon the above facts and finding of the jury, the conviction was correct.

No counsel appeared.

THE COURT (Lord Coleridge, C.J., Field, Hawkins, Stephen, and Cave, JJ.) affirmed the conviction.

Conviction affirmed.

The plaintiff in this case brought an action claiming priority as an incumbrancer on the sum payable to an officer in the army on his retirement. Practice—Appeal—Security for Costs—Poverty.

In this case the defendant had appealed from the judgment of Fry, J. (reported 18 Ch. D. 229). The plaintiffs now moved that the appellant might give security for the costs of the appeal. They filed an affidavit stating that in their belief the defendant was wholly unable to pay the costs of the appeal in case it should be decided against her; and that the defendant was an aged woman living in a cottage on the property which formed the subject of the suit, without visible means of support. The defendant did not answer the affidavit.

Cozens-Hardy, for the plaintiffs.

H. A. Giffard, for the defendant, contended that there was no reported case in which poverty alone, without any other circumstance, was held sufficient ground for ordering an appellant to give security for costs.

Jessel, M.R. said that he considered that it was now the settled practice, if the respondent asked for it, to require security for costs to be given by an appellant who would be unable through poverty to pay the costs of the appeal, if unsuccessful, without any other special circumstance. It must not be forgotten that before the Judicature Act every appellant in the Court of Chancery had to deposit 20*l.* In the present case he thought 30*l.* would be a reasonable amount of security.

An auctioneer, immediately after the filing of a liquidation petition by a debtor and the appointment of a receiver, took possession of the debtor's stock in trade on behalf of a bill of sale holder, and advertised it for sale. On the application of the receiver an order was made restraining the sale until after the first meeting of the creditors, and directing the bill of sale holder to withdraw. The auctioneer remained in possession for the receiver. A trustee having been appointed, communications took place between him and the auctioneer, which resulted in his advertising the goods for sale for the trustee, the catalogues and advertisements stating that the sale was "In liquidation. By order of the trustee." The goods were sold, and the proceeds of sale received by the auctioneer. The bill of sale holder claimed them from him, and the trustee applied to the County Court for an order that they should be paid to him. On the hearing of this application an order was made by consent that the money should be paid into Court, and this having been done, the judge afterwards ordered it to be paid out to the trustee. The Chief Judge affirmed this order. The auctioneer appealed. The bill of sale holder had commenced an action against him for the proceeds of sale.

Horton Smith, Q.C., and E. Cooper Willis, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., Pickford, and Gatey, for the trustee.

Jessel, M.R., said that a bailee of goods who, with knowledge of an adverse claim, chose to sell them for his bailor, could not afterwards set up the title of the adverse claimant against his bailor, but must account to him. And, though the appellant was a stranger to the bankrupt, and might have insisted that the question should be tried by the ordinary tribunals, he had assented to the payment into Court, and the Court of Bankruptcy had then acquired full jurisdiction. The appeal was dismissed.

Trustee in Bankruptcy—Leave to disclaim Lease—Appeal after execution of Disclaimer—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 23—Bankruptcy Rules, 1871, r. 28.

The trustee in the bankruptcy of Hawes applied to the Court for leave to disclaim a lease of the bankrupt. The lessor asked that some terms might be imposed on the trustee. Mr. Registrar Hazlitt, as Chief Judge, gave unconditional leave to disclaim. The trustee executed a disclaimer, and afterwards the lessor gave notice of appeal from the Registrar's order.

De Gex, Q.C., and Chubb, for the appellant.

E. Cooper Willis, for the trustee, objected that after the execution of the disclaimer the appeal could not be entertained: Ex parte Ditton (3 Ch. D. 453).

De Gex, Q.C., and Chubb, endeavoured to distinguish that case, on the ground that at that time it was supposed that the trustee's disclaimer would be ineffectual without the leave of the Court, and that in the present case the appellant did not, as in Ex parte Ditton, seek to undo the disclaimer, but only to impose terms on the trustee.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., and Baggallay and Lush, L.JJ.)

held that the suggested distinction could not be maintained, and that Ex parte Ditton applied. The appeal was, therefore, dismissed.

Practice—Interpleader—Appeal from Order as to Costs—Judicature Act, 1873, s. 49—Rules of Court, 1875, Order LI. r. 2—Jurisdiction of Judge to make Order.

The main question in this case was whether an appeal will lie from a judge's order as to the costs of the plaintiff in an interpleader issue, when s. 49 of Judicature Act, 1873, has enacted that no order as to costs only which are left to the discretion of the Court shall be subject to any appeal, except by leave of the Court or judge making such order.

The plaintiff was the plaintiff in an interpleader issue, and at the trial before Hawkins, J., the verdict was found for and entered for him. The defendant afterwards took out a summons to deprive the plaintiff of his costs and to require him to pay the defendant's costs of the trial, which summons coming on for hearing before Cave, J., at chambers, was referred by him to Hawkins, J., and that last learned judge accordingly heard the summons at Westminster, and made an order for the plaintiff to pay the costs in the terms applied for. The plaintiff appealed to the Divisional Court, who dismissed his case on the ground that no such appeal would lie.

The plaintiff appealed to this Court.

Cock, for the plaintiff, relied on Order LI. r. 2, of the Rules of Court, 1875, by which it is provided that "with respect to interpleader the procedure and practice now used by Courts of Common Law under the Interpleader Acts shall apply to all actions," &c., and contended that before the Judicature Acts a judge's order as to costs in an interpleader matter could be reviewed, and therefore was still subject to appeal. He also contended that Hawkins, J., had no jurisdiction to make the order, as the summons was referred to him by Cave, J., who had no power to do so without consent.

No one appeared for the defendant.

THE COURT (Brett, Cotton, and Lindley, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal, holding that the order was in effect made by Hawkins, J., in chambers, and that he had clearly jurisdiction to make it; next, that Order LI. r. 2 did not apply, as it was not shewn to the satisfaction of the Court that before the Judicature Acts there was in practice an appeal from a judge's order as to costs in an interpleader matter, and further, that even if Order LI. r. 2, did apply, it ought to be so construed as not to contradict s. 49 of the Judicature Act, 1873, which applied generally to any order as to costs in all proceedings, including those with reference to interpleader.

Appeal dismissed.

In re AN ARBITRATION BETWEEN THE CORPORATION OF DUDLEY AND THE EARL OF DUDLEY'S TRUSTEES.

Sewer of Urban Authority—Obligation upon Landowner to preserve subjacent Support—Compensation for Loss of Right to work Mines—Public Health Act, 1875 (38 & 39 Vict. c 55), ss. 5, 15, 16, 175, 308, 388.

Appeal from judgment of Queen's Bench Division (Denman and Williams, JJ.) on special case stated by an umpire.

By the Public Health Act, 1875, certain local authorities are empowered to construct sewers through the lands of private owners, and empowered, but not bound, to purchase the lands through which the sewers are constructed, with an obligation in every case to make compensation, under the Lands Clauses Act, for damage done if any.

The corporation of Dudley, under the authority of this statute, had, without exercising their powers of purchase, constructed a sewer through certain lands of Lord Dudley's trustees, who claimed compensation under the statute.

An arbitration being had, the umpire therein stated this case for the High Court to determine whether Earl Dudley's trustees were entitled to compensation for loss, (1) by reason of inability to work their mines beneath the sewer arising from an obligation to support it; and (2) by risk of percolation from the sewer into the mines.

The Queen's Bench Division having given judgment for Earl Dudley's trustees on both these heads of claim, the corporation of Dudley now appealed.

Jelf, Q.C., and A. T. Lawrence, for the corporation of Dudley.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., and Anstie, for Lord Dudley's trustees.

THE COURT (Brett, Cotton and Lindley, L.JJ.) gave judgment for Lord Dudley's trustees on the first head of claim, on the ground that the Public Health Act gives an implied right to a local authority to have subjacent support for sewers constructed under that Act, but for the corporation of Dudley on the second head of claim, on the ground that as a right to support was to be implied, any percolation would be the result of an unlawful working of the mines.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Baggallay and Lush, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal, their Lordships being of opinion that although when once a title had been extinguished by the Statute of Limitations, no subsequent acknowledgment could revive it, the fact that the plaintiffs had been in possession for thirteen years was evidence of ownership which could only be rebutted by proof of a better title in some one else, and as it was not established that the original title of the plaintiffs had previously been barred by the Statute of Limitations, they were entitled to recover.

Special case. John Richards, who died in September, 1863, by his will made in April, 1859, gave to two trustees the residue of his personal estate, upon the same trusts as declared concerning his real estate; and he gave the residue of the income of all his estates to his wife, until his youngest child should attain 21 years of age, or until the death or second marriage of his wife before his youngest child attained the age of 21, and after his wife's death or second marriage he declared that the trust estates should be held upon trust to apply the residuary income towards the maintenance and education of his children during their minorities, and as soon as his youngest child should attain the age of 21 upon trust to convey or transfer the estates unto all and every children and child his, her, and their heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns equally as tenants in common, subject to a weekly payment to his wife during widowhood. The testator left five children and his wife, who married again in 1866, living. One child, a daughter, died an infant in 1865. The youngest child living attained 21 in July, 1880.

The question was whether the child who died took a vested interest in the real and personal estate of the testator.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that he must give to the words their ordinary and natural meaning, and hold that "survivor or survivors" were to be so read, and not to be read as "other or others."

Kay, J. COATES v. BRITTLEBANK. Nov. 25.

Trustees—Liability under Power of Advancement.

William Brittlebank, by his will dated in February, 1848, bequeathed a sum of 10,000*l.* to his son Andrew Brittlebank, upon trust to invest the same, and as to one moiety thereof to pay the interest to his grandson William Brittlebank Sides, the son of his daughter Mary Sides, during his life, and after his decease the said moiety was to be held in trust for such of the children of his grandson as he should by will appoint, and in default of appointment to be divided between them in equal shares. And the will contained a proviso that it should be lawful for the said Andrew Brittlebank, his executors, administrators, or assigns, at any time during the minority of any of his grandchildren, or at any time afterwards, to advance and pay for their or any of their benefits and advancement in the world any sum or sums of money out of the several trust moneys given to them and for their benefit, according to their several shares, or to advance and pay the whole of each of his grandchilds' part thereof; and the testator declared that his intention was to vest in his son, Andrew Brittlebank, his executors, administrators, and assigns, full discretionary power to pay the whole or any part of the said trust moneys or portions when and as he or they should think proper, without his or their being in anywise afterwards accountable for having done so. Other legacies were given to other grandchildren of the testator in similar terms. The testator died in April, 1848, and Andrew Brittlebank died in July, 1864, leaving the defendant, Catherine Brittlebank, his sole executrix. Before the death of Andrew Brittlebank he had advanced to William Brittlebank Sides as much as 2500*l.* out of the legacy given to him and his children, which sum Mrs. Brittlebank, after his death, replaced, and subsequently she advanced the whole of the 5000*l.* to W. B. Sides in various sums, two large sums having been given for the purchase of, and for stocking a farm, and other sums having been paid for the schooling of his children and for housekeeping bills, and generally for the advancement and maintenance of W. B. Sides and his wife and children, of whom there were eight. It was shewn that W. B. Sides was a drunken, idle man, and that he spent the whole of the money advanced to him by the defendant, and died leaving his family almost destitute. This action was brought by the widow and children of W. B. Sides against Mrs. Brittlebank, claiming to have the whole sum of 5000*l.* replaced, on the ground that she had not exercised a reasonable discretion in making these advances to a man whom she knew to be an idle and drunken man, and who from time to time had squandered the money he received.

The defence was that Mrs. Brittlebank had full power under the will to make such advances, and she believed it was a proper application of the money to pay for the education and support of the children, and for setting the father up in a farm by which he might have an opportunity of earning a living Whitehorne, Q.C., and Dunning, for the plaintiffs.

Higgins, Q.C., and Badcock, for the defendant.

HIS LORDSHIP after stating the facts of the case, said he considered that the last clause in the will, giving the executor full discretionary power to pay the whole or any part of the trust moneys for the benefit and advancement of Sides and his children as he should think proper, without being in anywise afterwards accountable for having done so, was evidently intended to extend the ordinary power for the benefit and advancement of the legatees, and that the defendant had power to advance the money as she had done. This lady had advanced the whole of the 5000*l.*, some of it for the purpose of setting Mr. Sides up in a farm, and some for the school bills of the children and the support of the family. Mr. Sides had nothing with which to support his family except this legacy, and, notwithstanding his dissolute character, Mrs. Brittlebank could not allow his family to starve. His Lordship was of opinion that the case did not come within the decisions in which trustees had been held liable for "mischievously and ruinously" advancing money under a power of advancement. The action must therefore be dismissed with costs.

Transfer of Actions to this Court.

Dunham made an application in this case by the desire of Vice-Chancellor Hall, that the hearing of the action might take place in this Court, instead of before the Vice-Chancellor, on the ground that as Mr. Justice Kay had made an order in the case while sitting as Vacation Judge, it would be more convenient that the further hearing should be continued in this Court.

HIS LORDSHIP said that the motion made before him in the vacation was of a purely formal nature, and the facts were not then stated to the Court; consequently, he could know nothing about the action. However, he was of opinion that the order as to cases heard before him permitted him only to hear such actions as should be transferred to his Court by the order of the Lord Chancellor. He therefore considered that he had no power to hear this case unless it was transferred to him, and he desired that this view should be communicated to the Vice-Chancellor.

Sale of Bankrupt's Property—Incapacity of Purchaser—Relationship to Trustee.

In 1877 Moore, the debtor, purchased for 500*l.*, payable by instalments, the medical practice of Dr. T. W. Lee, with the usual stipulation against practice by the vendor within a certain distance. Disputes arose as to the performance of this stipulation, and in an action by Dr. Lee to recover the balance of the purchase-money an award was given in his favour for the amount claimed (350*l.*).

In respect of this debt Moore was adjudicated bankrupt, and Dr. T. W. Lee was appointed trustee. A sale by auction of the goodwill of the bankrupt's business was directed by the trustee and advertised for the 1st of June, 1881. At this sale an agent on behalf of the trustee's brother (also a medical man, and alleged to be his partner) purchased the goodwill and book-debts for 60*l.* The mother of the bankrupt had instructed a solicitor to give 110*l.* for the goodwill, but the solicitor being of opinion, from what took place at the sale, that the whole thing was a mere sham, refused to bid beyond the 60*l.* On the 20th of June, 1881, the solicitor offered the solicitor for the trustee 100*l.* for the goodwill, but no reply was made to this offer.

THE CHIEF JUDGE, reversing the County Court Judge, set aside the sale to the trustee's brother and partner in business as invalid, and directed a re-sale.

Costs—Railway Commissioners—Successful Defendants ordered to pay Part of unsuccessful Applicant's Costs—Regulation of Railways Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 48), s. 28.

This was an application on the part of the Great Western Railway Company to stay the master from taxing the costs under an order of the Railway Commissioners in the matter of an application of Thomas Nelson Foster and Richard Gibbs Foster against the Great Western Railway Company, or in the alternative to prevent the Commissioners or the Messrs. Foster from proceeding further on the said order. The Messrs. Foster had proceeded against the railway company before the Railway Commissioners under the 17th section of the Regulation of Railways Act, 1873, for not keeping a certain canal, of which they were the managers, in good working condition. The Commissioners dismissed the application on the ground that the Great Western Railway Company were not shewn to be either owners or managers of the canal, but nevertheless ordered the railway company to pay one half of Messrs. Fosters' costs, on the ground that having once managed the canal they had given no notice of their ceasing to do so, and so were responsible for the uncertainty as to the liability to repair which had occasioned the proceedings.

Webster, Q.C., and R. S. Wright, for the company, contended that the Railway Commissioners had no power to make successful defendants pay an unsuccessful plaintiff's costs.

Nov. 21. THE COURT (Field, Manisty and Bowen, JJ.) delivered judgment, refusing the application on the ground that the Regulation of Railways Act, 1873, s. 28, gave the Railway Commissioners an unfettered discretion as to the costs of proceedings before them.

SOUTH WESTERN LOAN AND DISCOUNT COMPANY v. ROBERTSON.

Charging Order on Stock—1 & 2 Vict. c. 110, s. 14—3 & 4 Vict. c. 82—What Interest chargeable—Bank Stock vested in Trustees for Judgment Debtor and Others—Trust to pay Dividends to Judgment Debtor until he attempts to alien, charge or incumber.

This was an application by way of appeal against an order of Mathew, J., at chambers, directing that the judgment debtor's interest in the dividends of Bank of England stock standing in the names of certain trustees should stand charged with the payment of the judgment debt. It appeared that the judgment debtor's aunt by her will bequeathed her personal estate (of which this stock formed part) to the trustees in trust as to one moiety for her niece, and as to the remaining moiety or equal half part or share of the trust premises on trust to pay the annual income thereof to her nephew, the judgment debtor, during his life, or until he should alien, charge, or incumber the same, or attempt so to do, and upon any attempt at alienation there were limitations over in favour of the judgment debtor's wife for life, and then in favour of his children who should attain the age of 21. In the event of the failure of children, or of none of them attaining a vested interest, there was an ultimate remainder in favour of the judgment debtor absolutely. It appeared that at the time of the charging order being made there was a dividend accrued due upon the stock which the trustees had not yet received.

Tindal Atkinson, on behalf of one of the trustees, moved to set aside the charging order. He contended that the trust of the stock not being for the judgment debtor alone, but another being interested in an undivided moiety, the stock could not be said to come within the words of 1 & 2 Vict. c. 110, s. 14, as being stock standing in the debtor's name in his own right or in the name of some person in trust for him. He also contended that the judgment debtor had no chargeable interest, inasmuch as his interest would cease upon any incumbrance or charge being made upon it.

Finlay, for the judgment creditor, shewed cause.

THE COURT (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) held that the words "in trust for him," in 1 & 2 Vict. c. 110, s. 14, included the case of stock standing in the name of trustees in trust for the judgment debtor as well as others, and that, whatever might be the case with regard to that portion of the judgment debtor's interest which was to cease on alienation, the accrued dividend and the ultimate remainder to the judgment debtor after failure of the previous trusts constituted an interest in respect of which the order might be made, the trustees being responsible upon its being made for the application of the dividends according to the legal effect of it. The Court accordingly refused the application.

Application refused.

SHEPHERD, APP.; HENDERSON, RESP. Dec. 1.

Cause originating in Sheriff Court—Findings of Fact—Competency of Appeal—Scotch Judicature Act, 1825 (6 Geo. 4, c. 120), s. 40—Record—Remit.

The appellant is the registered owner of the S.S. "Krishna," which was insured by a policy dated the 23rd of September, 1878, for twelve months against all marine risks. The respondent was an underwriter on this policy for the sum of 50*l.* On the 23rd of May, 1879, the "Krishna" was beached, with the view of saving life, during the prevalence of a hurricane on the west coast of India. Every effort was made before the breaking of the monsoon to get the vessel off, but without success. The monsoon generally continues from June to October. The appellant being advised that the vessel could not be got off during the monsoon, gave notice on the 7th of June, 1879, of abandonment, as for a constructive total loss, to the underwriters with whom he was insured. The underwriters refused to accept such notice of abandonment. The appellant raised the action in the Sheriff Court of Lanarkshire on the 1st of October, 1879. The underwriters having subsequently succeeded in saving the vessel, the respondent, one of them, pleaded in defence to the action that there was no constructive total loss.

The sheriff-substitute gave judgment in favour of the respondent, and the Second Division of the Court of Session adhering, pronounced, 25th of February, 1881, an interlocutor finding inter alia: "That the underwriters did not accept the abandonment: Find that there was on the 7th of June, 1879, and continued thereafter to be, a reasonable prospect of her being got off the sandy shore on which she lay without greater expense than a prudent uninsured owner would reasonably incur: Find, therefore, that there was not at that date a constructive total loss of the ship; therefore dismiss the appeal" (8 Court Sess. Cas. 4th Series, 518).

The respondent contended, as a preliminary point, that the findings were findings of fact, and therefore could not be reviewed by this House in respect to the 40th section of 6 Geo. 4, c. 120. The appellant maintained that the findings of the Court were mixed law and fact; that the finding in fact as to a reasonable prospect, &c., was insufficient to warrant the conclusion in law drawn from it; and that the finding whether there was an acceptance of the abandonment was a mixed question of law and fact. On these grounds he submitted that the interlocutor was erroneous and incomplete, and that, at all events, the House ought to remit the cause.

Mr. Butt, Q.C., and Mr. Pollard (with them Mr. Guthrie), were heard for the appellant.

Mr. Cohen, Q.C., and Mr. Hollams, appeared for the respondent, but were not called upon,

The Lords being of opinion that Mackay v. Dick (6 App. Cas. p. 251) applied; and that, looking to the record here, the findings in the interlocutor were reasonably accurate, dismissed the appeal with costs.

Remarked by Lord Penzance that the question whether the underwriters have accepted the abandonment or not is a question of fact.

The House (Earl Cairns and Lords Blackburn and Watson) reversed the decision of the Court of Appeal (13 Ch. D. 277) upon the construction of the deed, and held that the deed was to be read separatim as to the winning of the several seams of coal, and that the appellants were entitled to recoup themselves the expenses of winning the second seam before any royalty was payable as to that seam, and varied the decree accordingly; but that as all other points raised by the appeal were now abandoned by the appellants, each party must pay their costs in the Court of Appeal and in this House.

Action against Partners in Name of Firm—Dissolution as to one Partner before Writ issued—Service on continuing Partners—Judgment by Default — Debtor's Summons against outgoing Partner—Rules of Court, 1875, Order ix., r. 6—Order xii. r. 12—Order xvi. r. 10—Order xlii. r. 8.

Appeal from the refusal of Mr. Registrar Pepys, sitting as Chief Judge, to dismiss a debtor's summons.

The appellant and some other persons had carried on business in partnership. The partnership, so far as related to the appellant, was dissolved on the 17th of December, 1880, and the business was continued by the other partners under the old firm. On the 18th of December a creditor of the old firm issued a writ in the Exchequer Division against the partners (in the name of the firm) for a debt contracted before the dissolution. The writ was on the 21st of December personally served on one of the continuing partners at the place of business of the firm. The appellant was not served. No appearance was entered to the writ, and on the 29th of December judgment by default was signed against the defendants for 56*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.* and costs. Execution was issued on the judgment, but the sheriff found no goods of the firm upon which he could levy. No application was made for leave to issue execution against the appellant, and he had no notice of the action until May, 1881, when the plaintiff served on him particulars of demand of the judgment debt. The appellant not having paid it, the plaintiff, in June, 1881, served on him a debtor's summons founded on the judgment debt. The appellant denied the debt, and applied to the Court to dismiss the summons. The Registrar refused the application, and from his refusal the appeal was brought.

Romer, Q.C., and Upjohn, for the appellant.

H. F. Dickens, for the plaintiff.

The Court (Lord Selborne, C., Brett and Cotton, L.JJ) dissentiente Brett, L.J., reversed the Registrar's decision, and dismissed the debtor's summons, but gave no costs in either Court.

Lord Selborne, C., was of opinion that, even if Order xvi., r. 2, applied to the case of a partner in a firm dissolved before the issue of the writ (which he was disposed to think it did), still Order xlii. r. 8, shewed that judgment against a firm ought not to be held conclusive of the liability of any person who had neither admitted on the pleadings that he was, nor had been adjudged to be, a partner in the firm sued, and who had not been served as a partner with the writ. Therefore, the appellant's liability being disputed, the judgment was not per se binding on him so as to constitute a debt on which he could be made bankrupt. Something more was necessary to make it so. The case was not one in which leave to issue execution against the appellant could have been properly given under r. 8 of Order xlii. without the trial of the question of his liability in an action.

Cotton, L.J., was of opinion that Order xvi., r. 10 applies only to persons who are, at the time of action commenced, partners in an existing firm, and that it does not apply to persons who have been partners in a firm which has been dissolved.

Brett, L.J., was of opinion that by the firm name mentioned in rule 10 of Order xvi. is meant the name of the firm which existed when the debt sued for was contracted, and that the firm so named existed for the purpose of being sued at the time of the issuing of a writ in respect of a debt contracted whilst the firm was in full force, though the firm for other purposes had ceased to exist. He also thought that service of the writ was, under r. 6 of Order ix., a good service on the appellant, and that, consequently, he was bound by the judgment. And, though, under r. 8 of Order xlii., execution on the judgment could not issue against the appellant without leave, it did not follow that the judgment was not a valid judgment against him, or that other remedies upon it, such as a debtor's summons, might not be enforced against him. It was only thought safer to bridle the power of execution, a drastic remedy put in force at the will of the judgment creditor, and irreparably mischievous if wrongly issued.

In re Seaman.
Rhodes v. Wish.
Specialty Debt—Laches—Devastavit.

This was an appeal by Rhodes and Andrews, executors of Thomas Baker, the plaintiffs in the second action and defendants in the first action, against a decision of Mr. Justice Kay.

Thomas Baker, in his marriage settlement, dated the 4th of March, 1859, covenanted with the trustees, Wish and another, for payment, within six months from his decease, of a sum of 500*l.*, and interest at 4 per cent., to be held upon trusts for his wife Jane and the issue of the marriage.

By a separation deed of the 14th of March, 1860, Mrs. Seaman (the mother of Jane Baker) for valuable consideration covenanted with Thomas Baker that she would, immediately after the execution of the deed, pay to the trustees of the marriage settlement the sum of 500*l.* to go in substitution for the sum of 500*l.* covenanted to be paid by him and in exoneration of his estate.

Wish was a party to the separation deed. Mrs. Seaman died in 1869 without having paid the 500*l.* Wish was her sole acting executor and trustee of her will. Her estate consisted entirely of bank shares, which on her death were worth between 3000*l.* and 4000*l.* Wish did not have these shares transferred into his name, but the dividends were paid to Jane Baker till the failure of the bank on the 6th of December, 1878.

Thomas Baker died on the 15th of February, 1878, without having taken any steps to enforce the covenant against Mrs. Seaman or her estate. On the failure of the bank her estate became of no value.

Rhodes and Andrews, the executors of Thomas Baker, having been sued in the first action for payment of the 500*l.*, which had become a debt payable on the 15th of August, 1878, commenced the second action against the executors of Wish (who had died on the 10th of October, 1877) claiming to have the 500*l.* due under Mrs. Seaman's covenant, paid to the trustees of the settlement, and charging Wish with a devastavit for not having paid or provided for the payment of the debt due by Mrs. Seaman.

Mr. Justice Kay had held that the delay on the part of T. Baker to require payment of the 500*l.* from Mrs. Seaman's estate prevented his executors from suing Mrs. Seaman's executors, and dismissed the action with costs.

J. Pearson, Q.C., and Blackmore, for the executors of Wish.

Higgins, Q.C., Locock Webb, Q.C., W. Freeman, and T. D. Tremlett, for other parties.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay and Lush, L.JJ.) reversed the decision of Kay, J., holding that there was no equitable doctrine of laches when there had been merely a neglect to sue for a specialty debt, and that here the action being brought before the expiration of twenty years from the date of the covenant, the executors of Wish were liable for their devastavit.

Practice—Leave to serve Writ out of the Jurisdiction.

This action was brought against the defendant, who resides in Edinburgh, to recover some moneys which were in 1875 paid by the plaintiff, in consequence, as he alleged, of some false representations which were made to him by the defendant and some other persons with regard to a colliery in Wales. On the 6th of October last the plaintiff obtained an order giving him leave to serve the writ in the action upon the defendant at Edinburgh. This order was obtained upon an affidavit by the plaintiff stating that the misrepresentations were made by the defendant in London. The writ having been served on the defendant, he entered a conditional appearance, and then applied to Mr. Justice Chitty to discharge the order for service In support of his application he filed an affidavit contradicting the plaintiff's affidavit, and the plaintiff filed another affidavit in reply to this. Mr. Justice Chitty did not allow the defendant's affidavit or the plaintiff's affidavit in reply to be used, and he refused the application. The defendant appealed.

Crossley, Q.C., and Birrell, for the appellant.

Grosvenor Woods, for the plaintiff.

Jessel, M.R., said that it was very important to ascertain what was the present practice under the Judicature Acts with respect to service out of the jurisdiction. Before the Judicature Act the practice was rather stricter in the Common Law Courts than in the Chancery Court. In the Common Law Courts the defendant who had been served out of the jurisdiction was allowed to file an affidavit to shew that the plaintiff had no cause of action within the jurisdiction, and if the Court was satisfied that this was so, it discharged the service. But if the Court doubted as to the cause of action, it put the plaintiff under an undertaking to submit to have his action dismissed, if it should ultimately turn out that the cause of action did not arise within the jurisdiction. The practice in the Court of Chancery was more lax; the Court made the original order simply on the statements in the plaintiff's bill, but even then the defendant might enter a conditional appearance and put in an affidavit denying that there was any cause of action within the jurisdiction. So that in both Courts the admissibility of affidavits to try the question whether there was a cause of action within the jurisdiction was settled. The preface to the new rules stated that the old practice was to remain in force where not otherwise provided by the new rules. He must not be supposed to say that it was allowable to try the merits of the plaintiff's case upon affidavit at this stage of the proceedings, all he decided was that affidavits were admissible to try the question of the forum. In the present case the defendant had distinctly swore that he had never made any misrepresentation to the plaintiff within the jurisdiction, and this assertion had not been negatived by the plaintiff's affidavit in reply. The appeal must therefore be allowed, and the order for service set aside.

It was necessary, however, to allude to two of the objections made by the appellant. One was that the affidavit which was required by r. 1 (a) of Order xi. in cases of actions of contract ought to be required also in other cases. But that was not the true construction of r. 1 (a). It was carefully limited to cases of contract, and was made because of the complaints that actions for small debts which ought to have been brought in Scotland or Ireland were constantly brought in England. Another objection was, that the plaintiff did not state in his affidavit whether the defendant was or was not a British subject. He did not think this was material in cases where the defendant was residing within the British dominions. In that case it made no difference whether he was a British subject or not. In either case he was liable to be served with the writ.

Baggallay and Lush, L.JJ., expressed their opinions to the same effect.

Liquidation—Sale of Debtor's Property to Trustee—Sanction of Court—Right to after-acquired Property—Costs—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, ss. 20, 28, 125.

Appeal from decision of Chief Judge (noted ante, p. 138).

The creditors of a liquidating debtor in 1877 passed a special resolution, authorizing the trustee to purchase the debtor's estate (which the resolution stated to consist, "among other assets, of the Queen's Hotel and premises, and certain tenements adjoining") at such a price as would, after paying some mortgage debts, leave sufficient to pay the creditors a dividend of 5*s.* in the pound, and all the costs, charges, and expenses of the liquidation, and that, upon the payment being made, the mortgagees should convey the property purchased to the trustee, for his own individual benefit in fee simple. This resolution was sanctioned by the judge of the County Court, and was afterwards carried out by the trustee. The debtor was in no way a party to the arrangement, and did not know of it for some time afterwards. The creditors did not pass any formal resolution under s. 125 fixing the close of the liquidation or granting the debtor a discharge, but he commenced another business. In 1881 this came to the knowledge of the trustee, and he took possession of the debtor's stock-in-trade, claiming it as divisible among the creditors under the liquidation. The judge of the Newcastle County Court held that the effect of the arrangement was to discharge the debtor's after-acquired property. The Chief Judge reversed this decision, but deprived the trustee of costs, on the ground that he ought not to have become the purchaser of the estate without first resigning his office of trustee. The debtor appealed, and the trustee gave a cross notice to vary the order by giving him his costs out of the estate.

Robinson, Q.C., and Strachan, for the appellant.

Winslow, Q.C., Creed, and J. E. Joel, for the trustee, were not heard, except on the cross appeal.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., and Baggallay and Lush, L.JJ.) affirmed the decision, on the ground that the resolution did not in form or substance amount to a close of the liquidation or a discharge of the debtor, for all which purposes it was necessary that the creditors should pass a special resolution. The resolution amounted to nothing more than a sale of the then existing property of the debtor to the trustee, and did not affect the trustee's right to any after-acquired property. But the case was one of great hardship, for no doubt all parties at the time supposed and intended that the resolution should put an end to the liquidation. The debtor must therefore have his costs out of the estate. And as the trustee had bought the property with the sanction of the Court, there was no ground for depriving him of costs. The costs of both parties would, therefore, be paid out of the estate, the trustee's costs having priority.

Derelict—Right to Freight.

This was an appeal from an order of Sir R. Phillimore, the Judge of the Admiralty Division.

The Cito, a Norwegian barque, whilst on a voyage from Wilmington, in the United States, to Rotterdam with a cargo of resin in barrels was abandoned by her crew owing to the perils of the sea, when off the American coast, and became a derelict. She was afterwards saved by the barque Colonist and brought to Plymouth, where, with her cargo and freight, she was arrested at the instance of the salvors. Appearances were entered both on behalf of the owners of the Cito and on behalf of the owners of her cargo, and the latter at once, and before any further step had been taken by the owners of the ship, gave notice of motion for an order, on giving bail for salvage, to release the cargo without payment of any freight. This was opposed by the owners of the ship, who then offered to bail the cargo and carry it to its port of destination. Sir R. Phillimore, acting on his decision in The Kathleen (Law Rep. 4 A. & E. 269), granted the order for the release of the cargo without payment of freight.

The Court (Brett, Cotton, and Lindley, L.JJ.) held that there had been such an abandonment by the owners of the ship as to entitle the owners of the cargo to treat the contract to carry as abandoned, and therefore that the order appealed against was rightly made.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., and Baggallay and Lush, L.JJ.) were disposed to think that the defendant had exceeded his rights as a riparian owner, and that the plaintiff as a riparian owner had a ground of complaint, but held that the plaintiff could not have any relief on that footing without an amendment of his pleadings. A discussion then took place as to whether leave to amend should be given. The defendant, who had obtained a supply of water for his houses from a waterworks company, being willing to undertake not to use the water except for the drinking of his cattle, an order was made discharging the order of the Vice-Chancellor with no costs on either side.

Grant of Land in fee subject to Rent—Covenant by Grantee to build and repair Buildings—Assignment—Whether Assignee liable on Covenant—Limitation of Rule in Tulk v. Moxhay.

Appeal of defendants from judgment of Stephen, J., on further consideration.

In 1866 one C. Jackson had granted to one E. Jackson a plot of land in fee subject to a rent-charge. The grant, which gave a right of distress for the rent, and also of re-entry for non-payment, also contained a covenant that the grantee would erect, and keep in repair when erected, certain buildings upon the land granted. The grantee entered and erected the buildings, after which by divers mesne assignments the land passed to one McAndrew and the rent-charge to the plaintiff. McAndrew mortgaged the land to the defendants, who had notice of the covenants, but did not themselves covenant to perform them. McAndrew failing to pay the interest on the mortgage the defendants took possession, and not keeping the buildings in repair were sued by the plaintiff in this action upon the covenant to repair in the deed of 1866. Stephen, J., gave judgment for the plaintiff on the ground that though, on the authority of Milnes v. Branch (5 M. & S. 411), the defendants were not liable as upon a covenant running with the land, they were liable both on principle and on the authority of Cooke v. Chilcott (3 Ch. Specific Performance—Vendor having only partial Interest contracting to sell the Entirety—Remedy of Purchaser.

Plaintiffs and defendant signed a memorandum whereby it was agreed that the defendant should let business premises to the plaintiffs for one year, with an option to the plaintiffs to have a lease for seven, fourteen, or twenty-one years, at and from the end of the year. Plaintiffs went into possession under the memorandum and laid out money. When the defendant's title came to be examined for the purpose of preparing the lease, it was found that she was not, as she supposed, entitled to the whole, but only to a moiety of the premises, the other moiety being vested in her son, a youth of about 14 years. Plaintiffs claimed specific performance of the agreement, or performance to the extent of the defendant's interest, with a proportionate abatement of rent. They also claimed damages in respect of non-performance or incomplete performance.

Counsel at the bar asked for damages only in the event of the Court not decreeing specific performance pro tanto.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said he would follow Lord Eldon's decision in Mortlock v. Buller (10 Ves. 292), the rule in which case he considered to be the settled law of the Court, and decreed specific performance of the contract so far as the defendant could fulfil it, with an abatement of rent; the plaintiffs to have their costs of the suit.

Marten, Q.C., on the question of costs, observed that the plaintiffs had claimed damages absolutely, not alternatively.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that this made no difference, adding that if the plaintiffs had asked for damages he should not have granted the inquiry, as it did not appear hitherto that they had sustained any injury.

Settlement—New Trustees—Non-execution of Deed—Payment of Cheque to New Trustees—Indorsement—Acceptance of Trusts—Misappropriation of Trust Funds.

Of the two trustees of the settlement made on the marriage of the plaintiff, E. M. H., in September, 1864, T. S. the survivor was desirous of retiring, and the plaintiff in December, 1875, appointed C. J. B. and W. H. B., brothers, to be trustees of the settlement in the room of the two original trustees, and T. S. conveyed the trust property to them, but they did not execute the indenture, which was prepared by W. H. B., a solicitor in the country. A sum of 1889*l.* 12*s.* 5*d.*, became payable to the trustees, and it was paid by a cheque to W. H. B. to the order of the trustees. W. H. B. indorsed the cheque, and asked C. J. B. to sign his name underneath, and he did so without looking at the face of the cheque or making any inquiries. W. H. B. received the money, placed it to his private account at his bankers; dealt with and misappropriated it. He afterwards went into liquidation. This was an action asking for a declaration that W. H. B. and C. J. B. were trustees of the settlement; for an account of the moneys which came to their hands, that what might be found due from them might be paid by C. J. B., and that they or one of them might be directed to prove under the liquidation, and that the dividends might be secured.

The defendants were examined in Court. C. J. B. deposed that he was a private gentleman of no occupation, and that he had often signed documents for his brother without looking at or inquiring about them.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and T. J. Edwards, for the plaintiff, submitted that C. J. B.'s indorsement of the cheque was an actual acceptance of the trusts just as much as if he had signed a receipt for the trust moneys; that the indorsement was an acknowledgment by both brothers that they had received the moneys. As C. J. B. signed the receipt without making inquiries he was guilty of negligence in enabling his brother to receive the moneys, and to use them fraudulently, and he ought to be declared liable to account for them.

Hastings, Q.C., and B. B. Rogers, for the defendant, C. J. B.

The Vice-Chancellor said that he was unable to give judgment against C. J. B. There had been in fact no acceptance of the trusts. It was only an acceptance by implication, or by some rule of law which would fix him with liability. The moneys did not come into his hands or properly speaking under his control, and it would be too penal a view to take of the circumstances to say that he became a trustee and was involved in the liability of the trusts generally. C. J. B. would be dismissed from the action with the usual costs, and as against W. H. B. the declarations asked for would be made.

Practice—Infant—Ward of Court.

Petition.

The question was whether the infant petitioner, a young lady aged 17, who had recently married without the leave of the Court, was a ward of Court, and it was raised upon a petition asking for an inquiry whether the marriage was valid, and for a reference to approve of a proper settlement.

It appeared that the infant, who was illegitimate, had since her infancy resided first with her putative father and afterwards with his widow; and that two or three years before the infant's marriage a summons had been taken out in chambers by her mother for the appointment of herself as guardian to the infant, but that the Court had made no order upon this summons, merely expressing the opinion that the infant's mother ought to have access to her daughter. It also appeared that, after these proceedings and before the marriage this action was instituted for the administration of the estate of the infant's putative father in which she was interested, and although the infant had not been served with the proceedings or made in any way a party to the action, two sums of money had been paid into Court therein, one to the joint account of the infant's mother for life and the infant contingently, and the other to the contingent account of the infant herself.

Hastings, Q.C., and Cass, for the petitioner.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Hornell, for the husband of the infant, contended that as no order had been made on the summons and the proceedings in the action had taken place behind the back of the infant, there was nothing to give the Court any such control over her person or property as to make her a ward of Court.

W. W. Cooper, for the trustees of the father's estate.

The Vice-Chancellor held that the proceedings on the summons and the payment into Court in the action were either of them sufficient to constitute the infant a ward of Court, and granted the prayer of the petitioner.

Alteration of Premises during the Night—Hammering—Nuisance—Injunction.

The defendants were in business as drapers, &c., at Kensington, and had employed a builder and contractor to make certain alterations in their business premises, and he carried on the work by night. The plaintiff, a neighbour and provision dealer, complained of the nuisance caused by hammering, and brought an action for an injunction to restrain the defendants from continuing it.

Eddis, Q.C., and A. C. Eddis, for the plaintiff.

Hastings, Q.C., and Warmington, for the defendants.

The Vice-Chancellor held that he had jurisdiction to grant an injunction, and that as the nuisance—working during the night time—interfered with the plaintiff's comfortable, reasonable, and ordinary enjoyment of his residence he should grant it, limiting it to the hours between 8 P.M. and 6 A.M. As to the works being only temporary, it did not appear how long they would be continued, but the evidence shewed that it was proposed to alter and adapt the building in order to provide for a much larger business by the defendants.

Practice—New Trustees—Husband of Cestui que trust entitled for her separate Use.

This was a petition for the appointment of new trustees of a will, on the hearing of which, a short time since, the Court had declined to appoint one of the proposed new trustees upon the ground that he was the husband of a feme coverte, who was entitled under the will to property for her separate use during her life. All the beneficiaries under the will who were in existence, except one, who was out of the jurisdiction (service upon whom had been dispensed with), were co-petitioners, and the husband of the feme coverte was a respondent.

Gayer, for the petitioners, now mentioned the petition again, and produced evidence that all endeavours to procure another trustee instead of the husband had been unsuccessful, and that it was the desire of the wife that the husband should be appointed; and stated that the husband would give an undertaking that in case he at any time became a sole trustee he would appoint another trustee to act with him.

Latham, for the respondents, did not oppose.

The Vice-Chancellor made an order appointing the husband a trustee as prayed, directing that in case he should become sole trustee a new trustee should forthwith be appointed, and that if necessary an application in chambers must be made for the purpose.

ERRINGTON v. METROPOLITAN DISTRICT RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Notice to treat for Lands—Value assessed as for Building Land—Minerals not expressly purchased—Company not entitled to give a fresh Notice to treat for purchase of Minerals.

The company in 1878 obtained an Act enabling them to extend their railway from West Brompton to Fulham, and to take land compulsorily. The plaintiffs, being owners of land at Walham Green, were served with three notices to treat, dated in August, 1878, and February and March, 1879, for the purchase of nearly seven acres. The claim made by the plaintiffs was referred to an arbitrator, and the value of the property was assessed by him at 11,660*l.* In the draft conveyance the company's solicitors inserted the words "mines and minerals" and sent it to the plaintiffs' solicitors for approval. They struck them out, contending that the company were not entitled to the mines and minerals.

A summons was taken out under the Vendor and Purchaser Act, 1874. The chief clerk considered that as the minerals were not expressly mentioned in the notices to treat, or in the award, it could not be said that they had been "expressly purchased," as required by the Railways Clauses Act, 1845, s. 77. The company submitted that as the plaintiffs' claim for the land was as for building land, it clearly shewed an intention of conveying all their rights and interests therein. The Vice-Chancellor subsequently decided that the minerals had not been expressly purchased; and the Lords Justices in July last affirmed that decision.

The company served a notice in June, 1881, on the plaintiffs to treat for the purchase of the minerals under the whole of the land, as the compulsory powers of the company would expire in July, 1881.

The plaintiffs brought an action against the company and obtained an injunction restraining them from further proceeding under the notice to treat and from taking any steps to procure the assessment of the purchase-money of the minerals.

The company were willing to purchase the minerals expressly.

This was a motion for judgment.

Hastings, Q.C., and Archibald, were for the plaintiffs.

Kekewich, Q.C., and Samuel Roberts, for the railway company.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR held that the company were not entitled to proceed under their notice to purchase the minerals, as it was not competent to the company to give the notice, and therefore the injunction granted must be made perpetual, and the company pay the costs of the application.

Fry, J. FOX v. BEARBLOCK. Dec. 1.

Chief Clerk's Certificate—Striking out Finding—Striking out Evidence.

In this case the question arose whether the Rev. James Bearblock, fellow of King's College, Cambridge, had been lawfully married to Mary Medhunt.

The chief clerk took evidence on the point, and in particular relied on the Liber Protocollorum of King's College, Cambridge, which contained records of an inquiry before the visitors and fellows of the college, in which the decision was he was not married.

Relying on this evidence the chief clerk found by his certificate, dated the 9th of August, 1880, that there was no marriage.

Fry, J., by an order dated the 9th of August, 1880, ordered that the certificate should be varied, that the entry in the Liber Protocollorum "be struck out from the certificate as being inadmissible as evidence," and declared that there was sufficient evidence to create the presumption that James Bearblock was lawfully married, and that his children were legitimate.

The defendant, Mildred Bearblock, applied by summons that the chief clerk or one of the masters or other proper officer might be ordered to strike out such words as by the order of the 9th of April, 1880, were ordered to be struck out.

The summons was adjourned into Court.

The ground of the summons was that the certificate of illegitimacy ought not to be allowed to remain on the record, but that the words complained of ought to be actually expunged.

Pearson, Q.C., and Rawlinson, for the summons.

W. W. Karslake, Q.C., for the plaintiff.

FRY, J., said that the original documents ought not to be tampered with, and that on inquiry he found that it was not the practice to alter a certificate once made, and refused the order.

COOPER v. VESEY.

Mortgage—False personification by Mortgagor—Invalidity of Mortgage.

Thomas F. Cooper, by his will, dated in October, 1861, appointed his wife and his daughter Anne executrixes and trustees thereof, and also his sons, T. F. Cooper, the younger, and C. S. Cooper, executors and trustees thereof when they should attain 21; and he gave and bequeathed all his freehold and leasehold houses, and his shares in different companies and his money in the funds, and also his stock-in-trade as a watchmaker, and his cash at the bankers, and all other his estate and effects, unto his executors and trustees upon trust to place the whole of his stock-in-trade in the hands of his son, T. F. Cooper, the younger, for sale, the proceeds thereof to be accounted for by him to his estate, and upon trust to convert into money and invest all moneys arising from his estate upon such securities as trustees were by law authorized to invest trust moneys, and to pay thereout an annuity of 300*l.* to his wife for the maintenance of herself and children, and to accumulate the residue till his youngest child should attain 25, at which period the capital was to be divided between his children in manner therein mentioned. And the testator declared his wish to be that T. F. Cooper, his son, should succeed him in his business as a watchmaker, and that he should carry on such business for the benefit of his estate until he should be 21, receiving a salary of 150*l.* a year for his services, after which time he was to have the goodwill of the business for his own benefit. The testator died in March, 1863, and the will was proved by his widow and daughter only; the two sons had never proved. He left nine children, all of whom had attained 25. T. F. Cooper, the son, attained the age of 21 on the 9th of December, 1863, and his mother and brothers and sisters afterwards employed him as their agent to manage the estate for them. On the 8th of January, 1880, T. F. Cooper, the younger, died, and it was then discovered that in the year 1874 and subsequently he had, without any authority from the trustees and executors, and without their knowledge or consent, abstracted from a box which had been deposited by the testator at his bankers certain of the title-deeds relating to the freehold and leasehold property, and had obtained large sums of money by mortgaging such property, and the deeds were now in the possession of some of the defendants, who claimed to sell the property so mortgaged to them.

The plaintiffs claimed a declaration that they were entitled to possession of the property so mortgaged, and that the mortgages were void, and they claimed delivery up to them of the title deeds of the property.

It appeared that the mortgages were prepared by a firm of solicitors, who supposed that T. F. Cooper, the son, was in fact T. F. Cooper the father, and they were executed by the son in the character and in the name of the father, and they contained recitals shewing that the person who had purchased the property was the then mortgagor.

Higgins, Q.C., and Warmington, Fischer, Q.C., and Seeley, Marriott, Q.C., Whitehorne, Q.C., and Wolstenholme, and D. Jones, for the defendants.

His Lordship considered it to be clearly proved that the son knew he had no authority to raise money out of the estate without the authority of the trustees and executors. He however obtained the deeds without their knowledge and consent and raised money upon them for his own purposes in the character of his father, who was in fact the T. F. Cooper named in the deeds, the solicitors who prepared such deeds believing that the son who executed them was his father. In short the son personated the father, who was supposed to be living, but this was not a transaction which could bind the other parties interested under the will, and the result was that the mortgage deeds must be declared void, and the deeds must be given up by the mortgagees.

Kay, J. Eades v. Starbuck Wagon Company. Nov. 30.

Patent—Insufficiency of Invention—Defective Specification.

The plaintiff Eades was the owner of a patent for an invention of "Improvements in the Construction of Tramcars," described as being a method of making the body of a tramcar so as to swivel upon the underframe or carriage. The action was to restrain the defendants from infringing the patent. It appeared in evidence that there was an existing patent, called McAdam's patent, for a similar purpose, which differed in this respect, that while by McAdam's patent there was a circular plate fixed to the truck with a corresponding plate on the bottom of the carriage, there was in the plaintiff's patent an elongation of the truck in order the better to support the length of the carriage, and in addition to the circular plate on the truck and the carriage, there were also segmental circles on either side of the circular plate for the purpose of the better supporting the body of the car while turning round upon the fulcrum.

Aston, Q.C., and Macrory, for the plaintiff.

Rigby, Q.C., and Ingle Joyce, for the defendants.

His Lordship said there were two questions, one of fact, as to whether there was sufficient invention in the plaintiff's improvement to support a patent, and one of law as to whether there was a sufficient description of the invention in the specification. On the question of fact he was of opinion that the lengthening of the truck and the addition of two segmental circles was not such an invention as to entitle the plaintiff to a patent, it being admitted that the circular turning plates were the subject of an existing patent; and on the question of law, he was of opinion that the specification was bad, because it did not describe either an addition to or improvement upon an old invention, but it specified an invention for turning tramcars, which was in fact the actual subject of McAdam's patent, but which the plaintiff at the time he took out his patent had never heard of. The plaintiff ought to have pointed out the distinction between the two patents. The action must therefore be dismissed with costs.

London and South Western Railway Company v. Gomm.

Company—Covenant to reconvey Land—Rule against Perpetuities—Ultrà vires—Specific Performance.

By a deed dated the 10th of August, 1865, the railway company conveyed to Powell a piece of land containing 3a. and 30p. adjoining their station at Brentford, and which was described as being no longer required for the purposes of the railway, for the sum of 100*l.*, and the conveyance contained a covenant on the part of Powell, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, that he or any person who should have an interest in the land would at any time thereafter, whenever the said land should be required for the railway or works of the company, upon having six months' notice, reconvey to the company the said piece of land for the same amount then paid by Powell. In 1875 the land so conveyed was purchased by the defendant Gomm with notice of the covenant, and had ever since been in his possession. On the 12th of March, 1880, the company gave notice to the defendant that the land would be required by the company, and that a reconveyance would be handed to him for signature at the expiration of six months, when the 100*l.* would be paid to him for the land. The defendant refused to reconvey, and this action was brought for specific performance of the covenant in the deed of August, 1865.

Rigby, Q.C., and Gaselee, for the plaintiffs.

Whitehorne, Q.C., and Vaughan Hawkins, for the defendant.

His Lordship said the questions were whether this arrangement was ultrà vires; whether the covenant to reconvey was not void, as tending to a perpetuity; and whether or not this land was required for the purposes of the railway. On the latter point he was satisfied from the evidence of the company's engineer that the land was bonâ fide required for the railway. He considered that the true effect of the transaction in 1865 was, not a conditional sale, but a sale out-and-out to Powell with a personal contract by him to reconvey when called upon to do so, at a certain price. If the transaction was ultrà vires the proper thing to do was to set aside the sale altogether, in which case the land should be reconveyed on payment of the same purchase-money, but he did not think that the conveyance was beyond the powers of the company. He was further of opinion that this covenant created no interest in land, but it was a personal contract, by which Powell, who took with notice, was bound in equity, and it was not within the rule against perpetuities. There must consequently be a decree for specific performance, with costs.

Specific Performance—Misrepresentation—Mistake—Lease subject to determination.

This was an action to enforce specific performance of a contract made at a sale by auction for the purchase of certain cottages at Heston.

The defences were, 1, that the property was subject to a mortgage of which the purchaser was not aware; 2, that the rents were less than as stated on the particulars; 3, that a lease, to which part of the property was subject was liable to determination; 4, that no title had been shewn to a part of the land.

Rigby, Q.C., and Ribton, for the plaintiffs.

Higgins, Q.C., and Gazdar, for the defendant.

His Lordship was of opinion on the evidence that the purchaser was aware of the mortgage, or if he was not that it was through gross carelessness on his part, and not at all through any misrepresentation by the vendors. As to the rents, the vendors had shewn that there was no deficiency. In the absence of proof of any disadvantage to the purchaser, the fact that a lease by the vendors was subject to determination was no objection. As to the question of title, a reference must be made. As the other objections had failed the purchaser must pay the costs up to and including the hearing.

In re DUNKLEY.

Bankruptcy—Proof of Debts—Mortgagee Creditor—Right to appoint Trustee.

Appeal from County Court at Hertford.

John Dunkley having been adjudicated a bankrupt, a first meeting of creditors was held on the 25th of June, 1881, at which the appellant Cass was appointed trustee, and amongst other creditors the respondents, Messrs. Baker & Thorneycroft, the petitioning creditors, who were mortgagees of real estate, and also of personal estate and effects, under an unregistered bill of sale of the bankrupt, and who claimed to be creditors for sums as yet unliquidated, tendered a proof for 456*l.* 6*s.*, being the balance of a total debt claimed by them of 1956*l.* 6*s.*, after deducting 1500*l.*, the amount at which they valued their security. Objection was taken to the proof on the ground that the respondents had not produced their security, and at an adjourned meeting on the 1st of July, the respondents produced the mortgage deed, and having stated in cross-examination that the other title deeds were deposited with their bankers, the registrar rejected the proof on the ground that the securities were not produced. On appeal to the County Court Judge, His Honour, on the 13th of August, made an order declaring that the decision of the registrar in rejecting the proof was wrong, and that the respondents ought to have been admitted to prove at the first meeting, and to vote in the choice of a trustee; and directing a new first meeting of creditors to be convened by the registrar for the choice of a new trustee. This was the order appealed from.

Moulton, for the appellant:—The proof was not admissible on two grounds; first, that the bankers, and not the respondents, were the true owners of the debt; secondly, because the respondents did not produce their title deeds. The learned County Court Judge was moreover wrong in disturbing the appointment of trustee.

Winslow, Q.C., and Seward Brice, for the respondents.

Moulton, in reply on the first question.

THE CHIEF JUDGE said that the proof was not objectionable on the ground that the respondents had deducted from their claim the estimated value of their security. Having produced their mortgage there was no compulsion on them to produce the title deeds of the mortgaged estate. But that part of the order could not be supported which directed the choice of a new trustee on the mere suggestion that if the respondents had been permitted to vote, some other person than the appellant would have been appointed trustee. The order to this extent would be discharged; the respondents might have their costs of the appeal out of the estate, and the trustee would have his costs out of the estate.

Liquidation—Bill of Sale—"Apparent Possession"—Bills of Sale Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 31), s. 8.

Appeal from County Court at Cambridge.

The appellants, Mortlock & Ainslie, holders of an unregistered bill of sale, of stock in trade, from the debtor, William Isaac Basham, draper, carrying on business at 31, Petty Cury, Cambridge, at about two o'clock on Saturday on the 14th of May, 1881, put a man into possession, who remained in possession until a receiver of the Court entered at about six in the evening of Tuesday, the 17th, on which day the debtor had filed a liquidation petition. The sole question was whether the possession was an "apparent possession" within s. 8 of the Bills of Sale Act, 1878.

On the part of the appellants it was deposed that the deputy of the man in possession locked up the premises every night, and took away the keys, omitting by inadvertence, on Saturday night only, to lock the door of a passage leading from the house of the debtor's son to the shop; that of two servers in the shop other than the debtor and his son, one named Oliver was discharged on Monday, and on Tuesday assisted an auctioneer who had been sent by the appellants for the purpose, in making an inventory; and that the fact of possession having been taken on behalf of the appellants was well known in the town, and generally talked about on Sunday and Monday. On the other hand it was deposed that the bailiff's man never or seldom appeared in the shop, but remained in a warehouse on the premises, out of sight of the customers; that the business appeared to go on as usual, and no notification was made to the public. Two customers deposed that they bought goods on the Monday without seeing the man in possession, or knowing that there was one there, and two tradesmen in the same street said they knew nothing of the possession till after the liquidation.

Winslow, Q.C., and Hadley, for the appellants.

De Gex, Q.C., and Cockerell, for the respondents, the trustees.

THE CHIEF JUDGE, after observing that the question was one of fact only, to be deduced from all the circumstances, said that, viewing the matter as a jury, he was compelled to differ from the learned County Court Judge. Upon the whole of the evidence taken together he was of opinion that there never was any apparent possession by the debtor after the seizure on the 14th. The order of the County Court must be discharged, and the mortgagees declared to be entitled to the produce of the stock sold, and the appellants must have the costs.

Betting—"Place"—Box on Racecourse-ring—16 & 17 Vict. c. 119, s. 1.

Case stated by justices of Sutton Coldfield under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43.

An information under 16 & 17 Vict. c. 119, s. 1, laid by the appellant, charged that the respondent on the 18th of April, 1881, "being a person using a certain place in Four Oaks Park . . . did unlawfully use the said place for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto upon certain events and contingencies." Sect. 1 is that "no house, office, room or other place" shall be used for the purpose of the person using the same betting with persons resorting thereto. At the hearing it appeared that on the 18th of April a race meeting was held in a private park belonging to the Four Oaks Park Company, admission thereto being by payment. Respondent and one Schuster paid for admission and to the grand stand, and, during the races, were in a railed inclosure attached to the stand, which inclosure was opened to persons admitted to the grand stand, and known as the Ring. Whilst in the inclosure Schuster stood upon a small wooden box, which was not in any way attached to the ground, and he and the other respondent, who were in company and acting together, were calling out in the inclosure, and were offering to make, and they made, ready-money bets with other persons on some of the races. Schuster received the money for the bets made, and the respondent booked the same. They stood together in one place within the inclosure during the races.

The justices dismissed the information, but asked the Court whether the inclosure was a "place" within the Act, and whether the box as used by the man did constitute such place.

Bosanquet, for the appellant.

THE COURT (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) held that the fixed and ascertained spot on which the box was placed for the day, and to which, by the advertisement of shouts offering bets, the public were attracted for the purpose of betting, was a place used for that purpose within the meaning and terms of the Act as interpreted by the decisions thereon.

Decision reversed and case remitted to the justices.

Malicious Injury to Property (24 & 25 Vict. c. 97)—"Herbage Right."

Resident freemen and widows of resident freemen of the borough are entitled by right, confirmed by 14 Geo. 3, s. 214, "to the full right and benefit to the herbage of the town moor for two milch cows." But the corporation of the borough are owners of the soil in fee simple subject to the "herbage right" aforesaid.

The respondent having bowled on the town moor and done nominal damage thereto an information was laid against him under the Malicious Injury to Property Act, on behalf of the freemen by their officer.

The justices dismissed the information.

Case stated by justices of Flint.

The question was whether 44 & 45 Vict. c. 61, the Sunday Closing (Wales) Act, 1881, had commenced and come into operation in the township of Saltney in the county of Flint on the 11th of September, 1881.

The Act received the royal assent on the 27th of August, 1881. By s. 3 "This Act shall commence and come into operation with respect to each division or place in Wales on the day next appointed for the holding of the general annual licensing meeting for such division or place."

The annual licensing meeting for the township of Saltney was appointed prior to the 27th of August, and held on the 8th of September, 1881.

Poland, for the appellant.

Bankes, for the respondent.

THE COURT (Grove and Lopes, JJ.) held that the Act was under s. 3, to commence with respect to each division on the day which should, after the passing of the Act, be next appointed for the holding of the general annual licensing meeting; and therefore the Act had not commenced and come into operation in the township.

Supreme Court of Judicature.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. MUSGRAVE v. STEVENS. Nov. 30.

Practice—Joinder of Causes of Action—Amendment—Rules of Court.

The writ in this case was issued on the 18th of October, 1881, claiming an injunction to restrain the defendants, one of whom had a farm under the plaintiff, from removing any hay, straw, &c., produced thereon. The writ had been served upon the defendants, and one of them had appeared. On the 19th of October the plaintiff obtained an interim injunction, which was afterwards extended till the trial of the action. Before any further steps were taken the plaintiff moved ex parte before Mr. Justice Chitty for leave to amend the writ by adding a claim to recover possession of the farm for breaches of covenant contained in the lease. His Lordship, considering himself bound by the authority of Pilcher v. Hinds (11 Ch. D. 905), refused the application, and the plaintiff now renewed it before the Court of Appeal.

De Castro, in support of the motion, said that Pilcher v. Hinds was decided on the construction of Order LVII. r. 6; the present application was made under Order XVII. r. 2, which is perfectly general, and permits the leave of the Court to be given at any stage of the proceedings.

JESSEL, M.R., said that the words of the rule were certainly wide enough, but the plaintiff must make a very special cause for an amendment after service of the writ. In the present case no special case had been made, and there was no reason why the plaintiff should not commence a separate action. The application must be refused.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Baggallay and Lush, L.JJ.) held that the receipt and memorandum taken together without the poster contained a description sufficient to satisfy the Statute of Frauds. The order of Kay, J. was therefore discharged, and the action remitted to the Court below that it might be tried on the other grounds of defence alleged by the defendant.

CURTIUS v. CALEDONIAN FIRE AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

Practice—Parties—Chancery Amendment Act, 1852, s. 44—Assignment of Policy of Insurance.

This was an appeal from a decision of the Master of the Rolls. In 1867 A. L. Von Asten effected a policy of insurance on his life in the Caledonian Fire and Life Insurance Company for 1500*l.*, and in February, 1879, he deposited the policy with the plaintiff as a security for a debt of 4626*l.* In February, 1880, Von Asten died intestate and insolvent. No administration was taken out to his estate, and it appeared from the evidence that all his near relatives were unwilling to go to the expense of taking out administration. The defendant company were ready to pay the amount of the policy and bonus to the plaintiff, but objected to pay it in the absence of a personal representative of Von Asten. The Master of the Rolls held that under s. 44 of the Chancery Amendment Act, 1852, the Court might dispense with the presence of a personal representative of the insured, and asked the company to pay the amount to the plaintiff. The defendants appealed from this decision.

Westlake, Q.C., and W. B. Heath, for the appellant, referred to the observations of Lords Justices James and Cotton in Webster v. British Empire Mutual Insurance Company (15 Ch. D. 169).

Ince, Q.C., and F. G. Bagshawe, for the plaintiff, were not called on.

LORD COLERIDGE, L.C.J., said that he was opinion that the decision of the Master of the Rolls was correct. The case was clearly within the 44th section of the Chancery Amendment Act. In the case referred to by the counsel for the appellant, the Lords Justices did not deny the jurisdiction of the Court, but only expressed their surprise that it had been exercised in that particular case. He felt no doubt as to the jurisdiction; nor as to the propriety of exercising it in the present case. The appeal must be dismissed with costs.

BAGGALLAY and LINDLEY, L.JJ., expressed their opinions to the same effect.

Solicitor and Client—Liability of Town Agent of a Country Solicitor to pay to Client Amount recovered in an Action—Summary Jurisdiction of the Court.

The Queen's Bench Division, in the exercise of its summary jurisdiction over its own officers, ordered Mr. Johnson, the town agent of the country solicitor of Miss Edwards, to pay over to her the amount of a debt he had received in an action which she had brought and in which he had acted as the town agent for her solicitor, such solicitor claiming no lien on the amount. The case is reported (7 Q. B. D. 155). Johnson appealed on the ground that he was entitled to retain the amount for a debt to him from the country solicitor.

Practice—Action remitted to County Court—County Courts Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 142), s. 10—Appeal.

This was an action of tort which had been remitted to the Westminster County Court under the County Courts Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 142), s. 10, and tried there twice. At the first trial the plaintiff had a verdict, at the second the County Court judge nonsuited him. He then applied for and obtained an order for a new trial from the Queen's Bench Division, sitting as a Court of Appeal from inferior Courts.

The defendant appealed.

A. B. Kempe, for the defendant.

J. D. Fitzgerald, for the plaintiff, took the preliminary objection that no appeal would lie, since the action in effect had been transferred to the County Court, and therefore there was no appeal from the Queen's Bench Division without leave.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) adopted the plaintiff's contention, and refused to hear the appeal.

New Trial—Verdict against Evidence—Principle on which New Trial ordered.

This was an action of trover, tried before Lindley, J., last Middlesex Trinity Sittings, in which the evidence was very conflicting, and the question substantially left to the jury was whether they believed the plaintiff's or defendant's witnesses. The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff. The Divisional Court (Grove, Lindley, and Lopes, JJ.) afterwards made an order for a new trial, the learned Judge who tried the cause expressing himself to be dissatisfied with the verdict.

The plaintiff appealed.

McIntyre, Q.C. (Grantham, Q.C. and S. Woolf with him), for the plaintiff.

Ballantine, Serjt, and Cooper Wyld, for the defendant.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) reversed the order appealed from, enunciating that the rule on which a new trial should be granted on the ground that the verdict was unsatisfactory ought not to depend on the question whether the learned Judge who tried the action was dissatisfied or not with the verdict, or whether he would have come to the same conclusion as the jury did, but whether the verdict was such as reasonable men ought not to have come to.

Marine Policy, Action on—Discovery of Ship's Papers—Whether Order may be made on "all persons interested"—Order XXXI. r. 11—Order LXA. r. 12—Rules of April, 1880, Form H. 17.

This was an appeal from the judgment of a Divisional Court affirming the order of Bowen, J. and a master, in an action on a policy of marine insurance. The order was that "the plaintiffs and all persons interested in these proceedings and in the insurance the subject of this action do produce and shew to the defendants all" ship's papers—describing them as in Form H. 17—"which are now in the custody of the plaintiffs and the said other persons aforesaid their or any of their brokers, &c.," and "that in the meantime all proceedings be stayed." The order (which had been obtained by the defendants without an affidavit) was on the printed Form H. 17 scheduled to the Rules of April, 1880, and the main question was whether a blank in that form was rightly filled up by the words italicised above, which were taken from a form in use before the Judicature Acts, or whether the order ought to have been made on the plaintiffs only, in accordance with Order XXXI. r. 11, which provides for discovery "by any party" to the action.

J Shiress Will (Todd with him), for the plaintiffs.
Hollams, for the defendants.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., and Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal, holding that the peculiar practice as to discovery of ship's papers, which was in force before the Judicature Acts, was unaffected by any of the rules of the Supreme Court.

Agreement for user of Secret Process for silvering Glass—Royalty—Denial that the Process was secret—Action for Specific Performance and Damages—Defence and Counterclaim alleging that the Process was known to and used by other Persons—Interrogatories for Names and Addresses ordered to be answered.

In August, 1869, the plaintiff's firm—he being now the remaining partner—entered into an agreement with the defendant which recited that the firm had recently discovered a process for silvering glass to be used for mirrors, &c., which to the best of their information and belief was known only to them. The defendant was after a certain date to have an assignment of the right of exclusive use in the United Kingdom of the process, for a period of fifteen years, and to pay a royalty. The assignment was in 1872 executed. The defendant for some time used the process, and paid the royalty, but in July, 1879, he refused to pay any further sums in respect thereof, and in November, 1879, the plaintiff brought an action claiming to have the agreement specifically performed, and asking for accounts and damages. The defendant in his statement of defence and counterclaim admitted the agreement, but alleged that in June, 1879, he discovered that for some years before 1869 the process claimed by the plaintiff as a secret had been published and made known in this country, and that it was before such date in actual use. The defendant also alleged that he had ascertained that the article which the plaintiff had kept a secret was a combination of certain chemicals, and that it was known and used in this country, and that the process of applying it was used before the date of agreement; also that the plaintiff knew that the process was used in this country before 1869, and that he disclosed it to several persons in France and elsewhere without imposing any condition that they should not work it in this country; that other glass silverers in this country had for some time past used it and had paid no royalty; that he could not derive any profit from the user if he had to pay royalty unless he could be secured exclusive user; and he claimed repayment of the sums paid by him under the agreement, and that if necessary the agreement might be set aside so far as regarded the royalty, and other relief. The plaintiff in November, 1880, delivered his reply joining issue, and denying the defendant's allegations in his counterclaim. In January, 1881, the defendant delivered his rejoinder. In November, 1881, the plaintiff took out a summons asking that the defendant might be ordered to give better answers to the interrogatories requiring the defendant to set forth when, and how, and by whom he alleged that the plaintiff was informed that the process was used in this country in 1869, and when it was communicated to the defendant, also by what persons or firms the process was used in 1869; when, and how, and to whom, and under what circumstances the plaintiff disclosed the process without imposing any condition that such persons should not work it in this country. The plaintiff asked for the names and addresses of all such persons or firms; and also for the names and addresses of the other glass silverers besides the defendant who used the process, and when they commenced to use it.

The defendant had answered that the matter which he was required to answer was not evidence of or material to or tending to support the plaintiff's case; and only related to his own case and to the evidence to be given in support of it at the trial, and that he should be prejudiced on the trial if he was required to disclose such evidence, and the names of witnesses to be called at the trial.

Butcher, for the plaintiff.
Grosvenor Woods, for the defendant.

The Vice-Chancellor said that the interrogatories were put for the purpose of ascertaining what were the particular charges which the plaintiff had to meet, and held that they ought to be answered.

V.-C. H. Lemaitre v. Davis. Dec. 5.

Ancient Buildings, adjacent—Right of Support from Wall—Prescription—Ecclesiastical Corporation—Enjoyment of Right, open and not secret—Damage done by Contractor under Contract to hold Lessee irresponsible—Principal and Agent liable—Costs—Appeal refused.

The plaintiff and the defendant were the lessees of tenements—over 60 years of age—adjacent to each other in the city. An arched vault belonging to the plaintiff's tenement—the Mitre Tavern—underlay a part of the defendant's tenement, No. 1, Monument Yard. The defendant's contractor in taking down No. 1, &c., for the purpose of rebuilding, removed a part of the western wall, which was adjoining the plaintiff's eastern wall, and damage was done to the arched vault and premises. The contractor had entered into an agreement with the defendant to hold him irresponsible for any damage done to adjoining buildings during the demolition of the premises. The plaintiff commenced an action against the defendant Davis, claiming that he had a right of support, and for an injunction, but leave was on the hearing of the motion for an injunction given to amend the writ by adding the contractor, the defendant Crabb. Crabb undertook to make good the damage done, and he had performed his undertaking to the satisfaction of the district surveyor. The action now came on to be heard for judgment, but the question of costs was the principal one to be dealt with.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and J. W. Middleton, for the plaintiff.

Haslings, Q.C., and W. H. Gover, for the defendant Davis, and Robinson, Q.C., and L. Henn, for the defendant Crabb.

The Vice-Chancellor said that, having regard to what had been done, the only question of substance was that of costs. The vault had been restored, and he did not think that there ought to be any inquiry as to what damage had been done. No one, however, could be surprised that the plaintiff should come to the Court for an injunction to prevent his property being interfered with, and as he had been a successful litigant, he must have his costs. As to the right of support, where one building adjoins another, he should hold, looking at the authorities, which decided that an owner of a building had a right of support from the adjacent land, that he had a right of support from an adjacent building. He should also hold that it was a right which was within the provisions of the Prescription Act, and that the Act applied though the tenement of the defendant belonged to an ecclesiastical corporation—that was no impediment to a title being acquired under the Act. The enjoyment had been of right; it had been open, and not secret or surreptitious. The conclusion upon the evidence was that, as the tenements adjoined one another, each owner was aware of his neighbour's cellar. It was not a case where a man need not know of the fact that there was such a cellar. He thought that the injury done to the vault was attributable to the works of the defendant Davis and the contractor, and not to the bad construction of the vault, and he should hold that the defendant Davis was, as principal, liable for the damage which had been done by the contractor under the contract. It was the defendant Davis's duty to see that the works were properly done, and he considered that sufficient precautions to prevent injury, by shoring, &c., were not taken by the defendant Davis or his agent, therefore both principal and agent were liable for the injury. Judgment would be given for the plaintiff with costs, to be paid by both the defendants.

His Lordship refused an application for leave to appeal.

Practice—Winding-up—Insolvency of Petitioner—Stay of Proceedings—Security for Costs.

A petition for the winding-up of this company came on before the Vacation Judge during the last long vacation and was ordered to stand over for the cross-examination of witnesses. Since then, viz., on the 2nd instant, the petitioner had presented a petition for the liquidation of his own affairs in bankruptcy, and a motion was now made on behalf of the company that all proceedings on the winding-up petition should be stayed until he had given security for costs.

D. 365), which had been cited in support of the motion, and ordered that the petitioner should give security for costs, to the extent of 50*l.*, all proceedings under the winding-up petition being stayed in the meantime.

Married Woman—Limited Power of Appointment—Satisfaction of Engagements.

By a post-nuptial settlement, which comprised freehold, leasehold, and personal estate, the settled property was limited upon trust as the husband and wife should by deed jointly appoint; and in default of appointment on trust as the survivor should by deed or will appoint; and in default of appointment upon trust to pay the income to the husband during the joint lives, and, after the death of the first dying of them, to pay the income to the survivor for his or her life, such payment being made to the wife, in the event of her surviving and marrying again, to her separate use without power of anticipation; and, after the death of the survivor of the husband and wife, upon trust for the husband, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns. The deed contained a proviso that the trustees should, during the continuance of the life estates, and at the direction of the tenant for life, direct repairs, alterations, and improvements of the trust property; and there was another proviso that all expenses which should be properly incurred by the trustees in carrying out the trusts or powers of the settlement should constitute a charge on the premises in their favour. The husband died first, and the wife then married again. She afterwards directed the plaintiff, a builder, to execute some repairs to some houses which were comprised in the settlement, and he carried out the work accordingly. The trustees were not informed of this till afterwards. The plaintiff, not having been paid his bill for the repairs, brought this action against the husband, the wife, and the trustees, claiming judgment against the trustees and the wife for the amount of his bill, and that the judgment might be declared to be a charge on her interest in the settled property, and enforced by sale or otherwise. The husband was afterwards dismissed from the action.

Cookson, Q.C., and Theodore Ribton, for the plaintiff.

Glasse, Q.C., and Freeman, for the trustees.

Cottrell, for the wife.

Fry, J., held that the analogy of the cases, such as Mayd v. Field (3 Ch. D. 587), in which a married woman who had a general power of appointment over property had been treated as the owner of it for the purpose of satisfying her general engagements, applied. The effect of the two provisoes was that the trustees were bound to direct all such repairs to be done as the tenant for life might direct, subject to this, that the cost did not exceed the value of the property, so that the trustees might recoup themselves out of the property. The wife had, in substance, exercised her power of directing the trustees to direct the repairs to be done, and the plaintiff was entitled to the benefit of a charge on the property. The trustees must raise the amount of the plaintiff's bill by means of a charge, and then pay him.

Nuisance—Obstruction—Cause of Action—Reversioner.

The defendant, who was the owner of land adjoining land belonging to the plaintiff, had erected a hoarding on poles, in order to block out the access of light to a window in a cottage which stood on the plaintiff's land. The plaintiff alleged that the poles and hoarding had been erected on his land; the defendant alleged that they stood on his own land. The plaintiff also alleged that the poles and hoarding made a rattling and creaking noise, and caused an intolerable nuisance to him and to his tenants, and he claimed an injunction to restrain the alleged trespass, and, in any event, an injunction to restrain the alleged nuisance. The cottage was in the occupation of a weekly tenant. He gave evidence at the trial of the nuisance to himself and his family, but no evidence was adduced of any injury to the reversion.

Cookson, Q.C., and E. Ford, for the plaintiff.

Fischer, Q.C., and W. Baker, for the defendant.

FRY, J. said that the plaintiff, being only a reversioner, could not maintain an action of trespass, for such an action could only be maintained by a person who was in actual possession of land. Nor could a reversioner maintain an action on the case for entry on his land or for a nuisance unless he could shew an actual injury to his reversion, or that the acts complained of were of such a permanent character as necessarily to injure the reversion. The plaintiff had given no evidence of actual injury to the reversion, and the erection complained of was not in its nature of such a permanent character as necessarily to injure it. The action must therefore be dismissed with costs.

Kay, J. ATTORNEY-GENERAL v. LEAGE. Dec. 12.

Charities—Particular Objects—Stipend of Vicar whether chargeable on the Charities.

This was an ex officio information by the Attorney-General on behalf of certain charities in the parish of St. Giles, Cripplegate, and the question to be determined was whether under two Acts of Parliament, 6 Geo. 2, c. 21, and 48 Geo. 2. c. 97, certain charity funds were charged with 120*l.* a year, being part of the stipend of the rector of St. Luke's, Cripplegate. The charities were of different descriptions, and might be classified thus: 1. Charities for some particular class of poor, as poor widows, or poor children. 2. Charities for the poor of the parish to be distributed in a particular mode, as in wood and coal, or in providing gowns, or the like. 3. Charities for the poor of the parish generally. 4. One at least for repair of the church. 5. Charities, the origin of which was lost, but which had by usage been applied for the benefit of the poor of the parish generally. It was argued on behalf of the defendants, the churchwardens of the parish and the vicar, first, that all the separate classes of charity money were charged with the 120*l.*; and secondly, that at any rate the charities for the poor generally were so charged.

Davey, Q.C., and Cecil Russell, for the Attorney-General.

Fischer, Q.C., and Gordon Fellowes, for the churchwardens.

Rigby, Q.C., and Dauney, for the rector.

HIS LORDSHIP, after commenting at length upon the meaning of the Acts of Parliament, said he was altogether unable to assent to the first argument. To say that a charity for the benefit of poor widows was "public money belonging to the parish," or even parish moneys out of which the parish authorities could fulfil the obligation of paying 120*l.* to the rector, in the absence of an express declaration to that effect seemed to him extravagant. The second argument was more plausible upon the construction of the Acts of Parliament, but upon the whole case, he was of opinion that none of the charity funds in which any of the inhabitants of the parish were interested were liable to the charge of 120*l.* for the rector's stipend, except such, if any, as belonged to the parish beneficially for its general purposes, or, in other words, that none of the classes of charity, viz., those which, by original destination, or in the absence of such, by immemorial usage, had been appropriated for the poor generally, or for any particular class of poor, or for the repair of the church, were so liable.

Practice—Executrix—Widow at Decree—Marriage during pendency of Inquiries—Form of Order on further Consideration.

The defendant, Sarah Randall, formerly Sarah Pacy, who was the executrix of the will of the testator, married after decree whilst the accounts were being taken in chambers. Certain sums were found due from the defendant Sarah Randall, some of which had been received before and some after the marriage.

Onslow asked for an order on both husband and wife, with a declaration that the husband was only to be liable to the extent of the sums received by the wife since the marriage and the moneys to which he became entitled by the marriage.

Northmore Lawrence asked that the order should be made against the wife only.

Chitty, J., made the order upon both husband and wife, with this addition, "but the defendant (the husband) is not to be liable for any portion of the sum which was received by the defendant (the wife) before the marriage of the defendants, except to the extent of the value (if any) of the assets acquired by him in right of his wife at and after the marriage.

Practice—Taxation—Mistake in Order—Time.

On the 29th of March, 1881, the official liquidator of the Imperial Hydropathic Institution obtained an order to tax Tibbitts' bill of costs against the company, the order alleging that the company employed Tibbitts in connection with the incorporation of the company as their solicitor.

The bill was carried in on the 22nd of April, 1881, and the taxation was proceeded with on the 5th of July, 1881, when certain items were objected to on behalf of the liquidator, but the objections were overruled by the master on referring to the above allegation in the order, and the taxation was practically completed on the 8th of August, 1881.

Benjamin Eyre now moved, in pursuance of a notice of motion, dated the 23rd of November, 1881, that the taxing master might be directed to tax the bill as though the above allegation had not been made, or that the order might be amended by striking out the allegation.

Ince, Q.C., and Abraham, for Tibbitts, contended that the motion was too late, and that it ought to have been made at the latest when the taxing master overruled the objections.

Chitty, J., was of opinion that the liquidator ought to have moved to vary the order as soon as possible after the 5th of July, and not have allowed the taxation to proceed; but not having done so, the motion was now too late, and he dismissed it with costs.

Malicious Prosecution—Reasonable and Probable Cause—Direction to the Jury.

In an action brought by F. in the County Court for rent, the tenant's son, H., was called as a witness for the defence, and swore that he had delivered up the key of the premises to F. before the rent accrued due. F. denied this statement (which was a material one in the action), and subsequently indicted H. for perjury, and he was tried and acquitted. In an action by H. for malicious prosecution, the plaintiff and defendant repeated the evidence they had respectively given in the County Court. The judge directed the jury (inter alia) that if they were in such doubt as to be unable to determine which of the parties were speaking the truth, the plaintiff had failed to make out his case, and the defendant would be entitled to a verdict; and further, that if the jury thought the plaintiff's evidence was true, but that the defendant having a treacherous memory had forgotten the delivery of the key to himself, and had gone on with the prosecution honestly believing that the plaintiff's evidence in the County Court was false, reasonable and probable cause had been made out, and the verdict ought to be for the defendant. The jury gave a general verdict for the defendant, and a rule for a new trial on the ground of misdirection having been obtained,

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Ch. Div. COULDERY v. BARTRUM. Dec. 8.

Composition—Secured Creditors—Valuation of Securities—Securities on joint and separate Estate—Bankruptcy Act, 1869, s. 16—Bankruptcy Rules, 1870, r. 272.

The plaintiffs, who were partners, went into liquidation. Resolutions for a composition were duly passed by their joint creditors including the defendants. The defendants, who were joint creditors for 2400*l.*, held a security for their debt on joint property of the debtors, and also another security on separate property of one of the partners. In their proof they set forth in detail both securities, and assessed their value at 800*l.*, claiming to stand as creditors for 1600*l.* The composition was duly carried out and the defendants received composition on 1600*l.* The joint security was afterwards realized, and produced more than 800*l.* The debtors shortly after the completion of the payment of the composition brought this action claiming the surplus proceeds of the joint security and the whole of the separate security.

The defendants claimed to retain the separate security on the ground that inasmuch as in a bankruptcy or liquidation by arrangement they, as joint creditors, would not have been bound on making their proof to deduct the value of the separate security, but could have retained it notwithstanding the proof, until their debt was paid in full, the same rule would apply to composition, and they could not be prejudiced by their mistake in deducting the value of that separate security.

THE COURT (Baggallay, Lush and Lindley, L.JJ.) held, affirming the decision of Jessel, M.R., that the composition arrangement having proceeded on the faith that the composition would have to be paid on the sum of 1600*l.* only, and that the representation made by the creditors would be binding on them, whatever might have been the case had the mistake been discovered in the course of the proceeding, it was too late now to disturb it, and that it would be inequitable now to allow the creditors to fall back upon their separate security which they had given up.

Parliament—Borough Voter—Lodger—Evidence of Qualification—Declaration—Parliamentary and Municipal Registration Act, 1878 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 26), ss. 22, 23.

The question in this case was whether s. 23 of the Parliamentary and Municipal Registration Act, 1878, which makes the declaration annexed to the notice of claim to vote as a lodger primâ facie evidence of his qualification, is limited to old lodgers, that is to say to those who, having been on the list of lodgers for the preceding year, claimed in respect of the same lodgings to be put on the list under s. 22 of that Act, or generally applied to all lodgers, new as well as old.

The Queen's Bench Division, reversing the decision of the revising barrister for the borough of Marylebone, held that the declaration applied to all lodger claimants, new as well as old.

The respondent Tamplin appealed.

Bompas, Q.C., appeared for the claimant, who was the appellant in the Court below, but was not called on.

Vendor and Purchaser—Sale of Land bought from Railway Company not having power to sell—Notice to Purchaser of Conveyance from Company—Whether Right to recover Deposit.

Appeal from judgment of Lindley, J., at the trial without a jury.

The plaintiff had purchased from the defendant a strip of land lying over a tunnel of the East London Railway Company which the defendant had purchased from that company by a conveyance giving the company power to resume possession of it at any time on making proper compensation. One of the conditions of sale was that the title should commence with the conveyance from the company to the vendor, and that the purchaser should not require the production of, or investigate, or make any objection or requisition in respect of such conveyance, and another was that the purchaser should examine the said conveyance, and send his objections, if any, to the title within seven days from the delivery of the abstract. The plaintiff, who had paid the deposit, and whose solicitors had examined the conveyance, declined to complete after the expiration of the seven days, and sued for the deposit. Lindley, J., gave judgment for the plaintiff on the ground that, looking to In re Metropolitan Railway Company and Cosh (13 Ch. D. 607), the defendant had derived from the railway company no freehold which he could convey to the plaintiff, and against this judgment the defendant appealed.

Appeal of third party from order of Divisional Court overruling demurrer.

The plaintiff had let a house to the defendant on a repairing lease, and the defendant had underlet the house by an agreement in which the under-tenant undertook to perform the covenants of the repairing lease. The house being out of repair, the plaintiff sued the defendant, who defended the action, and by an order which the sub-tenant did not appeal from, brought in the sub-tenant as a third party thereto. The cases between the plaintiff and the defendant, and between the defendant and the third party were reported on separately by an official referee, who assessed the damages for the non-repair at the same amount in each case. The defendant claiming from the third party the damages and costs in the case between the plaintiff and the defendant, the third party demurred to the claim for costs, and it was from the order of Lord Coleridge, C.J., and Field, J., overruling this demurrer that the third party now appealed.

Cowie, and Archibald, for the third party.

Wallace, for the defendant.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., and Brett and Cotton, L.JJ.) dismissed the appeal, Jessel, M.R., on the ground that the costs in the action between the plaintiff and the defendant were costs in the discretion of the Court within the meaning of Order lv., and therefore not the subject of an appeal by reason of s. 49 of the Judicature Act, 1873: and Brett and Cotton, L.JJ., on the same ground, and also on the ground that the third party was liable to pay the costs as damages by reason of an implied contract of indemnity.

Taxation of Costs—Action by Cestui que trust against Solicitor of Trustees.

This was an action by a residuary legatee to administer the estate of Thomas Spencer. The executors and the solicitors of the executors were the defendants, and the statement of claim alleged that the testator's estate had passed through the hands of the solicitors, and that they had deducted an unreasonable bill of costs, which contained serious overcharges, and it asked for administration of the estate and for an account of all moneys come to the hands of the solicitors, and to have their bill of costs taxed under the direction of the Court. The solicitors demurred, and the Vice-Chancellor of the Court of the County Palatine of Lancaster allowed the demurrer. The plaintiff appealed.

Clare, for the appellant.

Robinson, Q.C., and Bardswell, contrà.

The Court (Baggallay and Lindley, L.JJ.) said that although a bill for an account and taxation of bills of costs by a client against his solicitor could be maintained before the statutory enactments as to taxing bills of costs, and this jurisdiction was not taken away by those enactments, there was no precedent of such a bill by a person out of whose estate such bill of costs was to be paid where the solicitor had not been employed by himself, and that the decision must be affirmed.

Parliament—Borough Voter—Dwelling-house—Part of a House—Occupation as Lodger—Rating—30 & 31 Vict. c. 102, s. 61—41 & 42 Vict c. 26, s. 5.

In each of these three cases the question was whether the claimant was entitled to have his name inserted in the list of parliamentary borough voters in respect of his occupation of "a dwelling-house," which term, by 41 & 42 Vict. c. 26, s. 5, is to include "any part of a house where that part is separately occupied as a dwelling." In these cases each of the claimants occupied as his residence two unfurnished rooms in a house at a weekly rental, and had a key of the outer door. In the two first (which related to the borough of Chelsea and the borough of Hastings), the landlord resided in all the rest of the house, and had also a key of the outer door, and was rated for the whole house, but he rendered no service to the claimant. In the last case (which related to the City of Westminster) the landlord, besides rendering no service, did not reside in the house, nor did he exercise any control over it, except the right of entry for the purpose of repair.

In the first two cases the revising barristers disallowed the claims on the ground that the claimants were not the occupiers of a dwelling-house within the meaning of 30 & 31 Vict. c. 102, as amended by 41 & 42 Vict. c. 26, s. 5, but were only lodgers. In the last case the revising barrister allowed the claim.

On appeal, the Queen's Bench Division (consisting of Denman and Bowen, JJ.) held that the claimants were entitled to the franchise as occupiers of a dwelling-house. The decisions of the revising barristers were consequently reversed in the first two cases and affirmed in the last.

The respondents in the first two cases and the appellant in the last case appealed to this Court.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G. (with him G. M. Freeman), for the appellant, Baylis.

Sir H. Giffard, Q.C. (with him D. Kingsford), for the appellant Kirby.

THE COURT (Jessel, M.R., Baggallay, Brett, Cotton and Lindley, L.JJ.) held that the claimants in the first two cases were lodgers only and not entitled to the franchise as occupiers of a dwelling-house, but that the claimant in the last case was entitled as such occupier and was not a lodger. The appeals were therefore allowed in the first two cases, and disallowed in the last.

Settled Estates Act, 1877, ss. 34, 35, 36—Sale—Application of Purchase-moneys by Trustees without Application to the Court.

This was a petition under the Settled Estates Act, 1877, for the confirmation of a contract for the sale of lands settled under legal limitations, and for the appointment of trustees for the purpose of receiving the sale-moneys, and it prayed, in the usual form, that the trustees might apply the purchase-moneys to some one or more of the purposes mentioned in the 34th section of the Act, without any application to the Court, and that until it could be so applied it might be from time to time invested as provided by s. 36. The persons interested in the settled estates were co-petitioners, and the purchaser was the respondent.

Cecil Russell, for the petitioners, mentioned that In re Dryden's Settled Estates (ante, p. 133) where an infant was interested in the settled estates, and the sale was by two of the beneficiaries out of Court, Mr. Justice Fry considered that he could not depart from the statutory provisions, which required the re-investment to be sanctioned by the Court. In that case, however, it did not appear that the attention of the Court had been called to the 35th section of the Act.

Borrett, for the respondent.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR said that it seemed to him that s. 35 expressly authorized the Court to direct the trustees to apply the purchase-moneys as mentioned in s. 34 without any application to the Court, and made the order accordingly.

Practice—Several Defendants, one an Infant—No Statement of Defence delivered—Notice of Motion for Judgment against Adults and for Trial against Infant—Rules of Court, Order XXIX. rr. 10, 11; Order XIX. r. 17.

In this action none of the defendants had appeared, and consequently no statement of defence had been delivered by any of them. One of the defendants was an infant. On the 18th of May, 1881, the plaintiff served all the defendants who were sui juris with notice of motion for judgment in, and the infant defendant with notice of motion for trial of the action.

The registrar declined to set down the action on the notice of motion for trial, as there were no pleadings and no issue joined.

Two affidavits had been filed by the plaintiff in support of the motion for judgment.

Rules of Court, 1875, Order XXIX. rr. 10 and 11, Order XIX. r. 17, were referred to.

Notice had been given that the persons who had made affidavits would be required for cross-examination.

W. Pearson, Q.C., and Creed, submitted that the proper course was that which was pursued by the plaintiff in May last, and asked for an order that the action should be set down in the witness list, as the statement of claim could not be taken against the infant, as admitted.

Fellows, for the infant defendant, said that on the assumption that the two witnesses would be produced for cross-examination on their affidavits, there would be no objection to the course proposed.

THE VICE-CHANCELLOR ordered the action to be set down in the witness list, and directed that the notice of motion for trial which had been withdrawn should be restored.

YORKSHIRE RAILWAY WAGON COMPANY v. CORNWALL MINERALS RAILWAY COMPANY.

Railway Company—Borrowing Powers—Loan—Ultrà Vires—Legal Defence—Guarantee.

The Cornwall Minerals Railway Company in 1876 applied to the Yorkshire Railway Wagon Company for an advance of 30,000*l.* on the security of locomotives and wagons forming part of the rolling stock of the Railway Company. The borrowing powers of the Railway Company were nearly exhausted, and it was therefore agreed that the Railway Company should sell to the Wagon Company the locomotives and wagons, and that the Railway Company should hire them of the Wagon Company for five years at a rent, which was alleged to be in fact a repayment of the loan by instalments. Deeds to this effect were accordingly executed, and at the same time three of the directors personally guaranteed the payment of the rent. The rent was in arrear, and the Wagon Company brought an action against the Railway Company, and one of the three directors, and the executors of a second, the third being alleged to be insolvent. The defence was that the transaction was in fact a loan, and was therefore illegal, and that therefore neither the Railway Company nor the directors were liable.

KAY, J., after stating the facts and reading the correspondence between the secretaries of the two companies, said that it was a question not of law but of common sense and fact, and came to the conclusion that the transaction between the companies was in truth a loan to the Railway Company, and was therefore invalid as a security beyond the powers of the company. It had then been argued that this was only an equitable defence, and that the Court would put the Railway Company on terms, but his Lordship was of opinion that it was a good legal defence. As to the claim against the directors on their guarantee, though the transaction was illegal as being against the Act of Parliament, it was not malum in se, and probably the reason why the guarantee was required was that the Wagon Company had doubts as to the validity of the security. The directors must be held liable on their guarantee. The action would be dismissed against the company, but judgment would be given against the directors.

In re TEIGN VALLEY RAILWAY ACT, 1881.

Insolvent Railway Company—Arrangement Act—Suspense Period—Non-assenting Creditor—Leave to bring Action.

The creditor of an insolvent railway company who had obtained an Arrangement Act to which he was not an assenting party, applied to the Court for leave to bring an action against the company for the recovery of his debt, the period of one year within which all right of action against the company was by the Act suspended, except with the leave of the Court, not having yet expired.

Leave refused, there being no special circumstances, and the company having power under their Act to raise a sum of stock for discharging all outstanding liabilities, and undertaking to reserve out of such stock a sum sufficient to await the result of any action the creditor might bring within one month after the expiration of the suspense period.

QUEEN'S BENCH DIVISION.

Q. B. Div. THE QUEEN v. SLATOR. Dec. 16.

Election—The Corrupt Practices Prevention Act, 1863, s. 7—Construction—Indictment—Information.

Argument of rule for a new trial.

The defendant was tried and convicted for perjury upon a criminal information by the Attorney-General in the Queen's Bench Division (Crown side). The perjury was alleged to have been committed before commissioners appointed to inquire into corrupt practices at an election, and the charge was supported by putting in evidence contradictory answers given by the defendant before the commissioners.

By s. 7 of the Corrupt Practices Prevention Act, 1863 (which applies to Scotland as well as England), no statement made by any person in answer to any question put before the commissioners shall, "except in cases of indictments for perjury," be admissible in evidence in any proceeding, civil or criminal.

Sir F. Herschell, S.G., (Sir H. James, A.G., and A. L. Smith with him), shewed cause.

Sir H. Giffard (Lawrance, Q.C., and Dugdale with him) supported the rule.

THE COURT (Denman, Hawkins, and Bowen, JJ.) made absolute the rule for a new trial, holding that the exception in s. 7 did not apply to a criminal information for perjury, and therefore that the evidence was inadmissible.

COURT OF APPEAL.

From Q. B. Div. Dec. 21.

Peat, Trustee in Liquidation, v. Jones & Co.

Trustee in Liquidation, Action by—Set-off for Unliquidated Damages—"Mutual Credits and Dealings"—Bankruptcy Act, 1869 (32 & 33 Vict. c. 71, s. 39).

Appeal of defendants from judgment of Divisional Court setting aside verdict and directing judgment for plaintiff.

It had been agreed between one Hill and the defendants that Hill should deliver certain rods of iron, sold by Hill to the defendants, by three monthly deliveries. Hill going into liquidation, his trustee sued for the price, and the defendants counter-claimed damages for delay in delivery and for non-delivery, and the question (which was neither raised at the trial nor before the Divisional Court, but was one which mero motu this Court directed to be argued) was whether a trustee in liquidation could be liable upon a counter-claim for unliquidated damages.

R. V. Williams (Gully, Q.C., with him), for the defendants.

Forbes, Q.C. (Henn Collins with him), for the plaintiff.

The Court (Jessel, M.R., and Brett, and Cotton, L.JJ.) gave judgment for the plaintiff, deducting the amount counter-claimed for the non-delivery, which they held could be set off against the plaintiff under s. 39 of the Bankruptcy Act, 1869.

Phillips v. Robinson.

Charitable Legacies — Direction to Trustees to apply Fund for charitable or benevolent Objects and Purposes in their Discretion —Failure of Trusts.

L. R., who died in June, 1869, by her will dated in August, 1866, after a specific devise, and certain specific legacies, bequeathed legacies, free of duty, to certain charitable institutions at Birmingham, and directed that they should be paid out of her personal estate. The testatrix then bequeathed to the trustees a sum of 400*l.* to be invested for the benefit of L. S. for life, and after her death for the benefit of the two charitable societies mentioned, absolutely. She then gave to the trustees some freeholds and leaseholds upon trust for sale, and declared that the proceeds should form part of her personal property; and after payment of her debts, &c., and the pecuniary legacies and duty and the costs attending the execution of the trusts, she gave the moneys arising from her real and leasehold estates and all other her property not specifically bequeathed:—as to one-third unto the daughters of B. equally; another third to R. absolutely, and the remaining third unto the trustees, to be applied by them or the survivor "in aid of the funds of such charitable institutions or for such charitable or benevolent objects and purposes as they or he may in their or his own discretion think proper."

The plaintiff insisted that the alleged discretionary trust was invalid, and that the trustees held the fund for her as legal personal representative of the heiress-at law and next of kin of the testatrix; and the action was for a declaration that such trusts had failed.

Everitt, for the plaintiff, relied on the decision in Leavers v. Clayton (8 Ch. D. 584).

Sladen, for the trustees, referred to the case of Dolan v. Macdermot (L. R. 3 Ch. 676).

The Vice-Chancellor held that this case came within the decision in Leavers v. Clayton, and that the gift for charitable or benevolent objects and purposes failed.

Solicitors: G. M. Robinson, agent for Holbeche & Addenbrooke, Sutton Coldfield, Warwickshire.

Fry, J. Skinner v. Todd. Dec. 7.

In the note of this case (ante, p. 166) it should have been stated that the joint power of appointment given to the husband and wife, and the power of appointment by deed given to the survivor, could not be executed without the consent of the trustees, and that no consent had been given to an exercise by the wife of her power of appointment by deed.

Fry, J. In re Colgan. Dec. 20.

Infant—Maintenance—Allowance beyond Provision made by Will —Jurisdiction on Summons.

A testator by his will gave the residue of his estate to trustees, on trust to pay his wife an annuity of 220*l.*, and to pay to his daughter, Mrs. Taylor, 100*l.* a year for the maintenance and education of her son Arthur Colgan (by a former husband) until he should attain 25, and another 100*l.* a year for the maintenance and education of her daughter Emily Colgan, until she should attain 21 or marry. And the testator directed his trustees to accumulate the surplus income of his property during the life of his widow, and after her death to pay 3000*l.* to his son; to hold 3000*l.* on trust for Mrs. Taylor; to pay 10,000*l.* to Arthur Colgan on his attaining 25; and to pay 10,000*l.* to Emily Colgan on her attaining 21, or previously marrying. And, in case of her dying under that age without having previously married, the testator directed that her 10,000*l.* should fall into the residue of his estate. And he gave the residue to his daughter Mrs. Taylor and her children, Arthur and Emily Colgan, in equal shares. By a codicil the testator reduced the legacy to his son to 500*l.*

This was an application by summons, on behalf of Arthur and Emily Colgan, who were still infants, for increased allowances of 150*l.* and 120*l.* respectively, for their maintenance and education. The application was consented to by the widow, and by Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, so far as they could give consent. The testator's son was abroad, and was not represented. The residue of the estate amounted to more than 14,000*l.* The only persons interested in the testator's estate, under the Statute of Distributions, in the event of the widow surviving the period of twenty-one years from his death, were the widow and the son and daughter named in the will. The widow was aged 77.

Glasse, Q.C., and Maidlow, for the summons.

Fry, J., held that there was jurisdiction to make the order on summons. And he granted the increased allowance, but directed that the trustees should hold the interests of each of the infants in the legacies of 10,000*l.* and in the residue, under the will, as a security for the purpose of recouping to any person entitled thereto what would have arisen from the accumulation of such part of the income as should be applied in payment of the increased allowances. And his Lordship directed that a copy of the order should be indorsed on the probate of the testator's will.

THE ROYAL PHRASEOLOGICAL

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

"Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phrases by M. Tarver . . . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name another recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, and the execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to it in reading the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocables fresh from the mint of camp or guinguette, and lively audacious turns of savoure supercherie and ream of by 'the forty'—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson."—Quarterly Review.

ORDER XIX.

ENFORCEMENT OF JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS.

3. [Rule 6*a*. No judgment summons to be issued after a certain time from judgment, &c., except an affidavit in proof of means is filed.]—Where default shall have been made in payment of any debt, or any instalment thereof, due in pursuance of any judgment or Order of a County Court, or of any other Court of competent jurisdiction, the registrar shall not issue a judgment summons after the expiration of four months from the date on which the last payment into Court, if any, under such judgment or Order shall have been made, or if no payment into Court shall have been made, then from the date upon which default was made unless an affidavit be filed, stating the debtor's place of residence or business, his trade or profession (if any), and any facts known to the deponent, shewing the means the debtor has or since the date of the judgment or Order has had to pay or to have paid the debt or instalments sufficient to satisfy the Court that the debtor has the means of obeying or could have obeyed the Order of the Court.

If the facts stated in the affidavit be considered by the registrar insufficient, he shall refuse to issue the summons, and refer the applicant to the Court for its directions, and the judge shall make such Order in the matter as he shall think right.

4. [Rule 15*a*. Name of witness to be entered in Book H.]—In Book H. in the Schedule to the County Court Rules, 1876, there shall be entered the name of every witness who shall have been examined as to the means of the debtor, and whenever an order of commitment shall be made there shall also be entered in the column "Order" of the said Book a note or minute shewing whether such Order has been made on account of the past or of the present ability of the debtor to obey the Order of the Court.

5. [Rule 15*b*. Evidence by affidavit, where creditor or debtor not resident in district of issuing Court]—Where a judgment creditor issuing a judgment summons, or a judgment debtor summoned to appear by a judgment summons, does not reside within the district of the Court in which the summons is to be heard, he may forward to the registrar of the Court from which the summons issued an affidavit, setting forth any facts which he may wish the Court should have before it, prior to its making any Order on the summons. And the Court may on the hearing of the judgment summons admit the same as the evidence of the person by whom the affidavit is made, if it shall think fit.

6. [Rule 22*a*.]—Order XIX, Rule 22, shall be read as if the last fourteen words of the Rule were not therein.

7. [Rule 22*b*. Terms on which Order of Commitment may issue after a year from its date]—Where an Order of Commitment has not been issued before the expiration of one year from its date, the party requiring it to be issued shall file an affidavit setting forth reasons why it would have been useless to have had the Order of Commitment issued before, and where such reasons shall appear satisfactory to the registrar, the Order of Commitment shall then be issued and shall be in force for one year only from the day on which it was issued from the registrar's office, unless at any time before the expiration of such last-mentioned year the judge may think fit to extend the time during which the said Order is to be in force.

If the reasons stated in the affidavit be considered by the registrar insufficient, he shall refuse to issue the Order of Commitment, and refer the applicant to the Court for its directions, and the judge shall make such order in the matter as he shall think right.

8. [Rule 22*c*. Date of issue of Order of Commitment.]—The registrar shall on an Order of Commitment issued under the last Rule state the day of the month and year upon which such order shall have been issued from his office.

ORDER XXXVI.

COSTS.

9. [Rule 3*a*. Witness in many cases to be allowed for only one day's attendance.]—A witness shall not be allowed for more than one day's attendance at the same Court on the same day, notwithstanding that he may have given evidence in more than one action, judgment summons, or other proceeding on that day.

10. [Rule 11*a*.]—Order XXXVI., rule 20, for the words "less than" the words "a sum not exceeding" shall be substituted.

11. [Rule 17. No costs to solicitors on judgment summons]—No costs shall be allowed to a solicitor for attending at the hearing of a judgment summons, unless the party for whom he appears shall reside out of the district of the Court at which the summons is heard, and the judge thinks fit to order the same.

12. [Rule 18. Where no costs are to be allowed on a judgment summons.]—Where on the hearing of a judgment summons the Court in lieu of making an Order of Commitment shall make a fresh Order for payment by instalments, no costs for fees or witnesses shall be allowed to a judgment creditor, unless the Court shall be satisfied that the debtor has made default and has had since the date of the original judgment the means to pay the sum in respect of which he has made default, and a minute of such satisfaction is entered in book H. aforesaid.

ORDER XXXIX*b*.

THE EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY ACT, 1880.

Service of Summons.

13. [1. Summonses when to be served.]—A summons in an action brought under the provisions of the Employers' Liability Act, 1880, where it is to be served in the home district, shall be delivered to the bailiff thirty-two clear days at least, and where it is to be served in a foreign district, thirty-five clear days before the return day, but it shall in either case be served thirty clear days before the return day thereof.

14. [2. Particulars to be filed.]—Particulars of demand shall be filed by the Plaintiff at the time of the entry of the plaint, whatever the amount claimed may be; and a copy thereof shall be forthwith sent to the judge.

15. [3. What particulars of demand shall state.]—The particulars of demand shall state in ordinary language the cause of the injury, and the date at which it was sustained, and the amount of compensation claimed, and where the action is brought by more than one Plaintiff, the amount of compensation claimed by each Plaintiff, and where the injury of which the Plaintiff complains shall have arisen by reason of the act or omission of any person in the service of the Defendant, the particulars shall give the name and description of such person.

Jury.

16. [4. Notice of demand for a jury.]—Notice of a demand for a jury shall be given in writing to the registrar of the Court fifteen clear days at least before the return day, and the summonses to the intended jurors shall be delivered to the bailiff forthwith.

Assessors.

17. [5. Qualification of assessors]—Any person who shall, as hereinafter provided, be appointed by the judge to act as an assessor in the action, shall be qualified so to act.

18. [6. How assessors are to be applied for.]—Where no demand for a jury shall have been made, a party who desires assessors to be appointed shall, ten clear days at least before the return day, file an application according to the form in the schedule, stating the number of assessors he proposes to be appointed, and the names, addresses, and occupations of the persons who may have expressed their willingness in writing to act as assessors. If the applicant has obtained the consent of the other party to the persons named being appointed, he shall file such consent with his application.

19. [7. Where application for assessors made by one party only, it shall be forwarded to the other party.]—Where the application for the appointment of assessors has been made by one party to an action only, the registrar shall forward the application so made to the other party, who may then either file an application for assessors, or file objections to one or more of the persons proposed.

20. [8. Where both parties propose assessors, no objection to be allowed to persons proposed.]—Where separate applications are filed by the parties, no objection to the persons proposed shall be made by either party, but the judge may appoint from the persons named in each application one or more assessor or assessors, provided that the same number of assessors be appointed from the names given in such applications respectively.

21. [9. Application to be forwarded to judge.]—The applications for the appointment of assessors, together with any objections made to the persons proposed, shall be forwarded by the registrar to the judge.

22. [10. If judge grant application for assessors he shall appoint such of the persons proposed as he may think fit.]—Where the judge shall grant the application for the appointment of assessors he shall appoint such of the persons proposed for assessors as he may think fit, subject to the provisions herein-before or herein-after contained in this Order.

23. [11. Judge, whether application has or has not been made, may appoint assessors.]—In any action where no demand for a jury has been made, and an application for the appointment of assessors has been filed, the judge may, either before or at the return day, nominate one or more additional persons to act as assessor or assessors in the action. Where no application for assessors has been made, the judge may, if he think fit, appoint any one or more persons to act as assessor or assessors in the action before or at the return day.

24. [12. Where assessors fail to attend.]—If at the time and place appointed for the trial all or any of the assessors appointed shall not attend, the judge may either proceed to try the action with the assistance of such of the assessors, if any, as shall attend, or he may adjourn the trial generally, or upon any terms which he may think fit, or he may appoint any person who may be available and who is willing to act, and who is not objected to or who if objected to is objected to on some insufficient ground, or the judge may try the action without assessors if he shall think fit.

25. [13. Remuneration of assessors.]—Every person nominated as an assessor shall receive for each day's attendance in every action the sum of two guineas, together with such further sum, if any, for his expenses as the judge may order.

26. [14. Deposit on application for assessors of amount of their remuneration.]—Every person requiring the judge to be assisted by assessors shall at the time of filing his application deposit with the registrar the sum of two guineas for each assessor proposed, and such payments shall be considered as costs in the action, unless otherwise ordered by the judge. Provided that where a person proposed as an assessor shall have in writing informed the registrar that he does not require his remuneration to be so deposited, no deposit in respect of such person shall be required.

27. [15. Remuneration of assessors not proposed by the parties but appointed by judge.]—Where an action shall be tried by the judge with the assistance of any assessors in addition to or independently of any assessors proposed by the parties, the remuneration of such assessors shall be borne by the parties, or either of them, as the judge shall direct.

28. [16. Where action not tried an allowance to be made to assessors by order of judge.]—If after an assessor has been appointed the action shall not be tried, the judge shall have power to make an allowance to him in respect of any expense or trouble which he may have incurred by reason of his appointment, and direct the payment to be made out of the sum deposited for his remuneration.

29. [17. Assessors to sit with judge.]—The assessors shall sit in Court with the judge, and assist him when required with their opinion and special knowledge for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of compensation, if any, which the Plaintiff shall be entitled to recover.

Consolidation of Actions or Stay of Proceedings.

30. [18. Consolidations of actions.]—Where several actions shall be brought under this Act against a Defendant in the same Court in respect of the same negligence, act, or omission, the Defendant shall be at liberty to apply to the judge that the said actions shall be consolidated.

31. [19. Opposite party to have notice]—Applications for consolidation of actions shall be made upon notice to the Plaintiffs affected by such consolidation.

32. [20. Stay of proceedings.]—In case several actions shall be brought under this Act against a Defendant in the same Court in respect of the same negligence, act, or omission, the Defendant may, on filing an undertaking to be bound so far as his liability for such negligence, act, or omission is concerned by the decision in such one of the said actions as may be selected by the judge apply to the judge for an order to stay the proceedings in the actions other than in the one so selected, until judgment is given in such selected action.

33. [21. Stay of proceedings; application for.]—Applications for stay of proceedings shall be made upon notice to the Plaintiffs affected by stay of proceedings or ex parte.

34. [22. Judge may impose terms.]—Upon the hearing of any application for consolidation of actions or for stay of proceedings, the judge shall have power to impose such terms and conditions and make such Order in the matter as may be just.

35. [23. Where order for stay of proceedings is made ex parte.]—If any Order shall be made by a judge upon an ex parte application to stay proceedings, it shall be competent to the Plaintiffs affected by such Order to apply to the judge, upon notice or ex parte, to vary or discharge the Order so made, and upon such last-mentioned application such Order shall be made as the judge shall think fit, and the judge shall have power to dispose of the costs occasioned by such Order or Orders as he may deem right.

36. [24. Where verdict given in selected action.]—In case a verdict in the selected action shall be given against the Defendant the Plaintiffs in the actions stayed shall be at liberty to proceed for the purpose of ascertaining and recovering their damages and costs.

37. [25. Defendant may admit his liability.]—A Defendant may admit the truth in the Plaintiffs' particulars in the actions of any statement of his liability for such negligence, act, or omission, and thereupon the provisions of Order XII., Rule 3, shall apply.

[26. Where more plaintiffs than one compensation due to each to be found.]—Where two or more persons are joined as Plaintiffs under Order V., Rule 1, and the negligence, act, or omission which is the cause of action shall be proved, the judgment shall be for all the Plaintiffs, but the amount of compensation, if any, that each Plaintiff is entitled to shall be separately found and set forth in the judgment, and the amount of costs awarded in the action shall be ordered to be paid to such person and in such manner as the Court may think fit.

Should the Defendant fail to pay the several amounts of compensation and the costs awarded in the action, execution against his goods may issue as in an ordinary action, and should the proceeds of the execution be insufficient, after deducting all costs, to pay the whole of the amounts awarded, a dividend shall be paid to each Plaintiff, calculated upon the proportion of the amount which shall have been awarded to the respective Plaintiffs to the total amount realised after the deduction of all the costs of the action as aforesaid.

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

"Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phrases by M. Tarver. . . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meantime, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name another recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, and the execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to it in reading the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocables fresh from the mint of camp or guinguette, and lively audacious turns [illegible] undreamt of by 'the forty'—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson."—Quarterly Review

SUPREME COURT OF JUDICATURE ACT, 1873.

COPY of ORDER in COUNCIL for Reducing the Number of the DIVISIONS of HER MAJESTY'S HIGH COURT of JUSTICE, and for Abolishing the Titles of LORD CHIEF JUSTICE of the COMMON PLEAS and LORD CHIEF BARON, and Reducing the Offices to an Equality with the Offices of the other JUDGES who are not EX-OFFICIO JUDGES of HER MAJESTY'S COURT OF APPEAL.

COUNCIL OFFICE,
6th January, 1881.

C. L. PEEL.

ORDER in COUNCIL, dated 16th December, 1880, for the Consolidation and Union of Certain DIVISIONS of the HIGH COURT of JUSTICE.

At the Court at Windsor, the 16th day of December, 1880.

Present:—The QUEEN'S Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

WHEREAS by "The Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873," it is enacted that Her Majesty in Council may from time to time, upon any report or recommendation of the Council of Judges of the Supreme Court in the said Act mentioned, order that any reduction or increase in the number of divisions of the High Court of Justice may, pursuant to such report or recommendation, be carried into effect; and may give all such further directions as may be necessary or proper for that purpose; and such Order may provide for the abolition on vacancy of the distinction of the offices of (amongst others) the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas and the Chief Baron of the Exchequer, and of the salaries, pensions, and patronage attached to such offices, from the offices of the other Judges of the High Court of Justice, notwithstanding anything in the said Act relating to the continuance of such offices, salaries, pensions, and patronage, but no such Order of Her Majesty in Council shall come into operation until the same shall have been laid before each House of Parliament for thirty days on which that House shall have sat, nor if within such period of thirty days an Address is presented to Her Majesty by either House of Parliament, praying that the same may not come into operation. Any such Order in respect whereof no such Address shall have been presented to Her Majesty, shall, from and after the expiration of such period of thirty days, be of the same force and effect as if it had been in the said Act expressly enacted: Provided always, that the total number of the Judges of the Supreme Court shall not be reduced or increased by any such Order.

And whereas at a meeting of a Council of the Judges of the Supreme Court of Judicature duly assembled at Her Majesty's Palace of Westminster, on the 27th day of November, 1880, pursuant to the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873, section 75, and continued by adjournment on the 29th of the same month,

It was resolved:

That a Report be humbly made and submitted to Her Majesty by this Council of Judges, pursuant to the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873, Section 32, to the following effect:—

(A.) That in the opinion of this Council of Judges it is expedient that the number of the Divisions of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice be reduced by the consolidation and union in one Division of all the Judges now attached respectively to the Queen's Bench Division, the Common Pleas Division, and the Exchequer Division.

(B.) That the Lord Chief Justice of England be the President of the Division to be so formed by such consolidation and union.

(C.) That the Division to be so formed be called "The Queen's Bench Division."

(D.) That all causes and matters which, at the time when any Order in Council for the purpose of carrying these recommendations into effect, shall come into operation, may be pending in any of the three Divisions to be so united and consolidated, be transferred to the Queen's Bench Division to be so formed as aforesaid, and that all proceedings of every kind which may be then pending in any such causes or matters be continued, carried on, and completed in the Queen's Bench Division to be so formed as aforesaid, in the same manner in all respects as they would have been in the Division to which they were previously assigned if the same had not been united or consolidated with such other two Divisions as aforesaid.

(E.) That all causes, matters, and other proceedings, which by or under the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873, or any Act amending the same, or any rule or order made pursuant thereto, have been or are assigned to the Queen's Bench Division, the Common Pleas Division, and the Exchequer Division respectively of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice, be, from and after the time when such Order in Council as aforesaid shall take effect, assigned to the Queen's Bench Division, to be formed by such consolidation and union as aforesaid.

(F.) That the office of Lord Chief Baron being now vacant, that office be reduced to an equality with the offices of the other Judges of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice who are not ex-officio Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Appeal, by the abolition of the rank and title of Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, and of all other distinctions between the office of any Judge who may be hereafter appointed to fill the place in the said High Court of Justice now vacant by the death of the late Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, and the offices of the other Judges of the said High Court of Justice who are not ex-officio Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Appeal, and between the salary, pension, and patronage attached to such office, and the salaries, pensions, and patronage of such other Judges of the said High Court of Justice as aforesaid.

(G.) That upon the vacancy in the office of Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, now about to take place by the promotion of the present Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas (of which Her Majesty has been graciously pleased to approve) to the office Lord Chief Justice of England, the office which will so become vacant be reduced to an equality with the offices of the other Judges of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice who are not ex-officio Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Appeal, by the abolition of the rank and title of Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, and of all other distinctions between the office of any Judge who may be hereafter appointed to fill the place in the said High Court of Justice now about to be vacated as aforesaid, and the offices of the other Judges of the said High Court of Justice who are not ex-officio Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Appeal, and between the salary, pension, and patronage attached to such office, and the salaries, pensions, and patronage of such other Judges of the said High Court of Justice as aforesaid.

(H.) That it be humbly recommended by this Council of Judges to Her Majesty, that an Order in Council be made by Her Majesty, if Her Majesty shall so please, for the purpose of carrying this Report, and the recommendations therein contained, into effect, in the manner provided by the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873, section 32.

And whereas it has seemed fit to Her Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, that the said Report, and the recommendations therein contained, be carried into effect. Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice aforesaid, is pleased to order, and it is hereby ordered, as follows:—

That the number of the Divisions of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice be reduced by the consolidation and union of all the Judges now attached respectively to the Queen's Bench Division, the Common Pleas Division, and the Exchequer Division in one division, to be called "The Queen's Bench Division," under the presidency of the Lord Chief Justice of England.

That the office of Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas being now vacant be reduced to an equality with the offices of the other Judges of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice, who are not ex-officio Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Appeal, by the abolition of the rank and title of Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, and of all other distinctions between the office of any Judge who may be hereafter appointed to fill the place in the said High Court of Justice now vacant as aforesaid, and the offices of the other Judges of the said High Court of Justice who are not ex-officio Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Appeal, and between the salary, pension, and patronage attached to such office, and the salaries, pensions, and patronage of such other Judges of the said High Court of Justice as aforesaid.

That the office of Lord Chief Baron being now vacant, that office be reduced to an equality with the offices of the other Judges of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice who are not ex-officio Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Appeal, by the abolition of the rank and title of Lord Chief Baron of the Exchequer, and of all other distinctions between the office of any Judge who may be hereafter appointed to fill the place in the said High Court of Justice now vacant as last aforesaid, and the offices of the other Judges of the said High Court of Justice who are not ex-officio Judges of Her Majesty's Court of Appeal, and between the salary, pension, and patronage attached to such office, and the salaries, pensions, and patronage of such other Judges of the said High Court of Justice as aforesaid.

And for the purpose of carrying into effect the consolidation and union of the said Divisions in manner aforesaid, it is hereby further ordered:

That all causes and matters which at the time when this Order shall, pursuant to the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873, take effect, may be pending in any of the three Divisions to be so united and consolidated, be transferred to the Queen's Bench Division to be so formed as aforesaid, and that all proceedings of every kind which may be then pending in any such causes or matters be continued, carried on, and completed in the Queen's Bench Division to be so formed as aforesaid, in the same manner in all respects as they would have been in the Division to which they were previously assigned if the same had not been united or consolidated with such other two Divisions as aforesaid.

That all causes, matters, and other proceedings, which by or under the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873, or any Act amending the same, or any rule or order made pursuant thereto, have been or are assigned to the Queen's Bench Division, the Common Pleas Division, and the Exchequer Division respectively of Her Majesty's High Court of Justice, be, from and after the time when this Order, pursuant to the said Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873, shall take effect, assigned to the Queen's Bench Division, to be formed by such consolidation and union as aforesaid.

That all proceedings which have heretofore, by any law or custom other than such Acts of Parliament, rules, and orders as aforesaid, been taken or had respectively in the Queen's Bench Division, the Common Pleas Division, and the Exchequer Division of the said High Court of Justice, be, from and after the time when this Order shall take effect, taken and had in the Queen's Bench Division of the said High Court of Justice, to be so formed by such consolidation and union as aforesaid.

That all powers and authorities which, by any law or custom have heretofore been exercised by the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas and the Chief Baron of the Exchequer respectively, shall, from and after the time when this Order shall take effect, be capable of being exercised by the Lord Chief Justice of England, unless such exercise thereof shall be contrary or repugnant to any express provision in any Act of Parliament contained.

That this Order shall take effect and come into operation at the end of thirty days after the same shall have been laid before each House of Parliament, pursuant to the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1873, unless within such period of thirty days an Address shall have been presented to Her Majesty by either House of Parliament, praying that the same may not come into operation.

By J. C. TARVER, LATE FRENCH MASTER, ETON COLLEGE.

"Most readily do we acknowledge the flood of light which has been thrown on French phrases by M. Tarver . . . . His work is really a valuable addition to our Dictionary shelf—the most important shelf in every man's library. The nice skill with which he has compared and contrasted the phrases of the two most influential of modern tongues can hardly be over-praised. Such a book might well deserve a distinct notice; but we are happy to take this opportunity, meanwhile, of saying that one of the volumes has now been in constant use with us for five years; and we should be at a loss to name another recent one of its class which we have found more useful. The idea was happy, and the execution has been most laudably careful. We have been infinitely obliged to it in reading the lighter French literature of this day—so full of vocables fresh from the mint of camp or coulisse, and lively audacious turns d'esprit undreamt of by 'the forty'—which would have puzzled Voltaire as much as Johnson."—Quarterly Review
